And, individually, the most befuddled Realtors must be shortstop Gary Goyer and catcher Larry Mavety, who between them paced the team and league in virtually every hitting department during the regular schedule, but can't seem to get untracked in the Kingston series.

Mavely's infield single was the only safety contributed between the two sluggers in their eight plate appearances yesterday.

And K seems to be their hitting — le lack of it — that the locals feel is costing them dearly.

"It would be easy to say we'd do better if 'Latch' were here," said one Realtor player, "but it's not our pitching that's killing us — Rodger Hunter only gave up seven hits."

He was referring to the absence of Bill Latchford, now writing examinations in his Ottawa summer teachers' course. The Belleville mound stalwart has made only one playoff appearance, after compiling a 6-0 season's record, best in the EOBA loop.

Following yesterday's game, newly-returned coach Al Kelleher "had a little talk" with the Joyces behind a dressing room's closed doors, with a roared "10 men left on base" the only escaping sound.

Afterwards, the Joyces served notice that their next game — probably at the Belleville Fairgrounds next Sunday after the departure of the Fair — would not be their last.

Leading County Race . . .

Skipper Sees Friend in Need

Jack Sills, skipper of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club's "Windrift" lost the weekend Prince Edward County Race for a pretty good reason:

He stopped to help a friend.

The "Windrift," leading as the 11-boat field swept around Simpson Island, tacked his boat around and out of the race as he saw Bob Lanning's "Junge" go aground on one of the island's shoals.

The crews and captains of the two boats worked on getting the yacht off the shoal until early Sunday.

Meanwhile, back at the Belleville harbor . . . the Evangeline III, Belleville, under Skipper Jeffrey Catford crossed the finish line at 3.15 a.m. Sunday, nearly an hour before the Griffon, the Grenadier, the Serendipity, the Varuna, and the Stormvogel slipped into the harbor within two minutes of each other.

On corrected time, the Grenadier, under Dr. Robert Clapp of Picton, took first place for the second time and the 103-mile race around Prince Edward County is only in its second year.

The Serendipity of Dr. Ken Douglas, Belleville, was second; Stormvogel, from Rochester, N.Y., under Capt. Storm was third; Griffon II of Kingston, under Capt. Higgins was fourth; Varuna, Trenton, under Grant Rathbun was fifth; Evangeline III was sixth, and Jack Braiden's Jack Tar, Belleville, was seventh.

The Kal III of Toronto, under Capt. Struthers, went aground off Forester Island near Deseronto and the Cal Gordons under Dr. Robert Clapp ran into severe weather conditions near that same island and was forced to abandon the race.

The finishing boats ran the entire 103-mile course in less than 19 hours.

Ex-pro Takes Amateur Honors

EDMONTON (CP) — "I didn't think I was going to be a medallist. I just wanted to play as well as I could."

Jim Doyle sipped a beer and talked about the breaks of the game after defeating Gary Cowan of Kitchener 4 and 3 to win the Canadian amateur golf championship Sunday.

Doyle, an expro fessional from Winnipeg, said he caught Cowan on a day when Cowan "wasn't playing as well as he can."

"What can you say about it? Really good players can go out and have a horrible day. That's the game of golf.

"Gary has done everything a guy can do in amateur golf. To beat someone of his statute is a great honor."

Doyle beat Cowan on and near the greens.

He said his iron play was the best it's ever been" and that he putted as well as I can putt."

On the second hole, for instance, he canned a 10-footer for a birdie. On three he hung a birdie putt on the lip. On four, he dropped a 27-footer for another birdie. On 17, he sank an eight-foot birdie putt. On 42 he dropped an 18-footer for a birdie.

His short iron game was just as impressive. On five, he blasted from a trap to within 14 inches of the pin. On 14, he sank a chip shot from 50 feet for a birdie. On 30, he chipped to within a foot of the pin.

Cowan's longer irons were consistently inside Cowan's although Cowan was just as consistently longer off the tee.

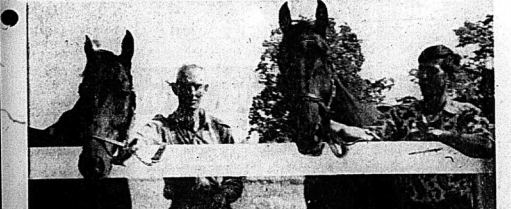
When the match ended on the 32rd hole, Doyle was about one under par and Cowan about three over.

Cowan couldn't buy a break. On four consecutive holes—23 through 26—he hit putts that could have gone in. Two lipped and rolled out.

On 18, his good recovery through the trees was bound for the green, but caught a little roll and ended instead in a sand trap.

Doyle won his way into the final by defeating Stu Hamilton of Brampton, Ont., 2 and 1. Cowan made it with a 1-up victory over Bob Wylie of Calgary.

Champ Enters Final



Davey Jones won't have any trouble picking his toughest opponent for the Bay of Quinte Golf Club Senior Men's Championship finals.

Although the reigning champ hesitated last week to predict the toughest opponent of three challengers who made it to Sunday's semi-finals, Bill Philp took it out of his hands when he beat Hank Fitzgerald Jr., two in one in their match play 18-hole contest.

Jones made sure he'd be there to defend his title with a three-and-two Sunday win over challenger Roger Ling.

The finals of the championship competition will be Sunday, Aug. 25, with Jones and Philp facing each other over a 36-hole round on the club's 18-hole course.

Jones plays the par - 71 Quinte layout with a two-handicap while Philp makes the rounds with a handicap of five.

Consecon Duo Set A Mean Pace

"R. Yankee Wann" (left) and "J. J. Wann" staged a fast-stepping match race at the Fairgrounds Saturday night to highlight the weekly harness racing card. The pair of big-time circuit pacers, shown with Consecon area owners Cam Wannamaker and Reg. Boily, ran their mile around the 2.06 mark, a full four seconds better than this season's fastest heat by regulars on the local circuit. (See page 8 for full results of Saturday's card.)

Putting the cleats on the other foot, for a change, we wonder how irate baseball fans in Buffalo, Dallas, and Milwaukee must be at seeing their hopes for a National League franchise vanish with the selection of Montreal's bid.

It's all very well for Canadians to be indignant when our neighbors to the south come out on top of the totem so often when bobbing for sport plumbs such as broadcast rights.

Uncle Sam's way with a buck can make cautious Canadian financing look pretty penny-ante.

Remember when Vancouver lost out in her bid for an expansion National Hockey League entry?

We cried "foul", "Yankee-catering," and "we invented this game and they can't take it away from us!"

Ardent hockey fans demanded everything short of cutting along the dotted line of the 49th parallel, and rowing Canada another 20 degrees north of those greedy capitalists.

Well, it's turnabout time.

Buffalo, Dallas, and Milwaukee, each of which has proven its ability to accomodate major league baseball football or baseball teams, are standing by watching as Montreal prepares to bring big-time baseball to Canada.

And what must Milwaukee fans think? Their Braves won a World Series before leaving for Atlanta's peachy Georgia shores, and there was never any doubt about the Wisconsin city's ability to muster a creditable turnout of spectators.

While Montreal's closest previous attempt at big-league baseball — the International League's Royals — could never attract more than 600,000 fans to their park in as many as 77 home games a year.

You have to sympathize with the disappointed sportsmen in the three U.S. cities at seeing their chance go out the window — at least for now — to provide homes for their national game.

THE CAR BUYER'S PROBLEMS

WHAT MODEL OF NEW CAR SHOULD YOU BUY?

A standard size, intermediate or compact? A six or eight cylinder? A four-door sedan, two-door hardtop or station wagon? How many optional extras?

More than 350 models can be seen in dealer's showrooms this year to dazzle and confuse and baffle the most catered-to motorists in the most abundant auto market in history.

What do the experts say on this confusing subject? The professional fleet administrators who buy for companies that purchase more than 300,000 passenger cars every year?

A recent survey of 212 company and government officials shows the basic fleet car this year will be a standard size (118-inch wheelbase) middle line four-door sedan with automatic transmission.

Business fleets year by year have increasingly swung away from stripped-down economy cars to bigger, more completely equipped models. There are dollars and cents reasons based on greater operating economy and higher used car resale.

This year's study shows 64 per cent will be standard size, 25 percent intermediate and 11 percent compact. V-8 engine will power 78 percent, six cylinders 20 percent and V-8s 2 per cent. Body styles will be 56 per cent four-door sedans 25 per cent two-door hardtops and 8 per cent station wagons.

Besides economy and resale, fleet buyers are also motivated like most Belleville buyers by appearance, dependability, warranty and reliable dealer service.

See you next Monday.

'Vulture' Outlasts Befuddled Reds...

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cincinnati Reds spent a long weekend trying to clip Phil Regan's wings, but neither bats nor fists could keep the Vulture from his appointed rounds.

Billy Williams' three-run inside-the-park homer in the 15th inning Sunday sent Chicago Cubs past Cincinnati 8-5, giving Regan his second victory over the Reds in less than 24 hours.

But Regan, who has been preying on National League batters in three runners with Los Angeles and Chicago, had to work 7 2-3 innings—his longest stint since 1965—before nailing the victory.

Saturday night the 31-year-old right-hander survived a two-run homer by Lee May and a scuffle with Pete Rose while subduing the Reds 8-5. Sunday he gave up a tying two-run homer to Tommy Helms in the eighth, then hurled six scoreless innings before giving way to a pinch hitter in the 15th.

After Williams' second homer of the game broke a 5-5 deadlock, Jack Lamabe stepped up the Reds, preserving Regan's seventh straight victory and 10th in 12 decisions this year.

Los Angeles' Don Drysdale beat Philadelphia 1-0 for his eighth shutout; Felix Millan's five hits paced Atlanta to a 5-3 victory over first place St. Louis; San Francisco swept a twin bill from New York Mets 2-1 and 5-0 behind southpaws Ray Sadecki and Mike McCormick, and Houston trimmed Pittsburgh 5-1 in other National League games.

Regan, nicknamed the Vulture three years ago while running up a 14-1 record as relief for the Dodgers, made his 53rd appearance of the season Sunday. Williams, batting .313, got the victory with relief help from Phil Ortelo as Atlanta ended the Cards' winning streak at four games.

...While Tiger Hitter Chooses Bosox for Prey

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In this age of specialization, Detroit's Gates Brown has found his niche. His specialty is destroying Boston Red Sox.

Brown did it twice Sunday as the Tigers stretched their American League lead to a fat seven games with a 5-4, 6-5 sweep over the Red Sox.

In the first game, Brown tagged a 14th inning pinch homer for the winning run. It was his fourth pinch-hitting appearance against Boston this season and his third homer. The other time he only doubled.

In the nightcap, Detroit Manager Mayo Smith played unfaithy, inserting Brown in the starting line-up. Sure enough, Gates delivered a ninth-inning single that climaxed a four-run rally and gave the Tigers the sweep.

Elsewhere, Minnesota walloped New York Yankees 11-2, California rocked Baltimore 11-1, Oakland whipped Washington 8-3 and Cleveland swept a doubleheader from Chicago White Sox 6-1 and 2-1.

Brown, who batted only 91 times last season and has been to the plate just 52 times this season, connected against reliever Lee Stange in the first game and made a winner of Mickey Lolich.

Before Brown connected, Wayne Comer and Bill Freehan had homered, helping the Tigers wipe out Boston's early bulge. Joe Foy and Dalton Jones tagged two-run homers for the Red Sox.

Two Reggie Smith homers had helped Boston to a 3-2 lead in the second game before the Tigers rallied in the ninth. Jim Price walked and moved up on Freehan's single. Then consecutive singles by Dick McAuliffe, Mickey Stanley and Al Kaline tied the score and set the stage for Brown, who singled the winner across through the drawn-in infield.

Rick Reichardt drove in six runs with a base-loaded triple and two singles as the Angels blitzed Baltimore.

Tom Satriano had five hits including a homer and two doubles, and Vic Davalillo had four hits for the Angels. Jim McGlothlin rode the heavy support to his seventh victory.

Minnesota's Dean Chance had the same kind of support, with the Twins battering four Yankee pitchers for 16 hits. Rod Care had four singles and Tony Oliva four runs batted in on a single and a three-run homer. Chance pitched a four-hitter for his 11th victory.

Dick Green, Reggie Jackson and Joe Keough all powered two-run homers to ease the Athletics past the Senators. Jim Nash allowed only one hit after the second inning and won his 10th game.

Stan Williams pitched a four-hitter and Russ Snyder's pinch single in the second inning drove in a pair of runs as the Indians took the first game from Chicago.

HARRIETSVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Andy Murdison Jr. of Toronto narrowly missed setting a Canadian ski jump record of 132.feet here Sunday during the Ontario water ski championships but took first place anyway. Murdison lost the tow rope and sank into the water during his big leap and it was counted as a "fall". The Canadian record is 131 feet. The jumper reeled off a record jump of 121 feet and that tied him with Scott Griffith, 26, also of Toronto. The judges decided Murdison executed the better form and Griffith placed second. Third was Cam Macdonald, 25, of Hespeler who flew 120 feet. On Saturday Cam Weale of Port Credit took the boy's jump competition — for age 14 to 16 — with an 87-foot leap. The record is 100 feet.

EDMONTON (CP) — Albert Branham of Edmonton claimed a world record in the superstock-D drag racing classification Saturday by covering a measured quarter-mile in 11.37 seconds. Branham drove the car, owned by his father and dubbed Old Trapper, two-hundreds of a second faster than the previous mark set last June in Pensacola, Fla., by Don Brewer of Forest Park, Ga.

Bailey Eats Cinders Of Young B.C. Miler

TORONTO (CP) — There were few surprises in the two-day Canadian Olympic track and field trials that concluded Sunday.

But in one upset, although the time was far from any international standard, Norm Tyerise of Vancouver loped home first in the 1,500-metre final Sunday.

The 21-year-old New Westminster native left favored Dave Bailey of Toronto floundering in third place behind Dave Kerr of Toronto. His winning time was three minutes, 47.5 seconds.

Bailey was the first Canadian to run the mile in under four minutes, and he held the Canadian native. 1,500-metre record of 3:41.7 until Tyerise edged him last week in Vancouver in 3:39.6.

"I just couldn't believe the pace," remarked Tyerise, a third-year history major at the University of Oregon who hung in third place through most of the race.

"It was a real surprise. But the thing was to beat Bailey, not to try for any records."

Another surprise was 18-year-old Cheryl Sommers of Winnipeg, who Saturday touted the women's 3,000 metres in 4:34 to reduce by four-tenths of a second the Canadian open and native marks established by Bobbie-Ann Picco of Toronto in 1967.

As expected, Henry Jerome of Vancouver won the trials' 100 and 200 in easy fashion. Joan Fisher of Ottawa had victories in the women's 200 and 400 events.

Bill Greenough of Vancouver, who won the long jump at 24-11 and the triple jump at 49 feet, one-half inch, was the only other double winner.

Miss Fisher won the 400 in 55.4 seconds and the 200 in 24.4 while Jerome took the 100 in a relatively slow 10.3 and the 200 in 21 seconds flat.

In heats for the 200 Jerome got a rise out of the crowd, which totalled 12,500 for the two days, by running against Louis Leprohon of Quebec while still wearing his sweat pants. Leprohon won the heat, but it didn't matter since both qualified for the final when two other scheduled runners dropped out of the heat.

The competition had its sober moments as well, especially when pole vaulter Gerry Moro of Trail, B.C., aggravated a damaged achilles tendon in his right ankle after winning with a jump of 15-3 and trying for 15-9.

There also was a hush when it was announced that Bill Crothers of Markham, Ont., had withdrawn from the final of the 800 because of an inflamed achilles tendon in his left ankle.

Moro, one of Canada's best all-round athletes, picked up the original injury about four months ago while running the 400 hurdles. He said Sunday his Olympic hopes now are ended.

He was to be x-rayed to determine the full extent of the injury. Crothers, however, was not as seriously injured.

The other men who came out winners, and with good chances at one of the 20 Olympic berths, were Dave Steen of Toronto with a heave of 58-6 in the shot put, Brian Donnelly of Toronto with a time of 14.5 in the 110 hurdles, Don Domansky of Port Arthur, Ont., who won the 400 in 46.7, Bill Heikkila of Toronto with a heave of 235 feet in the javelin and Peter Bustak of Toronto, who took the 10,000 metres in 29:19.4.

The other men winners were Ray Varey of Hamilton with an unofficial time of 8:52 in the 3,000-metre steeplechase, Mike Cairns of Edmonton with a hammer toss of 175-3, George Puce of Toronto with a discus heave of 178-9 and Bob Finlay of Toronto, who won the 5,000 metre grind in 13:58.2. Wilf Wedmann of Vancouver won the high jump at 6-8.

Varey's steeplechase time became unofficial when it was discovered after the event that the course was 35 yards short and the water jump was a foot under regulation length.

Another Canadian native record amended was in the women's javelin, when Jay Dalgren of Vancouver had a toss of 174-1 to extend the record of 167-1 she established in 1967.

Debbie Brill of Vancouver won the women's high jump at 5-6 while Irene Piotrowski of Trail charged to an 11.7 clocking in the 100-metre dash. Carol Martin of Vancouver won the women's discus at 168-4. Abby Hoffman of Toronto the 800 in 2:07.2. Joan Hendry of Quebec City long jump at 18 feet, eight inches and Maureen Dowds of Winnipeg the shot put at 46.7.

What Defence?

Ti-Cats Are Tame In Purring Past Als

HAMILTON (CP) — The Grey Cup champion Hamilton Tiger-Cats won their home opener 31-25 over Montreal Alouettes Saturday night but left the fans wondering what has happened to the big team.

The Tiger-Cats reiled mostly on an awesome defence last year when they won 10 and lost four to take the Eastern Football Conference championship.

In those 14 games, Hamilton allowed only 195 points—an average of about 14 a game. The offence picked up only 250 points, third-best showing in the four-team conference.

So far this year, with essentially the same defensive personnel, Hamilton has allowed 78 points and scored 46. They lost 33-13 to Ottawa Rough Riders in their only other game this season.

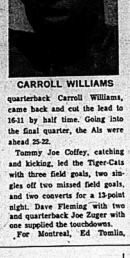
For the first 20 minutes against Montreal, the Tiger-Cats looked like the steamroller of previous years. They went ahead 19-1 by the end of the first quarter and were leading 16-1 early in the second.

Montreal, behind scrambling quarterback Carroll Williams, came back and cut the lead to 16-11 by half time. Going into the final quarter, the Als were ahead 25-22.

Tommy Joe Coffey, catching and kicking, led the Tiger-Cats with three field goals, two singles off two missed field goals, and two converts for a 13-point night. Dave Fleming with two and quarterback Joe Zuger with one supplied the touchdowns.

For Montreal, Ed Tomlin, Fritz Greenlee and Andy Walton scored touchdowns and big John Baker picked up a single, four converts and a field goal.

One of Baker's converts came when he picked up the ball following a bad snap and fired a pass to Tomlin.



As it was, Montreal nearly pulled the game out in the late minutes. Williams, gambling on third down with two yards to go, passed to Mickey Sutton but the ball was tipped away. Sutton was wide open on Hamilton's 20-yard line.

Hamilton's defensive problems were compounded Saturday night with the loss of linebacker Herb Paterra, who slipped while moving left with the play just before half time.

He was reported later to have suffered torn ligaments in the left knee and may be out for the season.

Hamilton outrushed Montreal 198 yards to 109 while the Als outpassed their hosts 263 to 193. Williams had three passes intercepted. Hamilton fumbled three times and lost the ball twice.

Tiger-Cats had the edge 18-15 in first downs.

U. K. Kickers Caught in Rows

LONDON (CP) — The British soccer season got off to a violent start Saturday when 50 persons were injured during a Scottish League Cup clash between Glasgow Rangers and Glasgow Celtic at Ibrox Stadium. Hundreds of spectators spilled on to the field under a hail of bottles and cans late in the game and police moved in to arrest. Eight of the casualties were taken to the hospital for treatment. Celtic won the game 3-0. There was no trouble at English First Division clashes between Liverpool and Manchester City and Manchester United and Everton. Reigning champion Manchester City was beaten 2-1 by Liverpool and United defeated Everton 3-1. Not even the tonic of a seventh-minute goal by Neil Young could save Manchester City. Bobby Crehan set 51,236 fans cheering with a headed equaliser after 24 minutes. The City defence underwent terrific hammering in the second half and it was no surprise when England international Peter Thompson snapped up Liverpool's winner 17 minutes from the end with a left-footed drive. A crowd of 62,500 saw European-champion Manchester United triumph over Everton. England World Cup star Bobby Charlton set up the pass for Irish international George Best to give United the lead at 21 minutes. Everton equalized five minutes later through Alan Ball, but Charlton restored United's lead in the 28th minute.

A game in London between Tottenham Hotspur and Arsenal provided Arsenal with its first victory at Tottenham's ground for 10 years. The score was 2-1. The 56,000 spectators were stunned in the 24th minute when Tottenham defender Phil Beal put the ball in his own goal. Arsenal made it 2-0 in the second half through John Radford. Jimmy Greaves grabbed a consolation goal six minutes before the whistle. An 80,000 crowd saw Celtic take a step toward winning the Scottish League Cup for the fourth consecutive year with its 2-0 victory over Rangers. Bob Cobb and Jimmy Johnstone scored in the first half through centre forward Willie Wallace, who seized on defensive errors by Ranger captain John Greig.

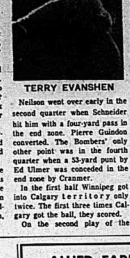
Bombers Target Of Calgary Stampede

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders scored 21 points in the first quarter Sunday, then went on adding to it until full time when the second-rated read 43-8 over Winnipeg Blue Bombers.



The win put the Stampeders in second place, ahead of Edmonton Eskimos and behind Saskatchewan Roughriders, in the Western Football Conference.

Calgary tight end Herm Harrison got two of five Stampeders touchdowns. Dave Cranmer, Bob Paremore and Terry Evanshen each added one.

Larry Robinson converted all five and kicked two field goals. The Stampeders' other two points came in the third quarter when Bombers quarterback John Schneider was tackled for a safety touch.

An interception by Jim Furlong led to Robinson's first field goal, a 26-yard kick. His second was 38 yards.

A holding penalty against the Stampeders erased Furlong's second interception of the game and gave Winnipeg the ball on Calgary's four-yard line, leading to Ken Neilson's touchdown, the only one for Winnipeg.

TERRY EVANSHEN

Neilson went over early in the second quarter when Schneider hit him with a four-yard pass in the end zone. Pierre Guindon converted. The Bombers' only other point was in the fourth quarter when a 53-yard punt by Ed Ulmer was conceded in the end zone by Cranmer.

In the first half Winnipeg got into Calgary territory only twice. The first three times Calgary got the ball, they scored.

On the second play of the game, Peter Liske hit Harrison on the 10 for an easy major. Four minutes later, Liske again passed 25 yards to Harrison in Winnipeg's end zone.

Then Liske lobbed a 41-yard pass to Cranmer to make it 21-0 with Robinson's convert.

A fumble recovery by Ron Payne on the Winnipeg 10 led to the Stampeders' fourth touchdown, when Paremore broke over from a yard out.

The performance gave him the lead in WFC individual scoring with 24 points. Second place is held by team-mate Robinson with 22 points.

Calgary was within reach of two other touchdowns in the third quarter, but bogged down and settled for two Robinson field goals.

The Stampeders rolled up a total offence of 373 yards, compared with 113 for Winnipeg. Stampeders got 16 first downs and the Bombers 13.

Evanshen led the passing department with 106 yards on five passes; Cranmer had three for 76 yards. Winnipeg's best performance came from Neilson, with seven passes for 76 yards.

Women's Tourney

Quinte Event Won by Visitor

By GEO. H. CARVER

Mildred Robinson, veteran Glen Lawrence, Kingston, links star, halted the three-year monopoly of Quinte's Betty Ingram here Saturday winning the Bay of Quinte's 20th Annual Women's Invitational Tournament with a seven-over-par 79. Mrs. Robinson took home the Meade-Johnson Trophy.

Shirley Glover of Quinte, a "three-year" golfer, won her first major event winning the low net Labatt Award with a 69.

A record field of 140 golfers toured the breeze-blown course. Practically every club in the district was represented with others coming from Watertown, N.Y.; Kitchener, Big Bay, and Toronto.

Cookie Cartwright, another well-known Kingston golfer, took second gross award with an 81, scoring out Betty Ingram who carded an 82. Jean Machen, Cobourg was fourth with an 84.

Marg. Thompson, Cobourg, chased Shirley Glover to the wire with a low net of 70. Marilie Brown, Kitchener turned in a 71 and Audrey Brown, CFB, Trenton a 72.

Helen Chivas, Trenton, took the tournament low putts award with 28. Arlene Mallon, Watertown, had first flight low putts with 30.

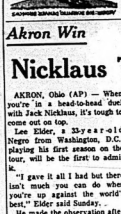
Toni Misawawa, Meadowbrook, won the second flight low gross with a score of 85. Ann Rouse and Kay Box, both of Thunderbird were next with 86 and 90.

Quinte's Betty Gregory won the flight's low net with a 73 followed by Liz Black and Vera Lewen both of Quinte who carded 75 and 76. Betty Weymark, Quinte had low putts with 31.

Quinte golfers swept the top three low gross scores in the third flight, Jenny McCue carding a 97; Alice Mulart 101 and Eva Ketcheson 102.

Joan Bishop of Whitevale topped the flight's low net scores with 71. Gloria Mact, Trenton shot a 74 and Klaudia Gardiner, Quinte a 76. Pat Wambolt, Quinte had a low putts score of 31.

Gertrude Brown, Cobourg, had the low gross in the fourth flight with a 109. Audrene Moorman, Quinte turned in a 111 as did Carmen Dison of CFB.



Gwen Mowston had the best low net with 75 with Gwen Sutton, Quinte having a similar score. Next was Ethel Finkiestein of Whitevale with a 78. Low putt award went to Olive Innes, Quinte with 34.

The tournament was capably handled by games captain Barbara Geerkens, assisted by Hazel Piperni, Hetty Dybie and Helen Lewis. Two mere males, Ken Lewis and Frank Geerkens also helped with the scoring.

Trophies and other awards were presented at a post-tournament buffet by women's vice president Betty O'Brien, games captain Geerkens and her associates.

Akron Win

Nicklaus Takes Pot

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — When you're in a head-to-head duel with Jack Nicklaus, it's tough to come out on top.

Lee Elder, a 33-year-old Negro from Washington, D.C., playing his first season on the tour, will be the first to admit it.

"I gave it all I had but there isn't much you can do when you're up against the world's best," Elder said Sunday.

He made the observation after losing on the fifth hole of a sudden-death playoff in the $125,000 American Golf Classic. The struggle ended when Nicklaus rolled in a four-foot birdie putt to win the $25,000 jackpot.

It was a dramatic finish before a record crowd of 23,331 at the 7,180-yard Firestone Country Club course.

Nicklaus now has won back-to-back tournaments after a victory drought that lasted 9½ months.

Frank Beard joined Nicklaus and Elder in the three-way play-off but dropped out after he parred the first hole.

Elder and Beard each earned $12,187.50.

At Tennis Open . . .

"Say, Don't I Know You?"

TORONTO (CP) — A six-foot-two-year-old boy in white tennis shorts stood staring up at the long-haired man in navy blue sweat pants.

"Gee, you look just like Jesus," he said as the man ran a towel over his shoulder-length blonde hair.

Torben Ulrich, 29-year-old member of Denmark's Davis Cup team, just smiled and walked away.

If Ulrich, first-seeded Ram Krishnan and Premjit Lal, both of India, and Marcello Lara of Mexico head the list of foreign players competing in the Canadian open tennis championships this week.

The colorful Ulrich warmed up for the week-long tournament Sunday in a doubles match with Don Fontana, former Canadian Davis Cup star, against John Sharpe and Harry Fauquier, both of Toronto.

He lighted a small crowd gathered outside the protective fence with his acrobatics on the clay court.

Meanwhile Bob Puddicombe of Vancouver, who won the Canadian men's closed singles title Saturday by defeating Tony Bardsley, also of Vancouver, 6-4, 6-3, 6-2, 6-5, practiced.

Puddicombe, No. 6 in Canada last year and first-seeded in the closed, is not among the four domestic seeds for the open.

"I'm not worried about seedings," Puddicombe said following a half-hour workout.

"Mike (Belkin) is still the best in Canada and I don't know if I could beat him, even if he broke both his legs."

Belkin, first domestic seed in the open, Keith Carpenter of Montreal and Fauquier will not be ranked in Canada this year for failing to compete in the closed.

Miss Butt, who had not competed in a tournament since playing in the Federation Cup matches last year in Berlin, is ranked third followed by Vicki Berner of Vancouver.

Hotelmen Win On 11th—Hour Fly

It took Commercial Softball League leaders Belvedere Hotel a day's rest and an 11-inning game Saturday to repeat what they did in a three-inning rained-out contest Thursday.

What they did was down second - place Stinson Construction 4-3, for an eight - point bulge atop league standings.

The game makes it even all around for the three teams now tied for the league's run-ner-up honors. Black Diamond, and City Hotel now stand at 28 points with 13 wins and six losses.

The league leaders are at 34 points with 17 wins and six losses.

Rightfielder Lyle Wannamaker was the most popular Hotelman at the Alemite after the Saturday game. In the top of the eleventh, Wannamaker collected the only hit of the inning for the winners, a double. He scored the winning run on third baseman Gary Gow's high fly to right field and provided the Hotelmen with the winning run.

Belvedere hurler Doug Ellis went all the way in the elongated tilt, allowing the losers three runs on five hits and two Belvedere errors.

Stinson's Scotty Reid yielded four tallies on six connections and one Stinson bobble.

Centrefielder Don Smith led off the Belvedere scoring with a wind-driven homer into right field in the first.

Dale Duvall hit a single and a triple for the winners while Wannamaker added an early-inning single to his eleventh-inning double, and second-baseman Rusty Garvin contributed a single.

Stinson collected their three runs on a single and a double by centrefielder Rick Locke, and singles by Don Boyle, Reid and Jack Whiting.

Line score:

Chretien Opens Mine In Yukon

CASCROSS, Y.T. (CP) — Arctic Gold and Silver Mines Ltd., the first mining property to go into production with the help of the federal government's exploration grants program, was officially opened Saturday by Jean Chretien, northern development minister.

Under the programs, Canadian companies are given grants of 40 per cent towards their exploration costs if a producing mine results, the grants become loans.

"The company now will have the pleasure of converting its grant to a loan and repaying that loan," Mr. Chretien told about 200 company officials, stockholders and other guests.

Arctic is located about 35 miles northwest of Whitehorse and is on the original gold rush trail of the Klondike. It was first claim staked 60 years ago.

Second Pap Test Not Really Alarming

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: I had a Pap test and the doctor tells me that something showed up and it could be cancer, but he can't tell me anything for three months.

I am 31 and the mother of a child, and I don't think I can stand this worry. Does the Pap test ever show any other infection or is it just for cancer? — Y. C.

This is a situation which — understandably! — is very alarming to women. I will quite sure what, if anything, can be done to take the worry out of it.

The Pap test is primarily to determine the presence of cancerous cells, so when a test comes back other than negative, naturally the patient becomes alarmed.

Keep in mind that the Pap test is an examination of cells. Certain abnormal cells are the most definite indication of cancer.

But there can also be other cell abnormalities which do not indicate cancer. For example, evidence of infection may be detected, although it will not indicate exactly what type of germ or organism is involved. (There is one exception; the test can show the presence of trichomonas, which is a common vaginal infection).

In addition to all that, atypical cells — that is, not typical of those in every new and then in a Pap test. They are not normal cells, but neither can they be definitely classified as cancerous.

The doctor, in such a case, cannot say that the patient has cancer. But neither can he honestly say that everything is all right. The one thing he can do is call for a second test in two or three months to see whether the atypical cells may possibly be the beginning of some condition that will need attention.

If the patient is merely told that she ought to return in three months, she may forget about it, or may not see a by reason why she shouldn't wait for another year. So the doctor to make sure that she returns, has little choice except to tell the whole story: there were atypical cells.

If those cells were, indeed, sign of a pre-cancerous condition, the next test will usually show enough progression to indicate the seriousness. At the same time the passage of three months does not represent any great risk. The cancer — if it is cancer — will still be in a very early stage and hence readily treatable.

Or, alternatively, some infection may be identified and treated, or it may well be that the atypical cells have disappeared and everybody's mind can be set at rest.

At the age of 31, vaginal cancer is not likely. Not impossible, but quite rare. So I would not be so worried about being called back for another Pap.

Dear Dr. Molner: I cannot digest a banana. It turns sour and I vomit. Have tried for 40 years that I can remember, and I am 59 now. Why? — Mrs. A. C.

Food allergies are quite common — some particular food or foods bother a person who happens to be oversensitive to them. So you can't tolerate bananas. Too bad, but not as troublesome as an allergy to a more basic food such as wheat, eggs, or milk would be. Some folks can't stomach them — even though they may like the taste.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: We had our roof painted with aluminum paint. The water drains from the roof to the vegetable garden. Is that harmful? — M. E. Q.
No.

• • •

Note to Mrs. E. L.: Histoplasmosis is an infection from a particular type of fungus. It often clears up with only minor symptoms, but if it should spread through the system, it can be dangerous.

• • •

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are interpreted in his columns whenever possible.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials and western oils posted fractional gains in light mid-morning trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Other sections were slightly lower.

Ontario Store Fixtures was up 2 to 43½, Bramalea 2¼ to 44½, Block Bros. ¼ to 15, Canadian Tire A ¼ to 52½, Seagrams ½ to 62½ and CIL ¼ to 13½.

Atlantic Sugar A fell 1¼ to 15¾, Supertest ordinary 1 to 26, Na-Churs International ¼ to 12¼, Dunbarn Enterprises ¼ to 22¾ and Consumers Gas ¼ to 20.

Harvey's Foods gained ¼ to 26. Quarterly profits rose to 34 cents a share compared with 17 cents a year ago. Power Corp. was steady at 9. The breakup value of the common shares at July 31 was $15.05 a share compared with $14 a month earlier.

In base metals, Bethlehem Copper rose ¼ to 11¼, Patino ¼ to 43¼ and Yellowknife Bear 15 cents to $7.30. Bankeno and Consolidated Canadian Faraday slipped 10 cents to $2.00 and $4.30.

On index, industrials advanced .06 to 167.54 and westerns 1.16 to 203.15, golds fell .35 to 185.64 and base metals .17 to 105.12.

Toronto Livestock

TORONTO (CP) — A plain quality offering of slaughter cattle which was mainly lacking in condition met an uneven demand at about steady prices at the Ontario public stockyards today.

Veal calves were firm, hogs higher and there were no early sales on sheep and lambs.

Clairtone Founders Sell Out

TORONTO (CP) — The two founders of financially uncertain Clairtone Sound Corp. have sold their interests in the firm.

In a report filed with the Ontario Securities Commission, D. H. Gilmour, who recently resigned as executive vice-president, said he had sold all his 90,150 shares in July. He resigned this week as director.

Peter Munk resigned this week as chairman, retaining five shares after selling 99,671.

Clairtone stock closed Friday on the Toronto Stock Exchange at $5. High for the year was $1.50 and low $2.50. Last year, Clairtone ranged from $15.25 high to $3.70 low.

Mr. Munk remains a director. Both he and Mr. Gilmour will continue to act as consultants.

Several years ago, Clairtone moved into stereo-television with sharply rising exports to the United States. But business fell in later years.

Clairtone tried to cut costs and moved its production plant to Stellarton, N.S., where it obtained financial backing from the Nova Scotia government.

The backing grew and finally the government stepped in and took control.

The firm now is reported to be reorganizing with the possibility of moving some manufacturing back to Ontario. Nova Scotia government sponsors say they are optimistic about the company's future.

TORONTO (CP) — The tourists gave Yorkville back to the hippies during the weekend because of the recent hepatitis outbreak in the mid-town coffee house district.

A drop in the number of outsiders was apparent Saturday and Sunday, and business suffered a slump.

It was so "terrible" that Cecil Phillips, manager of a village record shop, said that if things get worse he may close down until the scare passes.

Mowery Brian Chapman, a hippie spokesman, said most hippies are remaining in the village awaiting bloodtest results to determine whether they were infected by the disease.

Meanwhile, provincial health authorities have taken charge of fighting the outbreak.

Dr. K. C. Charron, deputy health minister, said the province was relieving the city of job ph "because people in Yorkville may have spread the disease outside the city of Toronto."

Hepatitis is a liver ailment that can be fatal.

Health directions are being stepped up and additional hospital beds made available for isolation of hepatitis victims.

About 1,400 tests are being processed at various hospitals. The results from tests made since last Monday show 100 possible cases.

Pope Blesses His Opponents In Birth Control Dispute

From Reuters-AP

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (CP) — Pope Paul prayed Sunday for God's blessing and guidance on the opponents of his ban on artificial birth control.

In his blessing to pilgrims here, the Pope said many of the comments on his two-week-old encyclical had been "very noble and favorable," but others had not.

"Let us ask the Lord to comfort our teaching with his authority, His serenity and His goodness. May all those who welcome it be blessed.

"And may those who oppose it also be blessed, so their consciences may be illuminated and guided by true and superior, moral and doctrinal rectitude. . . ."

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Singapore's science and technology minister, Dr. Toh Chin Chye, said Sunday he believes Pope Paul's encyclical opposing artificial birth control methods would make implementation of government-sponsored family-planning programs difficult in some countries.

"In countries where politicians have to depend on Catholics for votes the efforts of the natural scientists can be defeated," Toh told a news conference.

Meanwhile, the Indian government, striving to reduce the birth rate, is planning to introduce legislation to legalize abortions on a limited scale, Family Planning Minister Satya Narain Sinha announced Saturday.

MILAN, Italy (AP) — One of Roman Catholicism's leading liberal cardinals declared Sunday that Pope Paul can be criticized for his ban on birth control but that there must be no schism in the church.

"The time of schisms is past," said Bernard Cardinal Alfrink, Archbishop of Utreche. "It is not possible to legally remain in the church without the Pope."

Slides Bury Homes

FORT SMITH, N.W.T. (CP) — Northern Development Minister Chrétien was to arrive here today in the wake of a massive landslide feared to have taken the lives of three men.

It estimated at $250,000 and officials fear additional slides.

Mrs. Peter Ferguson, missing since Friday, was not found Sunday in the remains of her home, which overturned when it toppled down a hill to lowland bordering the Slave River. The river borders the western edge of the community of 2,500 persons.

The slide took a second home with it and left a third teetering on the brink of a 50-foot high cut left by the slide. Residents of both were not in them at the time.

But excavations in debris of the Peterson home were hampered by danger from further slides in the hillside, composed primarily of sand.

Fort Smith is on the Alberta-Northwest Territories border, about 450 miles northeast of Edmonton.

Three slides since the original Friday have swept away half a mile of the hillside overlooking the river, leaving cliffs up to 150 feet high, and dumped a fourth house, a bulk petroleum storage tank, a warehouse, and 250 feet of roadway letding to a base for float-equipped aircraft.

versity hall carried by 195 to 117 votes Sunday a motion that they would not accept Pope Paul's ruling banning the use of contraceptives to control births.

Hitch-hiking Good In Windsor Strike

WINDSOR (CP) — "The hitch-hiking is pretty good," said Don Jeffrey of 272 Sterling Crescent as he turned down the second offer to take him through the Detroit-Windsor Tunnel this morning at 8 a.m. He was waiting for a pre-arranged lift.

Mr. Jeffrey is just one of many Windsor commuters who usually take the bus to Detroit and are faced with the problem of getting to work since the strike of 45 members of Amalgamated Transit workers of America, local 1303, halted the tunnel bus service, Saturday.

Windsor taxicabs are making hay of the bus strike. William Ong, manager of a local taxi firm, estimates the service to Detroit has increased about 70 per cent over the weekend. He said that Windsor Vet cabs have even asked Detroit cabs in Windsor to take fares back to Detroit. Normally once a Detroit cab has dropped a fare in Windsor, they are expected not to take any return fares because they would be taking Windsor taxi business.

The strike, related to back up the union's demand for a new contract, did not affect car traffic through the tunnel or the operation of toll gates on the U.S. side which are now being operated by supervisory personnel.

The company is currently engaged in negotiations for a new agreement with both the Amalgamated Transit unions, representing its U.S. workers, and Local 195, United Auto Workers in Windsor, representing about 35 Canadian workers.

Buses are manned by Canadians but UAW has refused to send drivers past the international boundary line to mid-tunnel in view of the strike. Company officials tried to negotiate an arrangement with the UAW to have the buses go through, but they were turned down by the union.

"As far as we are concerned, or bus drivers can take the buses to the limit of the Canadian side of the tunnel but no firm, satisfactory agreement or we don't want to butt in," a union spokesman commented.

Despite the strike, talks between the Tunnel Co. and the transit workers are continuing.

Fire Guts Two Houses Near Read

READ — Fire of unknown origin destroyed two houses near here yesterday before firemen could arrive on the scene 15 miles from Belleville.

Ten cats in the owner — Fred Sutcliffe, of Napanee — was estimated at $8,000 and provincial police say there was no insurance coverage.

The fire — on the sixth concession of Tyendinaga township a mile east of here — started in a vacant frame house and spread through a shed to an adjacent brick residence.

A tenant in the second house, Jack Kehoe, was away at the time.

The alarm was turned in by local residents on their way home from early - morning church service here.

Viet Cong On Edge Of Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. troops guarding the southern approaches to Saigon battled the Viet Cong today at two points nine miles apart.

Helicopters landed more than 1,000 men in rice fields 24 miles south of the city in an attempt to encircle a force estimated at more than 300 guerrillas.

Nine miles farther north and only 15 miles below Saigon, another 200 Americans virtually wiped out a Viet Cong platoon of 40 or so men, according to initial field reports. Only three Americans were reported wounded.

U.S. headquarters said a Viet Cong force fired rockets Saturday at the U.S. freighter Southport II as it approached Saigon.

U.S. gunboats, helicopter gunships, and fighter-bombers attacked the Viet Cong along the banks and killed 20. There were no U.S. casualties and the ship was not damaged.

OFF THE RECORD — BY ED REED

"To be delivered by someone, who with a straight face, can say, 'Your 25th birthday, isn't it, Madam?'"

Inuvik Still in Fiery Trap

INUVIK, N.W.T. (CP) — Calm weather allowed firefighters to regroup and strengthen firebreaks Sunday but no one feels out of danger from a forest fire threatening this community of 2,200 persons on two sides.

A drought has left surrounding timberland and a muskeg ground-cover so dry a spark from any of countless small, smouldering blazes can cause a flareup. One broke out Sunday 150 yards from the town's hospital. Inuvik is about 1,200 miles north of Edmonton.

Tom Butters, publisher of Inuvik's weekly newspaper, The Drum, described the forest fire's two major blazes as like crouching giants. The slightest breeze whips them to life.

Only 1-5 of an inch of rain has fallen here in the last three months, although annual precipitation averages more than a foot.

Mr. Butters said that 80 persons cut off from the town Saturday were able to return Sunday afternoon. The fire passed through an eight-acre national defence installation, leaving several radio antennas damaged, and skirted the north end of the town. None of the 80 were injured.

The northern fire, or hotspot, went by less than half a mile from a Hudson's Bay Co. warehouse where about 70 per cent of Inuvik's winter food supply is stored.

The fire still be extinguished in the muskeg is by heavy winter snowfall.

Mr. Butters said the only way

Work Needs to Have a Goal

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

When I was 15 years old, I began working as a copyboy on a newspaper, going to school days while working nights. I didn't have to; I just wanted to. But suppose I had to — and suppose, further, that I knew I would never rise above the copyboy level.

What incentive would I have had to work hard and well, to take on extra assignments, to study my craft diligently, to prepare myself for eventual promotion? In a dead - end job, I would soon get to have a dead end.

I don't think enough people understand this about Negro workers — in the past, and still to a large extent today. White people tend to evaluate Negro workers by white standards and expectations, not by the more realistic appraisal all Negroes make of their own chances.

Work must have a goal beyond mere subsistence if it is to give the worker any esprit or interest in the job beyond the mere paycheque. The job must promise promotion, or must be essentially interesting, or at least pay enough so that the worker can anticipate a higher standard of living, for his children if not for himself.

Most jobs available to Negroes in the U.S. in this century, have been deficient in all three elements. They have been dull and meaningless labor, offering no chance for advancement, and paying so little that only day-to-day satisfaction could be fulfilled. The "tense of the future" which keeps most white people going, has not operated, or only dimly, among the mass of Negro workers.

The whites' complaints about the Negroes' indolence and indifference to showing up on time (or at all) ignores the psychological gap between white and black "time sense." Whites live more for the future; because they have a future; blacks for the present, since the future looks too black to contemplate.

As Elliot Liebow puts it in his recent study of Negro street corner men, "the job fails the man, and then the man fails the job." If only dull dirty and dead-end jobs are available to blacks, they lose whatever self - esteem they might have had and would just as soon lorf or take relief as work — especially when most of the jobs open to them don't even allow them to support a family in a manly, self-respecting, and decent fashion.

Arking them to "shape up" is a as a fatuous cruel as asking a man to do the broad jump after we have broken both his legs.

This should be a truism, acknowledged by the white community — particularly in a society such as ours, where "incentive" is the key word in our scramble for material advancement. That the Negro, being a victim rather than a beneficiary of our incentive system, is yet expected to behave the way we do, is a symptom of our own sickness more than of his.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For Aug. 13th

Your birthday today: The year ahead promises the sudden ending of old matters, and spectacular beginnings in unexpected directions. Romantic interests are apt to suffer. Today's natives tend to be either (no middle ground here) very self-indulgent or actively ambient. Which are you?

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Any improvement in personal appearance is worth the effort today. Take time to consider what you really want to become and concentrate on this.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Sort through your belongings, and discard or give away anything that has run its course. Think over replacements, and your changing needs.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Delays are the norm for the day. Somebody near you will ask for advice. Work things out one at a time. Find humor to lighten the tedium.

CANCER (June 21—July 22): Pick up any discontinued deals today, collect those accounts receivable! Meditate on the day and relire early.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): There is something important to learn! Get busy, find out what it is. A strange course of study may be available. A change of pace tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Catch up on belated correspondence and the like today. . . research is favored. Rest early, tomorrow will be a long day.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct 22): Plot your efforts today so as not to waste energy. Take recesses. Short cuts will lead to frustration in car or home. Relax early.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Let up on the pressure today, particularly on an expansion of duties or territory. Hold your position, consider its strengths.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Some difficult choices at hand on where your money will be next. As well as counting for current expenses, save something for later needs.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Whatever you can do today to arrange privacy for yourself, do it. Find all those neglected chores, and bring them up to date. Tonight is good for meditation and reading.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): The temptation is to overspend and then find some error which misled you into thinking you had more cash. Postpone buying if you can. Visit old friends once you get the day's work done.

"Well, what do you think?"

Starving Biafrans Only Interested in Guns

ABA, Biafra (AP) — "The Nigerians are given weapons; we get milk," a Biafran officer complained. He gestured toward a group of recruits drilling with sticks instead of rifles.

On a dusty road, an elderly refugee listened with interest to a report that a supply plane had landed during the night at the nearby airstrip. In his arms he held his famished grandchild.

"I pray to God that it did not bring milk again," he muttered angrily.

To these Biafrans, survival is not calculated in terms of calories, but in firepower.

"Every gun, every round of ammunition keeps us Ibos alive for another couple of hours," a Biafran government spokesman said.

"When it gets to the point where we cannot shoot back, then the big massare will begin and that will be the end of us."

The guns-or-milk dilemma is especially acute for leaders of the secessionist Nigerian Eastern province. They have declined proposals for a mercy land corridor through Nigerian federal territory while the fighting continues. They say Nigerians would poison the food en route.

Military considerations are counter-balanced by this area's fear of world sympathy evoked by Biafra's starving millions.

The problem has been met by a compromise—guns often share the same precious air cargo space with a sack of dried milk. For the Biafrans the compromise is unsatisfactory because the supply of both items is inadequate.

All planes making the dangerous night run—the church planes as well as the few weapons carriers—are flown by the same group of daring flyers organized by Hank Wharton, a German-born U.S. citizen from Miami. The airlift base is in Lisbon and reaches Biafra by way of the Portuguese island of Sao Tome off the West African coast.

The same black tropical night shields the gun runners and the milk runners. Then the blackness is suddenly broken by a flood of lights as the C-97 cargo set out along Biafra's lone landing strip, formerly an asphalt road.

Biafran soldiers nervously crouch along the runway and sniff out the lamps once the plane has taken off again.

The soldiers impatiently await the weapons, while missionaries and physicians just as impatiently await the milk.

Doctors estimate they would need 50 tons of nutriments a day to counter the starvation, but only 10 tons have been coming in each week.

Balloon Flight Fails, Two Occupants Rescued

HALIFAX (CP) — Two Toronto actors were heading back to sport here early today in a fish-ing trawler after their attempted crossing of the Atlantic in a balloon ended in failure.

Mark Winters, 35, and Jerry Kostur, 29, left the shoreline near here at 8:16 p.m. (ADT) Saturday in a 15-foot reinforced plastic boat hung beneath a helium-filled balloon.

About 24 hours later, the airsea rescue centre here reported that the balloonists had been spotted in the water about 45 miles east southeast of Halifax by a Canadian Forces Argus aircraft returning from patrol.

The centre said the Argus was asked to fly over the area after residents at Tangier, N.S., reported seeing something or other on the horizon.

The Karen Dawn, a fishing trawler in the area, picked up the two men and took their boat in tow about 11:30 p.m. (ADT). They were reported in good condition. There was no immediate word on how they were forced into the sea.

The discovery of the downed balloon ended hours of mystery surrounding their location. They had last been sighted Saturday night about 45 miles from Halifax's Point—the nearby department of national defence property where their launching site was established—by a Canadian Forces Albatross aircraft.

Early Sunday, the tanker Imperial Quebec reported sighting distress flares off Sheet Harbor, N.S., near the area where the balloonists were found. However, a search of the area by a helicopter failed to find anything.

John Thomson of Toronto, ground crew chief, flew out on a private plane Sunday morning, but a four-hour search failed to spot the balloon.

The two men expected the trip would take about two weeks. They had hoped to land on the British Isles, the European continent or Africa, setting records as the first to cross the Atlantic in a balloon, the longest flight ever water and the longest balloon flight by Canadians.

The take-off Saturday night followed several snags which delayed them for 12 hours.

Mr. Kostur said he had had about 50 hours flight time in a balloon, while Mr. Winters had a little more.

U of T Students Plan Tent City

TORONTO (CP) — The Student Administrative Council of the University of Toronto Sunday approved plans for a "tent city" on campus to dramatize the need for student housing.

Council President Steven Langdon emphasized that the tents will be a symbol and are not intended to fill student housing needs. They would also serve a practical purpose as a meeting place for people to talk about the university.

Council adopted the idea after hearing a survey report that showed a need for 4,000 housing units and after passing several motions on co-operative housing near the university.

Do Not Put Cold Water Into Overheated Engine

BY RAY STAPLEY

A Reader Writes: "While driving on the highway my engine suddenly boiled. When I checked under the hood the engine was smoking and steam was puffing from the overflow pipe. I was miles away from a service station but there was a stream nearby from which I drew a pail of water. I waited about five minutes, removed the pressure cap and added about 4 quarts of water. As I slowly filled the radiator there was gurgling noises and more steam appeared but it finally settled down when the radiator was completely topped up. I continued driving but an hour later it boiled again and I pulled into a service station where a seeping lower radiator hose was replaced. But I had to keep topping up the radiator through out the remainder of the trip. The radiator has since been removed and cleaned by a specialist, but still no cure. As there are no visible coolant leaks, what could cause the water to disappear?"

A cold drinking glass cracks when suddenly filled with boiling water. An over-heated engine can be damaged in much the same manner if cold water is added before it is allowed to drop back to normal temperature. The fact that the water steamed and gurgled at the time it was added proves that the engine was still overheated. When the engine overheats it seldom does serious damage, providing it is shut off immediately and allowed to cool before water is added.

In this case it would appear that the coolant is leaking inside the engine, due to a blown head gasket, cracked block or cracked cylinder head, which could lead to major repairs. To avoid unnecessary expense be sure the following diagnosing procedure is followed. First, top up radiator to proper level and bring engine to normal operating temperature. Attach a pressure testing gauge to the radiator filler neck and build up about 10 lbs. pressure on the cooling system. With someone watching the gauge, start the engine and place under load for a few seconds. If the gauge pressure starts climbing shut off the engine immediately, as pressure in excess of 14 lbs. could split the radiator. When pressure does increase during this test it is a sure sign of internal trouble. To locate the exact problem area, remove the spark plugs and keep the cooling system under 14 lbs. pressure for several hours or even over night. Then, as the engine is turned over, coolant will usually gush from the spark plug holes of the affending cylinders. If water gushes from just one bank of the V8 engine, then only one head will have to be removed to check for the exact cause of the leak. After necessary repairs are done the same pressure test should be repeated to make sure that all is well.

Nerve racking body and suspension noises that are frequently hard to locate and cure permanently seem to be a constant source of aggravation to many motorists. The following is typical of many letters I receive from readers.

"I am the original owner of a 1964 Ford and for the past year creaking noises have developed in the right coil suspension. My garage lubricates it and it disappears for about three months and then it recurs and further lubrication is required to eliminate the noise. Now there's a groaning noise in the left coil suspension, Is there any means of permanently eliminating these noises"?

In stubborn instances, when a squirt of oil doesn't do the trick I have found it necessary to remove a noisy coil spring and coat heavy grease between the spring and its seat in order to silence the brute, but occasionally, even this won't last forever. While, thank heaven, they usually behave themselves, there are volumes of points in the suspension that can cause irritating noises.

Many metal and rubber bushings are now built into the suspension and for them oil and, therefore, no grease fittings are provided in these areas. In other words; they are supposed to remain absolutely silent, but nevertheless sometimes they don't. When they do develop temperamental it is necessary to improvise and stick with it until the problem is overcome. A carefully aimed shot of brake fluid will sometimes silence a leaky rubber bushing. I have seen ball joints and tiered ends run dry of lubrication and cause squeaks and other hard-to- pin-point noises.

Regardless of today's extended lubrication periods I strongly recommend placing the car on a hoist about every 2,000 miles for checkup. It usually costs less than $2. and whether or not it needs a grease job is beside the point. The undercarriage takes quite a beating and it is comforting to know, when cruising at 60 mph plus that all is secure underneath — and who knows they may discover a squeak in one of those bushings that are not supposed to squeak. no lubrication is recommend-

Postal Strike Cost Montreal Half a Million

MONTREAL (CP) — Mayor Jean Drapeau Sunday renewed his most favored role when he distributed $150,000 in silver dollars to winners of the monthly voluntary tax plan.

But after he had awarded top prize of 1½ tons of silver to Claire Imre of suburban Laval in the third monthly draw, Mayor Drapeau complained the recent postal strike had cost the city "maybe $500,000" in lost contributions.

"All the people who held their contributions over will probably mail them in for the next draw, so we expect to recoup most of the money lost," he said.

Asphalt Recommended

But City Council Insists on Concrete on Bridge St. Hill

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

Finish pavement for the Bridge Street hill reconstruction project will be concrete rather than asphalt, Belleville city council has decided.

The choice of concrete over asphalt was made by council despite the recommendation of City Engineer Wilbur Purcell and also in face of the fact that asphalt would have cost the city less money.

Subject to Ontario highways department approval, Cates Construction Ltd. of Willowdale was given the paving job at a tender price of $112,774. The lowest bid for asphalt paving was by the H. J. McFarland Co. which quoted a price of $99,431.

The city's share of the cost for asphalt paving would have been approximately $34,900. The cost to the city for the concrete will approximate $43,000. It is expected that the highways department will subsidize the work only to the extent of the low asphalt tender.

Despite the fact the city engineer recommended the acceptance of asphalt, which he said was of acceptable design and would stand up to traffic conditions, council took mind of what had happened previously on Bridge Street hill and voted for the more costly concrete paving.

Both Mayor Dr. J. Russell Scott and Alderman Kenneth Soden spoke in favor of concrete which they felt would have a longer life and be cheaper in the long run.

In accepting the asphalt bid Ald. Soden said council might be "penny wise and pound foolish".

And both referred to the rapid deterioration of the present asphalt pavement which had gone lumpy as the result of the braking action of heavy trucks.

On the other hand, Mr. Purcell said the design for asphalt called for full depth paving of 11 inches which is his opinion and also in that of the highways department would stand up to traffic.

He said that a quicker job could be done now with asphalt and there would be less traffic interference when maintenance of underground services was necessary.

Tuesday prices for both asphalt and concrete were called by council, with bids for concrete ranging up to approximately $20,000 more then for asphalt.

The low bid for asphalt exceeded estimates by approximately 15 per cent.

Nigeria Rejects Red Cross Plea

Hunger Toll Huge

"Oh dear, here comes the violence!"

MONTREAL (CP) — Lionel Chevrier said Monday more human beings will perish from hunger in the next 10 years than have perished in all the wars in the history of mankind.

Mr. Chevrier, head of a recent two-month Canadian mission to French-speaking Africa, was speaking to 125 French-Canadian teachers assembled at the University of Montreal for a four-day briefing before leaving to teach in Africa.

The former Canadian high commissioner in London told the teachers Canadian government aid to French-speaking Africa will exceed $100,000,000 in the next five years for the development needed to arrest the creeping finger of hunger.

"More than half of the world's children suffer from malnutrition or tuberculosis or both, and more than 250,000,000 children aged five to 14 have received no education whatsoever," Mr. Chevrier said.

He added that four-fifths of the world's population live in under-developed countries and two-thirds of them try to live on less than $200 a year.

Mr. Chevrier said his recent mission had been provided with $40,000,000 and armed with authority to make on-the-spot assistance commitments during its tour of Morocco, Algeria, Tunisia, Cameroon, Ivory Coast, Senegal and Niger.

Mr. Chevrier, former Canadian high commissioner to Great Britain, said he will retire shortly from public life to return to his law practice.

Mr. Chevrier, 65, said he will likely return to Montreal from Ottawa "at the end of the year."

Mercy Flights Are Under Fire

ADDIS ABABA (AP)—Prospects of getting sufficient food and medicine to starving Biafrans grew dimmer today after the Nigerian government spurned an appeal to stop shooting at Red Cross planes. Peace talks in the Nigerian capital stalled at the same time.

"The Nigerian reaction is to shoot at any plane," an International Red Cross spokesman reported after the Lagos government rejected its appeal to quit shooting at mercy flights into blockaded secessionist Biafra.

The Red Cross, which has been flying food and medicine into besieged Biafra since November, suspended flights from the Spanish island of Fernando Po, 100 miles off the Nigerian coast, after a DC-6 carrying food was fired on during the weekend.

Fears that arms are being airlifted into Biafra in large quantities are behind the federal government's action, the Red Cross spokesman said.

He denied that any Red Cross flights carried arms and military supplies, although he said he had heard larger quantities of arms are being flown in Biafra since President de Gaulle expressed support for the secession.

The U.S. state department announced that state secretary Dean Rusk is sending a special emissary to Geneva for "urgent consultations" with Red Cross officials on ways to resume the mercy flights.

U.S. officials in Washington also reported that 200 to 400 persons are dying of starvation each day in Nigeria and Biafra as a result of the civil war.

Officials estimated that about 3,000,000 persons behind the rebel lines in Biafra and about 750,000 persons in territory reoccupied by federal Nigerian forces are in urgent need of food. All said, the civil war has affected some 12,000,000 persons in what was formerly the Eastern Region of Nigeria.

Biafra Shows Captives

UMUAHIA, Biafra (Reuters) — Ninety-three Nigerian soldiers and four civilians who surrendered to Biafran troops last week were shown to foreign correspondents Monday.

The prisoners, who included three officers, were paraded before Head of State, Lt.-Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu of Biafra, who told them they would shortly be freed to safety under the auspices of the International Red Cross.

The representative of the International Red Cross in Biafra, J. H. Jaggi, was also at a military camp outside Umuahia to meet the prisoners.

George Hees Is Chairman Of PC Parliamentary Caucus

OTTAWA—George Hees, Conservative MP for Prince Edward-Hastings was yesterday appointed chairman of the party caucus.

Deputy chairman will be Martial Asselin, MP for Charlevoix.

The appointments came after party leader Robert Stanfield said he would give one status to backbench spokesmen for the party.

"Assignment of duties is more significant than the front bench," he said, meaning that the backbench Tories many show up as leading party spokesmen.

Thomas M. Bell, member for Saint John-Lancaster, was picked as party whip. Fernand Mercier of Rapp did not run June 25.

Deputy whip will be Georges Valade, MP for Montreal Ste. Marie. Harold Danforth (Kent) will continue as caucus secretary.

Management Pickets Strikers at Work

ESQUIMALT, B.C. (CP) — Striking bricklayers are building an apartment block here and management is picketing the project.

Monday a union picket began picketing the management picket.

The first picket began Friday and continued Monday as three masonry contractors protested two things—that at least one striking bricklayer is employed on the project, and that a Vancouver firm putting up the building hired him.

Twelve bricklayers struck against the three contractors a week ago in a contract dispute.

H. A. Ormiston, chairman of the masonry section of the Amalgamated Construction Association, appeared at the site Friday with a placard declaring: "Bricklayers working here are on strike."

Mr. Ormiston said other contractors should not hire any of the 12 strikers.

Stanfield Demands Parliament Meet

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Stanfield says Prime Minister Trudeau is running the country by "press conference" and Parliament should be called to tackle serious economic problems.

Speaking to reporters after his party's pre-session caucus Monday, Mr. Stanfield listed major strikes in progress or in prospect, the continued rise in living costs, student unemployment and unemployment in general, dwindling wheat sales, problems in the fisheries industry, a decline in the shipbuilding industry and the prospect that passenger rail services in Newfoundland are to be scrapped in favor of a bus service.

Mr. Trudeau has said the first session of Parliament since the June 25 federal election will be called about mid-September. Mr. Stanfield said Parliament should meet "much sooner" than this.

The caucus of Conservative MPs and senators firmly endorsed the view that Parliament should be called into session "at the earliest possible date," Mr. Stanfield said.

There had been no effective government between the resignation announcement of former prime minister Lester B. Pearson and the June 25 federal election. "We now are having government by press conference."

If Parliament was in session, the government would have to explain to the people what it is doing about the crucial issues facing the country. It was time for the government to start saying just how it was going to bring about Mr. Trudeau's promises of a just society.

Mr. Stanfield said the government has been forcing wage guidelines on the country without consulting labor or management. It was allowing strikes to develop and then just "sitting them out."

The caucus had not spent much time bashing over the election or the campaign.

Mr. Stanfield said there was no discussion about a national party convention or a policy conference. The timing for these would be decided by the party executive, due to meet this fall.

The caucus had restated its view that proposed changes in abortion laws should be made the subject of a Commons vote free of party ties, Mr. Stanfield said. Justice Minister Turner has said it will not be a free vote and the "whips will be on."

Sewer Service A Factor

Belleville Bids for Improved River Channelling

Belleville city council will ask the Moira River Conservation Authority to obtain a river survey and a cost estimate of making river channel improvements within the city.

The resolution asks that the cost of the survey estimated at $18,000 be placed in the 1969 authority budget.

Mayor Dr. J. R. Scott said the survey would provide definite recommendations as to what should be done to improve the river channel. As the benefiting municipality, the city would pay 90 per cent of the survey cost after grants or about $3,600. The department of energy and resources would pay a 75 per cent grant toward the cost of the survey.

During the discussion the question was raised whether the survey would duplicate the work of a survey needed before the design of a proposed sanitary trunk sewer up the Moira River bed could be started.

City Engineer Wilbur Purcell said the authority survey would save the city money but warned there would be the matter of timing.

He said the design of the proposed main trunk sewer up the river bed to serve the northeastern industrial park area could not be started until the survey was completed.

In the city's capital works program for this year there is an amount of $430,000 to commence construction of trunk sanitary sewers to serve the northeast city area and a recommendation was before council last night for the city engineer to prepare plans and cost estimates for the first phase of the work.

(The plan calls for construction of a 33-inch main along the river bed from the Front Street pumping station to College Street.)

But there is also the question of whether this main should be constructed large enough to provide sewerage facilities for part of Thurlow township.

Alderman Boyle, however, didn't think it was the city's responsibility to plan for sewerage service for the neighboring townships.

"I'm opposed to extending services outside this city limits," he said. "We don't know whether Sidney or Thurlow are willing to share a portion of the costs either for the survey or for the sewers."

To this Mayor Scott replied that Thurlow was interested in city water and sewer service and read a letter from the township clerk to this effect.

Mayor Scott said it was obvious to Thurlow that the additional costs for a larger sewer would be charged to them.

"There would be no extra cost to the city," he said. "It is just a matter of whether we are prepared to be good neighbors."

The mayor said it would be ridiculous to construct a sewer large enough only for the city and then dig it up in a few years to put in a larger pipe.

The city engineer pointed out that the area to be served would have to be known before the sewer could be designed.

In the end council tables the recommendation to proceed with plans for the trunk sewer and decided to wait for definite information from Sidney and Thurlow as to whether these municipalities wanted service and were prepared to pay for the added costs involved.

Aldermen Criticize Land Deal Talk

Prices of property proposed for purchase by the city should not be bandied about in open council.

That is the feeling of several aldermen who yesterday questioned discussion of prices in open council and then expecting the assessment department to negotiate with the owners.

A case in point was the sale offer of a piece of property on College Street which ultimately will be required for street widening purposes.

Council some time ago had offered $3,000 for the property and it was recommended yesterday the assessment department "negotiate" for the property with a maximum figure of $3,000 being set.

"What's the use of negotiating when the price is being bandied about by council," Alderman Elwin David asked.

Alderman Douglas Boyle felt the price asked for the property was excessive. He suggestions to table the matter and to refer it to the assessment department were lost.

"I hope that someone will come up with a motion of how to deal with this property," commented Alderman Robin Jeffrey who was acting as chairman of the committee of the whole.

Later in the meeting the Belleville Industrial Committee came in for criticism for failure to take options on development property before it increased in value.

Alderman Arthur Keegan said options should be taken by the industrial commission in properties needed for future development so as to protect against rising land values.

He said that the commission was dragging its feet in this matter.

However, Commission member Alderman Gerald Joyce disagreed that the industrial commission was dragging its feet and said if this was the case it was "wasting a lot of my time."

He said the commission's land acquisition program was to "go its way", that the commission was doing its job and was using city money prudently.

According to Ald. Joyce, lack of serviced land was a handicap with which the commission had to contend. Through lack of such land, many potential industries were lost, he said.

And the priority under which potential development land could be serviced was a factor to be taken into consideration when purchasing industrial land.

The first question asked by potential industry was whether serviced land was available, the alderman said.

Cost Questioned

Fire Truck Purchase Delayed

Yesterday Belleville City Council awarded the contract for gravel roads on Harder Drive extension and on Tracey Street to John Leavitt Ltd. of Bloomfield at a tender price of $51,961. The Leavitt company bid was the lowest of four tenders received.

Council tabled the purchase of a new King Seagrave 100 foot "Quint" aerial ladder at a tendered price of $50,196 and instead called for a committee of two council members, the fire chief and the purchasing agent to review tenders and bring in another recommendation.

The price of the Seagrave truck was approximately $2,500 higher that the lowest bid of $47,537 submitted by C. E. Hickey and Sons Ltd. and Alderman Paul Russell questioned spending the extra money.

"I don't mind spending more money if we are getting more quality but in this case this is not necessarily so," he said.

He said that import duties on the Seagrave truck added to the cost.

Fire Chief Ted Poste said he based his recommendation for the Seagrave truck on the department's experience with similar equipment over the past 20 years.

Alderman Art Keegan, however, said investigation had shown that ladders similar to the one recommended had broken in use and he moved for the matter to be tabled for further investigation.

Although tabling the purchase of the aerial ladder equipment, council accepted the tender of Stevenson Ford Sales for the supply of a fire truck chassis to accommodate the ladder when it is purchased. The tender for the truck chassis was for $12,187.26.

Consulting engineers Damms and Smith were authorized to prepare final plans, specifications and cost estimates for phases II and III of the Dundas Street project.

Phase I of the project — the CPR overpass and Bay Bridge Road relocation — is now underway. Phase II of the project is the Dundas St. Moira River bridge and phase III the connecting roadway between the river and the top of Devils Elbow Hill.

Labor Body Seeks Funds

The Belleville and District Labor Council is seeking financial aid for strikers at the Proctor Silex plant in Picton.

The strike, now in its fourth week, is seeking higher pay for the 100-man plant production staff.

The labor council has mailed an appeal to all union locals in the Quinte district, seeking donations to a strike fund.

Five Bogus $10 Bills Passed in Quinte Area

TRENTON — The threat of bogus bills has become a reality for the Brighton district as five counterfeit bills have turned up over the weekend. Provincial Police at Brighton released details. The bills were all $10 denominations and had the same serial.

The number to watch for is: B/D 003035.

The Canadian Bank of Commerce seems to be the favorite gathering place for the counterfeit bills. Two bills were discovered at the bank's Brighton branch, and one at its Colborne office.

The fourth bill was discovered in a Brighton store.

Police spokesmen said the bills are easily identifiable due to their "dull finish and slippery texture."

Residents in the area have been warned to be on the lookout. OPP Constable Al Tremeer is investigating.

Yesterday, military at Canadian Forces Base Trenton turned up a fifth phoney $10, bearing the same serial numbers.

The bill was passed at the base post office.

Downtown Business Group Adopts Frontage Fee Plan

They'll be distributing membership by the foot in Belleville's re-organized Downtown Business Association.

The organization — hopeful of attracting a large membership from the city's central commercial district—has approved a novel fee structure.

The formal blanket fees system is replaced by a device that literally measures ability to pay.

Membership dues are based on the size of commercial property frontages.

The association accepted the proposal of former president Stan Albert that fees be set at $6 a foot on ground floor frontage Basement and upper level operations will be assessed at $3 a foot.

The general membership soon will hear the system explained first hand — in comfortable surroundings.

A dinner meeting is planned under the direction of Front street businessman Wilbur Fox.

The banquet, to be held likely before the end of August, will discuss various other projects at the membership is updated on DBA activities.

Meanime, it looks like the association will help Belleville have a brighter Christmas.

It has bought 30 Christmas light fixtures for delivery shortly, costing $3,300.

Loyalist Teachers Back at School

Loyalist College is readying for its second year — by first sending its teachers to school.

Yesterday, the college launched a three-week teacher training program aimed at creating the right environment when Loyalist opens Sept. 9.

Emphasis is on teacher-student relationship and towards this goal, the current program emphasizes "creative teaching", says a college spokesman.

The ideal is to have the instructors not only commence classes on "a very, very informed basis" but to "pay students the compliments of being human beings."

Yesterday's opening sessions will be more formal with a long an array of visual aids that included closed - circuit television.

The "creative" theory will be introduced tomorrow when an advocate of student-teacher involvement addresses the instructors.

He is Claude Brodeur, a psychologist on the Ontario College of Education staff.

After that, training sessions on the creative - teaching theme will be directed by Toronto psychologist Jane Batten.

Barricade To Slow Bicyclists

"Slow Down" is the word for bicyclists using the Park Dale area laneway running between Gilbert and Lemoine Streets.

Following complaints from the area that the laneway was posing a possible traffic threat, city council yesterday ordered that a suitable barricade to be erected to force cyclists to slow down.

Council was told that the laneway — provided as a shortcut for children going to and from school — has a steep grade running into Lemoine Street and that cyclists gain such speed that it would be difficult to stop should they encounter any traffic travelling on Lemoine Street.

The fence barrier will be such that it will force cyclists to dismount and walk through to Lemoine Street.

Two Tweed Youths Hurt In Collision

TWEED — Two Tweed youths were taken to Belleville General Hospital last night following a two-car mishap at the junction of Highways 7 and 37.

The accident occurred when vehicles driven by Garry Wayne Owens, 21, of Tweed, and Mathew Calvin Garfield, 20, of Belleville came into collision at 10:35 p.m. at the junction.

Two passengers in the Owens automobile, James Woodcock, 21, of Tweed and Raymond Benn, 20, of Tweed, were injured and taken to hospital.

Benn is suffering from multiple abrasion.s Woodcock's injuries have not been ascertained yet.

Damage to the Owens vehicle was estimated at $1,200 and to the Garfield vehicle at $1,000.

So "stubborn as a mule" is just a saying. Tell that to the Picton sports fans — like Mike Shadforth — who faced lineup problems at yesterday's donkey ball game.

Prince Edward OKs Board Makeup

PICTON (Staff) — The last concrete step has been taken before the new regional schoolboard system goes into effect in the county.

The new program is to begin in October. Yesterday county council approved a bylaw dealing with township representation on the board.

The long standing opponent to the plan, Ameliasburg township, will be represented with three members. This is the greatest representation on the board.

Representation is based upon the township assessment rates.

The township of Hallowell and the village of Bloomfield, lumped together, will be represented by two members.

Picton will appoint two, the remainder of the county townships will appoint one member each.

The new system is one of the sweeping changes brought about by Bill 44, passed by the Ontario Legislature in March.

According to the bill, Prince Edward County is entitled to elect 14 members to a board of education. One of the 14 members is to represent the separate school supporters.

A further regulation of the act will keep Ameliasburg in the fold for at least two more years. Concerned that municipalities at least try the system, the bill makes a two-year trial period mandatory.

Reeve Cunningham would not speculate about Ameliasburgh's stand following that time.

Susan Barsby Home After Yukon Flight

Susan Barsby is back in Britain — but her sendoff was such Canada will see her again.

The plucky British tourist was carried aboard a giant air force Yukon at Canadian Forces Base Trenton yesterday—still flat on her back from injuries received in a car smash three weeks ago.

Just eight hours later the plane was scheduled to land at London's Gatwick airport, where the Barsby family was waiting with a warm welcome.

The June 18 Highway 37 mishap north of Belleville, wrote a grim ending to Susan's plans for a three-week Canadian holiday.

Confined to a hospital bed with a fractured pelvis and back injuries, Susan had every right to feel bitter.

Instead, she stayed smiling — and Canadians scrambled to put matters right.

Doctors, local politicians, the air force, even a cabinet minister got involved in the episode which ended on the Trenton tarmac yesterday.

Permission was granted to divert a Germany-bound transport plane to London.

And, before she left, Susan was the guest of honor at a party in Belleville General Hospital where her nurses, doctors and friends came for a bedside bon voyage.

With all the fuss, Susan still says she'll be back — if not next year, then the year after that when her savings permit.

Northern Electric Head Walter J. Galt Dies

Manager of the Northern Electric Company in this city for the past year and one-half and formerly of Montreal, Walter John Galt, 16 Leslie Drive, died in Kingston General Hospital on Monday after a short illness.

Mr. Galt was born in British Columbia, 53 years ago, a son of Mrs. Beulah Galt and the late John Galt. After graduation from university, Mr. Galt joined the Northern Electric Company in Montreal and soon worked to the position of manager of the Montreal plant. He was moved to Belleville in the same capacity nearly two years ago and since coming to this city has entered into the civic and social life of the community.

He is a member of the Professional Engineers of Quebec and locally is a member of the Belleville Public School Board, the Rotary Club, the Quinte Golf and Country Club and the Telephone Pioneers of America.

Mr. Galt is a member of Bridge Street United Church. Surviving are his mother, his wife, the former Juanita Gammon, and two sons, Craig Galt of Belleville and Bruce Galt of Calgary. Also surviving are one brother, Robert Galt and one sister, Mrs. Marie Jacobson, both of Red Deer.

Mr. Galt is resting at the John R. Bush Funeral Home. A private service will be held in the chapel this afternoon at 1.30. Interment will be in Belleville cemetery. Rev Alfred Poulter officiating.

In lieu of flowers, donations can be made to the Canadian Heart Fund.

Nigerian-Biafran peace talks in Addis Ababa started Aug. 5 under the auspices of the Organization of African Unity, but pessimism deepened today as the chief Nigerian negotiator went back to Lagos.

The Nigerian envoy, Chief Anthony Enahoro, was reported to have demanded anew that Biafra renounce its claim to sovereignty in return for a Nigerian pledge guaranteeing the security of all Biafran inhabitants. The Ibo tribesmen of Biafra claim the federal government is trying to annihilate them.

"These talks will go on," Enahoro said as he left.

PE County Home Rates Jump $4.02

PICTON (Staff) — Rates have doubled at the Prince Edward county home for the aged.

Ameliasburgh Reeve, George Cunningham told county council yesterday that the per diem rates have jumped $4.02 per day to $8.71. The increase went into effect Aug. 1.

Largely responsible for the increase, he said, was the installation of a new sewer system at the home. The system cost $74,000.

It is hoped that the rates will decrease to $5 per day by next year.

The annual operating costs at the home have jumped from the normal $100,000 to $170,000.

At present there are 54 residents at the home. Medical service, clothing and food are provided. A physician is hired by the county, to devote the better part of his activities to the home.

Only those patients with sufficient means to do so pay the daily rate.

Strike Hangover

With the mail strike over there is still some delay in getting things moving because of a walkout of drivers who handle mail by truck in the Montreal area.

However, Postmaster-General Eric Kierans' action in suspending the trucking company's contract is a sign that the government is not going to permit any further holdup in the mails.

The principle of the public service employees' right to strike was upheld during the mail stoppage — but only just. If a settlement had not been reached, government intervention would have been taken to order the men back to work. As it was, such an order was imminent, only to become unnecessary when negotiations finally bore fruit.

If the right to strike principle remains on the statute books then a time limit should be established. Otherwise the public interest can be jeopardized. Proof of this is seen in a statement by George Morris, manager of the Vancouver Board of Trade. Some firms in the west coast city, he says, will never recover from the strike.

Less easy to handle in Mr. Klerans' fashion would be a strike by Air Canada pilots. If replacements can be found for truck drivers, spare pilots are not so easy to come by. In any event it is clear the government is not going to permit such strikes to continue indefinitely in future.

More Trudeaumania

Prime Minister Trudeau has been continuing his merry way attracting the usual attention and setting the men's clothing industry by the ears.

At Stratford where it is said only the Queen and Lynda Bird Johnson before him excited as much interest, Mr. Trudeau evidently felt at home among theatregoers and performers alike, chatting with them and signing autographs and exchanging banter.

Mixed emotions however are still the order of the day where the prime ministers sartorial image is concerned. Stratford clothing merchants gained from the visit. No sooner had Mr. Trudeau attended Romeo and Juliet wearing a tan suit, an Ascot and dark shirt and tie on dress than stores were swamped with requests for Ascot ties. Ordinarily, Canadian men would not be caught dead wearing Ascots but if the thing is "in" it's in and there are enough conformists around who consider that such a phenomenon matters. So they go out and buy one.

On another occasion Mr. Trudeau left his railway car wearing a yellow, shortsleeved knit shirt, with a yellow silk scarf. Certainly it is not typically Canadian, this prime ministerial eye for the casual touch where clothing is concerned. At least it makes for a change of pace, in keeping with the times. Mr. Trudeau could accept this trend too far, however. Better on the formal occasions and in parliament — especially there — that he stick to formal garb.

As it is, an elegant American woman in the Stratford theatre audience eyed Mr. Trudeau at a performance of Chekov's The Seagull and said: "It looks as if he could use a good tailor." He was wearing a blue suit, yellow shirt (ugh!) — and a tie.

We wonder what that august British publication, Tailor and Cutter, would have to say about the prime minister's taste in clothes.

She Hit Jackpot

You know those "skill-testing questions" that can mean the difference between winning a big prize or not in the gimmick competition field?

Well in Montreal's voluntary tax plan a Hungarian-born woman who is the latest to win the $100,000 first prize, had to answer four questions put to her by a panel of judges.

We wonder how many native Montrealers would have known the correct answers to the questions. In any event, Mrs. Claire Imre proved once again that New Canadians are often more knowledgeable about their adopted country than native Canadians.

Not that Mrs. Imre is a fresh arrival by any means. She and her late husband fled to France for a time before coming to Montreal in 1951. The questions she answered correctly had to do with the St. Lawrence Seaway, Man and His World and two others that would thwart most people. They were: What city was founded in 1542? Answer: Montreal; In what category of international exhibitions was Expo 67? Answer: The first category.

If a little knowledge is a dangerous thing, it can also be useful at times!

Right-to-Strike and Public Interest in Conflict

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Don't put all the blame for these distressingly inconvenient weeks of postal paralysis on the mail clerks and letter carriers.

They were only doing what, to them, seems to come naturally. Striking.

At least, they had tried two dry strike runs — illegal wildcat walkouts in key post offices — before Parliament, with its eyes wide open, made it legal for them to down mailbags.

When they struck, nearly four weeks ago, they were only exercising the right given them by the Pearson Government in that last unlamented "Parliament of Minorities".

So blame Parliament too. Blame it first, and blame it most.

Of this hard fact of legislative life — that strikes in the public service are legal in some of its most essential sectors — both Prime Minister Trudeau and Conservative Leader Stanfield kept reminding the impatient taxpayers.

Did the Prime Minister use it all this time as a sort of escape clause from responsibility to preserve and protect the public interest?

And did the Conservative Leader employ it as a device to evade taking any firm position in the same public interest?

Former Prime Minister Pearson, who gave the federal civil service the right to strike, said that for government employees it was "basic and fundamental and should be qualified only where a clear case can be made to restrict it in the public interest."

So Parliament then "in the public interest" restricted that right to strike — but only in the armed services, the RCMP, the Senate and the House of Commons.

That particular Parliament — the calamitous twenty-seventh — was probably the worst in all post-war years, worse even than the disastrous twenty-sixth.

Both were the astoundingly oblique legislative tools of Lester B. Pearson, unquestionably the most permissive Prime Minister in living parliamentary memory.

His saw money — the taxpayers' — as the magic cure-all.

There was no other approach to any of the many problems in those five uncertain and unsettled minority years.

The seaway workers were threatening strike? Then give them 29 per cent.

The postal workers were out on a wildcat? Give them more money and make it retroactive. This small sector of industry, that tiny splinter of agriculture, and the other little corner of the cultural community are running slow? Handouts will fuel them up.

The unskilled worker is complaining that he isn't getting as much as the skilled? A raise in the minimum wage will put more and ever-cheapening 54-cent dollars in his pocket.

Money was the same mustard plaster abroad as it was at home, certain to draw out any of society's infections.

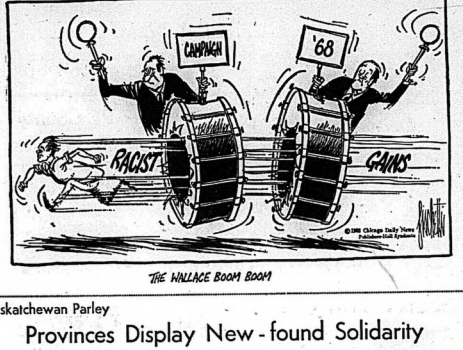
The natives had way around the world are restless, failing to fawn all over an ambassador at his reception or even peacefully picketing his embassy?

So what, the solution is simple. If you cannot command affection, win respect, impress understanding, another $300 million in foreign aid will buy them.

New at federal lawmaking they may be, but both Prime Minister Trudeau and Conservative Leader Stanfield must be aware of the background of Parliament's minority years.

The balance of power in that "house of minorities" was always so delicate and a snap, accidental election is possible if not exactly probable, that federal civil service votes may have been more important when Parliament voted government employees the right to strike, than the public interest.

Just how big is that vote?



Well, the biggest single block — 400,000 in the payroll and how many friends and relatives? — is the country. And organized.

Big enough to control six Parliamentary seats in the Ottawa-Hull area, and be at least an influence in Montreal, Toronto, London, Winnipeg, Edmonton, Vancouver and Victoria, all with sizeable federal civil service enclaves.

Big enough, too, in this new Parliament of majority that both the Prime Minister and Opposition Leader equating, as they did through all these last weeks, the right to strike of 24,000 postal workers with what both conceded was the right to mail service of 20 million other Canadians.

Perhaps now, this new Parliament will flip back through Hansard to the counsel of Prime Minister Pearson that the "basic and fundamental" right to strike in the civil service "should be qualified and restricted in the public interest."

Provinces Display New-found Solidarity

Montreal Le Devoir—Last week's conference in Saskatchewan of delegations from nine of the Canadian provinces brought improvement in interprovincial solidarity. In the past, the provinces agreed most of all to demand more financial aid from Ottawa. This allowed the central government to impose on them its views and programs, even in spheres of provincial jurisdiction, by offering grants of money.

The financial needs of the provinces have not ceased to grow, but the demands they now are making on Ottawa on this matter take new forms. . . . From now on, it probably will be less easy for the central government to use the divergent opinions of the provinces to impose its programs.

It was on the subject of medical care insurance that the provinces first showed solidarity. . . . This is a question involving provincial competence and the provinces are asking for a revision of the program unilaterally set forth by Ottawa. By taking that position, they show that federal authorities were not taken in thinking their conditional grants could force the provinces to submit to the plan. . . .

Three resolutions passed at the conference deserve particular attention because they give a greater perspective to provincial demands. One of them recalls that the federal government committed itself to a revision of present tax-sharing arrangements before they expire in five years.

Tax sharing is a fundamental subject for any revision of our system of federalism, not only because the financial needs of the provinces are growing, but also because they need to obtain additional revenue without sacrificing any of their prerogatives.

. . . By obtaining a better distribution of the fiscal pie the provinces would be less susceptible to Ottawa's interventions in the social and cultural domains in which they have exclusive jurisdiction.

The provinces went a step further in asking the prime minister that he consult them adequately before comprehensive measures of fiscal reform are submitted to Parliament. . . . Since tax revenues must be shared between Ottawa and the provinces, there is no reason for the central government to judge alone what types and amounts of important taxes will be levied.

The last resolution of note provided that uniform norms be established for pollution control with a view to their being adopted by each of the provinces. . . . Mr. Bertrand [Quebec justice minister] said, at the beginning of the conference, that the provinces are aware they can, through their respective legislatures, establish national standards in areas within their jurisdiction without going through Ottawa.

This perspective is encouraging for the future of our federalism and could . . . lead to a more equitable sharing of power between the central government and the provinces.

Special Permission Granted

Ten-man Fishing Party Uses Motorboats in Algonquin Park

TORONTO (CP) — A 10-man fishing party with "special permission" from the department of lands and forests has been fishing Booth Lake in Algonquin Park with motorboats carted into the park over logging roads.

A lands and forests official in Toronto said it was not illegal for the party to use the road because it received permission.

"However, the public cannot use it as a motorized road."

David Waisman, a director of the Algonquin Wildlands League, formed to save the park from commercial exploitation, said the party had been trucked in for $300 by a private operator from Barry's Bay.

Park Superintendent Bill Hueston said the "special permission was a hangover from the past," and had been done for years.

"The road will be bull-dozed over next year and never used again," he said.

The official in Toronto said the party—no names were disclosed— has been using the "special permission for many years."

"Mr. Hueston did not want to continue the policy this year but head office allowed the men to go in," he said.

Keith Acheson, the department's acting deputy minister, said:

"It was the last trip in for the party. We don't generally allow such a thing but for special guests you can do it."

The fishing area in question is on the southern limits of the park, about eight miles east of Highway 60 and 90 miles west of Pembroke.

Mr. Waisman said: "It is a criminal misuse of logging roads for private profit."

He said a group of canoeists had paddled and portaged to Booth Lake and found a group of about 10 fishermen and their motorboats.

"Beer bottles and beer cans were strewn all over the place," he said.

New Minister Sets Out To Find Indians' Needs

TORONTO (CP) — An Indian affairs department delegation, headed by a man who says Indians themselves "know best what they want and need," Monday began a series of meetings with Canadian Indians in response to Prime Minister Trudeau's drive for consultation with the people.

Robert K. Andras, newly-appointed minister without portfolio, is leading the delegation of which will hold 19 meetings with Indians across Canada before the end of October.

"This is the first time a people have been consulted on this scale," Mr. Andras said after the opening of a three-day session with 28 southwestern Ontario Indian bands.

"There might be a parallel in industry, but certainly a group of people have never been consulted to this extent regarding legislation affecting them."

The meetings are being held in connection with the federal government's efforts to revive the Indian Act of 1951, a federal statute which governs activities of Indians on reserves.

Mr. Andras says the federal government's failure to wrestle with the rights of 1899 and 1921 are "a barrier to establishing trust," but he believes the meetings will do much to bring Indians into the legislative field.

"We're going to tremendous lengths to ensure the consultation process is complete."

Indian delegates will consider sections of the Indian Act during the three-day Toronto meeting. Among topics of discussion are the rights of unwed mothers, rights under the Canada Pension Plan, education, reserve lands and hunting and fishing rights.

Under the present Indian Act, Indians in the North are prohibited from shooting migrating ducks for sport, even though they are a main food resource.

"In the North, the only time an Indian can legally shoot a duck is when all have migrated south," a department spokesman said.

Transcripts of all the meetings will be sent to Ottawa and the department will begin work on a new Indian Act for Canada's 219,000 Indians.

Mr. Andras hopes the transcripts will be prepared into a report which can be sent back to the individual Indian bands for further meetings and discussion.

"This is a good beginning toward forming new policies," he said.

"Of course, what we come up with will never be agreeable to all Indians because they come from such diverse backgrounds. But we hope we have done the best job possible."

Police Scatter Hippies Who May Have Disease

TORONTO (CP) — A youth worker and a doctor in the hippy-attis-plagued Yorkville area claim police may have scattered young hippie transients who might have the disease.

Brian Chapman, a volunteer at a trailer where blood tests are being made for the liver disease, said at least four persons whose tests were positive have disappeared from Yorkville since police made a raid in the area Friday.

"A lot of these kids can be pretty paranoid," he said. "When they were tested, they filled out a questionnaire. They see the police and they think they've got hold of these questionnaires and they're pretty scared."

Dr. A. R. J. Boyd, city medical health officer, said police action could hamper the hepatitis survey by scattering young persons.

Mr. Chapman said two young persons with hepatitis symptoms have been traced to Vancouver. He said the Vancouver hippie group Cool-Aid is looking for two more expected in the city.

Dr. R. T. M. James, spokesman for the Yorkville Village Association, said the area is as safe as any other in the city if visitors wear shoes. He said some hippies are barefoot and the infection could be spread that way.

Help Is Promised Landslide Victims

PORT SMITH, N.WT (CP) — Northern Development Minister Chrétien Monday night promised some sort of federal aid for local Indians and whites who suffered losses in a series of landslides that began Friday.

Mr. Chretien broke off the end of a 12-day northern tour to visit the town of 2,500 persons, 450 miles north of Edmonton. He told a hastily-arranged meeting he could not be definite on the aid.

"But I consider this a disaster," Mr. Chretien said, promising to consult his cabinet colleagues today when he returns to Ottawa.

Mr. Chretien was taken on a tour of the area where workers are still trying to recover the body of Mrs. Catherine Ferguson, 54; believed killed when two houses were lost in the first slide Friday night.

Two more houses have since toppled over a 100-foot-deep cliff bordering the Slave River, north of the town. Mr. Chretien said four or five others were expected to be lost.

Police said Monday that 110 persons have been evacuated from the slide area and relocated either in government housing or in tents. Of the total, 69 are treaty Indians and 43 are whites or Metis.

A spokesman for the Indian band here estimated their losses at about $1,000,000.

Chief Fred Gilbot said in a brief to the minister that 45 houses would be of no further use as a result of the landslide and estimated their replacement value at $650,000. He said another $280,000 would be needed to provide services and $45,000 for furnishings.

The brief from the Indian band complained that talks were being held on relocation of the Indian people affected by the slide without consultation with the people themselves.

Mr. Chretien promised to consult the band on any matters affecting them as a result of the slide.

The slide wiped out about a mile of river bank, leaving a third house see-sawing on the edge of the rift.

Three slides since Friday have left 150-foot cliffs overlooking the Slave River and dumped a fourth house, a bulk petroleum storage tank, a warehouse and 200 feet of roadway onto the river bank. The road has since been rebuilt to serve rescue workers.

Four other homes west of the original slide and a Roman Catholic chapel were in danger. Occupants of homes in a two-block area near the bank were evacuated to other accommodation.

Ken Hawkins, area administrator of the Mackenzie district for the northern development department, said there have been five ground slumps in the area in the past 35 years because of ground water seepage through the sandy soil of the region.

He estimated damage from the latest slide at $250,000 and said more than 600,000 cubic yards of sand have shifted.

Chief Urges Act Changes Be First Passed by Indians

TORONTO (CP)—Changes to the Indian Act should be studied and approved by representatives of all Canadian Indians before they are passed by Parliament, a southern Ontario Indian chief said Monday.

Chief Frederick Plain of the Sarnia band of Chippewas told a meeting of 26 spokesmen for 20,000 southern and central Ontario Indians that the Indian Act is being revised without adequate Indian participation.

He said there is too much authority in the Indian affairs branch, adding that "no matter what we come up with, the branch can veto it."

Monday's meeting, first in a three-day session, is the third of 18 conferences scheduled across Canada to work out policies.

Chief Plain said the timing of the talks is right but "the amount of time being given us, I believe, is not fair to the Indian people."

Earlier, delegates met privately in caucus. Non-Indians, including Robert Andras of Port Arthur, federal minister without portfolio, did not attend.

Arctic Fire Nears Secret Navy Base

INUVIK, N.W.T. (CP) — Firefighters were ordered to reinforce firebreaks overnight around one of two secret navy installations threatened by a forest fire now more than half-surrounding this Arctic town.

There were conflicting reports of orders given firemen:

One Inuvik resident working on firelines reported the commander of the installations, Lt.-Cmdr. William Yorga, ordered a building and nine antennae at the site saved at all costs.

But Wilfred Taylor, federal forestry officer in charge of firefighting, denied the report and said the firebreaks were "just a precaution."

Lt.-Cmdr. Yorga was not available for comment.

The installation is threatened by a blaze which advanced toward Inuvik airport Monday. It stopped within a mile of the small navy-operated unit when winds dropped.

Another hotspot northwest of the town appeared to have abated Monday after sweeping the dense spruce forest around installation during the weekend, trapping about 80 persons for 36 hours.

The flames swept through the eight-acre site, damaging some antennae, then moved across the north end of the town. It stopped at the east channel of the Mackenzie River which borders the town on the west and southwest.

Youth Took Drugs Before Fatal Swim

TORONTO (CP) — A coroner's jury ruled Monday that Michael Slattery, 19, was under the influence of drugs July 1 when he went for a fatal swim in Lake Ontario.

The jury, ruling that Slattery died of drowning in 53-degree water off Centre Island in Toronto Harbor, recommended that youth be educated in the problems of drug addiction at school, starting as early as Grade 8.

It said schools should conduct lectures and use pictures and case histories to demonstrate the dangers of drugs.

Evidence at the inquest was that Slattery had been under the influence of a hallucinogenic drug.

Dr. Lionel Solursh, a Toronto psychiatrist, testified that on a "good trip" a drug user feels omnipotent, and that Slattery would have believed he was able to swim when he was not.

Psychologist Wilfred Clements of the Ontario Hospital's clinic for drug addicts testified Slattery told him the morning of the drowning that he had taken a drug referred to as "the pink capsule," one of several forms in which LSD is available.

Dr. Richard Hudson, pathologist at Toronto's East General Hospital, said no evidence of drugs was found but that LSD can be detected only in the stomach contents about half an hour after ingestion.

The inquest continues.

Single Research Policy Group Is Recommended

OTTAWA (CP) — A single body to develop federal policies for major research-supporting agencies has been recommended to a study group on support of research in universities established by the Science Council of Canada and the Canada Council.

The recommendation was made recently by the Association of University and College of Canada in a brief made public here today.

"It is desirable to have an organism within the federal government which will allow the universities to have access to a single body representing the major federal research granting agencies and advisory bodies," the association said.

"Such a mechanism would facilitate the development of policies with respect to granting research funds to universities, with the understanding and support of all the federal agencies involved."

The brief proposes that this body be a liaison committee to advise a cabinet minister, with the chairman to be either the cabinet secretary or the deputy minister of the cabinet minister to which it reports.

Careless Municipal Planning Out Warns Ontario Minister

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Municipal Affairs Minister Darcy McKeough warned Monday that the Ontario government will not permit municipalities and their neighbors to be harmed by councils which plan carelessly to meet the rapid growth taking place in the province.

He told the Ontario Municipal Association he recognizes that a recent amendment to the planning act, giving him authority to pass zoning bylaws superseding those already passed by a municipality, creates extraordinary powers for his department.

The amendment permits the minister to establish basic standards for the subdivision and use of land in areas where no municipal government exists; and to establish subdivision and land-use controls where municipal councils have failed to act.

The amendment was passed because "many municipalities which were being subjected to substantial growth pressures had either not acted at all under the planning act or had passed extremely rudimentary bylaws . . .

"The type of rudimentary bylaw to which I refer is the one which permits any kind of development to occur anywhere within the municipality subject only to its meeting certain minimum lot-size requirements . . . and bylaws which permit unlimited ribbon development along main transportation arteries. . . ."

Mr. McKeough, a 35-year-old Chatham businessman who took over municipal affairs in January, promised that his authority will be used "only in such cases where a definite public interest is involved and where conventional approaches have been tried and have not worked."

A text of his remarks was issued in advance of delivery.

Air Canada Pilots Holding Strike Vote

MONTREAL (CP) — Air Canada pilots were to start voting today on whether to begin a strike that could ground the airline beginning next Tuesday.

The 1,000-member Canada Air Line Pilots Association called the strike vote Sunday after negotiations between the national bargaining committee and the association broke down.

CALPA members will vote at association centres here and at Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver. The votes will be counted Sunday at the association's national headquarters here.

However, the CALPA has said the two sides are not so far apart on economic issues that an agreement is out of the question.

Air Canada has offered its pilots a 17-per-cent wage increase over a 28-month contract while the association seeks a 21-per-cent increase.

Many Tasks on Home Front During Second World War

By JEAN SHARP
CP Women's Editor

If there is a touch of nostalgia in Canadians' memories of the Second World War, it may be partly because it was a time when everyone felt useful, even at the home front.

Children earnestly collected comic books to school for recycling 100,000 boxes a week for prisoners-of-war, working on an assembly-line basis. Their pennies were saved in May, 1945, and the backlog was used to help feed people in transit camps.

Almost every volunteer group raised money to buy supplies; tanks, even planes to jam. The Women's Institutes made money for jam a project for the duration. By the end of the 1940

MR. AND MRS. JOHN A. McDONALD

McDonald – Ronsky

Rev. R. B. Wright solemnized the August 3rd wedding ceremony at Christ Church, when he united in marriage Janice Louise Ronsky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ronsky, of Belleville, to John Arthur McDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert McDonald, of Saskatoon, Saskatchewan. The traditional wedding music was rendered by James Noakes; while singing was provided by six choir boys.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white dreamette acetate gown featuring a high round neckline, a skimmer fitted front with full gathered sleeves with three button cuffs. A veil of trailing flowered lace fell a bouquet of white carnations and talisman roses completed her ensemble.

Maid of honor, Miss Patricia Lightfoot, of Belleville, was attired in a sapphire blue peau de elegance sleeveless gown. It featured an empire waistline with blue crystalite organza over the skirt. Completing the outfit, she wore a matching blue hat and cape with white organza petal flowers overall, and carried a bouquet of white mums and yellow roses. Bridesmaids, Misses Linda Marner, Belleville, and Sandra Atkinson, of Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, and Mrs. Phyllis Ronsky, Napanee, wore dresses, hats and capes the same as the maid of honor, but in ice-orange. They carried bouquets of white mums and orange roses.

Flower girl was Miss Judith Rowbotham, cousin of the bride. Her dress was the same as that of the maid of honor, but in ice orange, with puffy, short organza sleeves, completed by a cape and hat. Ring bearer was Master Rodney Rowbotham, cousin of the bride.

Attending the bridegroom was Clinton John Seymour Day of Exton, Sask. The ushers were Keith McDonald, brother of the bridegroom, of Saskatoon, Sask.; John Marvin, Belleville; David E. Rowbotham, cousin of the bride, Belleville.

The wedding reception (and dance) was held at the Club Canara, where the mother of the bride received the guests in a turquoise blue brocade dress, with waist length matching jacket, three-quarter length sleeves. White accessories and a corsage of white gardenias completed her outfit. The mother of the bridegroom was unable to attend — however a second reception will be held in Saskatoon, Sask., on August 17.

For the wedding trip through Canada to Saskatoon, Sask., the bride chose a simple orange skimmer dress in rayon boucle linen. With matching three-quarter cape. Accessories were ivory colored, completed by an orchid corsage. Upon their return, the couple will reside in Saskatoon, Sask.

Some of it was available because individuals tended victory gardens in their back yards and because housewives did their own canning and preserving for home consumption.

People served as air raid wardens, they learned first aid, home nursing, fire prevention, plane spotting.

They also opened their homes to the dispossessed. An early project was the search for homes for refugee children from Europe and for blitz evacuees. A 1941 news story said there were 12,000 British children in Canada.

People found space in their homes for Commonwealth brides here for training, for servicemen on weekend leave. Organizations such as the YM and YWCA provided lists of places to stay for the men and for wives who wanted to be near training camps. The YWCA had a servicemen's wives club.

Both Ys operated canteens and recreation centres in Canada and overseas. Volunteers put on shows for service personnel.

Some of the home-front effort has since become recognizable as social revolution, given impetus by the war. Urban centres were attending.

In the two years since the course was set up at Grace Maternity Hospital here, Dr. Scott said, only six doctors have taken it, five of them from outside the province.

The opportunities now were open to save more infants, but one man could not do it, he said. They need their own personnel in to gain knowledge of these techniques.

In Nova Scotia alone, 450 infants are born yearly with diseases leading to mental retardation. Dr. Lord said one factor is low blood sugar, a reversible disease. With simple treatment, brain damage could be prevented.

New-born Children Treated as Third-Class Citizens Claims Halifax MD

HALIFAX (CP) — A Halifax doctor says one of the major reasons for high infant mortality rates is that new-born children are treated as third-class citizens.

Dr. Kenneth Scott, a neo-natologist, said many times doctors must just let infants die because of lack of facilities and research, and general public disinterest.

He said interest in illness of infants has grown in the last few years, but is still not widespread enough.

"We cannot even think of preventing deaths in new-borns," Dr. Scott said. "We are too busy trying to stop them from dying."

The prevention of infant disease was a specialists' dream, still many years away.

Adequate treatment centres have not yet been fully established in Nova Scotia. Already, Dr. Scott said, because of facilities available in Halifax, the death rate for new-borns is half that for the rest of the province.

"The major aspect of our work is to give quality care that will give us the lowest mortality rate," he said. But although there was a two-week course to acquaint doctors with what signs to watch for in diseased new-borns and what now can be done about it, not enough doctors were attending.

WEDDINGS

McWILLIAMS — RIVERS

TWEED — Reverend Dean C. E. Baker officiated at the recent wedding ceremony in St. Carthagh's Church, Tweed, when Sharon Rose Rivers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Rivers of Tweed was united in marriage to Gerald Francis McWilliams of Oshawa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McWilliams of Corbyville.

Organist was James McCormick of Tweed, who accompanied the soloist Richard Whalen, also of Tweed.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin back shantung gown with an insert of lace. The headdress was a white crown with rhinestone and lace and shoulder length veil carried a mauve orchid and carnations.

Miss Rose Marie Rivers was maid of honor and chose a dress of yellow satin back shantung, with inverted pleat in back, and matching headpiece. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white daisies.

Bridesmaid was Miss Joan Williams, Janice Alexander, and Patti Farrell were the bridesmaids. Their gowns were similar to the maid of honor's, only in green.

Best man was Norman of Toronto was groomsman, while the ushers were Clair Rivers, Toronto, and Ronnie Erwin, of Oshawa, and Raymond McWilliams, Kitchener.

The reception in St. Carthagh's Hall, Tweed, the bride's mother received the guests in a floor length dress with long sleeves and beige accessories. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who chose an ensemble of turquoise linen, the sleeves were featuring a scoop neckline trimmed with imported lace applique.

For travelling the bride chose a two-piece white lace suit with orange and white accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. McWilliams have taken up residence in Oshawa.

ATKESON — FARNSWORTH

The attractively decorated Trinity United Church was the scene of the recent wedding, when Norma Jean Margaret Farnsworth of Napanee and George William Atkeson of Ames, Iowa, exchanged marriage vows. Rev. H. E. Irvine Johnston, with Rev. W. K. Pace of Toronto assisting. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Farnsworth of Napanee, and the bridegroom is the son of the late F. W. Atkeson and the late Mr. Atkeson of Manhattan, Kansas. Mrs. William Aylsworth rendered the traditional wedding music; she also accompanied the soloist, Miss Shirley Fisher of Ottawa.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in silk organza and Chantilly lace. The floor length gown featured an empire waistline, emphasized by a flat bow; lily-point sleeves of lace and pearl sequins. The lace chapel train of lace fell from the shoulders, and the shoulder-length veil was fastened with attached to petals touched with seed pearls. She carried a cascade of pink rosettes and trailing ivy.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Wallace McTaggart of Amherstview, and the bridesmaid was Miss Joyce Bacher of Toronto. They were gowned alike in Capri blue organza, empire style, floor length, with cap sleeves and jewel neckline. Each carried a cascade of blue and white poms. The headdress was of flower petals of a paler blue, with a wisp of veiling at the back.

Attending the bridegroom was Rev. Charles Amstein of Fort Wayne, Indiana. Ushers were Kent Matson of Lapeere, Michigan; Richard Jager of Okemos, Michigan.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in Trinity Church Banquet Hall. The bride's mother received the guests in a dusty rose linen sheath and matching lace coat, eggshell accessories. Her corsage was a gardenia. Assisting her, the mother of the bridegroom wore a gown which she purchased while visiting in Hong Kong — a blue Chinese silk with Chinese embroidery, and blue accessories. Her corsage was also a gardenia.

For the wedding trip to the Georgian Bay area, the bride chose a sheath dress of white embossed cotton, with matching coat, white gloves and other accessories in blue, and a blue gardenia as her corsage. Upon their return, the couple will reside in Ames, Iowa.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES R. FRANK

Frank – Martin

Canon R. B. Wright officiated at the July 27th wedding in Christ Church, Belleville, when he united in marriage Elizabeth (Beth) Eileen Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold D. Martin, of Belleville and James Eliot Frank, son of Mrs. Russell Frank of Burlington, and the late Mr. Frank. John Wells rendered the traditional wedding music, while choir boys provided appropriate singing.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a satin back crepe empire styled gown with an a-line skirt, featuring lily point sleeves and scalloped neckline and yoke. Her headdress was a crown of seed pearls with a short length veil, and she carried a bouquet of long stemmed red roses.

Maid of honor, Miss Muriel McQuaid, was attired in an empire style gown featuring an a-line skirt, bell sleeves and satin back. The green crepe gown was complemented by a wedding ring headpiece and veil. She carried a bouquet of long stem amber roses. Bridesmaids, Misses Elaine Clarke and Barbara Ann Hubbs were gowned similar to that of the maid of honor. Flower girl was Miss Patricia Ann Martin, sister of the bride. Her dress and headpiece were the same as that of the maid of honor; she carried a basket of deep amber sweetheart roses. Ring bearer was Robert Shawn Frank, brother of the groom.

Attending the groom was James Hutton, Ushers were Arthur Martin, brother of the bride; and Jerrard Brown, brother of the groom.

The wedding reception was held at the Tops Motor Motel, Belleville, where the mother of the bride received the guests in a shrimp colored dress of chiffon over taffeta with the bodice featuring a scoop neckline, and cord collar, featuring cap sleeves with matching accessories. She wore a complementing corsage of white 'mums. Since the mother of the groom was unable to attend, the sister-in-law of the groom assisted wearing a blue crepe form fitting dress with lace coat and matching accessories.

For the wedding trip to points west and north, the bride chose a sleeveless dress of printed chiffon over taffeta in shades of tangerine, gold, green and violet. The outfit featured a soft v-neckline accented with a self ruffle, with fitted bodice with a cinched waistline and softly flared skirt. White accessories and a corsage of white 'mums completed her ensemble. Upon their return, the couple will reside in Oshawa.

Sex Education to Be Introduced at Kindergarten Level in Five Suburban Montreal Schools

MONTREAL (CP) — A sex education program complete with explicit slides and little-boy dolls will be introduced at the kindergarten level in five suburban schools this fall.

The program is part of an over-all course on health and human development which the South Shore Protestant Regional School Board is providing in kindergarten and Grade 1, and which has been approved by parents who were previously consulted.

"Doctors and psychologists agree that the age of five is a good time to start explaining the life process," said R. G. Smith, director of elementary schools for the board, in an interview. "But somehow no one gets around to it until later."

The thinking behind the venture, he said, is that the age of puberty is far too late to teach children about sex.

"At that stage there are all kinds of awkward difficulties and the youngster has preconceived and emotional ideas."

The sex education program is to be part of a larger one dealing with cleanliness, safety, nutrition, social and emotional health, exercise and recreation, dental hygiene, sleep and rest, control of disease and vision conservation.

To explain the life process to children, teachers will use visual aids such as aquariums and incubators and the little-boy dolls.

A set of explicit slides will be interspersed throughout the year's program.

Mr. Smith said the parents of the 400 children involved in the project have asked for a parallel adult education course so they can "find out what it is we are teaching their kids."

"Some parents are already doing a good job of telling their children," said Mr. Smith. "All we want to do is provide some background.

"But for those who can't tell their children, we'll be able to help out a bit."

One of the biggest problems which might be encountered during the course relates to foster children, said Mr. Smith.

Most of the books and slides produced for five-year-olds lay heavy stress on family closeness and parents' love.

Mr. Smith said this particular problem would be worked out with individual parents if the case arose.

He stressed that teachers have never dodged sex questions in the classroom. "Actually all we're doing is legalizing what happens right now."

Gladys Lennox, co-ordinator of school health services in charge of the program, says it is probably the first of its kind to receive approval by a regional school board.

Schools selected on an experimental basis are Lachine and Royal George in Greenfield Park, Kensington in St. Hubert, and St. Steven's and William Latter schools in Chambly.

Extension of the program to other schools will depend on the report of the board's advisory health council, a group of doctors, psychologists, teachers, parents and members of the public who have made a major contribution to outlining the course in its present form.

Mother Must Learn: Looks Aren't All

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My sister has entered her 15-year-old daughter in a beauty contest and it is making us all sick.

ANN LANDERS

Bettylou is built like a Swedish 20-year-old, if you get the picture. She gets A's from the meanest teachers and is flunked by the women teachers. I hope you get that picture, too. All the emphasis has been on looks and figure and sex appeal and the poor kid is going to end up a professional party girl if something isn't done to open her mother's eyes.

Last night we were at my sister's house for dinner. There were 10 of us present — all family. My sister said, "Honey, why don't you model the bathing suit you're going to wear in the contest? It will be good to practice walking."

In five minutes Bettylou was sashaying through the living room in a bikini that didn't have 50c worth of material in it. My brother-in-law Herman almost swallowed his dentures which surprised me because Bessie (his wife) has been referring to him as "my dead battery" for the last 10 years.

I like beauty as well as the next person, but I don't see anything beautiful about a 15-year-old girl showing her behind to the whole world. Please print this letter so my sister can see it. She'll know it's for her and I hope it helps — DORIS.

DEAR DORIS — Here's the letter but don't expect it to change anybody's mind. I feel sorry for any girl whose brains are in her bikini. Divorced Bettylou's mother has encouraged her along these lines and one day the chickens will come home to roost.

DEAR ANN — Your frankness is refreshing and I admit I enjoy it when you tell a real cuff. Now, perhaps it is my turn to get told off, and I hope you will not spare the horses if you think I have it coming.

Teddy and I have been married 11 years. We have no children. Teddy is a good husband and I am trying my darndest to be a good wife.

His job has brought him to this foreign country which I hope you will not name because I wouldn't want to insult the people. Teddy signed up to stay here 18 months. Four months have passed and I am so miserable I could die. I can't speak the language. The climate is wretched. Living conditions are primitive. The food is dreadful. The prices are high. The people are not friendly.

I have considered going back home, getting a job and saving some money. Teddy has begged me to stay. I should tell you he is very attractive and the women here have that look in there eyes when they talk to him at social gatherings.

What should I do? — NEED YOUR WISDOM.

DEAR NEED — Some people don't know when they've got it good, Lady. You should read the letters I get from wives whose husbands are fighting the war in a neighboring county. They would give their eye teeth to be there with them — in the "wretched" climate, eating the "dreadful" food and paying those high prices.

Get off your back porch and quit griping. Learn the language and make yourself useful. The orphanages and hospitals over there can use a strong, healthy American girl.

Perspiration Problem Increases in Summer

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: In our office there are three people who have a perspiration problem. They either can't smell or don't care and no one has the nerve to tell them outright. Summer has just started; what are we going to do when it really gets hot? We were discussing this at work the other day and I suggested writing to you because your column covers everything.

All three are outwardly clean-looking people, but they just don't take advantage of any of the good deodorants on the market, nor do they think of the discomfort of the others who have to tolerate this smell.

Please help us and I'm sure many others by writing something that will hit home. — Nauseated.

Dear Nauseated: People who smell don't smell themselves. A nose gets accustomed to an odor it lives with.

One beauty counsellor tells her customers: "If you don't take a bath, you smell!" which is true; and the bath should be daily.

Another smelly problem is clothing worn too long between cleanings or washings. Fresh perspiration has no odor; but when it dries into clothing, the stench may eventually threaten the strongest stomach.

I doubt if anyone willingly offends; but when offenders just never take a hint to heart, what good is even the most expensive T.V. ad?

* * *

Dear Doris: My boy friend and I are planning on getting married next spring. We are both 19. We understand each other well and always discuss things.

My problem is my Dad. I have always given my money home since I've been working and he still thinks I have to repay him for raising me, which I think is wrong.

If he wanted to be wanted us to raise us and see us grow up, I have helped him out a lot and I figure it is his turn to do something for me. All I want is a wedding, which he isn't to much for. — In Love.

Dear In Love: I wonder what long Pappy thinks this "debt" back should take? An engagement ring may be a little too much of a demanding parent "turns the whole idea of gratitude sour." Could your mother work on him for you?

Dear Doris: Please find enclosed 10 cents to cover cost of leaflet "Why Suffer In Silence?" I lived with a "drinking problem" for 12 years and I figured the only thing I could do was to suffer in silence.

My drinking - problem husband accused me of being a martyr. I didn't know what he meant; but he obviously didn't admire me very much for being one. I went to Al-Anon through Alcoholics Anonymous and found out what I was doing wrong and have been a happier and healthier person ever since. — Grateful.

Dear Grateful: Learning how to cope with all the unreasonableness of alcoholism isn't easy. The Al-Anon groups across Canada have set many a wife back on the road to sanity and sane handling of what may have threatened to become a family tragedy.

Could you tell us more — for the benefit of others in your books?

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Fresh Bread and Rolls

By MARY MOORE

The temperature stood steady at 80 degrees and that may have contributed to my success. At 4:15 I started this roll dough and at 6:15 we were eating them fresh from the oven for our supper.

The batch made 24 small mushroom-shaped rolls and one round loaf. The loaf I refrigerated before it had risen and baked the following day.

I hope you serve homemade bread and rolls to your families for they are a rare treat.

LIGHT-AS-Down BREAD AND ROLLS

(1 loaf; 24 small rolls)

¾ cup water
¼ cup milk
¼ tsp. salt
½ cup instant potato flakes
1 pkge. granular yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
2 tsps. sugar
1 cup scalded milk
2-3 cup shortening

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

Vegetable Beef Soup; Creamy Macaroni and Cheese; Generous Tossed Salad; Raspberry Shortcake; Coffee.

⅛ cup sugar
1½ tsps. salt
2 eggs
5½ cups sifted all purpose flour
½ cup fresh wheat germ (see below)

In a saucepan heat to boiling the ¾ cup water, ¼ cup milk, ¼ tsp. salt, then stir in potato flakes until thick. Remove from heat and cool to lukewarm.

In large bowl soak yeast in the ¼ cup lukewarm water and 2 tsps. sugar for 10 min. Add shortening, ½ cup sugar and 1½ tsps. salt to scalded milk and cool to lukewarm. Add it and lukewarm mashed potatoes to risen yeast liquid. Beat in eggs then the wheat germ. (NOTE If not available in your stores substitute ½ cup flour in addition to the 5½ cup amount.) Beat in as much flour as you can. Sprinkle your board with remaining flour and knead dough 200 times. Cut in half. Roll half into 24" long roll and cut into 24 pieces and place in two well oiled 2" or 2½" muffin pans. (If desired oil top and put in refrigerator until 2 hrs. before mealtime.) Shape remaining half of dough in well-oiled round or loaf pan. (I used 7½" round Pyrex and refrigerated until 2 or 3hrs. before mealtime next day.) Let rise until doubled and well above rims of pan and very light. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr.; rolls about 10 to 12 min., loaf about 22 to 25 min., but reduce heat to 350 during last 10 min. for loaf.

Family Reunions

FINLEY — ELLIOTT

The annual Finley-Elliott reunion was held on Sunday, August 6th, 1968. The members of the families gathered as usual and attended the church service at 10 a.m. at St. John's United Church, Trenton. A bouquet of lovely fresh flowers was placed on the church altar by Mrs. Preston Chase (the former Jean McCrea) of Frankford, in memory of the deceased members of the family. Following the church service, the members gathered as usual at the Vanderwater Park at Thomasburg for a bountiful pot-luck dinner which was attended by some 50 persons, and the dinner was enjoyed to the fullest by young and old alike.

The weatherman was most co-operative, as the day was a delight and wonderful for a dinner in the wide open spaces. At the church service Lennox Elliott, son of the late Robert H. Elliott, of Scarboro sang a solo. William J. Finley of Trenton and his daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Colden took the flowers from the church to Mr. and Mrs. John O. Sager at the Robinson Nursing Home at Deloro, and visited with them briefly. Mrs. Sager was the former Jennie Finley. The Sagers are now both residents of the nursing home.

Later some of the immediate family gathered on the lawn of the home of Mrs. Simpson McCrea, Bridge Street, Tweed, and enjoyed a barbecue for their evening meal and games were again enjoyed and good food was there also. (Mrs. McCrea was the former Emma M. Elliott).

The president was again re-elected to office in the person of Jack Tummon of Kitchener and William S. McCrea was returned to the office of secretary for the coming year.

WAS FIRST PRESIDENT

Dorothy Heneker Cummins was the first president of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women from 1930 to 1932.

Commercial Loop Toughens

Leaders in Extra-Frame Win

Belvedere Hotel downed Point Anne 2-1 Tuesday night in the winners' third extra-inning game in less than a week.

Last week, the Commercial Softball League leaders played a 12-inning game against Brants, then Saturday, they took 11 innings to beat Stinsons, and Tuesday's Point Anne game went for eight.

The visiting B on the web in playoff time in the Commercial league isn't going to be easy, not even for the first-place Hotelmen with their five-win lead.

The loss leave Point Anne solidly in fifth place with one game to go in the season and 18 points. Stinsons, Black Diamond, and City Hotel are tied for second place with 36 points each.

Belvedere is first with 36 points and Brants is last with eight. The league leaders have only one more game to play.

Lanky Wayne McConnell pitched for Belvedere in the Point Anne contest, allowing one run on four hits. The Point Anne hits were singles by Ron Sedora, Jerry Alley, Ron Rosebush and Olsen.

Point Anne pitcher Ted Walls allowed two runs on six hits.

The biggest hit Walls gave up came in the first additional inning when Bob Smith doubled, then came home on Dave Rose's single.

Gary Gow and Doug Ellis hit fifth-inning singles for the winners and catcher Cliff Hinsman had a single in the fourth to total the six hits.

Line score:

Belvedere	000 000 11 - 2 6 2
Pt. Anne	010 000 000 - 1 4 1

Minor Soccer Series

Truckers, Printers Lose

Two shutouts told the story for Bridge Transport and Ellis Printers in the Belleville Minor Soccer Association playdowns this weekend.

The Quinte Transport kickers were downed 3-0 by Crawford Metals in the Bantam B Series while Golden Mile took a 4-0 win from the Printers.

In a separate game, General Bakers fell victim to Peter Crawford of Beppi's Young Crawford kicked in two to give the Pizzateria team a 2-1 win.

Crawford Metals took their win with Kevin Parry collecting two of the three goals. Kim Tveli scored the other as Crawford kept up the pressure and held the Truckers scoreless.

E. Grills led the Golden Mile kickers in their four-goal win with two goals for Wilson had one, as did B. Goodfellow.

In the Beppi's win, J. Walborne was the only General Bakers' player to challenge the goal tended by Crawford as he notched the single goal of the losers.

TV Column

Private Eye Back With the Outsider

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The old-fashioned private eye is returning to television.

TV old-timers will remember the early Philip Marlowes, Michael Shaynes, Richard Diamonds and Mike Hammers.

After going through a period of tongue-in-cheek super-agents, this season television is getting back to the old model with The Outsider.

"The heroes can be lawyers, district attorneys, ranch foremen, reporters, private investigators or whatever," said Darren McGavin, the actor in the title role of the new NBC series, "but they all function as cops."

McGavin played one of those earlier characters—Mike Hammer—for a while. This time out, he is David Ross, a shabby private eye whose problem of making a skimpy living is complicated by his prison record.

The character—a man with his professional life—is typical of Roy Huggins, who dreamed up the series and is its executive producer.

Huggins had a hand in The Fugitive, a fellow trying to solve his wife's murder while pursued for the crime he didn't commit, and Run for Your Life, about a man who packed up a different mess each week while a medical death sentence hung over him.

McGavin, who can play tough private eyes with the necessary swagger, is a former student of Sanford Meisner, played in Tyrone Guthrie's all-star stage show Dinner at Eight. Now, with a comfortable headstart on the season's output of Outsider episodes, it will be a short break in its production schedule playing with Greer Garson in a Los Angeles revival of Shaw's Captain Brassbound's Conversion.

The Outsider is among the action series being closely watched for evidence of "excessive violence"—nobody knows exactly what that means but everybody is against it. However, there will be plenty of unsolvable blows struck.

The set where all the action took place was loaded with rifles, handguns and even a machine-gun, all rendered harmless, plus some non-lethal hand grenades and empty boxes labelled ammunition.

Producer Paul Henning of Petticoat Junction says his plans are to write out Bea Benaderet's part of Kate Bradley for a few episodes.

Miss Benaderet, who had undergone treatment for a malignant tumor last winter, has gone on an extended leave of absence from the series. Henning, however, is hopeful that a period of rest will persuade her that she can return to her pivotal character in the popular CBS series.

OASA Playdowns

PeeWees, Squirts Split

The Belleville Minor Softball Association's PeeWee team, Belch Construction, and Squirt team, the A.C. Travellers, lost and won, respectively, their first games in the OASA playdowns over the weekend.

The Squirt winners downed Marmora 8-5 behind Gerry Waite. The loss went to Jaffe of Marmora. Waite also helped out at the plate with a single and a triple. Eric Powell backed him up with a single and a double while Ross MacLeod duplicated the leading performance.

The A.C. Travellers meet Marmora for the second game of the series in Marmora on Friday at 6.45 p.m.

Bruce Sutherland took the loss for the Belleville PeeWee entry as Peterborough posted a 10-4 victory behind K. Waldin.

The winner allowed four hits and four walks while striking out four.

Sutherland allowed eight hits and four walks while striking out six.

Bob McKay led Belleville hitters with a homer and a single. Sutherland collected a double, and Scott James had a single.

J. Bianco led the winners at the plate with a homer.

The second game in the PeeWee series will be Friday at 3 p.m. in Belleville.

Belleville Needed Two

Track Team 2nd at Lindsay

The Belleville City Track Club could have used another second-place ribbon at the Central Ontario Track and Field Association Meet in Lindsay on Sunday.

The city's three points would have put the local team one up on winning team Bantam. As it was the Belleville track team finished second in point standing with a 144 to the winning 146 for Peterborough.

Marie Brain, most regular red ribbon winner—for the locals, picked up three of the ten firsts collected by Belleville.

She led the Bantam girls (13 and under) to their domination of the meet with wins in the 100, 220, and long jump. Other Bantam winners were Kaarina Jokinen with a first in the 60 and second in the 220 and long jump; Kim Sturgess with a second in the high jump, a third in the 60, and a fourth in the long jump. Dawn Yateman won the high jump; Nancy Burkitt was second in the 60, third in the 220 and long jump, Cindy Gilbert was fourth in the high jump and Robin Mann was third in that event.

The Bantam girls dominated their age class and added insult to injury as their relay team won the open Women's Relay. The winning team consisted of Kim Sturgess, Nancy Burkitt, Kaarina Jokinen, and Marie Brain.

Barb Platt led the Midget Girls (15 and under) from Belleville with seconds in the 440 and 880. Sue Risse had a third in the long jump, right behind Janet Sled who was runner-up in the event.

The Midget Girls' relay team, Dawn Yateman, Sue Risse, Barb Platt, and Janice Sled, placed third in the Women's Open.

Brian Batchelor and Bruce Yateman were the Belleville ribbon-winners in the Atom Boys (11 and under). Batchelor was third in the 60 and Yateman placed fourth in the long jump.

Barry Dales led the Bantam Boys (13 and under) with firsts in the 100 and 220 and a second in the 880.

In the Midget Boys (15 and under), Mike Thompson took the only first with a win in the 100. He was third in the triple jump, Roy Veasey was second in the 100, high jump, and triple jump. Dave Simonds was second in the mile and Gary Simonds placed second with the shot.

The only first in the Juvenile Boys (17 and under) came from Frank Johnston. The 16-year-old won the 440, was second in the 880 and runner-up in the long jump.

Steve Buckles took fourths in the 100 and 220 and Gerald McConnell was third in the 880 in Juvenile competition.

Jim Sled placed second in the Men's Open 220 and Tom Wills was third in the 880 and two mile if the same division.

The Open Mile Relay Team, Tom Wills, Dave Simonds, Jim Sled and Frank Johnston, placed second in that event.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch
Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink and repair damaged tissue.
A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort at the source and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.
One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.
Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and in one important of all, results were so complete that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.
This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.
In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.
Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).
Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Hi, Ho! Come to the Fair!

The Youngsters Are Coming – to the Belleville Fair

Lineup for Rides Started Early This Morning

Council Members Given Assurance Building at Fair Passes Inspection

Belleville city council was told yesterday that the new exhibition-recreation building at the fairgrounds was now safe for use during this week's fair.

Earlier in the day Mayor Dr. J. R. Scott and senior city officials received written confirmation of the building's safety from a firm of engineering consultants at Cobourg but the final okay on the building's roof supporting structure will have to come from Treenton engineer J. H. A. Lassing who acted as on the job inspector.

Last week Mr. Lassing went on holidays after stating he was not satisfied with the roof supporting structure and left doubt that the building could be used for this year's fair.

During the weekend, adjustments were made by the building contractor Maurice H. Rollins Construction after company officials and Wilson Concrete engineers who designed the building agreed on how the work could be carried out.

But the action of Mr. Lassing in leaving the area on holidays while the safety of the fairgrounds building was in doubt drew criticism from council members.

Ald. Douglas Boyle said he found the action of Mr. Lassing "incredible."

And Ald. Kenneth Soden, chairman of the city parks board, felt Mr. Lassing was irresponsible in leaving the city knowing the intention was to use the building for the fair.

Ald. Ezos David questioned the city's liability in accepting the building for fair use before a final okay was received.

Mayor Scott replied that as far as the city was concerned the building was safe for fair use and assured the city was covered for liability.

At Ald. Boyle's invitation, Wilson Concrete engineer Richard Morden and company official James Clarke attended the council session, "in case council wanted to ask questions."

However, council turned down Ald. Boyle's recommendation that Mr. Morden be allowed to speak.

Cattle and Hogs Flood to Fair

Today is the opening day of Belleville Fair and as far as district cattlemen are concerned — it is the first of four full days of cattle judging.

Getting the fair cattle show under way this morning was the Quinte Steer Show with more than 40 young beeves entered in the beef improvement contest.

The event started with a weigh - in for the steers, followed by judging in the coliseum. Then the steers go under the auction block to the highest bidder.

Today is also Ayrshire Day at the fair with judging of the red and white cattle beginning at noon.

Also this morning entries for the Ontario Hog Producers Barrow show were coming in, with judging to start this afternoon.

Sheep and swine entries were also pouring into the grounds.

Easily the busiest spot on the fairgrounds was the fair secretary's office as last minute entries were accepted.

Regular fair entries were held up by the mail strike and Secretary - Manager Ev Gowsell and his staff were taking entries on an "as they come" basis.

Poultry Show Rates as Tops In Entry List

One of the biggest poultry shows in the history of Belleville Fair is being judged at the fairgrounds poultry building today.

Harold Caldwell, chairman of the fair poultry committee said there were well over 600 entries listed.

"There are heavier entries all around, especially in the standard fowl, and in water-

Judge for this year's poultry show is Gordon Ridler of Guelph.

And even well before noon today — on the opening day of the fair — the poultry show was receiving a big share of attention.

The reason — today is children's day and the kiddies crowded in to see the show.

Mrs. Cecil Walker, Daughter, Unload Flowers

Hello There!

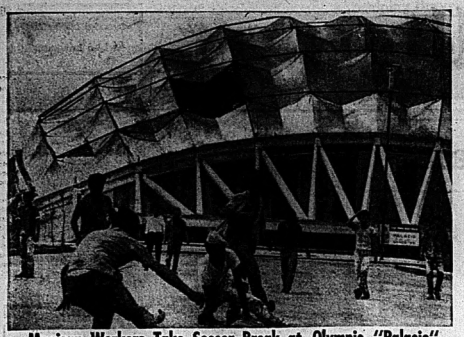
Little Jane Lawler, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lawler of Belleville is a bit timid about her first visit to the Belleville Fair poultry show. More than 600 entries are listed for the show.

Youth Burned At Fair

A 15-year-old roustabout today was reported in hospital with severe burns suffered at Belleville Fair midway.

Chad Wilson, of Brantford was working on the midway ferris wheel when the accident — its cause still unknown — happened yesterday afternoon.

Fellow workers nearby heard the youth screaming and saw his clothes ablaze.



They tore off Wilson's burning garments and called an ambulance.

Doctors at Belleville General Hospital said Wilson suffered abdominal and hip burns, but were leaving further examination until later today.

Lineup for the Weigh-in

There were more than 40 entries for the Belleville Fair Quinte Steer Show this morning. Cattlemen are seen lined up for the steer weigh-in, first step in the contest procedure.

Hyde Rink Loses 2nd Round

TORONTO (CP) — Gerry Hyde of Belleville, at 15 the youngest competitor in the provincial lawn bowling championships which started here Monday, thinks more youngsters should take up the sport.

"A lot of people think lawn bowling is an old man's game but if they would only stop to analyze it they would find out it's as competitive and requires as much skill as any sport," said Gerry, who is lead on his father's rink.

Said 80-year-old Tom Mead of Toronto:

"It's a great thing to have a young lad like that taking an interest in the game."

After winning their first round game 20-8 against Tom Addison of Toronto, the Belleville team lost in the second round 16-6 to the Toronto group of Jack Beacom.

Highlighting Monday's play was Herb Duke of Toronto Balmy Beach, who scored an eight end, a perfect score, against Bill Gilbert's Niagara Falls, Ont., rink. It was only the third perfect end in the history of the tournament.

Duke, a former champion, lost in the second round to Ed Neal of Toronto 15-12.

Bill Boyce of Oshawa, last year's champion, was beaten in the first round by Jimmy Black of Toronto, 14-11.

Crothers off to Mexico Despite Failure to Qualify

TORONTO (CP) — Injury-troubled Bill Crothers has his ticket to the 1968 Olympics in Mexico City, but Canadian track and field selectors passed over record-holder Jerry Steen and Bill Greenhough in their Olympic team announced Monday.

Crothers, silver medalist in the 800 metres at the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo, was unable to compete in the weekend Olympic trials here because of a leg injury,but he was named to the 1,600-metre relay team.

He has not met the 800-metre Olympic qualifying distance this season, and no other competitors were named because none has qualified.

Crothers, from Markham, Ont., will team up in the relay with Ross McKenzie of Winnipeg, Don Domansky of Port Arthur and Brian MacLaren of Winnipeg.

Toronto's Steen, who holds the Canadian shotput record of 62 feet, 8¾ inches, and Greenhough of Vancouver, who equalled the Canadian native record of 58 feet 11 inches in the long jump Saturday, disappointed in earlier performances and were not included in the 26-strong Olympic team.

Steen heaved the shot 58 feet, 7 inches to win the trial event. Greenhough's jump was one-quarter of an inch short of the qualifying standard. Neither has so far reached his respective standard.

Another familiar figure missing from the team is Gerry Moro, the Trail, B.C., pole vaulter and decathlon competitor.

He announced after the trials Sunday that an injured Achilles tendon will keep him from further competition this season.

But two berths are still vacant on the Canadian Olympic squad and Bob Hancock of Toronto, a member of the selection team, said late Monday the vacancies could be filled if non-selected athletes turn in convincing performances before Sept. 12. The final Canadian team must be presented to Olympic authorities a few days later.

Felix Cappela and Carl Hans Merschenz, both of Toronto, are in the 50-kilometre walk.

Sport Briefs

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. D. K. Cassels of Toronto Golf Club Monday won the annual Ontario women's senior golf title with an eight-over-par 84. She had a five-shot margin over second-place Mary Marvin of Scarborough, Ont., in the race for the McCulloch Trophy. Mrs. Chris Harris of Hamilton Glendale was third with 90. Winner of net honors and the Weston Trophy was Thelma Robinson of Trafalgar, Ont., with 17-76-93.

MONETVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Allay Court of Wallaceburg, Ont., didn't need a hook, line and sinker to land a prize fish Sunday. He used his bare hands on a 28-pound, 50-inch muskellunge. Stuart, vacationing at his cottage on Lake Nipissing, was just for a boat ride with his wife when the 14-foot craft struck what he thought was a log. But it was the big muskie, stunned from the collision and having difficulty swimming away. Stuart grabbed the fish with his hands, having no fishing equipment in the boat.

BATAVIA, N.Y. (CP)—A pair of Canadian owned horses are rated as first and second choices for the $12,900 pace for two-year-olds tonight. Super Wave has won seven of his nine starts. He is trained and driven by Jack Kopas of London and has earnings of $18,977. Prem Hanover, trained and driven by Keith Waples of Victoria Harbour, Ont., has earned $22,344 and has a best time of two minutes and two seconds for the mile.

During this week's Belleville Fair, Carol Armstrong won't exactly be singing for her supper; you might call it "bow"-ing for her "going."

Her archery ascent to two consecutive Canadian women's titles has elated the East Moira Street brunette's spirits, but deflated her family budget. She and husband, Floyd estimate it cost them upwards of $2,000 last year for Carol to represent her city and country in her quest for bullseyes.

And there was more to come.

The federal government was only prepared to go halfway in sharing Carol's expenses to defend her championship in Regina recently, and then only AFTER she had accomplished the feat.

And the Armstrong pocketbook is currently bracing for a Labor Day weekend trip to Seattle, where Carol and the other five top archers in Canada meet their U.S. counterparts in the third annual Ambassador Cup meet.

But it took experienced city sports-promoter, Alderman Richard Ellis, to make the Belleville public WANT to support their national champion, without having to ask them for handouts.

And what better time to come up with a cracker-Jack plan than at the largest assembly of area residents on the Quinte date-book — the annual Belleville Fair.

All it takes is 50 cents — that'll go into the "help-send-this-girl-to-Seattle" fund — in return for which, the Fair-goer gets an arrow's head start at winning a prize.

Action will run daily throughout the fair in a 20 x 10-foot booth in the curling rink exhibitors' section.

Carol will be on hand to show her target skills, and she and other members of the Belleville Archery Club will display equipment and trophies, dispense reading matter, and give special attention to advising young enquirers about archery safety practices.

Those who visit the booth between noon and the 9-10 p.m. daily closing can take bows in hand themselves if they get tired watching.

The 50-cent fee buys the shooter an arrow which, if placed in bullseye territory, brings a ticket on a draw for a number of handsome prizes.

"We're not going to make it too difficult for people," assures Floyd Armstrong. "But we won't be mad if there are too many misses."

Pool-Choosing

Swimmers Vie for Berths

WINNIPEG (CP) — Almost 300 swimmers assemble at Pan-Am pool this week to compete, in the Canadian national swimming championships and vie for berths on this country's Olympic team.

The event, dubbed Olympic '68, gets under way tonight with official opening ceremonies and two long-distance heat races. More serious activity starts Wednesday morning.

Headliners of the 30-event classic are gold medal winners in last year's Pan-American Games in Winnipeg—Elaine Tanner of Vancouver and Winnipeg, and Ralph Hutton of Ocean Falls, B.C.

Miss Tanner, the 17-year-old swimming sensation whose three world records highlighted the success of Canadian athletes at the games, captured gold medals in the 100- and 200-metre backstroke events.

Her world records have since been shattered by Karen Muir of South Africa. Miss Tanner also added three silver medals.

Hutton's accomplishments made history as he collared the first gold medal ever won by a Canadian male in the games.

The 20-year-old won the 200-metre backstroke event, and went on to five silver medals in freestyle competitions.

After this week's championships about two dozen swimmers will be chosen for the Mexico City Olympics in October.

The team, coached by George Gate of Montreal, will train at Banff as an introduction to high-altitude swimming.

A large portion of the Olympic team likely will be made up of members of the 1967 Pan-Am team, all of whom will be here for the nationals.

They include Sandy Gilchrist of Ocean Falls, Tom Arusoo of Montreal, Ron Jacks of Vancouver, Bob Kasting of Lethbridge and Jim Shaw of Toronto.

Some of last year's female athletes here are Angela Coughlan of Burlington, Ont., Marion Lay, a native of Vancouver living in Covina, Calif., Jane Hughes of Vancouver and Martha Corson of Fairy Island, Ont.

Two swimmers who have made headlines this year are Hutton and Miss Coughlan, the promising young native of London, England, who doesn't celebrate her 16th birthday until Oct. 4.

Cards A 70 With Cold Putter

QUEBEC (CP) — Gerry Proulx of St. Eustache, Que., went to the practice putting green Monday after taking a two-stroke lead in the first round of the senior's championship of the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association.

Proulx, 53, fought both a brisk breeze and a bad putter in putting together nine-hole scores of 33 and 37 for the two-under-par, two-stroke lead over Bob Burns of Cherry Hill, Ont.

Proulx said he hoped to sharpen his putter to keep the lead in today's second and final 18 holes of the $5,000 tournament, worth $750 to the winner.

"If he had putted like I did," said host pro Rudy Huot, who came in with a 75, "he'd have shot a 65."

Proulx said he had missed five chances to one-putt greens for birdies and he even needed three putts to get a par five on the 14th.

Burns had nine-hole scores of 37 and 35—three strokes better than Huot and five other players in the tournament for professionals over the age of 50.

Henry Martell of Highlands, Sask., was alone in third place with 73 on nines of 36 and 37.

The rest of the 29-player field was scattered and almost out of the running with 80 scores ranging from 75s to a 91.

At 75, besides the host pro, were Damien Gauthier of Montreal Municipal, Jules Huot of Laval, Que., Bill Kerr of Beaconsfield, Que., Jim McLean of Whitlock, Ont., and Tony Ouellette of Essex, Ont.

Despite the stiff breeze, the weather at the Royal Quebec Golf Club was warm and sunny and the course was in top shape.

Wednesday, the 18-hole prizam tournament will provide the final's warmup to the CPGA championship which starts Thursday and ends Sunday.

Satch Making Comeback

ATLANTA (AP) — Pitcher Satchel Paige, whose age is listed in the Baseball Encyclopedia as 62, has been placed on the active roster by Atlanta Braves of the National League.

"We hope we can use him as a pitcher," Braves president William C. Bartholomay said Monday, "but very frankly we want to make him eligible for a place in baseball's pension plan."

"Paige is scheduled to make his first appearance with the Braves Aug. 23.

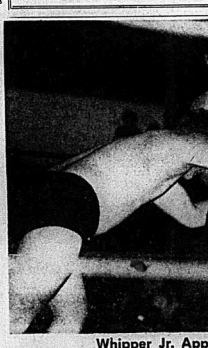
Paige, who pitched for years for Negro teams before he broke into big league baseball with Cleveland Indians in 1948, said he wasn't sure whether he was ready to pitch.

"Whipper, Jr." Doubles as Tutor

By JERRY HOFF

Staff Writer

Anyone who has ever seen the near-legendary "Whipper" Watson up close wouldn't have any trouble picking out "Whipper" Watson Jr.



Imagine the elder Watson's sharp profile at 100 pounds: instead of his present 244, imagine the nose unbroken, the ears unscathed, the hair without touches of gray, and several decades dropped from "Whipper" Senior's present age, and you have Phil . . . excuse me . . . "Whipper" Junior.

In his home town of Nesbitt, Ont., north of Toronto, Phil teaches the local youngsters wrestling. "I start out teaching inter-scholastic and inter-collegiate (catch-as-catch-can) wrestling—amateur wrestling. Then if I see a boy with potential, I offer to teach him professional wrestling. If he's good enough," he said, "I offer to take him on tour."

"In pro wrestling, the audience wants something to yell about or they aren't satisfied. You give people what they want. And since it's not pure wrestling, it sometimes looks put on But let me tell you it's real."

And slipping his pre-match robe from his chest, he showed just how real it was. On his chest was "an apple for teacher" given him by his Friday night opponent, "Farmer Boy", his "student" for the past nine months.

It wasn't really an apple but it had plenty of color in it. His chest showed the near-perfect imprint of a big man's wrestling shoe.

Tiger Hurler Chases Elusive "30"

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Denny McLain and Camilo Pascual work at opposite ends of the street in the American League pitchers' union. But the Washington journeyman can't match the Detroit flash for quality of product—if not quantity—on any given night.

McLain scattered five hits, including a pair of homers by Tony Horton, on the way to his 26th triumph of the season as the first-place Tigers trimmed Cleveland 6-0 Monday night.

Pascual also flipped a five-hitter in hurling the last place Senators past Minnesota 2-0 for a modest—but respectable—11-6 mark.

Elsewhere in the American League Baltimore shaded Oakland 3-1 in 10 innings, Boston edged Chicago 2-1 and New York topped California 5-2.

Chicago Cubs ambushed St. Louis 7-3 and Atlanta cuffed Cincinnati 9-2 in the only games on the National League schedule.

McLain, 24-3, took another step toward becoming the nation's first 30-game winner since Dizzy Dean reached that peak 34 years ago.

The hard-throwing right-hander, who should get at least 12 more starts in the final 1½ months of the season, reeled off his sixth straight victory and 15th in his last 16 decisions.

Horton homered with the bases empty in the fourth for the Indians' first hit and cracked a two-run homer in the ninth after the Tigers had given McLain a commanding lead.

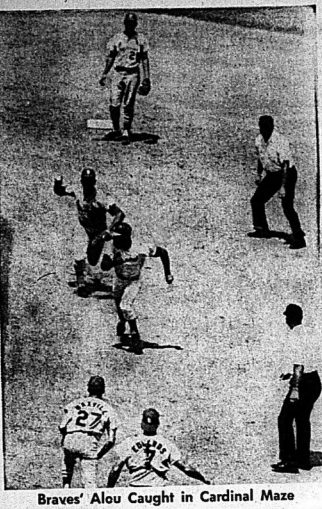
The victory, their fourth in a row, kept them seven games up on second-place Baltimore.

Norm Cash drove in two Detroit runs with his 18th homer and a sacrifice fly. Jim Northrup poked a two-run single and Mickey Stanley also delivered a pair of tallies with sacrifice flies.

Pascual recorded his second shutout of the year and helped himself with a run-scoring single as the Senators ended Minnesota's winning string at three games.

The Senators broke up a scoreless duel between ex-Twin Pascual and left-hander Jim Kaat in the sixth when pinch hitter Cap Peterson stroked a bases-loaded sacrifice fly. Pascual drove in the second run in the ninth.

Reliever Jim Landis rescued Ray Culp from a bases-loaded jam in the ninth at Boston after Culp's run-scoring single in the eighth snapped a 1-1 tie. Landis struck out Gerry McNertney and got Woody Held on a game-ending force at third, preserving Culp's ninth victory in 13 decisions.



The Orioles caught Oakland from behind in the ninth on Boog Powell's leadoff triple and a one-out single by Brooks Robinson, which scored pinch runner Paul Blair to tie it 1-1.

Blair then walloped a two-run double with two out in the 10th after a walk and Andy Etchebarren's single set the stage.

Jake Gibbs' run-scoring pinch single in the ninth broke a 2-2 tie at Anaheim and Roy White singled across two insurance runs for the Yankees. Mickey Mantle poled his 532nd career homer—a two-run shot in the sixth—for New York.

The Cubs beat the National League-leading Cardinals for the sixth time in a row as Billy Williams smacked a two-run homer and Bill Hands brought his pitching record to 14-6 with an eight-hitter. Williams' homer was his 20th of the season and fifth in the last five games.

Felipe Alou keyed a six-run first-inning burst with a leadoff double and run-scoring single as the Braves flattened the Reds behind rookie George Stone. Two passed balls by Catcher Johnny Bench and a two-base error by left fielder Alex Johnson victimized loser George Culver in the first inning.

Sweet Revenge

Barriage Girls Win Over Toronto Shamrocks

The Barriage Juvenile All-Star Girls Softball team got sweet revenge Sunday as they defeated the Toronto Queensdale Shamrocks 17-8 in an exhibition game at Toronto's Monarch Park.

The Toronto team had topped the locals 9-4 in July at another exhibition contest at the Fairgrounds.

"We had them tied at 8-8 going into the seventh," said Coach Doreen Cook of Sunday's game. "Then we just started hitting."

And the local ballplayers didn't stop 'til they'd collected nine runs for the final tally.

Susan Morton pitched for the locals while the loss went to Donna Sanford. The Belleville pitcher allowed three hits and walked five.

"It's too bad we got organized too late to get into the league playdowns," said Mrs. Cook wistfully. "The Shamrocks are the Toronto entry."

Top hitters for the locals on the Monarch Park diamond were Sharon Lumis with a homer and two doubles, Irma Barberstock with a home run, Morton with a triple and a double, Beth Palmer with three doubles and Charlene Quinn with a double.

Two of the three Toronto hits went to Joan Flint and Marg MacIntosh, both had doubles.

In the Women's Softball League, weekend action saw Barriage Landscapers top Dixie Lee 26-16 behind winning pitcher Sandra Claus, Joanne Dafoe took the loss. Claus and Pat Oulette had homers for the winners.

Local Netters Win First of Tennis Series

Kingston has come out on top in five of the six annual Doug Grant Trophy tournaments since the presentation of the trophy.

But this year, Belleville pulled off a "brilliant pre-game strategem" which may swing the tide of the two-match series.

Shortly before the first of the two matches, which was held this weekend in Belleville, the local coachmen sent an "agent" to Kingston.

In the best Shakespearian tradition, this "007" sobbed to the Kingston netters that some of Belleville's best had retired at the ripe old age of 25 and that team captain Harold Hildebrandt was having trouble getting his charges to practice or compete in club competition.

Kingston responded with gallantry, Unsuspecting.

The Limestone City sent their second-team.

They were duped.

And how! The visitors went down, muttering "double-cross" every few minutes, to a 13-7 victory by the Belleville tennis club.

This victory means the locals will carry a considerable advantage to Kingston next Sunday for the final portion of the series.

Results of Sunday's matches:

Men's Singles (Belleville names first) — Dave Seifred d. Abernethy 6-0; Doug Grant d. Morris 7-5, 6-8, 6-4; Mike Walcott lost to Lukey 2-6,6-3, 6-4; Herb Hicks d. Delahaye 6-2,10-8; Don Desaulniers d. Muir 6-1,6-0; Bill Redquest d. Drysdale 6-1,6-0; Dave Bell lost to Prokop 2-6,2-6; Dave Hurst d. Grindley 6-1,6-2; Dick Morden d. Attack 6-0,6-3; Vern Goodwin d. Anderson 7-5,11-9.

Men's Doubles — Seifred-Grant d. Grindley-Morris 1-6, 6-4,6-1; Walcott-Redquest lost to Abernethy-Lukey 6-4,7 - 5; Soden-Desaulnier d. Delahaye-Anderson 6-3,6-3; Bell-Hildebrandt d. Prokop-Muir 6-4,7-5; Pope — Miyara d. Drysdale-Attack 6-0,6-2.

Minor Softball Results

Stephenson Ford downed Ernie Tuck 21-19 Friday night in the Squirt West Hill loop of the Belleville Minor Softball Association.

On Monday, the Tabernacle Tykes edged the Canadians 12-11 on East Hill and the West Hill Tyke section saw the Tigers top the Kiosmen Bobcats 22-19.

If we promise to give you a deal on a new Firebird that you can brag to your neighbors about, will you promise to brag to your neighbors?

Firebird 400 Hardtop Coupe with optional vinyl roof.

Maybe blowing your own horn about making a deal bends the rules of convention. But your Pontiac dealer is wrapping up some pretty unconventional deals. Great deals. He's even dealing on Pontiac's great sports cars; the magnificent Firebirds. Our five Firebirds begin with a unique 175-hp Overhead Cam six and escalate to the 400 cubic inch V8 Firebird 400 (which can be ordered in a 335-hp Ram Air version that uses those hood-mounted scoops to breathe). And because Firebirds are Pontiacs, they probably cost less than you think. So think.

For instance, can you think of a more beautiful way to kiss dull driving goodbye? If you can't, see your Pontiac dealer and go Wide-Tracking in one of our Magnificent Five. It's perfect Firebird-time. Oh yes, and you will pass on the great word to your neighbors, won't you? . It's a deal.

To Your Good Health

There Are Many Reasons Ankles Swell

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: Can too much thyroid--cause swelling of the ankles? — Mrs. A. C.

Ordinarily not — unless the patient also has congestive heart failure.

But rather than expanding on that rather unusual situation, let's take a broader look at swelling of the ankles.

There are quite a few causes in this area, as with other instances in which any of several causes may be responsible, there is little chance of selecting the right treatment until the correct cause has been determined.

Heart or kidney disease can cause edema, or swelling of the ankles — the body no longer throws off wastes and water as efficiently as it should so the tissues become water-logged. That is what edema is, retention of fluid in the tissues. Since the ankles are at the lowest part of the body, gravity, alone makes that a prime spot for edema. There can, of course, be water accumulation in other parts.

Anything interfering with circulation can be a factor: phlebitis, or inflammation of a vein; varicose veins; tight girdles or garters if they impede blood flow through the veins.

Prolonged standing also can cause some swelling. Note that I say "standing," as distinguished from walking or otherwise moving. The reason for this is that the play of the muscles in the legs helps the flow of blood, so the person who has to stand in one place, as behind the counter of a store, will usually move as much as is possible even if it is only a step or two this way and that.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: Please send me your booklet which deals with tinnitus. I enclose 25 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

I have been told there is nothing that can be done about it. I have also been told that very likely it is an affair of the imagination.

Reshoven had it, and so did Smetana. And so have I; regardless of the casual dismissal it is getting to be a nuisance. — R. J. W.

Here it your way, my friend, and call it tinnitus: in the simple language of this department, I prefer "ear noises" as being more descriptive, because everybody understands that.

For what help it may be to you, the booklet is on its way. There are various causes for the ringing, buzzing, or other clackety-clack; consequently some people get very much relieved or even cured and others can't. In the latter instances, all I can do is offer some simple methods that help people ignore their tinnitus. I mean ear noises.

As to imagination? No, I think the noises are real enough — I am not, of course, including such things as "hearing voices," which is a psychiatric rather than physical problem.

There are, incidentally, a couple of varieties of ear noises which are audible to other people as well as the patient, but luckily those are pretty rare.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband-to-be has a light case of petit mal epilepsy. I read an article saying it was not inherited, but my aunt says it is and that I should not marry him because we would have "filled" children. Is this true? — J. P.

Petit mal is not directly inherited, and your aunt simply does not have the facts.

• • •

Note to Mrs. B.D.: No, a woman does not become "immune" to the birth control pills.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were moderately up in brisk mid-morning trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Golds, oil refiners, forest industries and construction stocks were lower.

Brokers said strength in New York based on optimism over the Vietnam peace talks was helping the market.

In industrials, Peel Elder gained 1¾ to 28½, Ontario Store Fixture 1¼ to 42, Canadian Vickers ¾ to 12¾, Inglis ¾ to 11½, Shuilly's Industries ¼ to 7½, Milton Brick ½ to 8¾ and CPR ¾ to 61¾.

Na-Churs International lost 1¾ to 10¼, Imperial Oil ¼ to 72, General Distributors ¾ to 13¾, Texaco ¼ to 29¼ and Canada Cement ¼ to 29¼.

Abitibi, the most active industrial, lost ¾ to 7¼. The quarterly dividend has been cut to 9 cents a share from 14 cents. Bramalea advanced 1¾ to 41¼. Subdivided shares following a five-for-one stock split will be posted for trading Wednesday.

Selkirk Holdings A fell ¾ to 14¼. Six-month profits declined to 31.67 cents a share compared with 36.64 cents a year ago.

Among western oils, Dome Pete jumped 3¼ to 56 and Hudson's Bay Oil ¾ to 39¼. Canadian Superior was up ¼ to 35½. Six-month earnings rose to 65 cents a share compared with 7 cents last year.

Patino Mining lost 1¼ to 40½ and Yellowknife Bear 20 cents to 56.90. Hollinger gained ¼ to 31¼. Half-yearly profits were up.

On index, industrials rose .13 to 108.02, base metals .54 to 105.79 and western oils 2.94 to 207.60. Golds fell .37 to 185.19.

Volume by 11 a.m. was 825,000 shares compared with 765,000 at the same time Monday.

Western oils and industrials closed with moderate gains on the Toronto exchange Monday. Other sections were lower.

Advances outnumbered declines 249 to 222. Volume was average. Brokers said the improvement was due to the firmer trend in New York.

Steamships was up 3¼ to 45¾ after touching a record at 45¾. Power Products rose by $1.50 to $5.50. Shuffy's Industries 1¾ to 6¾, General Distributors 1¼ to 14¼, Canadian Vickers 1¼ to 13½, Milton Brick 1 to 8¾ and Stuart House 75 cents to $4.00

Superior Oil was up 2¼ to 35½, Imperial Oil 1¼ to 74¼, Atlantic Sugar A 1¼ to 14¾, Dunlop Rubber Preferred 1 to 22 and BA Oil ¼ to 43¾.

Revenue Properties, the most active issue, was unmoved at 13½. The company said it plans to pay about $7,000,000 in stock and cash for a Nova Scotia real estate portfolio.

National Hees advanced 1¼ to 9. The company is a subsidiary of Edper Investments Ltd. of Montreal which announced the major expansion plans for the group.

Rehearsal Is Serious Affair

Trenton's Sing Out Group Belie Criticism of Youth

By ROBERT AVERY
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Be careful with those critical remarks you have been launching against today's youth. There are 125 youths in Trenton who will make you eat your words.

They call themselves The Sing Out and after performing for two years still believe that "our sing outs bring out the best in people. They m a k e the audience feel good."

That's no false statement as all of the group's concerts are well attended and is one member put it, "we try to please everyone's tastes."

The group operates entirely on its own. Transportation for concerts is handled by CFB Trenton but everything else is up to the teenagers.

If you're in the audience you can't help but be impressed. The concert starts as the five piece band begins. And then the group runs on the stage amid spontaneous screams and shouts.

There is no way to fall asleep during their show.

Previous tours have included Manitoba and Quebec while upcoming jaunts are planned for Edmonton and an overseas tour could materialize.

And if you have seen them you know that the professionalism the group shows belies their age. But the good show they put on is no accident.

Practice sessions take place twice a month. It is here that the group irons out routines and perfects music and lyrics. It's no easy job but as one female member put it, "we wouldn't do it if we didn't like it."

A dedicated atmosphere permeates rehearsals and although the group is on its own, they don't finish with a number until they are completely satisfied.

Four members of the group attended a seminar at New Rochelle, New York, this weekend, where they met with other sing out groups across the world.

One of the members of the group, Dave McKetlick returned from the seminar last night. He said the seminar was devoted to "an exchange of ideas" from which all of the groups benefitted.

The first song performed by the group in its beginning stages was entitled "Up With People." The group has grown, the songs are better, the music more professional but the theme of the group still remains the same.

"Up With People."

Postal Trucks Needed

MONTREAL (CP) — Postal officials in Montreal today called on local cartage companies with available trucks to help out mail delivery in the area.

A postal spokesman said about 150 trucks are needed to get mail delivery service back to normal.

The call for outside help comes in the wake of violence Monday at striking mail-truck drivers and a call by Postmaster-General Eric Kierans for the public in the area to mail only first class mail.

OFF THE RECORD — BY ED REED

Opposition to Regime Grows, Uruguay Faces More Rioting

MONTEVIDEO (AP) — Uruguay's capital appeared bound today for more bloody student riots as public opposition to President Jorge Pacheco Areco's tough policies steadily increased.

A score of students, policemen and bystanders were in hospitals with bullet wounds or other injuries suffered in daily violence that began last Friday with a police raid on the University of Uruguay.

Officials kept the exact number of casualties secret. Police also withheld the number of demonstrators arrested, but there have been more than a dozen.

Although the invasion of the traditionally inviolate university campus formed the immediate cause for the student demonstrators, they are also protesting conditions which have drastically reduced public backing for the president.

Among them are runaway inflation, the rising cost of living, suspension of constitutional guarantees, press censorship, drafting of striking government employes into the armed forces, alleged police brutality, official mismanagement and corruption in high government circles.

An opinion poll ran 77 per cent in favor of Pacheco when he suspended constitutional guarantees June 13 and started cracking down on rising student and labor agitation. The same poll reported last week only 47 per cent still backing the president, with 45 per cent in favor of a return to full constitutional government. The rest refused to answer.

The long-festering crisis was brought to a showdown by the kidnapping last week of Ulises Pereira Reverbel, the head of the state telephone and electric power monopoly and the chief advocate among Pacheco's advisers of the hard line the president has taken.

The kidnappers said they were members of the National Liberation Front, a pro-Peking group about which little is known. They held Pereira "hostage" for five days in what many considered was an attempt to touch off robberies and prove that the government has lost its hold on the country.

The police struck back with the raid on the university, long considered a hotbed of admirers of Fidel Castro and Mao Tse-tung. The police said they found incendiary bombs, bullets and other subversive material on the campus.

University authorities said other students claim there had been planted, and the students took to the streets. Their anger increased when Pacheco asked the Senate for permission to fire the university's central administrative council, made up of students, teachers and alumni. The president charged them with failing to maintain order.

When police moved out in force to battle the students, opposition began to swing in line behind the rioters. Many accused the police of indiscriminate brutality and repression.

Headless Valley Traps German Movie-makers

TUKTOYAKTUK, N.W.T. (CP) — Two German film-makers, investigating the mystery of the Northwest Territories' legendary Headless Valley, say the valley held them in its grasp for 15 days.

Elmer and Brigitte Engel left Fort Nelson, B.C. by kayak in June. They arrived at Tuktoyaktuk, 1,300 miles northwest of Edmonton, Aug. 4, none the worse for their ordeal.

The South Nahanni River Valley, nicknamed Headless Valley by superstitious prospectors, runs into the Mackenzie River about 800 miles south of here.

The Engels, making a documentary film of the Canadian North for European television, paddled their light kayaks into the First Canyon section after waiting a week for bad weather to clear.

"And after we got in, we could not get out," said Mrs. Engel, a diminutive blue-eyed blonde who looks like anything but a hardened northern voyageur.

They were trapped for 15 wet and shivering days by high water before they attempted to get out.

"After that express train ride out of First Canyon, our trip down the Mackenzie seemed quite tame," said Mr. Engel. "But it was challenging just the same."

The South Nahanni River Valley is rife with legends of giant aborigines who beheaded invaders, of vast untapped gold deposits and of lush tropical plant life.

In some places, the canyon walls rise more than 3,000 feet above the swift waters of the river.

When the first episode of the Engels' film is shown on the West German television network ARD and the Swiss network Schweizerisches Fernsehen, the Nahanni episode will just be part.

It will explain the legend of tropical forests in the valley. At one point, near Nahanni Hot Springs, about 10 acres have been turned into a gardener's paradise by the warm thermal action.

The other legends about the Indian tribes have long been discounted, but the valley is said to have claimed more than a dozen lives in its treacherous river rapids.

Cardinal Suspends Priests

SANTIAGO (AP) — Raul Cardinal Silva suspended Monday night Chilean priests who led the 14-hour occupation of Santiago's Roman Catholic cathedral and conducted a "rebel mass" with guitar music and folk singing.

The Archbishop of Santiago accused the priests of "impeding" 200 young Roman Catholic laymen, mostly university ocedas and bearded youths, to take over the cathedral for a protest demonstration that ended Sunday. He said the suspension would be effective until the priests come to him, repent and "condemn what they did."

The suspension means the priests are forbidden to celebrate mass, hear confessions, administer communion and perform other sacramental duties.

The demonstrators expressed a variety of grievances—"A church too concerned with the rich;" the visit of Pope Paul to Bogota; the upcoming Eucharistic Congress in Colombia; the church's hierarchial system of cardinals and bishops, and "the exploitation of man and all his values."

Motor League Charges Licence Fees Too High

TORONTO (CP) — The provincial government is abusing "the basic rules of equity" with its scheduled "unjustified" raises in motor vehicle licence fees and recently raised gasoline taxes, a study by the Ontario Motor League concludes.

The July issue of the league's newsletter, Centreline, says: "It is an undeniable fact that the government has been steadily increasing motor vehicle fees for all vehicle classifications over the past 13 years.

"For example, in 1955, four-cylinder cars were rated at $5. In 1964 this rate went up to $15, while the rate scheduled to go into effect in December, 1968, will be $20."

The league study, Taxation of the Private Motorist in Ontario, says licence fees and permits exist primarily for regulatory and administrative purposes, but the government also derives "substantial revenues" from the taxes.

"We have no objection to their use in this manner provided the basic rules of equity are not abused."

But that these rules are being abused is "abundantly clear," the newsletter says.

Hughes Dislikes Service So Offers to Buy Airline

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Multi-millionaire Howard Hughes, 62, offered Monday to buy Air West Airlines for as much as $80,000,000 because, aides said, he does not like its service to Las Vegas.

If the purchase is approved by stockholders and the Civil Aeronautics Board, it would be Hughes' first airline venture since he sold his Trans World Airline stock in 1966 for about $500,000,000.

In Seattle, Wash., Air West Chairman Nick Bez said he and "others representing a substantial amount of stock" would support a $22-a-share offer from Hughes. Air West has 3,700,000 shares outstanding. At that figure it would cost Hughes about $80,000,000.

In New York, David R. Ellison, chairman of the Air West executive committee, said he and other officers do not think the price is high enough.

In San Francisco, company President G. Robert Henry agreed with Ellison.

The firm was formed recently from the merger of Bonanza, Pacific and West Coast airlines. Air West is the only carrier between Phoenix, Ariz., and Las Vegas and between Las Vegas and Reno, Nev.

Strictly Personal

First Three Years Vital

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

More than 80 per cent of the total brain growth of the human being takes place during the first three years of life.

If, during the mother's pregnancy and lactation, she and the child are suffering from malnutrition, the later mental ability of the baby may be 10 to 25 per cent below normal.

Today, it is estimated that approximately two-thirds of the children — 300 million — in the world are undernourished and have some degree of retardation of growth as a result of low nutrition.

These statements and figures come from Dr. David B. Cournia who, during the early 1950s, discovered that low dietary intakes of vitamin B6 could disturb the central nervous system activity in infants, which regulates brain functions.

More recently, as he reports in "Unjust News," studies from developing countries in South America, Africa, Indonesia and the Philippines indicate that undernutrition "affects the mental development and performance of the children." Ability tests given to chronically undernourished youngsters showed they performed at a significantly lower level than the well-nourished.

Interestingly enough, Dr. Cournia points out, there's reasons in some of the developing countries showed "superior abilities" on first neurological examination, in comparison to the "level of activity seen in babies from Europe and the U.S. But within a year their scores decreased to lower than normal levels.

Apparently an adult can withstand even severe and prolonged malnutrition without permanent damage, but malnutrition during the first years produces cellular changes that are irreversible and never completely corrected. These limitations of mental performance, Dr. Cournia warns us, "are therefore maintained and perpetuated by succeeding generations."

New techniques in biochemistry have enabled us to separate the factor of nutrition from the whole complex of environment, and it is now generally believed that lack of a proper diet, more than anything else, warps the mental abilities in regions where starvation is the rule. If the child fails to get off to a good start, the adult is doomed to below-average performance in modern society.

What this means, of course, is that the right kind of food, of the right sort, in the 300 million newborn children in the world is more than a "humane" gesture; it is the only way to raise the level of performance in those countries and to prevent both the population explosion and the food shortage from combining to bury the human race. Survival not philanthropy, commands the immediate attention to this grave, and growing, problem of brain-food for babies.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For Aug. 14th

You birthday today: The coming year offers a fresh start with only a minimum of problems. However, it is you who must supply the energy. Today's planetary influences favor deep spiritual or poetic qualities which pass unnoticed by the casual observer.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Quarrels with the opposite sex are distinctly to be avoided, even they? Do your routines once over lightly. Spend the rest of your time on your hobbies.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Your energy is greater today than usual. Catch up on your errands. Take into account your loved ones. Expect good music in your life tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Today promises happiness in your home. Focus on this, not the petty frictions from neighbors and strangers. Best advice. Avoid bickering.

CANCER (June 21—July 22): A fun day! Entertain at lunch and in the evening give selected people the chance of seeing your qualities (the soft side).

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Pride today will bring you a feeling of power. Consideration for other points of view is essential. Pause a moment here, let your intuition shine.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Details pile up in all directions. Forget advice as to which of them are important. You see distant matters, but there is little you can do now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): The temptation today is to take on more than you can handle. People of the opposite sex tend to be difficult. Best advice is: Retire early.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): The issues of the moment are in strong emotional terms, and thus seem to be important. They will diminish them. Take it easy!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Trivial irritations bring on impulsive haste. Your safety may depend on how well you drive. Give thoughtfully! Distract yourself with a good show tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): The challenge today: To find the most effective and economical pattern of time and funds. There is sound advice available, just get past emotional reactions to the personalities involved.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Your excess energy is well used today in clearing out your home. (Cut down the backlog.) Leave the negotiations to others until your own tension level comes down to normal.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Companions have a special knack for being irritating today. (Right!) Hold on to your temper. You may gain stature by immunity to baiting.

"I've given it a lot of thought and I've decided to vote for what's-his-name."

OTTAWA — Mayor Harvey McFarland of Picton takes the salute at a Canadian Guards marchpast here today—but the gesture may be no distress signal, after all.

Soon the Guards will march out of Camp Picton, packing a solid slice of the community economy in their kitbags.

Now, suddenly, Picton is snapping to attention as reports indicate the situation may not be so gloomy.

Signals are circulating that the vacated camp may become the home of the 1st Canadian Signals Regiment, now based at Kingston.

In fact, Mayor McFarland says, an announcement may be imminent on government action to fill the local economic breach caused by the Guards' withdrawal.

But, if there's a glint of satisfaction mixed with the sentiment in the mayor's eye up there on today's reviewing stand, he's cautiously shading it from the public.

"I think the army may have an announcement to make in a few days," he volunteered guardedly from his Chateau Laurier hotel suite today as he prepared for the salute ceremonies.

The mayor said the situation looks "favorable" but would not elucidate.

The army, he insisted, was the source of any announcement — if there is an announcement — which "could be in the next two or three days."

Army sources, in keeping with service tradition, are being publicly cautious on the reported move.

"It could be," was the laconic quote from Col. L. A. Bourgois, director of army information services in Ottawa.

"Quite a number of possibilities have been considered for the camp but no firm decision has been made.

"It sounds like a rumor factory working overtime, but I can't comment further," added the colonel.

Rumor has persistently beset Camp Picton operations for years.

The Guards moved in in the late 1950s, when the camp faced a shutdown with the transfer of an artillery unit. Since that time, there have been sporadic rumors the Guards would be transferred and the camp faced with a shutdown once more.

The rumors passed into truth slap in the middle of the June federal election campaign. On June 4, Ottawa confirmed the 955-man Guards battalion was being moved to Petawawa.

Out of the ensuing political hassle, Finance Minister E. J. Benson emerged with a promise that the camp would not be closed. Some alternative government function would be sought to replace the army unit.

Mayor McFarland quoted this promise again this morning.

A CHAMP RELAXES — and after a gruelling day at the Belleville Fair 16-months-old David Hitchon needs to unwind. He topped 115 competitors to become the Fair's 1968 champion baby yesterday. Then he went home — to take it easy in his Boswell Street backyard with mom, Mrs. Alan Hitchon, and pet puppy.

Today's Babies Peppier As Fair's Show Proves

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Babies today are longer and peppier than ever before, says Mrs. Bessie Denyes.

And she's an expert.

For the past 20 years she's been organizing the big opening day attraction of Belleville Fair — its baby show.

One reason for the bigger offspring, she believes, is change in diet in recent years to vitamin - boosted baby foods.

But entry lists at the show also are getting larger.

Yesterday judges weighed, measured and scrutinized 115 babies before chosing the winners.

That's about 20 over 1967 — and the biggest baby pix in years at the fair.

The event crowded the club room area of the Belleville Curling Club, with proud parents and babies in various types of humor.

But the apparent chaos was only a surface effect.

Within three hours, the judges had calmly produced a winning list for fair organizers.

From the crowd of entries 16-months-old David Hitchon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Hitchon, 44 Boswell Street, emerged the champion baby of the 1968 fair.

Other winners were:

Boys: 3-6 months — Edward Bunnett (Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bunnett, 20 James Street); Edward Sharpe (Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Sharpe, 270 George Street); Kevin Stewart (Mr. and Mrs. James Stewart, Foxboro).

7-12 months — Paul Payette (Mr. and Mrs. Rod Payette, Shannonville); Kenneth Whiten (Mr. and Mrs. K. Whiten, 7 Brassey Street); Jonathan Mark (Mr. and Mrs. J. Tue, 10½ Gedes Street).

13-18 months — David Hitchon: Bruce Boutilier (Mr. and Mrs. Russell Boutilier, Carrying Place); Kenneth Anderson (Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Anderson, RR4, Stirling).

Girls: 3-6 months — Alana Jones (Mr. and Mrs. Roger Jones, RR3, Belleville); Angela Grouroukas (Mr. and Mrs. Chris Grouroukas, 50 Chatham Street); Darla Joan Lundy—(Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Lundy, 346 Sidney Street).

7-12 months — Crystalyn Knight (Mr. and Mrs. Claire Knight, R. R. 3, Stirling); Street); Laura Langabeer (Mr. and Mrs. Brian Langabeer, 544 Dundas Street E); Kimberley Reynolds (Mr. and Mrs. H. Reynolds, 256 College Street).

13-18 months — Jill Victoria Ross (Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ross, 236 MacDonald Ave.); Heather Barton (Mr. and Mrs. Dale Barton, 214 Haig Road); Kimberley Brant (Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Brant, 187 Albert Street).

McCarthy Sees Victory For Humphrey Early

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Senator Eugene McCarthy says his rival for the Democratic presidential nomination, Vice-President Hubert Humphrey, could win on the first ballot unless Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia enters the race.

"If Maddox comes in, the convention would go to a second or third ballot," McCarthy said Tuesday. "He would draw votes away from Vice-President Humphrey. Otherwise, I think a first ballot should do it."

Postal Truck Drivers Return

MONTREAL (CP) — Postal service in Montreal was on its way to full recovery early today as regular drivers of the city's mail-transport trucks returned to their jobs.

About 400 drivers for Rod Service Ltd., which holds the federal contract for trucking mail in Montreal, voted unanimously Tuesday night for a settlement of their five-day strike.

Mayor Thinks Motorists Won't Cheat Meters

PEACE RIVER, Alta. (CP)—Mayor E. R. Whitney is a trusting soul. This town has new parking meters without time blocks, based on Mr. Whitney's assumption that the average motorist, when given a chance, wouldn't even cheat a parking meter.

"Every motorist is an honorable soul," the mayor says. "The intent should not be to antagonize the public, but to trust it."

There will be no police checks on the new meters and if a motorist is a few minutes delinquent in refilling the meter, he will supposedly be willing to cough up an additional dime when he returns.

Fourth Month Of Talks

PARIS (Reuters) — North Vietnamese and American negotiators met today for the 11th full-scale session of the Paris preliminary peace talks, now beginning their fourth month.

There has been widespread speculation that either Hanoi or Washington might make some policy shift, but concrete evidence of major progress in the talks is lacking.

Le Duc Tho, North Vietnamese politburo member who returned to Paris yesterday, did not attend the session.

Arrests Are Made In Greece

ATHENS (AP) — Police made new arrests today in the wake of the attempt to assassinate strongman Premier George Papadopoulos.

George Drossos, an Athens journalist and former government press undersecretary, was dragged from his bed by security police before dawn.

Reliable sources said that hours earlier police took Anastassios Peponis, former director-general of the Athens state radio, in security headquarters.

Both Drossos and Peponis were members of the Centre Union party of former premier George Papandreou and his son Andreas, chief targets of the military coup 16 months ago.

Papadopoulos escaped death Tuesday when a bomb exploded 15 yards behind a car taking him to a cabinet meeting in Athens.

A former army commando lieutenant, George Panagoulis, 30, was seized as he tried to flee from the coastal scene 19 miles south of Athens.

The government blamed the attempted assassination on right-wing plotters. They sought anyone with information about it or two smaller bomb blasts that occurred in central Athens at almost the same time.

A main target of the search was a motorboat which officials said tried to move in through swarms of bathers to pick up Panagoulis.

Treaty Indians to Get Full Citizenship Rights

TORONTO (CJ) — Twenty-eight representatives of seven Ontario Indians and a federal government official agreed Tuesday that Indians should have full benefits of Canadian citizenship while still retaining treaty-granted Indian rights.

"My feeling is that Indians are entitled to citizenship plus Indian rights for a long, long time to come," said Robert Andras, minister without portfolio.

Mr. Andras, member of Parliament for Port Arthur, heads a government group meeting with representatives of Canada's 219,000 treaty Indians in an effort to rewrite the Indian Act.

The three-day Toronto meeting, which ends today, is the third of 18 such meetings to be held across Canada. Previous meetings were held in Yellowknife, N.W.T., and Moncton, N.B.

Next stops will be Sudbury and Fort William in Northern Ontario.

Nigerians Push North in All-out Offensive

LAGOS (AP) — Two columns of Nigerian commandos were reported pushing north today toward the Biafran stronghold of Aba in what could be the start of an all-out offensive to crush the 13-month-old secession of eastern Nigeria's Ibo tribesmen.

Informed sources said at least two brigades of Nigeria's 3rd Marine Commando Division were advancing from the Port Harcourt sector toward Aba, the largest of the three towns still under secessionist control.

The military high command in Lagos refused to divulge details of the offensive, but a high-ranking officer said troops commanded by Col. Benjamin Adekunle were reported trying to cross the Imo River, 15 miles south of Aba. Another column was believed pushing across the river at the Imo railway station, about 22 miles from Aba.

Aba, which had a pre-war population of 131,000, has been command headquarters for the Biafran regime of Lt.-Col. C. Odumegwu Ojukwu since federal forces captured the secession it capital, Enugu, last Oct. 5.

Radio Biafra reported that Umu Abayi, on the southern bank of the Imo River, has been under heavy mortar attack for the last three days. The broadcast said 35,000 civilians were fleeing and Biafran authorities were undertaking a massive civilian evacuation from the area.

Fighting also was reported around Ikot Ekpene, a refugee centre 28 miles northeast of Aba.

Commanders of the three Nigerian divisions surrounding the core of Biafran-held territory met in Lagos today, presumably to plan a final offensive.

"We will be clearing our minds this morning," said one participant.

The new fighting was reported as peace talks resumed today in the Ethiopian capital Addis Ababa. Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie is presiding over the secret negotiations. Informants said the delegates would discuss the opening of a relief corridor to ship food and medicine to starving civilian war victims in blockaded Biafra.

The Nigerians' chief negotiator, Anthony Enahoro, returned from the Ethiopian capital Tuesday, saying the Nigerians' position "did not justify optimism."

Enahoro said the Biafrans had been offered openings to give up secession gracefully and to discuss amnesty for anyone, including the rebel leader Lt.-Col. C. Odumegwu Ojukwu.

But he added: "I am afraid if the rebels do not utilize the openings we have created, even the emperor's efforts may be to no avail." He referred to conciliation efforts by Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia.

Tuesday's session of the Addis Ababa talks was postponed after Enahoro left, and the Biafrans want to wait for his return. Enahoro said he had no plans to hurry back.

The Biafrans have insisted villan evvrunation from the area, Nigeria. They have been driven into an area about one-third the size of the territory for which they proclaimed independence in May, 1967, but have managed to tie up some major federal supply routes with guerrilla harassment.

Warning Issued

Bogus $10 Bills Spreading in Area

Area police officers and RCMP officials are expressing concern over the influx of counterfeit monies into the Quinte area.

First appearing in Colborne over the weekend when one $10 bill was picked up. The incident was followed shortly by five counterfeit $10 bills in Brighton and one in the post office of the Canadian Forces base in Trenton.

And today Brighton OPP say that two more of the bills turned up in Brighton.

Following the easterly trail left by the counterfeiters Chief Douglas Crosbie of the Belleville police force said today that three $10 bills have turned up in Belleville.

The bogus bills are easily identified by their slippery texture and poor quality paper, according to OPP investigating officer Al Tremers.

All of the bills so far have had the same serial number (R over D - 08205531) and have been discovered in banks.

Detective Sidney Vickers of the Trenton force said that none of the bills have been found in Trenton as yet.

And the further east the culprits go the more they seem to be running out of steam.

Two counterfeit $1 bills have also been uncovered in Belleville, said Chief Crosbie, bringing the total to 14 bills to date.

"These bills are on poorer quality paper yet," he stated, "and have no serial numbers at all."

Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers have taken over some of the investigation and are presently examining the bogus bills.

And warnings have gone out from police officers for the public to be very careful handling money, especially at the Belleville Fair.

"With that many people in an area such money moving so quickly," said one officer, "the fair seems to be the best place to pass the bills."

Warnings have also gone out to other police departments to be on the lookout for more of the bills.

A Land of Furs

Furs are a girl's best friend, agrees Miss Carol Brown, as she get the feel of a fur more expensive than mink — otter. The varied collection of furs is a part of the land and forests display in the Curling Club Building. Explaining the finer points is Conservation Officer James Ives of Napanee.

Mohawk Chief Opens Fair

Color and tradition gave an added fillip to the opening ceremony in front of the grandstand at Belleville Fair last night.

Chief Earl Hill, surrounded by members of his Mohawk council and their wives, all in full Indian regalia, opened the fair.

Hanged behind the chief were fair officials, mayors of neighboring communities and members of Hastings County council, the Ontario legislature and federal Parliament.

Another Belleville Fair tradition was observed with the casting of "Senator" Harry Rollins in the role of master of ceremonies.

The "Senator" made a second appearance later in the evening, as an impromptu performer in Al Slagger's Variey Show. This time he played straight man to a comic magician.

Grandstand seats were one - half occupied for the show, which featured five girl acrobatic dancers, a rope spinning act, a male balancing artist and a magician.

To get the evening's activities under way, fair officials organized a parade through the downtown section of the city and up Bridge Street West to the Fair Grounds.

Marshalled by Art Corfield, the parade featured four bands, 70 horses, and floats provided by the Mohawk Council, Shrine Club Camel Herders, and the Kawartha Shrine Club.

Also appearing in the parade was a wagon drawn by a team of Clydesdales, a four in-hand equipage of Percherons, the Pinton Push-ers Motorcycle Club members, Hastings Dairy Princess, Amelisburg's Blossom Princess, and Black Diamond's double decker bus.

Judges Jack Wilson, manager of Trenton Chamber of Commerce, and Mark Dufour, manager of Belleville Coca Cola plant, reviewed the parade from the roof of the Central Taxi building at the corner of Front and Bridge streets.

They chose Mary O'Neil as winner of the most original costume prize. She was dressed as an Indian chief and rode her horse in the parade.

A consolation prize was awarded to a float representing a river boat. The entry was made by Belleville Firemen.

CHIEF EARL HILL of Tyendinaga Reserve declares the 1968 edition of Belleville Fair open during grandstand ceremonies last night.

Calf Club Draws 21 Fair Entries

Members of the Belleville Rotary 4-H Calf Club paraded their calf projects around the ring in the Belleville Fair coliseum last night during the 4-H achievement day exhibition.

The calves were actually entered by two separate subclubs, the Belleville Rotary 4-H Holstein Calf Club and the Jersey Calf Club.

Each club had two classes judged in the competition, senior calves and junior calves.

There were 12 entries in the Holstein club and nine in the Jersey club.

Winners in the Jersey club competition were Glen Jarrell, Peggy Thompson, Douglas Jarrell, Robert Jarrell and Dexter Harder.

First five winners in the Holstein competition were Rodney May, Than Vermilyea, John Eggleton, Brian Denyes and David Clare.

Hats were presented by Belleville Rotary Club president Kenneth Wermald to the calf club members.

Anderson Takes Honors In Cheese Competition

Glen Anderson from the Minnie Cheese Factory in the Campbellford area, was a heavy winner yesterday in the Belleville Fair dairy show.

The show, set up this year in a refrigerated area of what was formerly known as the Junior Farmer Building, is the biggest in several years with 17 large round cheese, 20 square cheese along with cheese and butter displays.

Mr. Anderson won the June and July classes for large colored cheese and the white block first prizes for the same months. In addition he also topped the Stilton class.

Ted Foley of the Foxboro Cheese Factory won the colored block classes for June and July cheese and also took first place in the cheese factory display.

Ross Lain of Shamrock Factory won the large round July class for colored cheese, with the Lawrence of Ben Gill taking the large white June class.

Other entrants in the dairy show included Carlisle Rollins of Beulah Factory; Ivan Reid of Wellers Bay, Ivan Sine of Eldorado and Gary Rowe of Crowe Bay.

The butter display class was won by Glen Roy Creamery of Belleville with other entrants Trenton Riverside Dairy, Belleville Creameries and Stirling Creameries, placing in that order.

Gymkhana Attraction Tonight

Horse and pony shows got under way yesterday at the Belleville fair and will be continuing through its entirety.

However, today marks the main attraction with the Gymkhana Western Games Competition.

But yesterday was pony day and things started in the early afternoon and the last class eight o'clock this evening when the eastern Ontario champion will be chosen in western games competition.

was not completed until evening.

David Watkins, as both driver and owner did very well in the competition. He got firsts in class 197 (Brood mare and foal) with Melody, class 198 (foal of current year) with Princess, class 200 (yeld mare four years and over) with Lady Marion, class 209 (single harness) with Lady Marion again and class 222 (the open pony tandem) with Smiley.

Smiley, owned by Mr. Watkins also won class 204, pair in harness, with Lady Marion. Jill Roberts was riding. Another first in the same class was won by Gary Robillard with Flicka and Navigator.

The pony stallion class, two years and over was won by Thomas Robillard with Key's Dancer and Ross Parks placed first in class 199 (mare on halter) with Penny

Larry Ellis won two classes with the same pony, Princess. He got firsts in the single pony harness and the fancy turnout competition.

Other two - time winners were Cathy Joyce and Cindy Day. Miss Joyce won the Junior equitation western tac with Sonia and the saddle pony class with Prince Charming.

Derwin won the junior equitation English tac for Cindy Day and also the saddle pony class.

Firsts in the single harness class were won by Joanne Post with Bessie and by Glen Downey with Prince. Terry Rollins and Peg also got a first in the saddle pothy competition.

Belgium's science minister Theo Lefevre hopes to raise $60,000,000 for a communications satellite to serve during the 1972 Olympics in Munich, Germany.

First Day Attendance Is 6,945

Close to 7,000 people, the majority of them children, poured into the fairgrounds yesterday for the first day of Belleville Fair.

And with a continuation of good weather promised by the weatherman, fair officials looked forward to another good day today.

Yesterday's attendance at the fair, according to fair officials, was 6,945 down slightly from last year's opening day crowd.

Fewer adults turned out for the opening day but the kiddies came out in greater numbers.

Today is Western Horse Games Day at the Belleville Fair. The horse show will feature Western Horses and heavy draught animals. For cattlemen it is dual purpose Angus and Scotch Shorthorns being judged this afternoon and Herefords this evening.

Baby Show Business!

There's no business quite like baby-show business. It's a combination of basic human emotions — from tears to triumph to tranquility. They ran the whole gamut during yesterday's Belleville Fair baby show, as these views demonstrate. And if you think it was tough on the youngsters, think of the judges. They had 116 babies on trial.

Deacon Employee Honored

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
(Staff Reporter)

Few industries can boast of an employee with 50 years of continuous service.

But Deacon Brothers Sportswear in Belleville has two such faithful workers.

Yesterday, one of them, Mrs. Elizabeth Mae McEvoy, was honored on the 50th anniversary of the day she joined the firm.

Fred B. Deacon presented Mrs. McEvoy with two dozen red roses, and the employees' association gave her a cake, corsage and candy.

Mrs. McEvoy has been a sewing machine operator under three generations of the Deacon family, and over the years has worked in three locations — the Coleman St. factory, on Front St., and finally in the building on East Dundas St.

Mrs. McEvoy has witnessed 50 years of changing styles in the garment industry.

"When I started, we were making men's work shirts," she said. "Later we began making finer shirts."

One garment seems slated for eternal production at Deacons. For 35 years the firm has turned out a Grenville cloth jacket in unchanging style. Mrs. McEvoy has sewn the flat felled seams on all the thousands of jackets shipped from the factory.

Missing from yesterday's festivities because of holidays was Miss E. Buckley, who has six months less service at Deacons than Mrs. McEvoy. She began work in January, 1919.

Miss Buckley intends to retire shortly after she completes her 50 years with the firm.

Not so Mrs. McEvoy.

"I hope you will be with us another 50 years," Fred Deacon told her yesterday.

"I will, if you'll have me," replied Mrs. McEvoy.

Supervisor Jim Terry of Ameliasburg is a supervisor at the playground program experiment underway in the township. He is showing the playground program applicants handicraft.

Ameliasburg Program Booms

AMELIASBURG — The township's experiment in summer playground program in its second week of operation is proving popular with parents as well as the youth of the community.

Supervisor Jim Terry was surprised by the number of youngsters who turned out to enroll. He was also delighted by the teaching ability of the assistants who volunteered to help him as instructors.

To date 86 children ranging from six years old to 13 have been signed to attend a variety of classes in session five days a week.

Youngsters from the Rednersville road make the trip daily by transportation provided by their parents. They bring lunches and eat with children from the village who remain at the playground during mealtime.

The program as organized by the supervisor calls for instruction in a variety of subjects including water safety, handicraft and nature studies during hikes along wooded trails near the village. A number of sports are encouraged to keep the young people entertained between periods.

The scene of the activities is the township's Centennial park on the north shore of Roblin Lake.

The playground program is an idea of the township's community centre board. This year it was scheduled for three weeks, depending on its success, however, it is the board's intention to expand it next summer.

Those assisting the supervisor include Roberta and Aletta Johnson, Wendy and Shirley Anderson, Darlene Carter and Elaine Wetherall.

Long Service Recognized

Mrs. Elizabeth McEvoy, a veteran of 50 years service with Deacon Brothers Sportswear in Belleville, is congratulated by employees' associate member Mrs. A. E. Caton during a party yesterday afternoon at the factory to mark the anniversary.

Obituaries and Funerals

RALPH FLINDALL

TRENTON — The funeral for Ralph Flindall, 28 Edward Street, Trenton, who was drowned in Lake Ontario near Oswego, on Aug. 2, was held from the Rushnell Funeral Centre on Monday, Aug. 5 to St. George's Anglican Church.

Canon K. F. Blachford conducted the service and said the committal rites at Mount Hope cemetery, in Brighton.

The bearers were Nix, Ivan, Leslie and Albert Flindall. Albert Craig and Fulbert Gibson.

Mr. Flindall was employed with the General Electric company for some years. He was born at Brighton, 37 years ago, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Flindall.

Surviving are two sons, John and Stephen Flindall of Brighton, and two daughters, Mrs. David (Patricia) Hunter of Cobourg and Mrs. Edgar (Rosemary) Sexton of Pinawa, Manitoba. Also surviving are four brothers, Nix Flindall of Stirling, Leslie, Ivan and Albert of Brighton and three sisters, Mrs. Arthur (Georgina) Martin of Toronto, Mrs. Fullerton (Kate) Gibson and Mrs. Albert (Lucy) Craig, both of Brighton. His wife, the former Joyce Lisk, died in the same accident.

Mr. Flindall was a member of St. George's Anglican Church in Trenton.

ABBOTT OTHO HERRINGTON

The funeral for Abbott Otho Herrington, was held from the Grant Funeral Home on Tuesday afternoon.

Rev. W. O. Boettcher conducted the service in the chapel and also the committal rites at Elmwood cemetery.

The bearers were Albert Wallbridge, Seymour Hamilton, Clifford Hillman, Rex Almas, Morley Smith and Frank Rutter.

Mr. Herrington was a noted apple grower and prominent farmer in Prince Edward county for years.

WALTER JOHN GALT

A private funeral service was held in the John R. Bush Funeral Home for Walter John Galt, general manager of the Northern Electric Company, on Tuesday afternoon.

Rev. Alfred Poulter conducted the service in the chapel and also said the graveside prayers at Belleville cemetery.

The bearers, all members of the company, were J. Caverly, M. Brown, F. B. Sheffield, R. E. Wood, W. A. Thompson and Al Shuksier.

LORNE NORMAN POLMANTEER

In failing health for some time, Lorne Norman Polmanteer, 83 Byron Street, died in the Belleville General Hospital on Tuesday.

Mr. Polmanteer was born in Belleville, 67 years ago, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Simon Polmanteer and had resided in this city all of his life.

Surviving are his wife, the former Hilda Braxton, and three sons, Roy Polmanteer of Chicago, Ill., George Polmanteer of Hamilton, and Bruce Polmanteer of Belleville. Also surviving are 13 grandchildren.

Mr. Polmanteer's body is at Thompson Funeral Chapel. Service will be conducted in the chapel on Aug. 16 at two o'clock. Interment will be in Elmwood cemetery, with Rev. J. S. A. Spearman conducting.

MRS. RALPH FLINDALL

TRENTON — The funeral for Mrs. Ralph Flindall, who died in a boating accident near Oswego on Aug. 2 was held from the Rushnell Funeral Centre to St. George's Church on Monday Aug. 5.

Canon K. F. Blachford conducted the service in the church and also the committal rites at St. George's cemetery.

The bearers were Phil Sharpe, Gordon Carr, Louis Hope, Bill Tabbs, Ralph Walsh and Gordon Beatty.

Mrs. Flindall was born in Eganville, 38 years ago, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lisk of Trenton.

She was a member of St. George's Anglican Church in Trenton. Surviving are two sons, Ronald Wall of Cobourg, Randy Walt of Trenton and one daughter, Mrs. John (Margo) Pope of Brighton. Also surviving are two brothers, William and Orvil Lisk of Trenton, and five sisters, Mrs. Dalton (Audrey) Holmes, Mrs. Jack (Dorothy) Carney and Mrs. Ross (Evelyn) Horner, all of Trenton, and Mrs. John (Marguerite) Sewart of Toronto and Mrs. Carl (Ila) Cable of Madoc.

Her husband, Ralph Flindall died in the same accident.

Trenton Branch Library Proving Worth Already

TRENTON — Trenton's new east side branch library, which has been in operation for little more than a week, has attained 200 members and is doing more business than expected.

The library, which was officially opened on Aug. 1, is designed to cater to those on the east side of the Trent river. A survey, taken by Library Chairman James Cox, before construction, showed that there would be more children using the library on the east side.

Librarian, Mrs. J. Hicks, backed up this survey today when she said "We are very busy here, much more than we expected to be."

"We have over 300 memberships since the branch was opened and we are loaded with children."

The reason for the invasion of youth? There is a special section devoted especially to the 10s. Not only books, but chairs and tables are devoted to the small fry.

The shelves of the library currently hold 12,000 books and Mrs. Hicks said "there is a continuing attempt to get more."

Although construction of the building has allowed for extensions on the east side, no work of did sort has yet been planned.

Two More Bogus Bills Discovered

TRENTON — The bogus bill epidemic continued to plague the Quinte area as Brighton OPP today reported the discovery of two more counterfeit bills raising the total to seven in the last five days.

The two bills were reported by the Brighton branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce when they were checking receipts yesterday.

In Trenton, Detective Sydney Vickers of the Trenton OPP force said the two counterfeit bills have been discovered in the Trenton area during this six-day period except for the one at Brighton post office.

The places where the bills have been discovered include the Bank of Commerce in Colbourne, a store in Brighton and the Brighton branch of the CIBC Trenton post office.

All the bills are in $10 denominations and have the same serial number which is R/D 0833531.

Investigation is continuing under the direction of Const. Allan Tremeer of Brighton O.P.P.

"It looks good," said the mayor, "because Mr. Benson said he would keep the camp open and I feel his word is his bond."

He has always kept his word in the past in what he said he would do.

The mayor may find out for certain later today. On the Parliament Hill review platform with him will be Defence Minister Cadieux, and Mayor McFarland said he expects to be talking the situation over with the minister following the ceremonies.

However, as late as yesterday, Mr. Cadieux revealed nothing of any possible plans involving transfer of the 399-man signals regiment from Kingston.

Authority for that is George Hees, MP Prince Edward-Hastings, in whose riding the camp is located.

Before leaving Ottawa after a post-election Conservative party caucus, Mr. Hees spoke with the defence minister yesterday.

"I spent quite a long time urging on him the importance of having something else in there to take the place of the Guards. He's convinced that that is so," said Mr. Hees.

Mr. Cadieux said the government was "trying very hard" to find a substitute activity to take over the camp when the troops move out soon.

"He rather left me with the impression they were trying to get something other than a military unit to take over the camp," said Mr. Hees.

However, a service group would be "the best of all" possible alternatives, agreed the MP.

Whether a decision has been taken on the administrative level and has yet to reach the ministerial echelon is not known.

People Matter

In an era of such rapid communications — the electronic kind — the irony is that human beings are really not that closer together.

People are not people at all. No they are a crazy mixed-up lot known variously as adults, middle-aged oldies, senior citizens, kids, teenagers and hippies.

As such, each group eyes the other with suspicion and not a little animosity. There is scarcely any communication between them. Adults don't talk with teenagers except when they have to, as in school, and then it is a case of talking TO them rather than WITH them. Teenagers for their part are so wrapped up in their own rather strange and uncertain world that they seem to have absolutely nothing in common with their parents or adults at large. This split occurs not only throughout society generally but even in individual families.

It will ever be thus, we suppose, but it would be interesting nevertheless if now and again all these groups could get together and discover that they are all PEOPLE and not just one of a group with a label.

Belleville contributes something to this latter ideal with a place like Zwick's Island where families can gather, enjoy a picnic, swim, relax or listen to the music at the bandstand.

It is a pity though that more use is not made of the barbecue pits on the high ground at the park. Perhaps with a view to further encouraging the friendly spirit the community claims to put forth, the city might consider a big end-of-summer picnic. It would be a community affair, with music, outdoor dancing, the all-you-can-eat-for-a-couple-of-dollars kind of event that would keep the barbecues sizzling and people happy all day.

It is the kind of event that might provide a lot of fun. And it would be all the better if it could be billed as a FAMILY DAY. Not just adults or teens — but everyone. It would be something of value in the life of Belleville, a day to remember.

Soviet Naval Threat

A Canadian Television Network feature has shown with astonishing clarity the extent of the Soviet naval threat in the Mediterranean.

Soviet naval vessels began using the Mediterranean after the Arab-Israeli war last summer and have been there ever since.

The United States 6th fleet of course has been there even longer. The American vessels carry out their exercises and routine patrols as before, along with vessels of other NATO allies. The difference today is that they do so while being shadowed by the Soviets.

Sailing from Black Sea ports the Russian vessels sometimes pass so close to the Americans that a collision seems inevitable. One Soviet destroyer was shown cutting across the bows of a U.S. aircraft carrier.

The Russians, being last to make any claim to domination of Mediterranean waters, would do better if they behaved with greater decorum. As it is they seem more like nautical hot rods, steaming around showing off their hardware, and with all their electronic listening gear turned on like so many eavesdroppers.

Success—and Failure

Where Captain Angus Walters once gained fame with his schooner Bluenose, two Torontonians heading across the Atlantic in a balloon were out of luck the other day in the latest saga of man versus the elements.

Though out of the public eye for many years, Captain Walters' name was synonomous with sailing and the sea. Through his exploits in the Bluenose nearly half-a-century ago he had become a legend in his lifetime. Memory stirs also at the very mention of the name Bluenose, as it does too from a glance at the schooner's image on one side of the humble dime.

Now Captain Walters has passed from the scene. He was 87 at the time of his death in Lunenburg, Nova Scotia, just recently.

Toronto actors Mark Winters and Jerry Lester may not be remembered so vividly 50 years hence. But they are in the same tradition of brave men who set out to face the unknown. Unable to maintain height the two men ditched their craft about eight miles off Sheet Harbor, Nova Scotia.

France Sympathetic to Biafra

International Rivalries Aggravate Nigeria's Problems

By CT FOX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Efforts to end the bitter war in Nigeria, where opposing leaders show little willingness to make concessions, may be further complicated by possible international economic rivalries in the area.

France, with its major economic commitments in Africa, nettled both federal Nigeria and official London with its declaration that conflict between the federal government and Biafra should be resolved on the basis of "the right of peoples to govern themselves."

This and the additional French call for "appropriate international procedures" delighted the hard-pressed Biafrans, although falling short of what they apparently had hoped for —full diplomatic recognition of their governm nt by France.

The fact that such recognition has come from two independent countries in France's African sphere of influence—Gabon and the Ivory Coast—intensified the impression of deepening French interest in the Nigerian crisis.

The French denied any plans for full recognition of Biafra and also rejected charges that they intended supplying the Biafrans with arms.

Published reports in Britain played on what was called the growing French economic stake in Nigeria.

The British themselves maintain big commercial investments in the now-independent Commonwealth country, where oil and timber are among the rich resources.

This continued economic tie could be cited as one motive behind any British concern in preservation of Nigerian unity and nervousness over French declarations.

An estimate made in Paris concedes that French investment in Nigeria is substantial and includes a major oil undertaking.

But the French say that less than 30 per cent of their Nigerian interests are centred in Biafra.

One source of support for the Biafran cause is said to be President Leopold Senghor of Senegal, a former French African colony.

His main worry lately has been the way Paris is shopping its economic aid to France's ex-colonies in Africa. Much welldirected aid has been forced on the French by the financial consequences of the upheavals which shook their own country in May and June.

But President de Gaulle has given no indication that France's economic ties will mean major changes in the basic tenets of his foreign policy, which include an active role in Africa.

Paris recently has rebounded with advocacy of at least humanitarian help for Biafra and the capital is the scene of visits by a number of Biafran officials.

A Biafran government conclave of future help from Paris could be expected to resolve on continued battle against federal forces.

The federal command, its arms supply assured and with fighting conditions improved after Nigeria's rainy season, also would be in the mood for stepped-up operations.

Such attitudes in the opposing camps would leave little hope for a negotiated end to hostilities and for relief of untold civilian suffering.

The Power of Example

People Should Mind Their Manners

Richard J. Needham in
The Globe and Mail

How do you get people to do things — or not to do things, as the case may be? It's a task nearly all of us assume as parents, teachers, employers, administrators—a necessary task, let's agree, and as old as the hills, yet a difficult one.

Take, for instance, the teenage drug scene. Most people feel, as I do, that kids shouldn't be damaging themselves with the things like meth and LSD. The fact is that they are, and in growing numbers, and despite all obstacles and punishments set up by the authorities. Indeed it seems probable that these obstacles and punishments encourage the use of drugs. Forbidden fruit may not be the sweetest, but it's the most alluring.

We are trying to do too much by law, and failing right down the line. We'd be wiser to turn our faces away from policemen and courts and prisons and look into human nature. It was said of medieval Germany that a virgin could walk across the country naked, carrying a bag of gold, and nobody would molest her. I think this would be the case in Newfoundland today, though I wouldn't advise it during the black fly season. There are still many parts of the world where you don't need locks and keys to protect yourself or your belongings.

How's this done? Not by law; but by morals and manners, by the way people are brought up to treat one another. Edmund Burke, the great British parliamentarian, put it well: "Manners are of more importance than laws. Upon them in a great measure, the laws depend. The laws touch us but here and there, and now and then. Manners are what vex or soothe, corrupt or purify, exalt or debase, barbarize or refine us, by a constant, steady, uniform, insensible operation, like that of the air we breathe in."

If people are brought up to respect their own dignity and the dignity of others, you'll scarcely need any laws or policemen. If people aren't brought up to respect themselves and others, all the laws and policemen in the world won't improve the situation.

This, I think, is where we've gone astray. We're paying too much attention to jailing the people who steal, and not enough attention to producing the kind of people who don't steal; too much attention to fining people who get drunk, and not enough to producing the kind of people who don't get drunk; too much attention to busting the kid who smokes pot, and not enough to producing the kind of kid who wouldn't smoke pot if you paid him for it.

President Lyndon Johnson talks about the Great Society, and Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau about the Just Society. I do not know what these expressions mean. My ideal would be that of Burke — the Civilized Society, in which people mind their manners to the extent that rules and punishments were unnecessary.

Nature's Power

The Anvil of the Gods

Bruce West in
The Globe and Mail

While checking windows during the wind-driven deluge of rain early the other morning I stopped for a few minutes to admire the sky and thought once again that, provided you don't get flooded out or struck by lightning, there's no spectacle as awesome and wildly beautiful as a first - class thunderstorm. Many people thoroughly dislike such rampages of nature, I suppose. Big I love them and always have. How sputtering and feeble are the fireworks displays of man — even in war — when compared with the mighty tantrums of the elements. What a pageant of untamed power is displayed by a good thunderstorm. It is said that one really large storm of this kind releases more energy than several atomic bombs.

No wonder the ancients greeted with awe upon the thunder and the lightning, looking upon them as the concentrated display of the wrath of the gods. The early Greeks believed thunderbolts were hurled by the god Zeus. The Romans considered that thunder heard on the left before engaging in battle was a favorable sign. The Thingit Indians of the northwest coast of North America believed that lightning was caused by the flash of the thunderbird's eye when he winked, and the Thompson Indians of British Columbia valued the wood of a tree struck by lightning as a material from which to make incendiary arrows.

Much has been learned about thunderstorms in recent years. You have perhaps seen, towering up into an otherwise clear blue sky, a wondering thunderhead, termed in meteorology a cumulonimbus cloud. Hardly anything looks so serene and beautiful and innocent, floating there like a vast ball of cotton candy. Once airliners flew through them when the pilots were in too much of a hurry to detour around them.

But not any more. These harmless - looking billows are now recognized by airmen as one of the most deadly of weather phenomena. Within them, beneath their placid - looking surfaces, race upward and downward air currents as high as 100 miles an hour. This means that at the points where the ascending and descending air streams pass, there is a shearing force approximately 200 miles an hour. More than one great airliner has been torn to bits by it, and every sane pilot now gives "the anvil of the gods" an extremely wide berth.

Aid for Canada's Sportsmen

Toronto Telegram

Sportsminded Canadians will welcome the federal government's appointment of a three-member task force to study ways of improving this nation's performance at international sporting events. In making the announcement, Health and Welfare Minister John Munro fulfilled one of the relatively few election promises made by Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

If it accomplishes nothing else, the task force will have rendered valuable service, should it strip away the often hypo-critical and phony differences in definition between amateur and professional sport.

As the demand for two cars for every household increases, we may eventually may be as many motor vehicles as people. In the traffic jams of the future it will be quicker to walk.

Fate of World in Balance

U.S. Election Campaign Clouded by Doubletalk

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Hubert Humphrey's remark that the Paris talks are generating peace in Vietnam—a statement quickly contradicted by Hanoi—is an example of the confusion likely to be multiplied by American utterances as the United States election campaign reaches the boiling point.

In fact, so vital is the outcome of the American campaign, not only to Europe but to much of the world, that international spectators tend to hang on every word spoken, every gesture made by the main presidential contenders.

In much of Europe, the United States campaign has become the biggest political issue of the moment, deeply overshadowing regional and national political events. Many Britons and Frenchmen may not be too sure what Prime Minister Wilson and President de Gaulle are planning at this time but they are amply aware, through every means of communication of what the main American contenders are saying and doing.

This involvement by outsiders is the natural outcome of preoccupation with a global political event accompanied by personal concern. Though much of Western Europe has criticized American policy in Vietnam, the critics have been unable to provide a satisfactory substitute for American leadership.

De Gaulle's idea of a third force built out of Parisian political and military power appears to have been diminished, if not entirely shattered, by France's own recent riots and her internal economic troubles. De Gaulle staged a war against the American dollar but gained only a Pyrrhic victory.

Nevertheless American policy in Vietnam has been deeply suspect and has raised many questions in Europe over the quality of American strategy. Treatment of Vietnam issue in the election campaign is likely to arouse more foreign interest than any other subject.

Vice-President Humphrey, as President Johnson's sidekick and favorite for the Democratic party's presidential nomination, undoubtedly would like to see the Vietnam issue eliminated from the campaign entirely. It has split the U.S. at home as well as the allies abroad. It is an explosive issue.

Continuance of the long-playing Paris talks are therefore helpful to the U.S. administration. U.S. spokesmen can argue, as Humphrey does, that "loose talk" could endanger the outcome. But the men from Hanoi are probably just as shrewd in their political strategy as the Americans.

The Paris talks are likely to become as deeply involved in the American campaign as the price of cheese in Wisconsin and the price of beef in Texas. It may even become the crucial issue on which the outcome of the election will be decided.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials were higher in active mid-morning trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Other sections also posted small gains.

Calgary Power was up 1¼ to 46, Ns-Churs International 1¼ to 13¾, Thomson Newspapers ⅜ to 43, Imperial Oil ⅛ to 73 and Falconbridge ⅛ to 30⅛.

Bramalea slipped ⅛ to 9¾. Subdivided shares were traded following the 5-for-1 stock split.

Trans-Canada Pipe Lines advanced ¾ to 34¼. The U. S. Court of Appeals has turned down a U.S. company's request to halt construction work on the 1,000-mile pipeline partly-owned by Trans-Canada, which will bring Alberta natural gas to central Canada through U.S. territory. The court remanded the case to the Federal Power Commission for further consideration.

Among mines and western oils, Patino advanced 1¼ to 40¼, Rio Algom ¾ to 33½, and Ranger 10 cents to $6.10. In golds, Dome gained 2 to 59.

On index, industrials gained .44 to 168.47, golds 4.11 to 189.36, base metals .43 to 106.25 and western oils .34 to 207.14.

Volume by 11 a.m. was 843,000 shares compared with 825,000 at the same time Tuesday.

The market closed with a small gain Tuesday after showing a loss for more of the afternoon.

Brokers, who said there was no particular news affecting the market, expected prices to pick up in keeping with the stronger trend in New York.

Ayrshire Cow

The long graceful horns of Ayrshire cattle are fast disappearing but Alex Sutherland and sons of Paris still have a few. Exhibitor of the grand champion Ayrshire bull at Belleville Fair, Mr. Sutherland is seen with one of his still-horned cattle.

Ayrshire Show

William Reid Top Winner

William G. Reid of Ashburn, Ont., showed the grand championship female Ayrshire, Reidell Lila, at yesterday's Red and White day show at the Belleville Fair. Mr. Reid also captured the Reserve championship with his milker Reidell Alfalfa 2.

The Grand Championship bull, Glen Malcolm Counts Sovereign, was shown by Alex Sutherland and Sons of Paris, Ont. with the Reserve championship being won by Warren Ramer of Richmond Hill with his Selwood Sophia Boy 3.

The fair Ayrshire show was advanced from Saturday, the last day of the fair, to opening day and was the first of the regular cattle classes to be judged in the newly named "Coliseum" formerly used as the Holstein cattle barn.

But in moving up, the Ayrshire Show to opening day, it meant that the timing for the Junior 4-H tractor club competition and the inter - club livestock judging program was thrown out of whack.

The way it turned out was that the juniors had to wait until the cattle judging was over before they could get their program rolling.

The indoor cattle judging ring takes up approximately one half of the coliseum, the other half being taken up mostly with Old MacDonald's Farm, a feature fair attraction that in recent years had found big favor on the part of the kiddies.

Other parts of the coliseum are taken up with farm and garden displays.

Exhibiting in yesterday's Ayrshire Show were William G. Reid of Ashburn, W. C. Mann of Peterborough, Warren Ramer of Richmond Hill, Alex Sutherland and Sons of Paris, and Dr. Bruce Murray, V.S., of Stirling.

Carl Clayton of Hay Bay Farms was a double winner in yesterday's Belleville Fair Quinte Steer Show.

Hay Bay Farms showed both the Grand Championship and the Reserve Grand Championship of the show which saw more than 40 entries from the Quinte district.

Bobby Hull, with steers from his HullView Farm in Prince Edward County, was one of the exhibitors.

Following the show the steers were sold at auction with the champion weighing in at 1090 pounds selling at 35 cents per pound to Canada Packers.

Restaurateur Faces Charge

After executing an order of search on the premises at six o'clock yesterday evening, city police have charged 28-year-old Gus Angelatos with unlawfully keeping liquor for sale on the premises.

Mr. Angelatos is the proprietor of the M and M restaurant on Bridge St.

Later in the evening police were kept busy when a minor accident led to a chase. George McFarland of Baldwin St. was charged with dangerous and careless driving.

Canoe Race Ceremonies To Expand

TRENTON — Jack Wilson, secretary-manager of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce, announced today that a special meeting will be held Tuesday, Aug. 20, among the town's service clubs and the chamber.

The meeting is to plan the finishing ceremonies for the Peterborough to Trenton canoe race on Sept. 1 and 2.

Centennial park will be the scene of the closing festivities as it was last year. But things could be different this time.

"We are hoping for many new activities", was the only information Mr. Wilson was giving.

Just what these "new activities might be, no one was saying.

Toronto Livestock

TORONTO (CP) — Trading on all slaughter cattle was active at steady prices at the Ontario public stockyards today.

Veal calves were steady, hogs were steady to yesterday's increase and lambs were easier.

Slaughter cattle 3,225: Choice steers 29-30 with sales to 31.40; good 27.50-28.50; mediums 25-27; commons 20-24.50; choice heifers 27-28 with sales to 28.50; good 25-26.50; mediums 23-25; commons 20-22.50; good cows 20-21; mediums 19-20; canners and cutters 15-18.50; good bologna bulls 23-24; commons and mediums 19-22.50.

Ann Landers

Mother of Unwanted Child Needs Help

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I don't want my baby and I need to know what to do about it. Before you start to look up homes for unwed mothers let me tell you I am married and have a good husband.

[redacted]

ANN LANDERS

We and I were going together we agreed not to bring children into this crazy, violent world. We felt it would be unfair. I was six weeks pregnant when we got married but I didn't know it.

When I told Bill I was pregnant he was surprisingly happy. I told him I was miserable and didn't want the baby. He assured me I would change my mind and for a few days I believed him. Now I know better. I hate the thought of having a baby and I fear I will do something terrible to him.

My doctor says I am unstable and I need professional help but we live 20 miles from a mental health clinic and the roads are bad. Also, I don't think a doctor could change my mind. What should I do? — A READER AND FRIEND.

* * *

DEAR FRIEND — If you had a broken leg you'd make that 20-mile trip, wouldn't you? Well, this is equally urgent. Get going. This is no time to waste.

* * *

DEAR ANN — I was amused by the letter from the woman who was tired of well-meaning friends and relatives who insisted on "helping" her in the kitchen in spite of her protests.

Framed and hanging in my kitchen is a poem that has helped me a lot. Here it is:

Please stay away from my kitchen,
From my dishwashing, cooking and such.
You were kind to have offered to help me
And I do want to thank you so much.
I hope you won't think me ungracious
When I ask that you leave me alone,
For my kitchen is not very spacious
And my system is strictly my own.
So please stay out of my kitchen.
It may well prevent a few wars
And when I am invited to your house,
I promise to stay out of yours. — MRS. DOUBLE BOILER.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My parents were cold and unaffectionate. I married at 16 — simply because a man paid me the compliment of asking. The gaggle didn't last very long — less than a year, to be exact. I needed more love than he could give me and I went looking for it. When he learned of my many affairs he divorced me.

My second marriage is now seven years old. I am happier now than I ever dreamed I could be. My husband is an angel. He is all I need or want. Believe me, Ann, I have learned my lesson.

But my past is catching up with me. At the Club last night I ran into two old flames. I'm sure to run into others — and one of them might say something to my husband, or look at me in a way that will reveal all.'

Should I protect myself by telling my husband everything? Please help me, I am — A SHOOK COOKIE.

* * *

DEAR SHOOK — What happened before you married your husband is history. The only thing he needs to know is that you were married before — and I assume he knows that. Keep quiet.

* * *

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing an unstamped self-addressed envelope, plus 5c for postage.

Moulded Chicken Ring Makes Tasty Luncheon Dish

By MARY MOORE

If you look cool it helps. A filmy green dress is a good starter as you greet your luncheon guests. When they see the table set with frosty glasses of iced tea and moulded mousse filled with shrimp they appreciate your hospitable heart.

MOULDED CHICKEN RING WITH SHRIMP FILLING

(Serves 6 - 8)

Pineapple Layer:
1 pkge. pineapple jello
½ cup boiling water
¾ cup cold water
20 paper-thin slices unpared slim cucumber

Chicken Layer:
1½ cups cooked chicken chopped finely (necks and backs will do)
¾ cup well seasoned chicken stock
1 chicken Oxo cube
2 eggs — yolks and whites separated
¼ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. celery salt
2 tbsps. plain gelatin
½ cup cold water
1 cup 35 per cent (whipping) cream
1 or 2 cans drained shrimp (for centre)

Make Pineapple Layer first by dissolving pineapple jello in boiling water, stirring until clear. Stir in cold water. Pour into one quart ring mould. Overlap paper-thin slices of cucumber in it and chill until set.

Make Chicken Layer: In saucepan combine chicken, chicken stock, chicken Oxo cube, egg yolk, salt and celery salt, and heat stirring until egg yolks thicken a little when it is nearly boiling. Remove from heat and stir in gelatin which has been soaked in cold water 5 min. Cool until partially set. Fold in stiffly beaten whites and cream.

In order to fix the chicken layer to the pineapple jelly, with sharp pointed knife make ¼" slits about 2" apart in it then fill these slits with a tiny coffeespoon full of partially set chicken mixture. Now cover that with all of remaining partially set chicken mixture. Chill until set. To turn out, immerse mould in hot water for 5 seconds. Invert moulding plate on top and turn over and out. Fill centre with one or two cans drained shrimp. Garnish with parsley and radish roses.

ICED TEA

Fill tall glasses with ice. Add 1 tbsp. lemon juice and 2 or 3 tsps. sugar. Pour over boiling hot double-strength tea. Serve with straws.

Business and Professional Women's Clubs Propose Competitive Provincial Project

QUEBEC (CP) — In the hope of improving stepping membership, the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs is planning a pilot project to choose young women on a competitive provincial basis and expose them to highlights of federation activities.

Interested provinces will hold competitions open to likely young working women that will culminate in the winners' attendance at a national convention, expenses paid.

The decision was made Monday during the opening session of this year's biennial meeting. About 400 delegates and observers are attending, representing 6,000 members in 132 clubs.

Floor discussion on the plan centred on failed recruitment projects and financial problems, both chronic worries among women's organizations.

Gertrude Doherty of Niagara Falls, Ont., said her club, one of the oldest in Ontario, is just fading away because it is not attracting new members.

Nelda Miller of the Kitchener-Waterloo, Ont., group, said her club sent 300 circulars locally, looking for new members, and got no response.

Almost every provincial president reported her province would face a problem paying the winning girls' expenses.

Delegates also voted to invite the International Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs of Canada in 1971. The invitation of Edmonton to act as host city was accepted.

The invitation will be presented in London next week by Canadians attending this year's international convention.

4-H Club and Hastings County Museum Displays Highlight Women's Section at Fair

By LINDA GELDART
Staff Reporter

Is history your bag? Or is it fashion? Are you interested in finding better ways of looking twice as good for half the money? Whether you lean towards history or fashion, you'll find it aplenty at the Belleville Fair.

Displays that inform and entertain can be found in various buildings all around the Fairgrounds, but particularly in the Curling Club building. Here are located many of the major displays that form such an essential part of the Fair's makeup.

History buffs will be pleased at the display put up by the Hastings County Museum, the theme of which is "the story of bread." The fare is illustrated by painted backdrop scenery, a water wheel, authentic wooden implements, and completed by a pioneer kitchen.

The museum curator, Mrs. R. Plumpton, explained exactly how the story of bread begins and ends.

The period of the display ranges around 1900, when handmade wooden implements were the only tools available. The combination of the horse and the handplow, used in planting the grain, probably provided the hardest work for the farmer. After the grain was planted, it was later cut by means of a "cradle", and tied in standing bundles or "stooks". Large wooden "forks" were used to pitch the stooks onto waiting wagons, which made their way to the mill, where the grain was ground into flour.

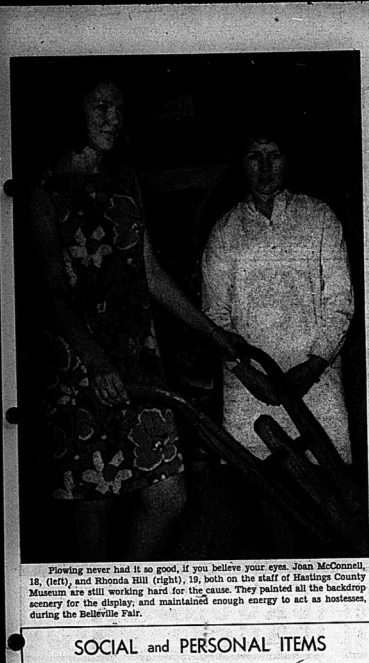
Once the flour was made, it was up to the woman of the house to do the rest. The display features the kitchen of the long ago homemaker, complete with fireplace and baking oven. An iron bake kettle, which was made in the Marmora Iron Mines in 1820, illustrates clearly how far the kitchen has progressed.

Another interesting aspect is the red paint used on the display table and chair. This, Mrs. Plumpton pointed out, is the real origin of the old saying, "paint the town red."

The paint used on the furniture was a homemade concoction of the pioneers — and it was made to last. It is known as "buttermilk paint"; and consisted of buttermilk, red ochre, and a few drops of whiskey, for that unique "staying power."

"It will never come off," advised Mrs. Plumpton — a great recommendation for anyone who wants a lasting finish.

From history to fashion — and the 4-H homemaking displays, sponsored by the Home Economics Service of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, located in the Junior Farm Building.



Here, the theme of the projects centred around the clothes — basic costumes and the accenting of accessories; how to choose accessories — color, material and how to wear them, and the keynote here: cleanliness, neatness and posture.

The attractive posters and examples of accessories for every occasion offer a wealth of information and ideas for the original and fashion-conscious girl. Emphasis was on occasion and careful planning of the wardrobe: a necessity for any well-dressed young woman.

Homemaking projects also had a part in the displays. Posters of cheese types and the variety of cheese dishes — both Canadian and foreign, and a small display of early Canadian kitchen utensils titled "Treasure Trove" were especially informative comments of the Club's efforts.

There are several 4-H projects in planning for the fall, which will undoubtedly provide more new ideas and practical utilization of time for many interested girls.

These are just some of the many displays to be found at the Fair. The best way to appreciate them — and the only way, is to get out there and see for yourself.

Flowing never had it so good, if you believe your eyes. Joan McConnell, 18, (left), and Rhonda Hill (right), 19, both on the staff of Hastings County Museum are still working hard for the cause. They helped all the backdrop scenery for the display, and maintained enough energy to act as hostesses, during the Belleville Fair.

Miss Mary MacEachern, County Home Economist, arranges part of the attractive 4-H display, "accessories for a basic costume", now being shown in the Junior Farm Building. The displays give practical ideas to budget-minded young ladies who long for more of that fashion "savoir faire".

FAMILY REUNIONS

(MOORCROFT FAMILY)

The O'Hara Mill picnic area in Madoc Township was a fitting site for the first reunion of the descendants of the late John and Agnes (Blakely) Moorcroft. This pioneer couple came to Canada from Ireland in 1830, settling on the homestead where Mr. and Mrs. Hurrell Moorcroft live, now a century farm.

Most branches of the family were represented and a happy social afternoon was spent. Raymond Gunsolus was master of ceremonies for this event, recalling some of the early history and telling some anecdotes from his memory of older members, now deceased. He asked one member from each branch to introduce the members of that family, thus calling the roll.

Prizes were given to various ones for correct answers to prepared questions. Fred Moorcroft knew his grandfather's birthdate, which was also five-year-old Mary Richardson's birthday. Sharon Eckert and Gerry Latchford told the year their great, great grandparents came to Canada and Minnie Moorcroft had the date of their marriage. Kenneth Sager had come from his home in Kitchener, which was the greatest distance anyone had travelled in coming to the reunion; Clayton Holmes guessed the number of beans in the jar and, although Bruce Leslie was not the oldest person present he did have the whitest hair. Jeannie Martin and Larry Rodgers were the youngest girl and boy, and the prize for the couple who were nearest to their golden wedding anniversary went to Mr. and Mrs. Hurrell Moorcroft.

After the bounteous buffet dinner and business period, Linda and Donna Moorcroft conducted games and races for the young people with prizes given for the fleet of foot and the unerring eye.

Before the gathering dispersed, a committee was formed to plan a second reunion in 1970 when, it is hoped, the full contingent will be present.

KELLER REUNION

The annual Keller reunion was held at Tweed Park on Sunday, August 4th, 1968 with 82 in attendance.

Relatives were present from Belleville, Crookston, Cobourg, Copper Cliff, Roslin, Moira, Black Creek, Foxboro, Consecon, Little Current, Peterborough, Coe Hill, Bramalea, Petawawa, Thomasburg, Kingston, Gananoque, Oshawa, Trenton, Ivanhoe and Marysville.

President Marion Dafoe called the meeting to order. Officers were elected as follows: Herb Kellar as president; Bessie Tebworth as vice-president; Sadie Kellar as secretary-treasurer; Edith Kellar as adult committee; Joyce Fleming as children's committee and Ida Wickens, flower fund.

Prizes were presented as follows: man with the most things in his pocket was Paul Murphy; ladies' lucky number was Donna Kellar and the men's lucky number was won by Bill Gifford. The lady with the closest birthday was Linda Keller and coming the farthest was Gail Murphy. The youngest married was Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Cress. The ladies' shoe kick was won by Edith Keller and the men's was won by Rodger Reid.

The children then enjoyed their games at the ball diamond supervised by Carroll Taylor.

Young Couple Want Advice in Choosing Their Future Apartment

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: After our wedding we shall be wanting an apartment.

(1) When do you suggest we start looking?

(2) Do we buy our furniture after we find a place or before? I have known some couples to buy their furniture first and find that later they can't fit it all in.

(3) My parents want to give me a washing machine. Do I have any right to ask a landlord about laundry facilities, such as the use of the basement to wash the clothes and keep the machine, as well as the use of the wash line?

(4) If we find a place and take it, do we have any right to ask about our repainting any of the rooms, if we cared to have them a different color? Or is this stepping out of line? — Clueless.

Dear Clueless:

(1) A month ahead. Usually when a place is to rent the owners don't want it to stay empty while awaiting a far-off wedding day. Better consult a good real estate office now to discover the state of things where you are.

(2) After.

(3) Yes. Any practical questions relating to day-to-day living have a right to answers.

(4) Yes, ask. If the painting is fresh, but unlovely in your eyes, some landlords happily provide paint for tenants who offer to do their own repainting. Worth suggesting, if you simply can't bear a newly-purpled livingroom.

Dear Doris: I have very oily skin. I can carefully apply make-up and within an hour I look as if I've never washed my face. My face also turns a horrible red as soon as the make-up rubs off. This embarrasses me, especially when I go on a date and in the middle of the evening I begin to look worse and worse.

The problem is, I'm not too "hot looking" to start with so I simply must make the most of myself. With a paler face I look much better. My hair also gets terribly oily about a day after washing. Any suggestions? — Red and Rueful.

Dear Red: No reason why you shouldn't wash and remake every hour on the hour, if that's what it takes. Once through the evening might be enough. Take cleansing pads with you and do the job up right.

My skin specialist tells me that flushing, oily skin, oily hair, are often symptoms of a type of chronic acne associated with diet. Better pay a visit to a specialist and get off on the right foot. I can send you a leaflet outlining what to eat and what not to eat, how to cleanse, once the acne diagnosis is confirmed.

Confidential to Ringless: Don't let teasing friends upset your sense of values. Money can't buy love, and the cost of a ring is scarcely related to the depth of a man's feelings for his girl.

Lots of happy married women never had an engagement ring at all.

Confidential to Shocked and Perplexed: Try not to burst a blood vessel over Pre-to-me's bad words, over if Juliet does pick them up. Obviously P.-L.L. is not conscious he does this.

Having spoken to him, don't nag. Boys copy their parents and aim to please them above all else. What you and his Dad say and do are what he will imitate, in the long run.

PCs Charge Promised Staff Help Not Provided

OTTAWA (CP) — The Conservative Opposition ended a two-day standing caucus here Tuesday with a charge that the government has delayed in providing it with promised staff and organization help.

"It seems very clear to our caucus that the government is dragging its feet in this regard," Opposition Leader Stanfield told reporters conference after conclusion of the sessions.

The charge was immediately rejected by Donald S. Macdonald, new Privy Council president who is to initiate talks with the opposition on expanded staff and organization.

He said John B. Stewart, government adviser on reform of parliamentary procedures, has met Conservative House Leader Gerald Baldwin to get his views on the Opposition's requirements.

Mr. Macdonald said he himself has talked to David Lewis, the NDP House leader, on the same question and that either he or Dr. Stewart plans to get in touch with Creditiste Leader Caouette.

"I'm disappointed that he—Mr. Stanfield—seems to be taking a partisan approach to what I had hoped would be a non-partisan question," Mr. Macdonald said.

Dr. Stewart, political scientist and MP for Antigonish-Guysborough before his defeat in the June election, was recently hired by the government to help in a campaign to make Parliament more effective.

Prime Minister Trudeau announced plans to get in touch with the opposition on its needs in a July 5 statement, when he announced his cabinet lineup.

Mr. Stanfield said the opposition must have better day-to-day research help if it is to stay on "something like an equal footing" with cabinet ministers, who had the full resources of the government to help them, along with personal staff.

The Opposition leader said he has 15 members on his own staff, including stenographic help, and had been turned down by the previous government in a bid for modest expansion.

But assistance was also needed for the party caucus as a whole and for committees of caucus.

Mr. Stanfield, who one day earlier had said that the government was running the country by press conference, added Tuesday that it seems to have become "secretive."

And he said there has been no reaction to his demand for Parliament to be called into session as early as possible to deal with pressing problems.

He also announced that the Conservative caucus has set up three interim committees—which might later become permanent—to study specific topics.

Mr. Baldwin, member for Peace River, will head a committee on Commons rules. Eldon Woolliams (Calgary North) will be chairman of a committee on Criminal Code amendments and H. Russell MacEwan (Central Nova) will head a committee on labor matters.

Camp Gets Queen's Fellowship

KINGSTON (CP) — Dalton Camp has been granted a one-year fellowship to Queen's University, starting in the fall, during which he hopes to do some writing about Canadian politics.

As the Skelton-Clark Fellow for 1968-69, he will spend a year in Queen's political studies department, the university said in announcing the fellowship Tuesday.

Mr. Camp, national president of the Progressive Conservative Association who played a key role in Opposition Leader Stanfield's nomination at the Conservative leadership convention last fall, was in New Brunswick and not available for comment.

But Dr. David Smith, dean of graduate studies, said Mr. Camp has given the impression that he wants to do some writing on Canadian politics, adding that "he has two or three projects in mind."

He said Mr. Camp, twice defeated as a federal election candidate, may also act as an advisor on university research in politics and economics.

The fellowship was established at Queen's to provide civil servants, politicians and scholars with a year free of their normal duties in order to write about problems of Canadian public life.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League
Eastern Ontario Club

QUESTION: We are driving to Vancouver by the Trans-Canada Highway and have been told that we should take the side trip from Banff up to Jasper. How much of a "side trip" is it and is it worth taking?

ANSWER: If you would like spectacular mountain scenery, this is it. Highway 93, Canada's Ice-field Highway, from Lake Louise on the Trans-Canada to Jasper, offers 142 miles of some of the most breathtaking scenery in the Canadian Rockies. Snow-capped mountain ranges, lakes and spectacular waterfalls flank both sides of the highway. At times the highway reaches a height of nearly 7,000 feet above sea-level. Several mountains in the region rise to more than 11,000 feet. These include Mt. Athabasca, Mt. Kitchener and Mt. Edith Cavell.

There are numerous places where you can pull off the highway to stop and take in the view. Probably the one with the greatest interest is about at the mid-way point on the trip where the road passes within a mile of the Athabasca Glacier, which is a tongue of the great Columbia Ice-field, from one side a view of the Athabasca Glacier, Mt. Athabasca and Snow Dome. An access road takes you up beside the glacier where snowmobile trips over the ice-field are available from May through September.

The country abounds with wildlife and many varieties may often be seen along the roadside. Night drivers are especially warned to be on the alert for animals on the highway.

Bungalow cabins, chalets, lodges and equipped campground provide convenient accommodation along the route.

QUESTION: Because my family suffers from hay fever each summer, I would like to know where a good place would be for us to stay for a holiday where we can be free of pollen and enjoy ourselves.

ANSWER: Many holiday areas in Ontario are entirely free from the irritant, and others have so low a ragweed pollen air-index that they offer similar vacation relief.

Northern Ontario, including the towns of Temagami, Kirkland Lake, Timmins, Cochrane, Kapuskasing, Sudbury, Parry Bay, Matiawa, Hailebirton, Huntsville and Sault Ste. Marie is considered a safe retreat. Lake Joseph and some of the other wooded areas in the Muskoka Lakes District should be nelrly as satisfactory. North Bay locality should be safe.

Another locality where relief can be found and which is not too far distant is in the Laurentians, north of Montreal.

The greater part of Southern Ontario, including many of Ontario's major cities, is heavily polluted with ragweed. In general, hay fever in Ontario is caused by tree and ragweed pollens in late summer. Ragweed pollen is at its highest incidence from the middle of August to the middle of September.

QUESTION: Although we have made several trips to the Maritimes, we have never followed the north shore of the St. Lawrence beyond Montreal. Is there any point beyond Quebec City where you can get across to the south shore to connect with either the St. John Valley or the Magapedia Valley routes into New Brunswick?

ANSWER: By taking Highway 2 from Montreal to Quebec City and Highway 15 east from there, you can make the ferry crossing from St. Simeon to Riviere-du-Loup. Or, further east on Highway 15, there are three other ferry routes available. These are from Les Escoumins to Trois Pistoles, Baie-Comeau to Father Point (Rimouski), and Godbout to Matane.

Up until the beginning of September there are four sailings daily from St. Simeon, two trips daily from Les Escoumins, and Baie-Comeau, and five trips daily from Godbout.

British Envoy Leaves China

HONG KONG (Reuters) — Sir Donald Hopson, senior British diplomat in Peking for the last three years, crossed into Hong Kong from China Tuesday night.

He walked across the border at Lowu after arriving by train from Canton.

Hopson, 52, was to have left Peking last year but delayed his departure after the mission building was sacked and set on fire Aug. 22.

He was granted an exit visa permitting him to depart Monday, after a seven-week delay, and flew to Canton from Peking earlier Tuesday.

All Will Be Consulted Ere Indian Act Altered

TORONTO (CP) — There will be no changes in the Indian Act until all Indians covered by it have been consulted "many times if necessary, says Robert Andras, minister without portfolio.

Mr. Andras, member of Parliament for Port Arthur, called on the 28 delegates to a meeting of southern Ontario Indians to propose their own alterations to the present act. "For a change, the government wants the people involved to tell us what they want in legislation," he said.

The meeting is the third of 18 consultations between government and Indian representatives. Mr. Andras, who left to attend a cabinet meeting in Ottawa today, will rejoin the federal team when it meets with Northern Ontario Indians in Fort William Friday.

Eagle Label Dodge, Walpole Island delegate, joined other delegates in praising the federal government's move.

"I have been up and down the trail to Ottawa many times and I have seen the day when doors were locked in our faces," he said. "But now I can look forward to the day when our people can take part in the government of our country."

U.S. Will Use Countervailing Against France

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. government is rolling out an international trade weapon not used on such a large scale since it was directed at Nazi Germany. The target now is France.

The weapon is countervailing duties and it works like this: France provides its manufacturers with subsidies so they can sell their products at lower prices abroad. When the products get to the U.S. they're hit with the countervailing duty, jacking the prices back up again.

The French subsidy was imposed after workers won pay boosts of 10 to 15 per cent in May and June strikes.

The subsidy is intended to help groggy French industry back to its feet and ease the shock of suddenly higher prices. It was set last month at six per cent of labor costs. After October it is to drop to three per cent.

A U.S. treasury spokesman said Tuesday the countervailing duty will follow a similar timetable, starting off at 2.5 per cent and dropping to 1.25 per cent when the French subsidy is halved.

The subsidy is scheduled to end Jan. 31. If it does the U.S. will lift the duty, the treasury said.

The duty is applicable to virtually the whole gamut of French consumer goods arriving on U.S. docks, including wines, perfumes and automobiles. Exceptions are few, but they include certain agricultural products, fuels and antiques, a treasury spokesman said.

Countervailing duties against isolated products are not unusual but application of this economic weapon against all but a few of a country's exports to the United States may never have occurred before, he said.

The closest parallel, he said, was in the era preceding the Second World War when the Nazi government decreed the exchange rate of marks to dollars would vary according to the type of German product being purchased.

"We looked it over and decided it was nothing but a direct subsidy for certain classes of products," the treasury source said.

Liberator Producer Dies at 86

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Charles E. Sorensen, 86, an auto industry pioneer who also designed the factory that produced the B-24 Liberator bombers of the Second World War, died Tuesday.

Sorensen, who went to work for Henry Ford in 1905 as a pattern maker, produced the moving assembly line for the Ford Model T.

By the time Sorensen resigned in 1944, he had served as production chief, vice-president and director.

During two world wars, he went on special missions to Britain and Russia to lend his assembly-line expertise to produce the mobile instruments of war, including jeeps, tractors and aircraft.

Sorensen was a native of Copenhagen, Denmark, but came to the United States with his parents when he was four years old.

He wrote the book, My Forty Years with Ford, in 1957. He was knighted by King Christian of Denmark.

He designed the Willow Run bomber factory that eventually produced the big B-24 Liberator bombers at the rate of one a working hour.

Facts, Fiction About Crime

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Facts and Fiction About Crime in the U.S.:

Fiction: Most homicides are committed by criminals, with gain as their motive.

Fact: Most homicides, by far, are committed by people without criminal records, not for gain, but for passion.

Fiction: Most homicides are committed on their victims by strangers.

Fact: Most homicides, again by far, are committed on their victims by friends, acquaintances, relatives, or sweethearts, not by strangers.

Fiction: Prison sentences in countries such as England are longer than those in the U.S., and thus the crime rate is reduced.

Fact: Prison sentences for comparable crimes are generally shorter in England than in the U.S.; but conviction is swifter and more certain there than in the U.S., which makes more of a deterrent than mere length of sentence.

Fiction: Convicted criminals should be given longer terms, which would allow them to be rehabilitated in jail.

Fact: Fewer than three per cent of all U.S. jail inmates are social workers, psychologists, psychiatrists and teachers; and this sparse number is incapable of coping with the problem of rehabilitation in any realistic way.

Fiction: More and more people are turning to crime, which accounts for the high rate of court cases.

Fact: In cases of robbery with physical attack (which most people mean by "crime in the street"), more than 86 per cent of the defendants have been arrested at least once before, and nearly 50 per cent have been arrested five or more times before. It is "fast repeaters" who pile up the record more than new recruits to crime.

Fiction: Such defendants are "coddled" by the courts, which give them either light sentences or acquit them.

Fact: It is the prosecutor, rather than the courts, that determines the sentence, for in two-thirds of such cases, the defendants are allowed to plead guilty to less serious charges in order to process the case faster and secure a "conviction" on the record.

Fiction: Sentences on the statute books are too light for such crimes as first-degree robbery.

Fact: In New York State, the mandatory sentence for first-degree robbery is so heavy — 10 to 30 years—that of 136 typical cases studied by the New York Times, not one was convicted of the crime for which he was arrested.

Fiction: Most criminals plead not guilty, go to trial, and are let off.

Fact: In New York, for example, 95 per cent of all convictions are obtained by pleas of guilty rather than on trials; in only 7 per cent of cases is guilt or innocence decided by trial.

Happy Balloonists

Mark Winters and Jerry Kostur shake hands with Captain Douglas Jack of Port Bickerton, N.S., whose trawler picked up the two adventurers. The Toronto actors went down at sea when their balloon, with which they were hoping to reach Europe, failed to reach the necessary altitude to continue the flight.

Rome Theologian Says Support Of Birth Control Scandalous

VATICAN CITY (Reuters) — The Vatican stepped up its counter-attack on critics of Pope Paul's birth control ruling Tuesday with strongly-worded statements by two of his closest advisers.

Msgr. Ferdinando Lambruschini, a prominent Vatican theologian who presented the encyclical to the press more than two weeks ago, said refusal by Roman Catholics to accept it was foolhardy, scandalous and wrong.

Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, dean of the Sacred College of Cardinals, wrote to the Pope praising the document and adding that today's world is submerged by a wave of sexuality.

The two comments were published in Vatican journals, the weekly L'Osservatore Della Domenica and the daily L'Osservatore Romano, which took unprecedented pains to defend the document.

L'Osservatore Romano said the nature of attacks on the encyclical showed there was a real crisis in certain Catholic circles over the principle of papal authority.

The newspaper published Cardinal Tisserant's letter in a long front-page article listing messages of support for the Pope from bishops throughout the world.

The cardinal said:

"Today, the world is submerged by a wave of neo-Paganism, in which sexuality is the dominant note. It was important for the supreme church teaching to be heard, and all Catholics must rejoice at the intervention of your holiness."

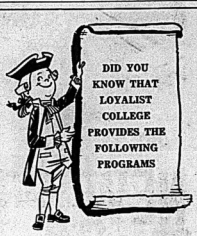
Writing in L'Osservatore Della Domenica, Msgr. Lambruschini said the encyclical's teaching was binding on the consciences of all Catholics.

"A Catholic who could not see the reasons for the Pope's decision had no right to challenge it but must accept it humbly, he said.

K. of C. Head Backs Encyclical

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — The head of the Knights of Columbus rapped Roman Catholic laymen Tuesday who criticize Pope Paul's encyclical on birth control.

John W. McDevitt, supreme knight of the 1,200,000-member Roman Catholic fraternal organization, said criticism of the encyclical by some delegates to the Third World Congress on the Lay Apostolate was a "chaotic reversal of the role of sheep and shepherd."



McDevitt, whose organization has 135,000 Canadian members, said he was speaking for himself, not the Knights.

Sex Not Merely Means To Produce Children

LONDON (Reuters) — A Dutch delegate to the International Congress of Mental health urged the congress Tuesday to oppose a recent ruling by Pope Paul on artificial contraceptives.

J. Le Poole, director of the Netherland National Federation for Mental Health, denied that sex could be regarded solely as a means of procreation.

He said sex also forms an essential contribution to the full development of male-female relations.

English Bishops Prove Friendlier to Visitors

LONDON (CP) — Canadian and other visiting Anglican bishops at the 10th Lambeth conference find English bishops have unbuttoned their formality along with their gaiters.

"I've noticed a new openness about the English bishops at this conference," says Rt. Rev. George Luxton, Bishop of Huron. "We are so much more at ease with them. It's really warmed up international relations."

Bishop Luxton thinks dropping the formal dress of frock coat, knee-breeches and gaiters may have something to do with it.

"Getting rid of gaiters at once brings you down to the level of ordinary humanity," he says. "You don't profess to be a race apart."

No special directive on gaiters went out from Most Rev. Michael Ramsey, the Archbishop of Canterbury, host to the 460 bishops attending the month-long Lambeth conference. But Dr. Ramsey himself favors the purple cassock for dressy occasions.

While the conference, in private session again, debates the setting up of an Anglican consultative council that would include laity and lesser clergy as well as bishops, many bishops are divided about the value of the high-level Lambeth gathering, which is held every 10 years.

Rt. Rev. Edmund Sherrill, Bishop of Central Brazil, feels the conference cannot get the Anglican Church's message over to young people because non young people are represented.

Rt. Rev. Ernest S. Reed, Bishop of Ottawa, on the other hand believes "something quite worthwhile is happening this year," with bishops from all parts of the world taking an active part in the conference workings.

Bishop Reed, attending his second Lambeth gathering, said in an interview: "There have been times when we wondered if anything would come out of it but there is a far greater awareness of the needs of the world than in 1958."

There are some youthful bishops at the Lambeth conference, but seen from the worm's eye view of the press gallery at Westminster's church house, the assembled leaders of Anglican Christendom present an array of predominantly white, grey and bald heads.

Some bishops appear to be nodding in their seats as a speaker unwinds a long argument. Speeches have been limited to seven minutes each and a bell rings sharply when time is up.

Bishops taking part in discussions are vastly outnumbered by consultants and observers from other churches, and Rt. Rev. Ralph S. Dean, Bishop of Cariboo who is the conference secretary, says he wishes the bishops would say more. Only a handful among the 37 Canadians have spoken from the floor to open sessions.

Regional Library Is Against Change in Existing Boundaries

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Regional government was the major talking point Tuesday as the Ontario legislature's select committee on taxation held its longest public hearing since its formation two months ago.

The committee under chairman John Whitlo (PC—London South) met nearly nine hours in studying submissions by eight organizations and four individuals. Themes ranged from the advantages of a single tax on land to the plight of northern mining towns.

The first delegations to raise the matter of regional government was from the Lake Erie Regional Library System, a four-county board with 14 library systems under its wing.

The delegation headed by system director C. D. Kent of London argued against regional boundaries proposed in the Smith report on taxation and suggested Ontario's regional library system continue on the basis of existing regions.

Mr. Kent said it would be a mistake to set up regions as recommended by Smith, which would separate rural areas in western Ontario from metropolitan centres such as Windsor and London.

The delegation also deplored a Smith recommendation that books be made subject to retail sales tax and suggested that exemptions from payment of the tax on purchases by museums and art galleries should be extended to libraries instead of being repealed as proposed by Smith.

The town of Simcoe put forward a brief proposing that a single-tier system of regional government be reached through a four-stage evolution.

A delegation from the town of Timmins and the townships of Tisdale and Teck said the municipal regional government will have to come before northern mining communities such as Timmins and Kirkland Lake can hope to exist without special provincial grants.

The delegation said taxation of the processing plants of mining firms, as recommended by International Nickel Co. of Canada might help the Sudbury area but would do little for other mining municipalities where mines were miles from the townsites or the proposed taxation might lead to closure of marginal mining operations.

The Ontario Flue-Cured Tobacco Growers Marketing Board came out four-square against regional government, declaring that rural autonomy and community life would be destroyed and the farm population would be submerged by increasing urban populations.

The Lake Erie Economic Region, represented by John MacNaughton of Talbotville, went to the other extreme by arguing that the regions proposed by Smith are too small and that in southwestern Ontario the government should use the boundaries of existing economic regions.

The committee will hold hearings in Hamilton today and St. Catharines Thursday before going to a Muskoka resort for private deliberations on its report to the legislature which is to be submitted by Sept. 17.

Modified Church Tax Proposed

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Members of the legislature's select committee on taxation reacted enthusiastically Tuesday to a suggestion that churches should pay enough municipal taxes to cover the cost of the services they use.

A brief said the new tax might be levied on a graduated basis starting at 20 per cent of the cost of such services. When the full rate was reached it would amount to only about $600 a year on a typical church assessed at about $220,000.

"This is a first alternative we've heard," said Gaston Demers, Progressive Conservative member for Nickel Belt, "and it's a good one."

Other committee members agreed.

Hippies' Shelter Opposed

TORONTO (CP) — A group of downtown merchants demanded Tuesday that a scheme to turn a former fireball into a short-term shelter for hippies be abandoned.

In a meeting with Mayor William Dennison and Cont. Margaret Campbell, merchants from the west-central Bathurst-Queen district said hippies are already flooding the area.

They said they fear this will lead to an outbreak of hepatitis which has already hit the hippie-dominated Yorkville area northeast of the district.

Heart Patient Will Go Home

CAPE TOWN (Reuters) — Groote Schuur Hospital contradicted Wednesday night a forecast by Dr. Christiaan Barnard in Sydney, Australia, Tuesday that Dr. Philip Blaiberg, South-African heart transplant patient, would be discharged from hospital "in a day or two."

A hospital spokesman said: "No decision has been taken as to when he will be discharged. He is still progressing—but slowly."

Bonarlaw

BONARLAW — Mr. and Mrs. D. Burkitt and family visited Mrs. S. Matthews on the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Heath and son of Rochester; Mr. and Mrs. Mel Heath of Orillia spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Everett Heath.

Dinner Is Served!

Roslin area Women's Institute members check the ingredients for meal service offered at the Belleville Fair. The fair "restaurant" is in the former Junior Farmers' building.

Yum, Yum!

Domestic science judges at Belleville Fair concentrate on job of placing home made candy and other goodies.

New Coliseum Filling Need

Call it the new indoor cattle show ring, the coliseum, or what you will, what was formerly known as the cattle barn is filling a long felt need, in a new role at the Belleville fairgrounds.

Al the former cattle stalls have been torn out and the entire floor area paved to provide a new indoor area for use as an all-weather cattle show ring.

Bleacher seats have been placed to divide the area in half, one section for use as the cattle show ring and the other as a general display area with emphasis on farm and garden produce.

A large section of the general display area is set up as a farm menagerie featuring Old MacDonald's Farm and his farm animals.

Here domestic animals ranging all the way from mother pig and her suckling brood to a Jersey cow and her calf are set up in real life cedar rail corrals.

Old MacDonald's Farm has been a feature kiddies' attraction at the fair and this year is bigger than ever.

And the continuous parade of parents and their small children attests to the popularity of the fair feature.

As far as district cattlemen are concerned the new indoor cattle show ring has been long overdue.

Now cattle can be shown day or night and through rain or shine without interruption from the weather.

"It took a long time to get the change," commented one fair director. "There is always some objection to change." —

But this is one case where the change has been readily accepted.

Hogs Await Turn

Dinner Time at Old MacDonald's Farm

This mother sow and her litter of seven little piglets are a big attraction for the kiddies at this year's Belleville Fair. The sow and piglets are part of the always popular Old MacDonald's Farm fair feature.

Children at Belleville Fair show big interest in the mechanical man featured in the Canadian Forces Base fair exhibit at the curling club building. Robot is operated by remote control.

It's Just Family Affair

The Ketcheson, the Gunning and the Denyes children made an almost clean sweep of yesterday's Ontario Hog Producers' Barrow show at the Belleville Fair.

There were 12 hogs entered in the three classes — light, medium and heavy — and the above families entered 11 of them. The remaining entrant was Reg Mannerow of Chelsay, Ont.

This was the third year for the Hog Producers' Barrow Show at Belleville Fair and it was no secret that officials were a bit disappointed at the turnout of exhibitors. Judge for the show again this year was Prof. Robert Foreshaw of Guelph University.

The championship barrows at the Belleville show will go on to compete against Western Ontario hogs from two other barrow shows.

Entrants in yesterday's barrow show were: Light—Brian, Sandra and Stuart Denyes and Deana Ketcheson; Medium — Brian Denyes, Dianne Gunning, Deana Ketcheson and Reg Mannerow; Heavy — Stuart Denyes, Lorna Gunning and Ritchie Ketcheson with the last named the class winner.

Sgt. Electro Becomes Prime Attraction

One of the liveliest sideshows at Belleville Fair is untouched by human hands — until the youngsters reach for it.

At opening day yesterday, fascinated small fry crowded around the Curling Club booth where the armed services from Canadian Forces Base, Trenton, have encamped.

Cause of the scramble was Sgt. Electro, a big seven - foot robot, that walks, talks, picks up paper — and for an encore dumps it unerringly into a trash can.

No one supposedly is allowed behind the rope bordering the booth. But the youngsters can't resist the temptation to reach out and touch the mechanical man.

In the excitement, the two most important people present are usually overlooked — and that's the way they like it.

It sustains the illusion of Electro's performance.

Two servicemen are continuously on duty at the controls operating the robot.

The operators are from the base maintenance department where Electro was geared for his performance earlier this year.

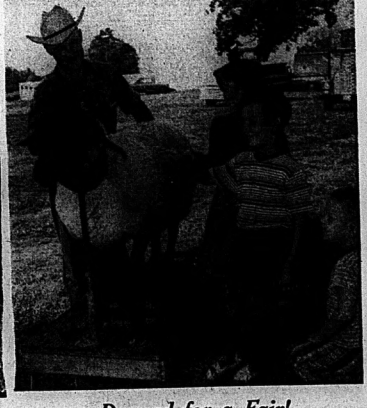
First built by air force personnel at Clinton in 1951, it took two months recently at CFB, Trenton, to reconstruct the hundreds of relays controlling the robot's movements.

The relays are stimulated by a series of electronic tones radioed from a control box. The tones are decoded and passed along to the mechanical apparatus mobilizing Electro's limbs.

The robot can readily converse with his enthusiasts in a voice that sounds fairly human.

But the airmen are keeping quiet on how that effect is achieved.

Car Dealers on Display



Want a $10,000 mobile home, a new car, or possibly some mechanized equipment to help out with the farm work?

If so, the place to go is Belleville Fair.

Four of the city's automotive dealers, Patterson Motors with Chrysler, Plymouth and Dodge; Al Waterson Rambler, Stevenson Ford Sales and Auto Haus Rabbit with Volkswagen are on the grounds with their 1968 models.

In the same general area immediately to the north of the new fairgrounds exhibition building there is a display of mobile homes all complete to the last kitchen sink.

And for the rural residents, there is a display of Allis Chalmers tractor and harvesting equipment.

Is Senior Hockey in Store for Belleville Crowds?

Temple Takes Sr. Hockey Case

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

Describing himself in as "optimistic" frame of mind, Robert Temple sat out today for a Toronto meeting that should determine the immediate future of senior hockey for Belleville.

"But then, again, I'm always optimistic," added the city lawyer who has performed the managerial chores for Belleville's attempt at revitalizing senior hockey during the past two winters.

Mr. Temple's destination today was a Toronto gathering of Ontario Hockey Association potential entries for the 1968-69 Senior "A" grouping, scheduled for 4 p.m. this afternoon in the comfortable Hot Stove Lounge surroundings of Maple Leaf Gardens.

This meeting, according to OHA president Jack Devine of Belleville, should determine the fate of senior hockey not only for Belleville, but for each of the nine other team cities that formed the circuit in the 1967-68 season.

ROBERT TEMPLE

"The only dropout that I know or are sure is Guelph," the sportscaster - proxy said Tuesday. (That southern Ontario city decided to make the transition back to junior hockey earlier this summer when it was announced a Guelph entry had been accepted in the Western Ontario Junior "A" wing of the controversial Canadian Hockey Association.)

Devine said rumors of a folding Woodstock and Kingston senior franchises were unfounded, as far as he knew.

But, he added, "if there's going to be a Belleville entry, it should pretty well have to be known by Wednesday's meeting. The schedule usually gets under way around the first of October, and that doesn't leave much time."

Mr. Temple claims his ammunition for today's meeting of senior hockey minds is amply loaded with a financial charge.

It's pretty well accepted that last year's 13-or-so sponsors are "in" again, with another half - dozen "prospects" predicted by Mr. Temple.

But if Belleville Senior "A" firepower is suffering, the answer may lie in roster strength.

Mr. Temple declined comment when asked about the problems faced in organizing a competitive club at this late date, with probably no more than six weeks of possible practice time remaining.

Whatever the possibilities of a Quinte senior OHA entry, all are agreed they must be aired today in Toronto.

Originally slated for Aug. 1, the entry deadline was delayed by OHA officials until seven days after the resumption of normal mail delivery in the wake of the recent postal strike. And today is the seventh day after the official postal strike h:lt.

JACK DEVINE

Everyone Has Ideas...

If there was any truth to half the hockey speculation currently making the rounds of city sport saloons, a 1968-69 Senior "A" Belleville entry would be one of the best coached in the province.

With player-selection at this late date (less than six weeks before the probable starting date of the OHA senior schedule) a vague topic, to say the least, rumor-mongers are mainly concerning themselves with pin-pointing the possible identity of a behind-the-bench man.

The directorate of the Mo-Hawk club indicated earlier in the year that they were seeking a general manager-coach, replacing the playing-coach arrangement developed during the club's first two years of operation.

And they'd be mighty pleased if they could get their hands on some of the names batted around the rumor-mills.

First it was York Roofs, "the word" had it, then recently-retired pro Stan Smrke, brother of locally-known Lou.

Former Belleville McFarland stalwart Bep Guidolin's name was prime gossip material, but that notion faded with the announcement that Guidolin had signed to coach Barrie's Senior "A" entry.

Well, then, the second-guessers seemed to ask themselves, maybe they'll just get a different playing coach.

So up popped the name of Mo-Hawk forward Davy Jones, the former "Mac" who returned to Belleville's hockey scene last winter after a senior stint in Kingston.

"That's a new one . . . I haven't heard that story yet," Jones chuckled on hearing of his "new job."

But Jones said "I don't think I'd command" when asked if he WOULD accept the job, if offered to him.

Former Toronto Maple Leaf star Sid Smith came in for some consideration in the hockey gossips this week but this suggestion, like the others before it, drew no reaction from club spokesman Robert Temple.

Mr. Temple declared a temporary verbal embargo on all matters relating to the possible lineup of a senior team, but the directorate's moves in selecting him club president, instead of general manager, lent truth to speculation that a combination coach-manager is being sought.

* * *

...Some Have Cash

Ironically, despite chronic financial problems, cash is the last thing that seems to worry backers of senior hockey for Belleville.

"We're a good ten to fifteen thousand dollars in the red after only two years of operation," Mo-Hawk director Maurice Rollins estimated.

But the Belleville home-builder said this has been offset by a general feeling among the 13-or-so club sponsors that "people just like to see senior hockey in the city."

Mr. Jollins, former New York Ranger Davy Kerr (now a Belleville hotel operator), and the dozen other holders of Belleville's senior hockey purse-strings had talks with last year's Mo-Hawk general manager (and this year's president) Robert Temple this week to determine, before making any commitment to the Ontario Hockey Association, whether there was still a sufficient pool of capital in the city to support a team this winter.

And the answer seemed to be yes all around.

Both Mr. Temple and Mr. Rollins have told the Intelligencer that not only are last year's Mo-Hawk backers "in" again, but at least another five prospects have been mustered.

The local financial enthusiasm for senior hockey is sharp contrast to the money muddles reportedly bogging down "Senior "A" plans in at least two of last year's 10-city circuit.

Although OHA president Jack Devine of Belleville says he isn't aware of its truth, a report has it that Woodstock Alcans are suffering from dollar doldrums.

Manager Grover McArdle has reportedly given the Alcan players their release, citing a $30,000 deficit over the last five year's operation as the main reason behind his decision to "call it quits."

McArdle says low gate receipts and "tougher" player salary demands made the senior hockey investment "unfair" to backers who "just went into it as a hobby."

And from Kingston come reports that the mighty Aces — the 1966-67 Senior "A" champions — have solicited the support of two city aldermen to assist them in their drive to assure a solid financial base for this winter's operations.

While back in Belleville, the money's ready and waiting, but as yet, there's no team, no players, and no completed OHA entry form on which to spend it.

Vancouver Group Shops in Rochester

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Canucks spent the first of $6,000,000 they expect to pay out before they gain entry to the National Hockey League.

A $1,000,000 expenditure gave the Western League club ownership of 31 players belonging to Rochester Americans of the American League, and club directors hailed the move as a step closer to the NHL plateau.

"There's no question that we must form the nucleus of a good club before we move into the NHL," said club director Coleman E. Hall.

"We must show the NHL that we mean business—and we've done it."

In addition to the players, the Canucks also got Joe Crozier, coach and general manager at Rochester for the last four years. During that span the Americans won three AHL crowns.

Crozier will become general manager of both the Canucks and Rochester. He signed a three-year contract with the Vancouver Hockey Club Ltd. And is also a shareholder in the club.

"We are very lucky to make this kind of a deal and I am confident it will work out," said director Frank McMahon, who, along with Fred B. Brown, another director, made the Canucks' pitch to the NHL board of governors last June.

"I got the feeling that good players were not available. You just can't go out and buy players like we did. I'm very happy about the deal."

Actual purchase price for the Rochester players was $950,000 plus $50,000 in legal and other professional fees.

Before he purchase the Canucks owned rights to only five players. Hall told a news conference the transaction was "the beginning of an organization we feel will bring Vancouver into the NHL by next season or at least 1970-71."

Crozier, who forecast winning teams at both Vancouver and Rochester, will stock both clubs with players now owned by the Canucks. He said Rochester will not be used as a farm team for Vancouver but players could be shuttled between the two clubs.

Reed on Hobble But Will Play Tonight

OTTAWA (CP) — George Reed has a dislocated toe.

Some cripple.

He played half a game last week until the pain put him out.

And he will start again at fullback tonight for Saskatchewan Roughriders—when they meet their Canadian Football League cousins, the Rough Riders of Ottawa.

"It's sore," grunted coach Eagle Keys Tuesday "He's all right."

Trainer Sandy Archer does not quite share the view, and Reed laboured an evening workout.

"But he has played before with injuries. Both knees, ribs, shoulders, an ankle. Some players can do it."

A plastic cap has been fashioned for the foot, injured in Riders' first game of the season July 30.

The game, nationally televised by CTV starting at 8 p.m. EDT, pits the only undefeated clubs in the CFL, Saskatchewan has two wins and a tie, Ottawa two wins.

Keys was asked Tuesday about possible tactical disadvantages in the fact that Jack Costa, his assistant coach last year, has moved to the same position under Ottawa coach Frank Clair.

Costa was a busy man in the Ottawa workout Tuesday, describing Saskatchewan offensive and defensive alignments and tipping players on moves they can expect.

"Costa knows our plays but we've put in a few changes to confuse them if they go as we think they will in their pass receiving," Keys said.

Keys said he has not rated CFL clubs in any personal order of standing, but he places Calgary and Ottawa together because "they both throw the heck out of the ball." He thought Ottawa had a better running attack.

Rodriguez Out After Player's . . . Please!

Mexico's Pedro Rodrigues will be one of the favorites in the Sept. 22 Player's Grand Prix at Le Circuit Mont-Tremblant in St. Jovite, Quebec. Currently holding down fifth place in the world driving championship ratings, the 28-year-old Rodrigues is considered a strong threat in the Formula One world championship, the Quebec debut of that racing class. Rodrigues has twice held Mexican motorcycling titles during his 14-year racing career.

Sport Briefs

OTTAWA (CP) — A dispute among Ottawa soccer officials and fans and city officials has broken out after Alderman Claude Bennett derided Monday night that the city's recreation and parks department poorly treated soccer teams "because most of their members are immigrants."

A few days earlier, a player had levelled the charge at Mr. Bennett saying the department "has never done anything for us because we are Europeans."

Mike Palmer of Ottawa, soccer commissioner for Eastern Ontario, said Tuesday such statements reflect the bitterness of fans and players after a frustrating decade of trying to obtain shower facilities, public washrooms and seats at Brewer Park, home to 11 teams of the Ottawa Rideau League

TORONTO (CP) — The Jockey Club Ltd. has indicated it is prepared to participate in a gentlemen's agreement with Metropolitan Toronto to allow Sunday thoroughbred racing at one of Metro's two racetracks.

John J. Mooney, executive vice-president of the Jockey Club, Tuesday promised William Allen, Metro council chairman, to file a letter with Metro giving the club's commitment to the agreement.

The agreement would provide for Sunday racing at Woodbine racetrack in Etobicoke Borough while the Greenwood racetrack in the city's east end would stay closed.

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League will have a record number of players on hand when they open training camp at two Montreal suburbs Thursday, Sept. 12.

A total of 110 players have been invited to attend the two camps, at Verdun Auditorium and the Pointe Claire Recreation Centre.

The first three days of camp will be taken up with medical examinations and light skating. This will be followed by a week of intensive twice-daily drill sessions.

FORT ERIE (CP) — Vicergeal, the son of Northern Dancer, has been scratched from the $50,000-added Hopeful Stakes at Saratoga racetrack in New York later this month.

The two-year-old colt, which has never been beaten, is owned by E. P. Taylor's Windfield's Farm.

Joe Thomas, vice-president of Windfields, said in an interview Tuesday that Vicergeal will be ready for the Coronation Futurity at Woodbine in September. The colt suffered a popped curb in his left hind leg during the Summer Stakes at Fort Erie Aug. 5 while recording his fifth victory in a row and raising his career earnings to $41,877.

Magic "21" . . .

Mays Needs Them; Juan Already Has Them

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Twenty-one is the magic number for Willie Mays and Juan Marichal. Mays needs them and Marichal has them.

Marichal won his 21st game of the season Tuesday night as San Francisco blanked Pittsburgh 3-0 on Mays' 570th career homer —leaving Willie just 21 short of the coveted 600 mark.

The homer was only the second in a month for Mays and his 15th this season. His last one was on Aug. 2, also against the Pirates.

Marichal pitched a two-hitter and now is 14-1 on the road and only 7-4 at home this season.

The shutout was the 37th of his career, placing him second on the all-time Giant list one ahead of Carl Hubbell. Christy Mathewson holds the club record with 83.

Elsewhere in the National League, Chicago's rampaging Cubs walloped St. Louis 10-3, New York used three pitchers to shut out Los Angeles 2-0, Cincinnati outslugged Atlanta 9-8 and Houston split a twi-night doubleheader with Philadelphia, winning 5-0 and losing 4-3.

American League

Rod Carew is winning his match race with Elmer Flick . . . and Tony Oliva aims to make it a Twin Double.

Carew, the American League's leading hitter, cracked a double and two singles raising his average five points to .309 as Minnesota clubbed Washington 8-4 Tuesday night.

Oliva, the Twins' two-time batting champion, also drilled three hits to hold the No. 3 spot behind Carew and climb within two points of the elusive .300 mark.

Flick, an old-time Cleveland outfielder, won the 1905 batting title with a .306 mark . . . the lowest ever for a league leader. A month ago, it appeared the 1968 AL king would have the dubious distinction of lowering Flick's standard.

But Carew has launched a torried August spree and Oliva, back in the lineup after recovering from a leg injury, is starting to match his team-mate stride for stride.

Lacrosse Locals Edge Trenton

Ron McIntosh paced the Belleville Minor Lacrosse team to a 4-3 win over Trenton at the Belleville Arena Monday.

McIntosh collected two of the four locals goals, one unassisted and the other with the assistance of Steve Castleman.

Castleman came in for plenty of credit himself as he collected the winning goal in the third period of the game. Belleville had led the game from the second period when they scored their three goals. They entered the final period with a 3-0 lead, but then Trenton got going.

John Hicks, Pete Desmormeaux, and Dave Lafrance collected unassisted goals for Trenton in the final period to tie it up.

The game saw plenty of action in and out of the penalty box with Trenton being called for ten penalties and Belleville for 11.

Pros Teed Off

Circuit Players Stage Sponsor Shakeup

NEW YORK (AP) — The multi-million-dollar structure of big time tournament golf trembled today under the impact of a player revolt that left sponsors, television officials and the pros themselves in a state of chaos and confusion.

"I think we had to take the action, but I'm a little scared," said Masters champion Bob Goalby, expressing the sentiments of a large number of the affluent golfing gypsies.

"I signed with the players, but I haven't been on any of the ground work," said Arnold Palmer, the game's richest and perhaps most popular competitor. "I think this action may result in more negotiation. It would be better if the PGA and players could work together."

"I've received calls from all over the country in the past few weeks from sponsors who are fed up to here," said Angus M. Mairs of Minneapolis, president of the International Golf Sponsors Association, representing 33 of the 42 men who put up the $5,600,000 to conduct the rich pro tour.

Mairs and other sponsors indicated they probably would line up with the players in the dispute with the ruling Professional Golfers Association. A meeting of sponsors has been called for Houston Sept. 5-8.

Bringing a long-simmering feud to a sudden and dramatic head, the players announced in New York, Tuesday that they were breaking with the PGA and preparing to set up a tour of their own.

ARNOLD PALMER

Through their attorney, Sam Gates of New York, they said they planned no immediate boycott but would honor all existing contracts, which include all 1968 tournaments and at least a couple in 1969—the Bob Hope Classic at Palm Desert, Calif., and the Doral at Miami.

The $250,000 Westchester Classic Opens at Rye, N.Y., Thursday.

But a number of questions remain unanswered:

What about the new, two-year contract signed recently by the PGA with the American Broadcasting Company, giving ABC the right to televise virtually every big tournament except the Masters?

"The PGA had to promise the network a representative field," a spokesman close to the TV negotiations said. "It's unreasonable to believe the PGA could hold the ABC to the contract if it couldn't produce the top players."

CPGA Preamble

Knudson Favored; Dark Horses Abound

QUEBEC (CP) — Toronto's George Knudson, one of the most talented golfers in Canadian history, will be among the more than 300 professionals and amateurs today in an 18-hole pro-am tournament of the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association.

But the pro-am event is only a minor preliminary for Thursday's opening of the 72-hole, $20,000 CPGA championship on the tough course of the Royal Quebec Golf Club in nearby Boischatel.

Knudson is the favorite to win the title, which he has done twice already—in 1964 at Halifax and in 1967 at St. Catharines, Ont.

His heaviest competition for a first-place prize of $3,000 could come from former CPGA winners Moe Norman, Wilf Homenuik and Alvie Thompson.

So far this year, Knudson's earnings on the United States circuit have approached $70,000.

The winner of the CPGA also will be awarded the Labatt Cup.

More than 180 pros are registered for this year's tournament.

Meanwhile, the spotlight Tuesday was on Gerry Proulx —relatively unknown as a "name" golfer—who won the 36-hole seniors' championship with a five-under-par total of 139.

"Today I was putting much better," said Proulx. "I played like a young man."

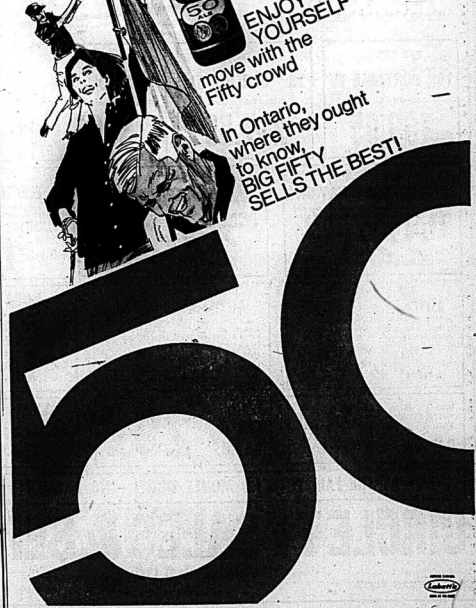
GEORGE KNUDSON

Double Or Nothing

CAMPBELLVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Luckily for Wolfgang Hammer, there was nothing on television Tuesday night that appealed to him.

Hammer, 34, from the Toronto suburb of Willowdale, became bored watching television at his home and decided to make the 45-minute automobile trip to Mohawk Raceway.

As a result, he became one of five persons to cash a winning $2 ticket on a record daily double of $2,923.30 which broke a 14-year mark for tracks operated by The Jockey Club Ltd.



Victories by Cindy Fair in the first race and Hazy Dares in the second produced the payoff which broke the record of $2,538.45 set Aug. 16, 1954, at Toronto's old Woodbine Raceway, now Greenwood.

Names of the other four persons with winning $2 tickets were not available.

Hammer quickly decided that Cindy Fair, owned by Jack and Garth Gordon of Coldwater, Ont., and a 27-1 choice, had a chance to take the opener.

He was unsure of the second race and purchased two double tickets, combing Cindy Fair with Hazy Dares and Kinna Duke.

Cindy Fair paid $77.60 for her maiden victory and Hazy Dares, owned by Fred Giese of Leamington, Ont., returned $26.10.

Stinsons Moved to Third

Cheesemen Stage Alemite Outburst

Block Diamond decisively eliminated Stinsons Construction from the three-way tie for second place in the Commercial Softball League Tuesday night to the tune of 14-1.

City Hotel pulled a 7-2 victory over Brants to keep second place in a two-way bind between themselves and the Cheesemen, but the Stinsons lost moved the Builders to third.

The Wednesday night doubleheader at the Alemite evened up the league at 24 games all. The six teams now have one more game apiece before the playoffs among the first four teams begin.

In the tie-breaking game Wednesday night, Donny Holloway led the Cheesemen to their win, pitching one-hit ball for the first six innings, then allowing the Stinson hitters a two-hit rally for one run in the seventh.

Neil Goyer, Stinsons left-fielder, collected the one tally for the winners on a combination of an error and hits by Bob Tomaso and Jim Sopha. Goyer collected the only other hit for the Builders in the fourth when he tagged a single.

Scotty Reid started for the Builders and lasted until the sixth when Bob Boyle took over. Reid allowed seven runs on seven hits and four walks. Boyle pitched the sixth and allowed seven runs on four hits and three errors while walking two.

Holoway struck out 11 and walked three in his three-hit effort for the winners.

In the big seven-run sixth inning for the Cheesemen, seven of 12 batters scored and two were left on base. Wayne McTaggart led the inning's hitters with a homer, the third Block Diamond home run of the game.

Gene Francis, second baseman, and Martin Walsh, right fielder, hit homers for the Cheesemen in the first and the fifth respectively.

Gene Francis and Wayne McTaggart scored twice each on a homer and a double apiece, Walsh scored once on a homer and two singles, Jack Francis scored three times on a walk and two singles, Dwight Rathwell scored twice on a fielder's choice and a single. Gilbey hit a single, and Rick Denard scored on an error while Donny Holoway had to take his run on a walk.

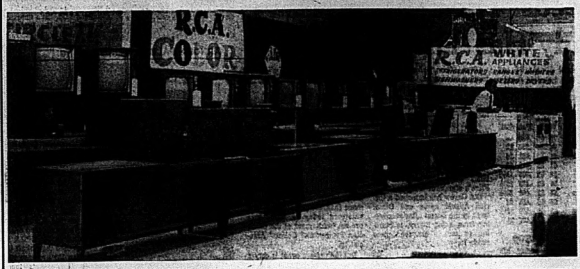
Catcher Don Wood scored twice on walks.

Line score:

Stinsons	000 000 1 - 1 3 2
Blk. Diam.	301 007 x - 14 11 2

In the City Hotel game which kept the Holdmen in second with Block Diamond, Gerry Genereaux went all the way for the 7-2 win against Brant's Mark Sheridan.

Genereaux allowed Brants two runs on three hits and three City errors while striking out four and walking two. Sheridan took the loss by allowing seven runs on nine hits and three Brant's errors. He walked five and struck out five.



Shortstop Pug Keller led the City hitters with a sixth-inning homer that sparked a three-run rally by the winners. Third baseman Doug Hull hit three singles, Frank Murray had two, and Bob Brooks, Doug Murray and Genereaux had singles.

Jim Parks hit two singles for Brants and Gary Genereaux hit one.

Line score:

City Hotel	101 023 0 - 7 9 3
Brants	000 101 0 - 2 3 3

Will Take 100 Years to Renew Timber Burned by Arctic Fire

INUVIK, N.W.T. (CP) — About 85 square miles of timber and scrub Arctic brush has been destroyed in a five-day-old forest fire now smouldering beside this Arctic community.

Evidence that the immediate danger may be past came with a reduction Tuesday in firefighter crews and equipment. Only strong winds and hot weather could renew the threat—unlikely as the Arctic fall approaches. Inuvik is 1,300 miles north of Edmonton.

Tom Butters, publisher of Inuvik's weekly newspaper, the Drum, said trees up to 160 years old were burned in stands of spruce and birch timber and it will take 100 years for them to grow back.

He said an aerial survey of the area around the town indicated a gravel pit on the southeast diverted the fire when it raced out of barren lands Thursday toward the town.

Mr. Butters said the pit forced the mile-wide fire front northward. The front passed by the town, pushed by a sudden wind shift to the southwest, then turned again, bypassing the town's northern border by as little as 150 yards.

He described the burned-over area as resembling a rough rectangle, with the town inside the lower left corner. It was about 16 miles long by six miles wide.

A stubborn nearby hotspot which threatened telephone lines had been confined to an area circled by firebreaks. Firemen were waiting for it to burn through a stand of timber within the enclosure.

Mr. Butters said the fire now is burning primarily in muskeg, which covers the ground to a depth of about six or eight inches, and probably would smoulder for weeks. Only heavy winter snowfalls were likely to put it out.

Caouette Denounces Flurry of Strikes

MONTREAL (CP) — Real Caouette, leader of the Creditiste Party, Tuesday denounced union leaders for calling strikes and the federal government for its inactivity and failure to prevent them.

Speaking at a news conference during a visit to Man and His World, Mr. Caouette said strikers are being duped by their union leaders.

"The strikers are paying for their own strikes," he said. "It is not the union leaders who pay. They lose money during a strike and it takes them two or three years to recover."

The Creditiste leader said workers are often against strikes, but they are "forced into them by irresponsible people like Marcel Pepin and Louis Laberge."

Mr. Pepin is president of the Confederation of National Trade Unions and Mr. Laberge heads the Quebec Federation of Labor.

Mr. Caouette said Parliament should be recalled at once.

"Canada has stood still since the last election. The fact remains that we are facing the worst economic crisis since the 1930s and the government doesn't say anything. Canada does not have the economic strength to stand the strains on it."

Sabotage To PUC Is Charged

ORILLIA (CP) — Norval Orser, chairman of Orillia Water, Light and Power Commission, charged Tuesday that commission facilities were sabotaged shortly before workers went on strike earlier in the day.

In a statement, he said only prompt action by supervisory personnel prevented a total blackout.

He said wires were cut at several locations and communications facilities put out of order before the strike by 52 members of Local 1947, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

The workers who do maintenance on electrical, water and sewage treatment facilities, are seeking higher wages.

Mr. Orser said wires were cut on a transformer at nearby East Lake, on radio communications equipment and at an Orillia radio tower.

Union officials were not immediately available for comment.

Commission laborers earn $1.66 an hour and journeymen linemen $2.85.

Expulsion Order Revoked

BOGOTA (AP) — President Carlos Lleras Restrepo decided Tuesday to revoke a government order expelling Paul Montgomery, New York Times correspondent, from Colombia.

Lleras took the step after a visit at the presidential palace by Montgomery and another Times correspondent, Juan de Onis.

The government order, issued earlier in the day, had stated Montgomery had written "disrespectful, libellous, offensive and unfriendly informations" which "cannot be tolerated."

The action was a reprisal for a Bogota dispatch printed in the Times Monday. This said that German Zea Hernandes had resigned under pressure as foreign minister and added: "Dr. Zea had made several public statements critical of the encyclical issued by Pope Paul VI instructing Roman Catholics to avoid artificial methods of birth control."

Pope Paul is to visit Colombia next week.

Montgomery's dispatch also reported that Mrs. Zea and the wife of President Carlos Lleras Restrepo recently "became embroiled in an acrimonious argument at a party; according to one account, a blow was struck."

In New York the Times had no comment. It printed Tuesday a letter from Julio Cesar Turbay Ayala, Colombian ambassador to the United Nations, saying that Zea's decision to withdraw as foreign minister was taken long before his statements on birth control. Turbay described as slanderous the report of a clash between the two wives.

De Gaulle Wants Reich To Give Aid to Quebec

MONTREAL (CP) — The Star says in a story from Bonn that French President de Gaulle is demanding that West Germany join France in "creating a special fund to aid Quebec."

The story, by Omer Anderson, says:

"De Gaulle has made German help for Quebec a principal condition to French acquiescence in any scheme for finding Britain to the European Common Market.

"Bonn officials disclosed that de Gaulle has rejected out of hand a German proposal for the creation of a 'NATO Development Fund' to assist economic development in Quebec and other "NATO 'underdeveloped areas.'

The story says de Gaulle's remarks were made to Bon leaders after the May chaos in France and appear to dash any hopes that de Gaulle might be persuaded to relinquish the "special role" he has staked out for France in Quebec.

Johnson in U.S.

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Daniel Johnson has left for "the south of the United States" to continue his convalescence, a government spokesman said Tuesday.

Premier Johnson has been convalescing from a mild heart attack suffered in early July.

His condition had been described as "very satisfactory" by his doctors.

Johnson Denies Rumors

Premier Johnson denied Tuesday rumors that he has had a heart attack.

He told reporters at a news conference in Quebec City that he has had a cold and a touch of the flu.

LOBLAWS NEW LOOK

Hilda's Column is a new weekly feature in Loblaw ads. Hilda Wilson heads up our Loblaw consumer affairs department.
If you have a shopping problem, a suggestion or a complaint Hilda wants to hear from you. Write to her at Loblaw Groceterias Co., Limited, 545 Lake Shore Blvd. West, Toronto 2b.

HILDA'S COLUMN

When Leon Weinstein learned that I knew nothing about food shopping he said, "You're just the person we want to act as liaison between our customers and Loblaws head office people." He said that I obviously had a completely open mind (he could have said 'blank') and that I must be a rarity today to have teenage children (which I have), to be responsible for the housekeeping money (which I am) and to be clueless enough to have to ask my mother how much to give my son when I send him to the store for a loaf of bread (which I do).

Leon says I know so little that I can't possibly have any pre-conceived fixations about food retailing either on the side of the consumer or the retailer.

So now I am going to learn from as many people as possible—certainly everyone here at Loblaws from the president on down, and as many of you as will write to me. Every week I'll pass along my new-found knowledge to you. Hope it helps you shop better for less—that's the objective.

—Hilda Wilson

P.S. One thing I can do well—ask questions—and I intend to ask a lot of them around Loblaws in the months to come.

Canadian Project

Convention Sales Pitch Promised

OTTAWA (CP) — Greater collaboration was pledged by hotel, resort, transportation and convention service companies Tuesday night in an effort to bring more international convention business to Canada.

Federal and provincial travel promotion bureaus said they too will work more closely with municipal governments and the private companies in building up business for the tourist industry during its off-season.

But the collaboration is limited. Two hotel companies—the veteran Canadian Pacific and the rapidly rising Skyline organizations—said there are limits to how free they will be with competitive commercial intelligence.

William Gray of CP Hotels says one company won't tell another about business it has lost. A convention that isn't captured by one city or hotel this year becomes a better prospect for business next year.

Main accomplishments of the two-day convention on reservations convened by the Canadian Government Travel Bureau were to revitalize the Canadian Association of Convention Bureaus and to begin plans for a major sales pitch next year to international organizations based in Europe.

The unincorporated association trades information about convention listings confidentially among the major cities which have long been in the field. Since it operates voluntarily it requires periodic injections of new enthusiasm, and this was done at this week's meeting, a convention source said.

The seminar was the first in Canada bringing federal, provincial and municipal governments host tourist officials together with hotels and transportation companies to discuss ways to attract group visits.

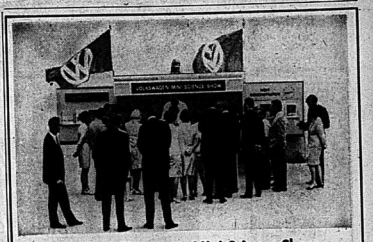
While they have been active for many years in promoting vacation tourist travel by individuals and families, the federal and provincial governments have been organized only recently to handle business for groups of 300 to several thousands.

Nuclear Weapon Has Multiple Goals

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (Reuters) — A revolutionary U.S. nuclear weapon—a warhead designed to hit several targets from a single missile—will be flight-tested for the first time Friday atop U.S. Air Force and Navy rockets.

The multiple Independently-Targeted Reentry Vehicles, known as MIRV, will be carried by a Poseidon rocket, designed to be launched from a submarine and the land-based Minuteman III.

A delay in the Poseidon test, originally scheduled for Thursday, means that both rockets will be fired on the same day, the navy announced Tuesday.



Full details of the manoeuvrable MIRVs are secret, but there are known differences between them and the warheads now carried on Polaris and Minuteman II missiles in the U.S. armory.

Earlier rockets carried a single warhead with decoys to try to confuse enemy detection systems. Once this type of warhead is released at the target, it follows a ballistic trajectory.

The Minuteman III, an advanced version of the Minuteman II rockets which are mounted in silos across the U.S., will initially carry up to three separate warheads along with "chaff" to confuse enemy radar networks.

The Poseidon warhead will have eight times the "kill power" of the Polaris A-3 now used by nuclear submarines.

Each payload will carry its own computer and guidance system along with arming and fusing devices. The payload can release the warheads, one at a time, and in different directions.

Toronto Carts Away Sculpture

TORONTO (CP) — The heap of cast iron that Montreal sculptor Armand Vaillancourt hoped to convert into a modernistic work of art has been carted away by city employees and stacked in a remote area of High Park.

The sculpture, to be called Je Me Souviens (I Remember)—Mr. Vaillancourt's contribution to an international Sculpture Symposium organized by the city in the park last year—has cost Toronto at least $100,000.

Several other artists took part in the city sculpt-in which originally was granted a budget of $111,000.

A city official said Tuesday parks employees have spent the last three days moving the 100 chunks of rusty iron which had been resting in the park since Mr. Vaillancourt cast them in a home-made blast furnace last year.

The committee in charge of the symposium decided not to proceed with putting the sculpture together when it learned last month that an additional $80,000 would be required to erect the work.

The decision came after the committee had already purchased $2,000 worth of bolts to complete the work. These now are in storage.

Mr. Vaillancourt has said he will consult a lawyer, claiming the committee promised him in writing it would proceed with erecting his work provided he came back from another project in San Francisco.

In a telephone interview Tuesday from San Francisco with The Globe and Mail, Mr. Vaillancourt said failure to erect the sculpture would be an insult to the French-Canadian people.

"I have dedicated this work to French Canada. Je Me Souviens is a motto of Quebec. It will be an insult if this sculpture remains in the dark. . . . "A Canada-wide campaign is going to be organized to get the sculpture put up. I have been talking to the Sculpture Association of the Province of Quebec and it backs me fully."

He said he expects to be back in Canada in two weeks and will try to see Prime Minister Trudeau.

Britain's Trade Figures Prove Need to 'Slog'

LONDON (CP) — Renewed emphasis on the "hard slog" has appeared here after a chilly wind that gusted through the seemingly resurgent British economy Tuesday.

The wind was generated by a government announcement that the country's chronic deficit on international trade rose to $208,000,000 for July compared with $130,000,000 for June.

Accounts of the figures broadcast in Britain emphasized record exports for the month.

But critics of Prime Minister Wilson's Labor government pointed at the even bigger jump in imports, which also achieved an all-time high.

Imports in July totalled $1,723,800,000—up $143,000,000. Exports and re-exports rose to $1,315,400,000, up $32,000,000.

Conservative commentators gleefully juxtaposed the figures with a recent Wilson statement, by the prime minister, somewhat at variance with any optimistic forecasts he has made, had quoted a "view objectively expressed" as predicting an "economic miracle" for Britain.

The weeks before July's trade figures were announced had rung with more optimism about national economic prospects than any period since devaluation of the pound last November.

This euphoria now has given way to the kind of "hard slog" talk common in November.

The government was reported strengthened in its resolve to persist with its policy of limiting incomes, despite trade-union discontent, and with other forms of tight economic controls.

Optimism about car exports is tinged with apprehension over reported plans by North American car makers for countering the sales boom enjoyed on that continent by British and other foreign motor companies.

Detroit auto-makers are reported planning small-car production to compete with the imports.

There is also discontent over the way British trade officials are handling their help for firms trying to sell overseas.

A House of Commons committee said Tuesday it is "skeptical" about the value of British Weeks, such as the one held last year in Toronto.

The government says the upward thrust in imports resulted from, among other factors, postponement of shipments so that they would follow the July 1 lowering of British tariffs under the Kennedy Round agreements.

Some hope is drawn by experts from what they call a gradual decline in the trade deficit, measured over the last few months.

Though the new figures weakened the pound on international markets, The Times warns that the statistics "deserve very close scrutiny before too many instant pundits leap to too many wild conclusions."

Elsewhere there was grumbling against the harm that generalized figures could do; with The Guardian terming the trade statistics "a meaningless monthly exercise."

DIPLOMATS ABUSE LAWS

BONN (AP) — Diplomats have been asked to stop speeding and disregarding parking laws in the narrow streets of suburban Bad Godesberg, where many foreign missions' staff live. One town official said, "We could fill volumes of charge sheets with the traffic offenses of foreign diplomats and their dependents if they did not have diplomatic immunity."

Space Experts Gather To Study Economic Use

VIENNA (AP) — Space leaders and scientists from 67 nations convene today to begin two weeks of discussion on how best to apply the practical benefits of space technology to the social and economic advancement of mankind.

There will be a total of 188 presentations by 22 countries, including seven by Canada. J. A. McCordick, Canadian ambassador to Austria, heads the Canadian delegates.

Other delegates are Dr. Philip Lapp of SPAR Aerospace Products, Toronto, and Dr. B. W. Currie, dean of graduate studies at the University of Saskatchewan.

Attending as observers are: Germain Gauthier and Jacques Gauthier of Quebec, described as experts in the fields of education and communications, and Peter Bowers of the Ontario department of education.

The two major space powers, the United States and the Soviet Union, will dominate the meeting, the first space conference ever held by the United Nations. UN committees have been preparing for it for two years.

UN Secretary-General U Thant has described the meeting as a major step in bridging the gap between space powers and other nations.

He hoped it would not only explain the practical benefits of space exploration, but also would ultimately result in joint practical ventures that would bring these benefits to all nations and thereby help alleviate some of mankind's most pressing economic and social problems.

Austrian Foreign Minister Kurt Waldheim, president of the conference, said discussions will relate to the use of communications satellites for development, education and cultural purposes, the use of meteorological satellites in day-to-day weather forecasting, the application of satellites to surveys of natural resources and other matters.

It will be the first international conference on space exploration where states with no experience in space activities can hear from and be heard by these states with the experience and ability to secure these applications from outer space research."

The leaders of the two largest delegations, Administrator James Webb, of the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and academician A. A. Blagonravov of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, are expected to meet privately.

Bid to Halt Gas Pipeline Is Rejected by U.S. Court

WASHINGTON (CP) — The U.S. Court of Appeals has turned down a request by Northern Natural Gas Co. of Omaha that the court clarify an earlier ruling and, in effect, halt construction of a phase of the $212,00 0,000 Great Lakes Gas Transmission Co. pipeline.

Northern, which also had sought the permit eventually granted to Great Lakes by build the natural gas pipeline, based its request on a June 18 court ruling that the Federal Power Commission give further consideration to the permit it awarded Great Lakes.

But the court in its reply Monday noted that the FPC has already promptly "to determine the extent to which, if any, the certificate" it issued Great Lakes should be modified or set aside in the light of the court's June 18 option.

Thus in effect the court left it to the FPC to determine how the situation should be handled until the limitation is finally resolved.

Northern had taken the case to Court of Appeals after Great Lakes was awarded the FPC permit, arguing among other things that there might be a violation of U.S. anti-trust policy in giving the permit to Great Lakes—owned by the Canadian Pipe Lines Ltd. and American Natural Gas Co. of Detroit.

The pipeline runs from Manitoba through the U.S. to Sarnia and Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. Part of the natural gas would be sold in the U.S. and the rest in Ontario and Quebec.

Northern had said in its petition to the court that the first phase of the line, more than 157 miles from Farwell, Mich., to St. Clair, Mich., had been completed and was in operation however, the second phase—between Emerson, Man., and Farwell, with a lateral to Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.—still was under construction.

Negro MP Advocates Listening to Minority

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's first Negro member of Parliament, Lincoln M. Alexander, Tuesday warned Canadians to pay heed to "the restlessness of minority groups" if racial flareups in this country are to be avoided.

Mr. Alexander, newly-elected Conservative member for Hamilton West, was delivering a tribute to assassinated Negro civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. at a Masonic dinner here. Dr. King was to have been guest speaker at the meeting.

"It is my hope that this country is aware of the restlessness and suspicions that exist in minority groups."

Action must be taken soon to ensure equal opportunity for all Canadians because "an alternative to the non-violent philosophy of Dr. Martin Luther King can only be the way of extremists."

Firemen Down Intell In Three-Hitter

The three - hit pitching of Craig Rump moved the Fire Department in second place in the Departmental Softball League five days before the playoffs begin.

Rump allowed three hits as he pitched against first-place Intelligencer nine Wednesday night as the Firemen moved into second behind a 17-3 win.

Ron Callender had the Intell took the loss for the league - leaders, giving up 17 runs on 16 hits.

Grant Parks led the Firemen at the plate with three singles and a double. Bob Lloyd had two doubles and a single and pitcher Rump hit a double and two singles.

Brian Smith, Rocky Davis and Bill Hoard each collected two hits for the winners.

All the other Fire Department players collected at least one hit each.

Steve Ling, Randy Johnstone and Cullodon hit safely for the Intell. Cullodon helped his own cause by driving in two of the losers' runs with his safety.

The CNR Combines and the Post Office meet Thursday night at 6:30 p.m. at the CNR field to decide the third and fourth places in the league by a sudden - death playoff. Departmental League play-offs begin Monday.

Report Says Housing Shortage Solely Fault of Governments

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Housing, probably Canada's most pressing problem will come under the scrutiny of the Ontario Municipal Association on the final day of its annual convention here.

Delegates today will discuss and vote on a special committee's report that lays the blame for the housing shortage squarely on government at all levels—municipal, provincial and federal.

The report, compiled by a committee of six under the chairmanship of Toronto Alderman David Rotenberg, found that industry and labor have performed well in adopting modern cost-cutting methods and showing restraint in wage demands.

But, the report said, "the real villain ..... has been government ..... government at all levels—municipal, provincial and federal—whose action, or more appropriately, inaction, has brought a 19th century approach to a 20th Century problem."

Defining the areas in which government has failed, the committee said the federal government has the basic responsibility to improve the housing situation. It proposed changes to lower costs and stimulate an influx of new money into home building.

The federal government should make grants available through Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. similar to grants already available for urban renewal, the report said. Government seemed "mesmerized" by the United States approach but slum clearance was not Canada's major problem. The problem was simply a lack of enough housing.

The federal government should make National Housing Act loans available for older housing just as they are now available for new housing.

Another recommendation was that the federal government should return the maximum NHA rate to about six per cent and make money available through direct loans. This would probably necessitate subsidization and the committee maintained it is time the government subsidized, where necessary, the people through lower interest home mortgages.

"Until now the NHA rate has been used to accelerate or slow down the economy," the report said. "The house buyer has been the pawn manipulated by the federal government to adjust economic trends."

Similarly housing — "still the only commodity taxed by all three levels of government," is in urgent need of tax relief.

Resolutions dealing with subjects ranging from glue-sniffing to non-returnable bottles were dealt with.

Delegates decided to seek support at provincial and federal government levels for an amendment to the Criminal Code to prohibit sale of glue to persons under 18. Anyone under 18 seeking to buy glue would have to furnish a written request from a responsible adult.

The suggested law would make it illegal for anyone to sniff glue to become intoxicated.

Another resolution asked that the provincial government improve the tax rebate system for senior citizens.

The OMA also advocated a ban on the sale of beverages in disposable non-returnable bottles. Delegates noted that the bottles were being dumped in parks and along highways, were easily broken and a danger to children.

Point Anne

POINT ANNE — Mr. and Mrs. William Cumby have moved into the house on Front St. which was recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Payne.

The local baseball team will be seriously handicapped by the loss of three players, Tom MacDonald, Vern Whalen and Wayne Brown who were injured in a car accident and are in hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Akey and Karen spent a holiday in Alberta where they visited relatives.

Mr. Dick Hamer of Obodo, Manitoba is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Akey.

Miss Pamela Akey has returned home after spending seven weeks in the Belleville hospital.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For Aug. 15th

Your birthday today: "Adjustment" is the keyword...Your circumstances tend to change abruptly all year (due to out side forces). In varying ways, women play predominant role. Today's natives tend to possess dramatic skills usually expressed humorously. Many are interested in politics, and their clowning talents come into good use for leading the masses.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): A good day to ask for a raise! Keep up the fine work. Celebrate tonight with a small party!

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Everybody has a different opinion today... Gather people together and have fun watching opinions. You will learn human nature.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Go along with the animated mood of the day. Enjoy what you have and what may come of doing the good things now. Plan a lively evening out but avoid excesses.

CANCER (June 21—July 22): Two signs: Today your friends are there to do business. You are likely to find yourself at the right place at the right time. Make the most of both!

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): The results of your recent efforts come in clear and strong. There may be an improvement in business or working conditions if you have been thorough (and tactful).

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Today promises excitement, enthusiasm, movement. Things fall into place as you go along. Stay with the present moment— no rekindling of yesterday's or last week's disagreements.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Research and confidential work are favored. Much depends on your choice of which chores to tackle first. Do some serious reading this evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Make a good showing where it counts today; but no boasting. Meditate this evening over your program and your goals.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Reach for a better deal today where you have dissatisfactions. Prepare to ride out tomorrow, to hold to your demands. Make advance plans this evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Relaxation today is apt to be the most profitable long-range investment you can make. Composure, social activity are the best way to round out this kind of day.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Come out, join your friends in a good time. Entertainment, picnics, group sports, according to your own situation.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): You may finally locate some long-wanted and expensive item today. Watch your funds get agitated. Accept invitations this evening. Why not?

No nagging backache!

Sarnia Citizens Best Paid, Belleville Ranks Forty Second

OTTAWA (CP) — Sarnia, the western Ontario chemical centre, ranked first among Canadian cities for 1966 in average income reported by personal income taxpayers.

A statistical study issued today by the revenue department reported Sarnia's 27,166 taxpayers had average earnings of $6,182 in that year.

The report, which is always two years behind the current taxation year, showed the Vancouver Island community of Alberni in second place with an average $5,966 for its 8,910 taxpayers.

Sarnia took over first place from Oshawa which dropped to seventh spot with $5,823. Alberni had been third-ranked in 1965.

Another B.C. centre, Prince Rupert, climbed to third spot from 14th with its 6,284 taxpayers averaging $5,893 in the 1966 taxation year.

Fourth was Windsor, Ont., where 76,345 taxpayers reported an average $5,860. The city was formerly No. 4

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., rose to fifth from seventh on an average income report of $5,843 while yet another B.C. city, Prince George, took sixth place at $5,824. Prince George was also in the previous year.

Rounding out the top 10 were Oshawa and Ottawa with $5,753, St. Catharines with $5,682 and Trail-Rossland, B.C., with $5,658.

Biggest total income tax payment by one city was Toronto's $637,200,000. Montreal residents contributed $350,250,000 and those in Vancouver $214,000,000.

Doctors Highest Paid, Averaging $24,993 Each

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's 13,301 doctors reported average incomes of $24,993 in 1966 to lead all occupations, the revenue department reported yesterday.

The figures were taken from personal income tax returns for 1966.

E gineers and architects were next in earnings, 2,673 reporting an average of $21,200. Then came 8,145 lawyers at $21,045, 5,267 dentists at $17,212 and 5,079 accountants at $13,946.

The order was the same in 1965.

Down at the bottom of the occupational list were pensioners, 125,874 of them with an average of $3,533.

Self-employed salesmen were next at $6,771, entertainers and artists came in at $6,476 and business proprietors at $6,141.

Teachers and professors reported $5,750 and federal government employees $5,615.

The 8,948 fishermen who filed returns had average earnings of $5,461 and 145,828 farmers had $5,205.

PM Fixes Sept. 12 For Session Opening

Parks Fees Irk Nixon

TORONTO (CP) — All charges and fees applying to provincial parks should be abolished and the parks system supported from general provincial revenues, the leader of the Ontario Liberal party said Wednesday.

Robert Nixon, leader of the official Opposition in the legislature, said in a statement the government is defeating the purpose of the parks by regarding the department of lands and forests as a revenue-producer and by failing to give the department sufficient funds to carry out its policies.

The Liberal leader recently returned from a two-week, 2,400-mile trailer tour with his family during which he visited 16 provincial parks in Northern Ontario.

His statement called for an expansion of the park ranger program, in which selected high school students work for lands and forests in various parks capacities during the summer.

The program should be expanded to the departments of highways, education and university affairs, trade and development, welfare and energy and resources management, the statement said.

Strike Brings Flood

ORILLIA (CP) — About 250,000 gallons of water overflowed from a reservoir here Wednesday, flooding three basement apartments in an apartment building and forcing occupants to seek refuge.

An official of the Orillia Water, Light and Power Commission said an inexperienced operator, substituting for the commission's striking employees, did not notice a stuck valve in the reservoir.

Fifty-two members of Local 1687 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers walked off their jobs Tuesday. The union accepted a conciliation board recommendation that the workers receive a 27-per-cent wage increase in four stages over two years but the commission turned it down.

Supervisory personnel are filling in for the strikers. Commission laborers now earn $1.66 an hour and journeyman linemen $2.85.

Tradeau Tells Press of Plans

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau made it official Wednesday that Canada's 28th Parliament will open Sept. 12. And he gave reporters some glimpses of what will be in store.

At a relaxed, catch-all news conference the prime minister said the legislative program will include his promised new language bill declaring French and English as official languages for all federal purposes, including courts and tribunals under federal jurisdiction.

There also will be "quite high" priority for postal rate increases and "very top" priority for Commons rules changes.

The planned rules changes are already prepared, Mr. Trudeau said, and the government would be happy to save some time by discussing them in a general way with other parties before Parliament opens.

Mr. Trudeau also gave a smattering of detail on his own plans for the fall:

—Sept. 5-7 he will be host to Jamaica's Prime Minister Hugh Shearer on an official visit to Canada.

—In the same week he may address a meeting of the Canadian Bar Association in Vancouver, if his calendar permits.

—During the fall he may meet U.S. President Johnson, depending on an assessment by both governments on the usefulness of such a meeting.

—He has no present plans to visit the United Nations.

Also in the foreign field, Mr. Trudeau said some fairly extensive work has been done toward the aim of exchanging diplomatic missions with Communist China.

He said the actual first soundings with Peking may be secret, "It is conceivable that the contacts will be made on a non-official basis at first—in a roundabout way through third parties.

"If that is the case we may decide that it is not politically useful to have them—the contacts—made known."

Mr. Trudeau said various Canadian diplomatic posts have been asked to make soundings on the reactions that might follow recognition of the Peking regime.

And he cautioned against looking for early results, saying the Chinese are a people of "infinite patience" and he hoped Canadian reporters would appreciate this.

In confirming the Sept. 12 opening date for Parliament—a date which had been set tentatively more than a month ago—Mr. Trudeau rejected the call for an earlier opening from Opposition Leader Stanfield.

He said he agrees with the Conservative chief that the country faces serious problems. But he could see little gain in advancing the date.

With the planned rule changes, he said, Parliament might be able to follow a more regular fall-to-spring session, with only emergency sessions in the summer.

The prime minister gave no new details on the planned language bill.

But as outlined during the June election campaign, the bill would provide for creation of bilingual districts where either

PM Says He Has Eye On Strike

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau says he is following closely the Lakehead grain handlers strike and is prepared to take action toward settlement if necessary.

Mr. Trudeau made the statement Wednesday in a telegram to Gil Molgat, Manitoba Liberal party leader.

The prime minister's telegram said he is prepared to act as required dependent on developments, but did not say what form his actions might take.

The statement was a reply to a telegram sent to Ottawa last week by Mr. Molgat, who suggested a settlement deadline be set and that Parliament should be called if the deadline was not met.

The grain handlers have been on strike since July 18, tying up shipment of grain from the elevators.

Copter Crash Kills 21 Bound for Disneyland

COMPTON, Calif. (AP) — Twenty-one persons — many of them looking forward to a Disneyland visit — were killed Wednesday in a helicopter crash similar to one that took 23 lives in this area last May.

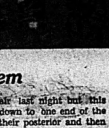
Among the passengers were a recently-retired grandfather, his wife, daughter and eight-year old granddaughter and the 14-year-old grandson of the airline's president.

The Los Angeles Airway helicopter broke apart and crashed in flames in an empty section of playground on a flight from Los Angeles International Airport to Disneyland.

It was the second worst commercial helicopter disaster in the United States. The worst, crash of another twin-turbine Sikorsky S-61L machine owned by the same firm, occurred at nearby Paramount in May, killing 23.

Federal Aviation Administration experts began gathering the strews wreckage to see is a reason for the crash could be determined.

Aboard the craft that crashed Wednesday were a crew of three and 18 passengers.



Witnesses said they heard a "thump, thump, thump" as the helicopter fell earthward. Others described a loud "popping noise", followed by a rapid plunge and an explosion on impact.

The helicopter slammed to earth 12 minutes after takeoff while 20 children played about 200 feet away. No one on the ground was injured.

Kenneth Hahn, a Los Angeles county supervisor, demanded that the FBI be called in. Similarities between Wednesday's crash and the May disaster, he said, suggested "this could be a man-made accident as well as or instead of mechanical failure."

Just before the helicopter hit the ground, Carl Shaa, 14, said he heard the pilot, Lloyd Kreneth Waggoner, 33, scream "Hel-l-l , Hell!" There was no other human sound from the craft, he said.

Steven Fuss, who was working nearby, said he saw the tail rotor fall off "as if it were sheared from the shaft."

"No thanks, I'm trying to quit!"

Selassie Requests Truce During Talks

ADDIS ABABA (CP) — Emperor Haile Selassie has called on Nigeria's Chief of State, Gen. Yakubu Gowon, to declare a cease fire while peace talks with rebel Biafra continue in the Ethiopian capital, diplomatic sources said today.

Selassie also invited Gowon and Lt. Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu, Biafra's Chief of State, to come to Addis Ababa for a face-to-face session next Monday. The informants said. Ojukwu said last week Biafra would observe a truce during the talks.

The Emperor made his proposals as Nigerian troops were reported advancing in a pincers movement toward Aba, the temporary Biafran capital.

July Jobless Drop Is Large

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment in Canada fell to 371,000 at mid-July from 395,000 in June, a drop that was well above seasonal for the time of year, the government's monthly employment report showed today.

However, the total remained well above the figure of 284,000 jobless in July of last year.

The joint report by the Manpower Department and the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said the drop of 24,000 in unemployed between June and July compared to an average decline of 7,000 during the previous five years.

It was mainly due to a smaller than usual increase in the labor force which grew by 165,000 in the month to 8,823,000 while the number of jobs available rose by 189,000 to 7,952,000.

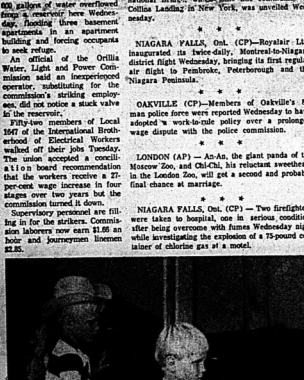
The unemployed represented 4.5 per cent of the July labor force compared with 4.8 per cent in June and 3.5 per cent in the same month last year. Two years ago the July figure was 3.1 per cent.

The picture in brief, with estimates in thousands:

	July	June	July
	1968	1968	1967
Labor Force	8,323	8,158	8,125
Employed	7,952	7,763	7,841
Unemployed	371	395	284

Estimates are based on a survey of 35,000 households during the week ended July 20.

Most industries, manufacturing continued to show softness with jobs down 22,000 on month and 30,000 over the year.



The slow growth of the labor force during the month followed an unusually large rise recorded between May and June, mainly by university students entering the labor market.

Employment of teen-agers jumped by 204,000 between June and July compared with an average gain of 254,000. At the same time, adult employment dipped by 13,000 reflecting the withdrawal of married women from the labor force during the summer school vacation period.

Regionally, Quebec had the highest jobless rate in the country, 5.6 per cent. This compared with 6.2 per cent in June and 4 per cent in July of last year.

The Atlantic region had 5.4 per cent of its labor force out of work, compared with 5.6 per cent a month earlier and 4.3 per cent in the comparable 1967 period.

Ontario's jobless rate fell to 3.9 per cent from 4.3 in the month but still was above the level of 3.1 set in July 1967.

One Way Traffic

Hill Paving Starts Next Week

Commencing next week traffic interruptions will again be the order of the day for West Bridge Street.

But this time it will be the final roundup for the reconstruction and paving project which has kept the Highway 2 Bridge Street artery in a traffic schmozzle for most of the summer.

According to the city engineering department, the general contractor Caton Construction Ltd. of Willowdale will start the final reconstruction early next week. Weather permitting the concrete paving job will be completed before the snow flies.

(At a special meeting this week city council decided in favor of concrete paving, rather than asphalt.)

In the meantime traffic disruptions and detours will again be the order of the day.

Excavating and paving of the north side of the street will be done first.

While this is being carried out westbound traffic along the highway route will proceed up the south side of Bridge Street. Eastbound traffic coming into the city will be detoured down the Devil's Elbow Hill.

When the north side of the street is paved and in use, both east and westbound traffic will use the completed section of Bridge Street.

The Bridge Street West paving job also includes sidewalk replacement along the entire north side of the street and repaving of the intersecting streets to match up with the new concrete street surface.

Claude Brodeur, Ontario College of Education psychologist, stresses point to Loyalist College teachers during seminar yesterday. The psychologist is foe of education-by-lecture classroom traditions, emphasizes creative personal contact between student and teacher.

Teaching Said Too Rigid

Breezes of change are scuttling down the corridors of learning and Loyalist teachers yesterday ran into a whirlwind of new ideas.

The whirlwind was personified by Claude Brodeur, Ontario College of Education psychologist, a man who is a vigorous opponent of traditionalism in learning.

For nearly two hours, Mr. Brodeur traded questions and answers with the Loyalist instructors, now embarked on a three-week pre-school training course.

Mr. Brodeur bluntly says too much ritual attaches to the process of learning in this, the 20th century.

He warns teachers that education policies should be decided "on what is conducive, to learning and what inhibits learning."

Education geared to grades based simply on lecturing, are among the inhibitors.

Personal student - teacher communication is an important inducement to learning.

The teacher must have "feedback" from his students, the better to appreciate how the classroom process is working.

"To have somebody sitting for six weeks in a university listening to somebody (lecturing) without any feedback, is really not a very happy, satisfactory situation," says the psychologist.

The mechanics of student-to-teacher feedback, while the "most critical element in education" is a real problem, he admits.

But any teacher who builds it into the classroom process will accomplish success.

Learning, Mr. Brodeur told the instructors, is a social enterprise involving both teacher and pupil.

Big Day At Fair

Second-day attendance at Belleville Fair yesterday was up from 1967.

Paid admissions totalled 6,387 — compared with 5,373 last year. The figures do not include children 12 years and under.

Meanwhile, Fair organizers are anticipating big crowds tonight as they present a star program attraction — the Trans-Canada Helldrivers.

Sing Out Splashes For Funds

TRENTON — A score of teenagers from the Trenton Sing Out group will splash off in a marathon swim at Canadian Forces Base Trenton Saturday.

The event, which calls for contestants to swim 50 lengths in the base swimming pool, starts at 9:30 a.m. and is expected to last most of the morning.

Each swimmer is sponsored and thus far the Sing Out group has raised $600 to purchase stage equipment and properties for its choral presentations.

Lineman Solves Maze

A mishap at Trenton today cut Canadian Pacific Telecommunication Service to the Quinte area for upwards of four hours. Linemen were on the job patching the maze of wires.

Telephone repairman views wreckage after this massive tree limb tumbled on William Street lawn yesterday. Plunge was blamed on decay generated by Dutch elm disease.

Dutch Elm Disease Hits Again in City

Despite a massive removal program, Dutch elm disease continues to make its presence dramatically known in Belleville.

Latest incident occurred on William Street near Bridge Street East yesterday where a giant limb, decayed by the disease, plunged across the lawn of a small frame residence.

There were no personal injuries and little damage, although the limb swiped out telephone wires in its path.

The incident was the most serious since the end of a city-wide cutdown last winter.

With hundreds of old elms — once a stately symbol of urban Belleville — stricken by the incurable infection, city hall launched a winter-works program against the threat.

By March, 275 elms had been removed from city streets and gardens.

Today, with the report of the latest incident, a public works spokesman said it was not immediately known if there were plans for a second removal drive next winter.

Crane Cuts CP Wires At Trenton Station

TRENTON — A mass of wires covered the ground at the CPR station here today, resulting in a telecommunications blackout.

The accident occurred at 7:20 a.m. when a crane, operated by the Robert P. Sommerville Pipeline Company, cut through telegraph lines at the CPR yards.

A spokesman said the crane operator did not notice the lines as he drove the vehicle across the yards. The crane was being used to shore up a pipelaying project.

The damage has had widespread effects.

The Intelligencer and Radio Station CJBQ were cut off from Canadian Press news services. Stockbrokers' offices in Belleville and Trenton also were blacked out.

Police forces in the area, operating telex communication systems, were not affected.

Workmen on the site say repairs may be completed late this afternoon. This however, may be an optimistic outlook, as other workmen labelled the effort a two-day job.

A CP spokesman expected repair crews would have all services restored on a "temporary basis" by 12:30 p.m.

Workmen were restoring the service to each individual communications subscriber successively, he said.

Try it once and you'll use it forever.

IN MEMORIAM

ELLIS — In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Reta Ellis, who passed away on Tuesday, August 15, 1961.

She did not wish for sorrow, She would not wish for tears, But just to be remembered, Throughout the passing years.

—Sadly missed by daughter Gatie, son-in-law Lawrence, grandsons Kenneth and Gary.

ELLIS — In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Reta Ellis, who passed away August 15, 1961.

Quiet and peaceful she is sleeping,
Sweetest rest that follows pain.
We who loved her sadly miss her,
But trust in God to meet again.

—Sadly remembered by son Ron and daughter-in-law Jean.

WOLTYNEK — In loving memory of a dear father who died August 15, 1967.
Sunshine fades and shadows fall,
Memories remembrances outlast all.

—Always remembered by sons Gary and Robert.

GRAHAM — In loving memory of a dear boy Graham Graham, who passed away suddenly on August 14, 1963.
Though her smile is gone forever,
And her hand we cannot touch,
Still we have the memories,
Which we treasure very much.
Her memory is our keepsake,
With which we will never part,
God has her in His keeping,
We have her in our hearts.

—Remembered always by Ralph, Shirley, Ronnie, Debbie and Christopher.

Camp Issue In Air

PICTON — The Picton army camp issue may have more points than a battalion of bayonets.

The problem is to sort out which point is right — and what may be left when the Canadian Guards leave here soon.

In recent days, rumors circulated the Guards 1st battalion would be replaced by the 1st Signals Regiment at Kingston.

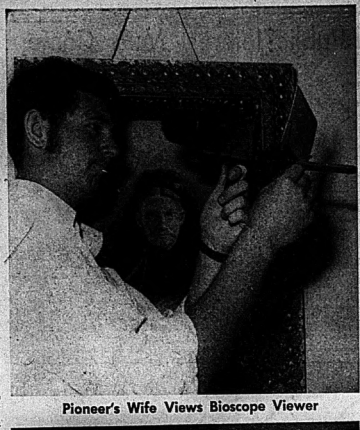
Mayor Harvey McFarland — who reflects local fears of economic setback — said he had discovered the move with army authorities.

Yesterday, in Ottawa to take the salute at a Guard's marchpast, the mayor expected an announcement in "a few days."

Shortly after, army authorities denied such a plan.

Back in Picton today, Mayor McFarland said an announcement may be made in early September of what the army plans.

He said he had again discussed the issue with defence authorities during his Ottawa visit.



A dinner is planned at Camp Picton Sept. 5, said Mayor McFarland, and he thinks the army "will have something to say" at that time.

The mayor reiterated his faith in Finance Minister E. J. Benson, who made an election pledge the government would not close the camp when the 500-man Guards battalion leaves.

"I have every kind of confidence in what Mr. Benson said," emphasized the mayor.

He has received no indication that the minister had changed his mind, said Mayor McFarland.

"I think the Guards will be replaced by something we'll all be happy to have."

Pioneer Home: In the Shade – and Spotlight

Authority Restores Area Home

MADOC — One Hastings County housing problem is being solved by a bustling band of volunteers near here.

The public will have a chance to view the results this Sunday when a restored pioneer home is opened for inspection on the O'Hara conservation area of the Moira River Conservation Authority.

The site, about two miles northwest of here, already is well-known for the O'Hara mill, a sightseeing landmark returned to its original state by the authority.

The home, itself, is something else again — and seems certain to be just as big an attraction as the adjacent mill.

The single-storey white frame home, nestled behind a picket fence on a tree-shaded hill, typifies early Canadiana.

Built in the late 1840s by Madoc township pioneer James O'Hara, it was still inhabited up to the early years of the century and later used as a summer home.

Hence, its trim appearance after more than a century.

Acquirer by the authority in 1965, its restoration has been the project of a special committee headed by Mrs. Allison Kuglin of Chatterton.

The project has a personal identity for her. She is the daughter of Col. Roscoe Vanderwater, founding figure of the authority and the O'Hara site had special appeal for him, Mrs. Kuglin recalls.

However, the project is not merely aimed at recalling the O'Hara name.

"Our goal is to focus attention on the evolution of a pioneer homestead," she says.

The house itself helps in that respect.

It's seven rooms readily demonstrate the changing tastes of succeeding generations of inhabitants.

Close by the sturdy old pine-floored bedroom of the early settlers is a living room laid in hardwood — introduced by the late Victorians.

Furniture and artifacts of the early residents are being situated throughout the home, although the restorers are anxious for donations of pre-Confederation furniture.

Redecoration of the house was carried out after much research into period designs.

Also working toward Sunday's opening date are committee members Mrs. Harry Cotten of Madoc; Mr. and Mrs. George Wishart, of Belleville; William Slater of Orono and Jane Gay, of Stirling.

While the project w 111 be open publicly until fall, no official opening ceremonies are yet planned.

It may be another year, says Mrs; Kuglin, before the house is restored to the committee's satisfaction.

Tomato Blight Feared

Suspicions that late blight may hit potato and tomato crops in Prince Edward County are reported today by government agricultural officials.

Ivan Bell, provincial agricultural representative for the county, says the results of laboratory tests now are being awaited after signs of possible blight were discovered yesterday in Amelias-burg township.

The warning comes as tomato-growing — a prime county cash crop — is peaking in the area.

The agr-ep said there was no need to spread alarm but growers should keep "a tight spray-program" underway until the results of laboratory tests are known.

The blight is symptomized by blackened areas on plant leaves.

Obituaries

MRS. ARTHUR WRIGHTMYER

In failing health for the past three years, Mrs. Mabel Estelle Wrightmyer, 50 Ocean Street, died at her home on Wednesday evening.

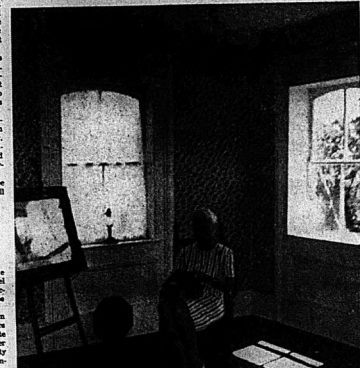
Mrs. Wrightmyer was born in Sidney township, 83 years ago, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. August Youker and had resided in this city most of her life. She was employed with Eaton's and other stores on Front Street for many years and retired from the business world, ten years ago.

Mrs. Wrightmyer was a life member of Bridgewater United Church and active in all branches of work in the congregation. Fraternally, she was a charter member of Minerva Chapter No. 136 of the Order of Eastern Star.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Geoffrey (Vallere) Elay of Princeton, N.J., one brother, George Youker and two sisters, Mrs. Henrietta West, both of Belleville. Also surviving are two grandchildren and two great grandchildren. Her husband, Arthur Wrightmyer died in 1918. A brother Ernest Youker predeceased.

Mrs. Wrightmyer's body is at the Thompson Funeral Chapel. Service will be conducted in the chapel on Aug. 17. Interment will be in Belleville cemetery with Rev. Alfred Poulter officiating.

MRS. GEORGE WELLS



The funeral for Mrs. Alice Josephine Wells, R.R. 4, Belleville, was held from the Hatin Funeral Home, Bancroft on Wednesday afternoon.

Rev. C. Andrews conducted the service in the chapel and also the committal rites at L'Amble cemetery. The bearers were Clarke, Don and Ronald Brown, Sammy and Lawrence Green and Gordon White.

Mrs. Wells died in the Belleville General Hospital on Monday after a lengthy illness. She was born at Maynooth, 55 years ago, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Kehoe. She formerly resided at 90 Purdy Street, Belleville for some time.

Mrs. Wells was a member of Christ Church in this city. Surviving are her husband, George Wells, and one daughter, Mrs. Gerry (Marion Catherine) Saverin, R.R. 1, Foxboro. Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Helen White and Mrs. Laurella Brown of L'Amable and two brothers, Pat Green of L'Amable and Sam Green of Oshawa.

She was a member of the C.A.R.S. Belleville branch.

Thurlow Backs Planning

Thurlow township council is "displeased" with newspaper reports concerning the resignation of Belleville and Suburban planning director P. J. Beavis.

Reeve Horace Casey registered his council's displeasure in a statement read at yesterday's Thurlow council meeting.

"We resent some articles seen in the newspaper in regards to Mr. Beavis' resignation," Mr. Casey said.

"It would appear that all municipalities are unwilling to accept professional advice and are backward about planning problems. We do not feel that this is true in our township."

"We are well satisfied with the assistance given by Mr. Beavis and also the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board and the planning progress we have made in our township," he said.

"We feel that the general opinion of our taxpayers is that the council has been inclined to go overboard with planning rather than having been lax or backward about it."

In other council action yesterday A. J. Beaudrie, building inspector for the township, presented his building permit report to the council.

The report, for the month of July, showed permits issued for an estimated $76,848. An estimated $71,548 of that amount was the result of five residential permits. Two permits for garages and one for residential additions and alterations amounted to an estimated $2,300 and $3,000 respectively.

Asia Gets Food

The best news to come out of Asia for a long time is word that overall food production on that teeming continent has increased significantly.

India and Pakistan, long plagued by famine and the many other misfortunes of underdeveloped lands, are sharing in this newfound wealth. While it is not exactly prosperity — in a continent of so many millions — it is a start.

For years Canadian, American and Australian wheat has kept India and Pakistan from extremes of starvation. Now production in Asia itself is helping to meet home needs. Irrigation, reclamation of land and improved farming techniques have also helped immeasurably.

There is still a long way to go however in increasing the world's food supply. But it can be done, as former Prime Minister John Diefenbaker discovered on a recent European tour. Visiting Switzerland Mr. Diefenbaker said he saw what could be done "by development." The agricultural areas, he added, "are unbelievable."

Similar Western techniques are what are contributing to increased production in Asia. In an area where people lack for so much, especially a balanced diet, this is a hopeful sign.

Drive for Industry

Some "words" were exchanged the other day between members of council and one of their number who is a member of the industrial commission.

No hard feelings or anything, but Alderman Arthur Keegan was saying that options should be taken by the commission on properties needed for future development so as to protect against rising land values. He charged the commission with "dragging its feet" in this regard.

Commission member Gerald Joyce denied this allegation. He said the commission's land acquisition program was "on its way." But Alderman Joyce acknowledged that lack of serviced land was a handicap. Because of this potential industries had been lost. It was one of the first questions executives would raise, this matter of serviced land, he said.

The lesson is obvious. Belleville must increase its acreage of serviced land. The industrial commission evidently is working to this end. If some doubts emerged at city council, mention of them should act as a further spur to the efforts being made to facilitate the establishment of new industries here.

Concrete Favored

City Council's decision to use concrete rather than asphalt for the Bridge Street reconstruction project should be judged on results.

With an eye to a previous asphalt job on Bridge Street hill, council decided that concrete would have a longer life and be cheaper in the long run.

Few would quarrel with this reasoning, although it is expected that the highways department will subsidize the work only to the extent of the low asphalt tender.

If the job results in a more secure road foundations and a better surface for traffic, well and good. If not, then concrete is not the tough element it is supposed to be.

Meanwhile, there are other improvements the city might undertake. Cracked sidewalks abound, there is the perpetual disgrace of litter and many areas of long grass and weeds that need cutting and trimming. Church street just up the hill from the Federal Building is a case in point.

Girls Serve Gas

A summer job for Heather Oke, 16, and Carole Davis, 15, this year means an interesting job in the outdoors. Rather than working in an office or babysitting they are serving gas at a station near Toronto Airport. Manager Bert Copeland says the youngsters — provided by Canada Manpower — are attracting a lot of business — chiefly male. And . . . an interesting sidelight on human nature, women motorists, the girls say, "don't seem to like us. Maybe they are jealous."

Strike Lesson: Public Interest Must Come First

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — It should have been clear from the early months of the federal government was going to play it cool in its troubled labor relations.

It had said so enough times.

Former Finance Minister Sharp gave the civil service unions early warning when he brought down his final budget last spring — the Government for far too long had been a soft touch; now it was to become a hard bargainer.

Finance Minister Benson when he took over, said it again as he had been saying all along as treasury board president — the Government, finally, was done jumping through hoops with fat wage settlements, and any of its workers going on strike might as well know in advance that pickings would be thin.

And finally Prime Minister Trudeau said it over and over again — the wildly generous strike pay-offs of the last two years with their resulting inflationary push in the over-heated economy simply were not going to be repeated.

And then they all set out federal government wage guidelines for the civil service labor — and as a pattern for business and industry — wage and salary increases limited to between six and seven and a half percent.

And now, it has been doubly confirmed, they meant every word of it.

The seaway workers didn't believe it.

Neither did the postal workers.

So with a calculated cool, Trudeau and Benson set out to prove it.

And prove it they did, keeping both the seaway and the postal workers pretty well within the guidelines.

But at what price?

In cash, apart from the hold-the-line wage deal, the seaway settlement cost Canadians and Americans a government-estimated 190 millions in lost business.

Cost of the postal settlement in cash remains incalculable — and in terms of public inconvenience and hardship intolerable.

It had to go beyond the point of public toleration. For that was the great divide, specified the Prime Minister, between a negotiated settlement and one imposed by Parliament. And the Prime Minister was within minutes of announcing Parliament's recall when agreement was reached.

But the sore point remains that it wasn't either the new Trudeau administration or the postal workers who took the beating. It was the taxpayers. They get a hold-the-line wage settlement but at a clearly unacceptable price in terms of inconvenience, hardship and who-knows-how-many millions of dollars in business down the drain.

In the gloom, there is one bright beam of better days to come for the put-upon public.

For if you can read Prime Minister Trudeau correctly — and who can be sure of that — it won't happen again.

Why not?

Well, initially Mitchell Sharp in his last budget message said civil service unions had "alarming" bargaining power that must be restrained.

And he promised it would be restricted to protect both the taxpayers and the economy.

(He neglected to mention that it had been his government that had given the civil service this muscle.)

The public interest he proclaimed as paramount.

Finance Minister Benson in his treasury board days did not say much, but did a great deal to keep government wage deals under control.

Then came the seaway and the postal strikes to test this toughness.

And the tough prime minister laid it on the line publicly, at a press conference: "The civil service unions have to be made to realize that when they are bargaining with the government they are bargaining with the public, and more importantly still bargaining with the poor, unprotected and unorganized part of the public.

"They are demanding the government transfer resources by way of taxes from the mass of this public to their own particular group."

At that point he got tougher than tough, saying that if the civil service unions did not see it that way, then he would be ready with legislation that would either outlaw the right to strike in the essential sectors of the government staff entirely, or make it possible for the cabinet to order strikers back to work while mediation goes on.

An angry Parliament, lashed by an outraged public, may force his hand. If he shows any hesitation in just such a new and decent deal in the public interest.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Aug. 14, 1968 . . .

The Prince of Wales, later Edward VIII, and subsequently the Duke of Windsor, arrived in Canada for an official tour 49 years ago today—in 1919. The tour included the opening of the new Quebec bridge and the laying of the cornerstone of a tower of Canada's new Parliament buildings.

1935—American humorist Will Rogers and pilot Wiley Post were killed in a plane crash near Point Barrow, Alaska.

1945—Japan officially surrendered, ending the Second World War.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1918—Canadian forces captured Damery and Parvillers: French soldiers completely occupied the Lassigny heights and British troops crossed the Ancre River; it was announced that since Aug. 8, 34,000 German prisoners and 700 guns had been taken; British troops arrived in Baku, Azerbaijan, via Persia.

Russia's Powerful Navy

Ottawa Journal

The West has not heard much from the Soviet Navy since Russian cruisers fired the first shots that started the October revolution in 1917. Under Stalin, who was suspicious of Soviet admirals, the navy was relegated to coastal defence. But all that has changed in the last decade.

Today the Soviet Navy — now second only to the U.S. Navy — sails the world's oceans. Its main offensive weapons include 300 modern submarines of which perhaps 55 are nuclear powered. The United States has an active submarine fleet of about 150.

With the establishment of a naval base at Mers-el-Kebir on the Algerian coast to replenish its 30 - to 40-ship Mediterranean fleet, the Soviet Union is apparently adding teeth to its Middle East foreign policy. Just three years ago the powerful American sixth fleet, augmented by other NATO navies, could have called the Mediterranean "Mare Nostrum."

Adding to the challenge, three Warsaw Pact navies — the Soviet Union, Poland and East Germany — recently held exercises in the North Atlantic for the first time.

Great Britain taught the world that a powerful navy was the long arm of foreign policy. In any future East-West confrontation the Soviet Navy will probably be close at hand.

Some NATO members have grown restless about the alliance's worth but the Soviet move westward suggests that NATO's armed strength may still be a deterrent.

Concept of Absolute Rule Under Fire in Soviet Bloc

AP News Analysis

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

MOSCOW (AP)—Intellectual dissent inside the Soviet Union and the liberal trend in Czechoslovakia have forced Soviet communist ideologists to an awkward defence of its policy of absolute rule.

The bland insistence by former premier Nikita Khrushchev of the popularity of the Communist party ignores in many ways to blunt reminders that the party's control cannot be challenged.

"Any attempt to question the leading role of a Communist party, irrespective of the peculiarity of the situation on which this is based, inevitably creates a threat to the Socialist (Communist) system. . . .

That statement from an editorial in Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, means that any opposition is dangerous.

The statement appeared in a tough attack on Czechoslovak liberalization. The Kremlin has been worried about freedom of the press in Prague and the new tendency of opposition groups to put pressure on the Czechoslovak Communist party.

One reason for this worry, which led to the massive Soviet pressure on Prague and the hastening military moves, was the possibility that Czechoslovakia might cease to be a co-operating member of the Soviet bloc.

But probably more important in the Kremlin's view, many diplomatic observers here think, was the possibility that the new freedoms given to Czechoslovaks might be hard to deny to Soviet citizens. Liberalization could be an infectious disease, potentially fatal to the Soviet system.

The system has been fighting early symptoms for three years, since the arrest of Andrei Sinyavsky and Yuli Daniel. The two Russian writers were imprisoned for satirizing, Soviet communism.

The case touched off protests, some leading to further trials, that still reverberate throughout the Soviet Union.

These protests against the throttling of intellectual dissent have been stigmatized by the official propaganda machinery as the work of "renegades and traitors." But it has also forced the machine to grind out a tough new line on what freedom means.

"Freedom without social obligation, without inner discipline, can only lead to anarchy," a Communist party propagandist said recently.

"This clearly shows that political freedoms, which have been established by the Soviet constitution . . . cannot and must not be exploited to the detriment of society, the state and the individual citizens.

The constitution grants freedoms only in accordance with the interests of the "the working class," whose voice the Communist party claims to be. Young demonstrators on behalf of Sinyavsky and Daniel were prosecuted on grounds that they attacked the interests of "the working class."

"Talk of democracy is generally calculated to deceive the masses since non-class democracy is an impossibility," the propagandist said at a lecture in Kiev.

"Democracy," he contended, "shall always belong to one class or another. Thus, to deviate from the working class is to return, openly or covertly, to dictatorship of the bourgeoisie. . . ."

Thus the situation is presented to the Soviet people in stark terms:

Either they submit themselves to what they are told is exploitation by the bourgeois upper classes, or they govern themselves with "working-class" democracy."

"Socialist democracy" means that the Communist party, the leading element of the working class, holds power and the party, operating under "Leninist centralism," is run by a handful of men in the Kremlin who control the choice of their subordinates and successors.

Anyone who questions this is threatening the Communist system—reason enough to silence him.

Parliament Will Meet Sept. 12

English or French might be used as official languages in all dealings with the federal government.

It would also ensure that no one was at a disadvantage before a federal court or tribunal because of inability to speak or understand one or the other of the official languages.

Mr. Trudeau said there is also a "tremendous backlog" of planned legislation left over from the last Parliament, including the omnibus Criminal Code amendments covering abortion, homosexual law, firearms control and a number of other subjects.

The prime minister said Justice Minister Turner has told him he wants to add still further to the bill, although the additions have not yet come before the cabinet. He said he himself would have wanted to add to the bill if he had remained as minister of justice.

On Mr. Stanfield's demand for the bill to be split into component parts, Mr. Trudeau said he still feels the bill should be handled as a whole to save Parliament's time.

There would be ample chance for MPs to dissociate themselves from various parts of the bill if they found them obnoxious. And if it would be a tremendously long process to handle the items separately.

Mr. Trudeau said he expects a while paper on establishment of an incomes and prices stabilization board will be brought down early in the session. He wanted to meet with industry and labor leaders before setting up such a board.

Replying to criticism from the Canadian Labor Congress that the government had set its own wage guidelines before these premier consultations, Mr. Trudeau said the government couldn't wait when faced with wage demands by its own employees or those of government agencies.

The prime minister acknowledged the government had set guidelines in its own negotiations but declined to confirm a reporter's suggestion that the guidelines involved annual increases of 6% to seven per cent.

In some cases it might be more and in some cases less, depending on increases in productivity.

Decorative tube painting does it again. Brendan Andrews, age four, plus candy floss, is the young gentleman so intent on learning more about some of the things that are a part of a woman's world. Carefully explaining the finer points of the embroidery situation is Mrs. Ken Bush, instructor for the Cameo Paint Company.

Cameo Paint Demonstration

By LINDA GELDART
Staff Reporter

Color and artistry was the keynote of this Cameo Paint Products display, located in the Quilting Club Building, at the Belleville Fair.

The booth was filled to capacity with every item imaginable — from decorative to practical. Pajama bags, pillowslips, bibs, children's aprons and even humorous toilet covers could be found in abundance.

Instructor, Mrs. Ken Bush, who has been doing this embroidery since February, described it this way: "It is an interesting hobby that can be profitable a lot do and sell." After relating how she had been ill for some time, she said that the hobby was a great help to her morale and gave her something to do. "I find it most relaxing."

One description read simply "an exciting new hobby that all the family will enjoy". It all goes to say that this is a simple and easy to learn hobby — come out, visit the booth, and you will undoubtedly agree.

MR. AND MRS. IAN PETER C. SCARTH

Scarth – Murphy

Central United Chapel, Sarnia was the setting for the recent marriage of Eleanor Jane Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Murphy of Sarnia to Ian Peter Campbell Scarth, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. C. Scarth of Belleville. Mr. R. Maurice Boyd officiated at the ceremony and wedding music was rendered by organist Mrs. Parker.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white organza over crepe with Swiss cotton lace outlining the Mandarin collar, extending panels and the long sheer sleeves. A crown of matching lace was caught to veil which extended into a chapel train. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses with white and mauve stephanotis.

The maid of honor Miss Monica Scarth, sister of the bridegroom and the bridesmaid Miss Janet Garrett of Sarnia were dressed alike in floor-length sleeveless gowns of mauve nylon sheer over taffeta with matching headdresses. Each carried a nosegay of pink and mauve carnations. Miss Beth Murphy, niece of the bride as flower girl wore a floor-length white organza over satin dress highlighted with mauve sash and lace trim.

Donald Allin of Belleville was groomsman, while the ushers were Brian Robertson of Kingston and Gerry Gray of Waterloo.

At the reception held in the Sarnia Golf and Country Club, the bride's mother welcomed the guests wearing a flowered dress and coat ensemble of pure silk in shades of pink, mauve and green with pink accessories and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a lime green ensemble with matching accessories and a purse corsage of Talisman roses.

For the honeymoon trip, the bride wore a shantung dress and jacket ensemble with biscuit shade accessories and a corsage of roses.

On return the couple will reside in Kingston.

Income Tax Based on Family Unit Concept, Opposed by B and P Clubs

QUEBEC (CP) — A resolution asking that income taxes not be based on a family unit concept was passed Wednesday by delegates to the biennial convention of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

The federation will ask the federal minister of finance not to implement the recommendation of the Carter royal commission on taxation that a family's income tax be based on the total amount earned by all incomes, as at present.

About 400 delegates and observers are attending the five-day convention which ends today. They represent about 6,000 members in 150 branches.

A resolution was passed asking that the basic personal exemption for income tax purposes be raised to $2,000 from the present $1,000.

Another asked that when a wife is employed in a family business by her husband, or vice versa, her salary be deducted as any other employee's, and not added to her husband's for tax purposes.

Margaret Ashdown of Toronto was elected president of the federation for the next two years.

Other officers are: Charlotte VanDine, Montreal; Beth Aulin, Kamloops, B.C.; Margaret Price, St. James, Man., and Joan Wilson, Guelph, Ont., vice-presidents.

Ann Landers
A Driver Needs All His Concentration

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Drunk drivers get fined, speeders get fined, people who drive without a licence get fined, but nothing is done about the teen-age scrpots who can't leave each other alone long enough to let a fellow drive a car.

I am not a crabby old lady. I am 24 years of age. I love my husband very much, but I wouldn't dream of kissing him or running my hands through his hair when he is at the wheel.

Last night we were on the highway and noticed the car ahead was weaving from one side of the road to the other. My husband said, "That guy must be drunk." As we got closer we saw the driver was a boy of about 18. At first it looked as if he were alone in the car. Then another head appeared. Ann, the girl was sitting on the boy's lap kissing his neck.

Why is there no law against this sort of thing? — FUMING.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR FUMING — According to Chief Nicholas Ferri of the Illinois Secretary of State's office, there is a law against reckless or negligent driving. There is also a law against interfering with a driver's ability to control a vehicle. Chief Ferri said staggering number of accidents occur because kids insist on making out at high speed. He asked me to suggest that kids from coast to coast cool it. So do like the man says.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — How long does a mother have to keep still? Forever?

My husband is a kind and gentle man. We raised our children to be thoughtful and considerate. I never recall my husband losing his temper with me, although I am sure I deserved it.

The problem is that our darling daughter is married to a man who is so mean and abusive it breaks our hearts to be around them. Our son-in-law takes sadistic delight in insulting and hurting this poor girl. She keeps a neat and comfortable house and has raised two fine children. Everyone loves her.

What mystifies us is that she takes this punishment and never opens her mouth to defend herself. Yesterday we were there for lunch and he let fly some foul language for no reason whatever. What is the matter with him anyway? — WE NEED AN ANSWER.

DEAR NEED — Your son-in-law is obviously immature, short-fused, and he probably feels woefully inadequate for reasons which go a long way back.

The real question, however, is what's the matter with your daughter? Why does she tolerate this shameful abuse? When she is able to face up to the answer to this question she might find a solution.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Please stop knocking fortune tellers and calling them fakers, I can attest to the fact that a tea leaf reader has added years to my life by warning me to stay out of planes, helicopters and motorcycles. In the last five years I have lost two friends in plane accidents, a cousin in a helicopter crash and my neighbor was killed last week in a motorcycle accident. If it hadn't been for the fortune teller I might have been with them. — SIGN OF THE SAPPHIRE.

DEAR SIGN — Did the tea leaf reader warn you against taking a bath? Thousands of people are injured every year getting in and out of the bathtubs.

* * *

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing an unstamped self-addressed envelope, plus 6c for postage.

Couple Honored By Community

MINTO — Minto Community Hall was filled Saturday evening when relatives and friends from this area gathered to honor Mr. and Mrs. Morley Thomas (nee Joy Roblin), of Regina, on their recent marriage.

Roy Eggleton of Stirling filled the duties of chairman, welcoming all the friends and relatives, and extended best wishes to the bride and groom.

Mrs. Roy Eggleton led in community singing with Mrs. Harry Brown at the piano. Readings were given by Mrs. Ernie Wannamaker, Mrs. Roy Eggleton and Mrs. Ken Broadworth. Mr. and Mrs. Grant Richardson sang two numbers, and their two boys gave piano selections. Mrs. Harry Brown also rendered musical numbers, and Mrs. Arthur Broadworth gave a monologue.

Mrs. Clifford Metts of Ivanhoe then read the address; after which the bride and groom were presented with several gifts. The couple expressed their thanks and appreciation for all the gifts received, and to all who had helped in any way. The event ended with the serving of refreshments.

Successful Living

Reader Requests Information Re Vanier Institute

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: Do you know anything about the Vanier Institue for matchmaking and whether you would recommend its use? We are contemplating registering with them but hesitate to for fear it is, in fact, a category as some similar outfits in the States which are supposed to be nothing but rackets.

Somehow the name "Vanier" conveys a superior type service but maybe I am wrong. — Doubtful.

Dear Doubtful: There are two organizations:

1. The Vanier Institue of the Family; and

2. The F. H. Vanier Centre.

The first is an outstanding effort for promotion of family life... founded and sponsored by our late governor-general and his wife. It does not undertake to match up marriage partners. It does undertake research and conferences about what makes families tick.

I can't say about the second but I can quite comfortably recommend to you the Scientific Introduction Centre, 60 Avenue Road, Toronto 5, which is staffed by professional counsellors and is gaining in popularity as just what the name implies: a service for helping people who are compatible to become acquainted. What happens after that is up to the people. I am enclosing their leaflet.

Dear Doris: I have been trying to persuade my husband to make a will, and to have the money in his bank account, put into a joint bank account.

Should anything happen to him I would have no funds at all until some insurance money came through. My husband is in the best of health and I'm not trying to be morbid, but our situation is this: several small children, a house owned jointly, and adequate insurance money.

Please settle this argument.

A Faithful Reader.

Dear Faithful: A joint account is a poor answer, when it comes to one partner's demise.

You see, the bank clamps down on any joins account until the dead person's affairs are settled, just to be sure, I suppose, that there is money for any debts against the estate. This happens with or without a will, although a will makes settlement easier.

The best safeguard against sudden penuliessness is a separate account in your name, with a lump sum in it which just stays there to collect interest until the day when you need to draw on it following your husband's death, and before probation of his will. If you die first, he should have the security of easy inheritance by the fact of your having also made a will.

Dear Doris: What do you think about recent methods of increasing bust measurements by means of injections of silicone fluid? — Wondering.

Dear Wondering: I take a dim view — on advice of my medical consultant. Silicones may achieve wanted curves, and hence be of value to dancers and actresses whose figures have a good deal to do with the success of their careers.

But there are occasional cases in which such injections cause infection or disfigurement. Falsies are a far better idea for the usual career girl or mother - of - a - family.

WEDDING

CLARK — HAWLEY

TWEED — A summer wedding took place recently in the Northbrook United Church, when Rev. Sedgwick united in marriage Sheila Anne Hawley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hawley, of Northbrook, to Ronald Charles Clark.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an organza gown with a rayon and cotton lace bodice with a V front and low back with a butterfly bow at the waist. Her veil was a three-tier nylon, with white scalloped edge. The matron of honor was Mrs. Cheryl Snider, sister of the bride, dressed in full length gown of blue satin and the bridesmaid was Miss Fay Parks, dressed in yellow satin, floor-length, wearing headdress to match.

Terry Lovard was best man. The ushers were Donald Pringle, uncle of the bridegroom, and Charles Snider, brother-in-law of the bride.

The bride's mother received the guests dressed in blue lace with white accessories, and the bridegroom's mother wore a pink lace dress and coat, with white accessories.

A buffet lunch was served following the wedding, and reception and dance was enjoyed by all. Following the reception the bridal couple left on a short honeymoon, the bride was dressed in silver blue lace dress with white accessories.

Excellent Addition to Muffins

By MARY MOORE

When Shirley burst through her door after work there was nothing ready for dessert. She examined the refrigerator with a suspicious eye and found a half-full jar of 1967 Rhubarb and some sour milk.

She reached for a little "Leftovers Cookbook" on the kitchen book shelf and found Jam Cupcakes which called for Strawberry Jam and sour milk. It did not take more than one second to switch that to Rhubarb Jam.

After they were baked she sent four up the street to me via 3½ - year - old Sharon to taste fresh from the oven. They were great.

I think you could substitute other jams (not blueberry) for the rhubarb or strawberry if you have some that has been hanging around too long.

JAM MUFFINS (24 — 2")

½ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
2 cups sifted all - purpose flour
¼ tsp. salt
1 tsp. baking soda
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. nutmeg
½ cup sour milk
1 cup rhubarb (or strawberry) jam

Cream shortening and sugar together until light, then beat in eggs. Sift flour, salt, baking soda and spices. Add alternately with sour milk, stirring just enough to blend. Fold in jam barely enough to mix. Do not beat muffin batter. Spoon into 24 buttered muffin cups. Or better still, into 24 fluted paper cupcake cups, positioned in 2" muffin cups. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. 20 min. Serve fresh if possible. However, these were wonderful when they were one day old. I know because I just ate one.

Quebec Teachers Ask Conciliator as Talks End

QUEBEC (CP) — The province's 29,000 elementary and secondary school teachers have asked for a conciliator following a break-down in contract negotiations.

The teachers, represented by the Quebec Teachers' Corporation, the Provincial Association of Catholic Teachers and the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers, today were to pass their request for a conciliator to Labor Minister Maurice Bellemare.

The teachers' action follows more than a year's negotiations aimed at increasing their salaries, changing their working conditions, increasing job security and giving them a greater say in educative processes. No solutions have been in progress to draw up a first master collective agreement for all Quebec teachers.

Joseph Leblanc, chief negotiator for the teachers, said the decision to apply for conciliation was arrived at because "our positions remain far apart" despite a conciliator can help us."

At a news conference late Wednesday, he refused to comment on the possibility of a teachers' strike. He said the call for conciliation had one aim — "to reach a settlement."

Jean Cournoyer, chief negotiator for the government and the 1,300 school boards involved, said he does not expect a strike. The teachers would accept the government's offer eventually, he said.

The 60-day time limit involved in the conciliation process—the period after which the teachers could legally strike—might even increase the possibility of settlement.

"The time limit places the teachers in the position of having to decide if there will be a strike. I don't think there will be a strike because our offer stands up and the employers, the school boards, will make sure that our offer continues to stand up."

Mr. Leblanc said the conciliation process allows the teachers to express their opinions on whether to accept the government's offer or exercise their right to strike.

Monetary demands of the teachers have been expressed thus far by the government as a total figure over the proposed three-year contract — $90,000,000.

The government has offered a total wage increase over three years of $64,000,000.

The government's last offer was submitted July 30. Negotiations since have resulted only in teacher dissatisfaction. The teachers claim the government has sought to consolidate clauses in 800 teachers' contracts and deprive them of many hard-won rights.

Municipal Board Gives Approval for Addition

DESERONTO — With just a few hours to spare, the Ontario Municipal Board gave its long-awaited approval for building the quarter million dollar addition to the Deseronto Public School. Last Thursday, clerk-treasurer Joseph Reynolds received a telegram authorizing the construction.

There has been growing uneasiness in Deseronto at the delay, as the tenders for the building expired at midnight, August 8. Hope had been given up. During the postal strike, letters from the Deseronto council had to be delivered personally to the O.M.B., usually by Donald Reid, chairman of the school board, whose work as a transport driver took him to Toronto frequently.

Word was sent immediately to the contractors, W. J. Hesken, Ltd., of Kingston, whose tender had been accepted, and to the architects: Holl-Shousen, Thompson, Laframbeise, and Mallette, also of Kingston.

At its February meeting, the council had given its approval to proceed with three items which the town badly needs: construction of the school addition; installation of a sewer system and disposal plant; and construction of a new water tower. No approval has yet been received for the other two much-needed improvements.

Driver, 72, Is Blamed For Four Fatalities

CAMPBELL'S BAY, Que. (CP) — A coroner's inquest Wednesday night ruled negligence on the part of Telesphore St. Cyr, 72, of Demers Centre, Que., in the death of Kenneth Soucie, 57, of Ajax, Ont., in a three-car crash that killed four people near here June 29.

Police testified Mr. St. Cyr drove out of a driveway on to Highway 8 near Demers Centre into the path of a car driven by Patrick Thomas, 25, of Pembroke, Ont. The cars collided and the Thomas vehicle slid into the path of a third car driven by Maxwell Liedtke, 31, of Pembroke.

All persons in the Thomas car were killed: Mr. Soucie, Mr. Thomas and Alexander Tibbits, 32, of Pembroke, Ont.

Mrs. Maxwell Liedtke, 31, of Pembroke, a passenger in the third car, died later in hospital.

The accident occurred on a straight section of the highway. Demers Centre is about seven miles north of Pembroke, and 28 miles from Campbell's Bay.

Under questioning during the inquest, Milton Kredl who operates an ambulance service in Pembroke said his wife refused to send an ambulance to the scene because the accident took place in Quebec.

He said "regulations don't allow me to go to Quebec" on ambulance calls.

Pilots Take Action

Pact to Stop Hijacking Of Planes Not Enforced

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Five years ago most of the world agreed at a meeting in Tokyo to fight the airline hijacker through joint action that would discourage and perhaps end gunpoint diversion of planes, crews and passengers.

But though the hijacking menace increased, that pact has still not come into force mainly because of foot-dragging by major powers.

At least 12 countries must ratify the pact before it can be activated. So far only six—Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Portugal, the Philippines and Formosa—have done so.

Now world pilots have stepped in where governments normally should operate. Tired of ineffective diplomacy, the 35,00-member International Federation of Airline Pilots has ordered sanctions against Algeria in order to secure return of a commercial Israeli plane and its occupants.

What the pilots intended is that Algeria's air links with the world should virtually be severed or so badly crippled that the government would be forced to yield the Israeli plane. There is some doubt whether the pilots' action can be made fully effective though there is widespread certainty that Algeria will experience difficulties.

Eventually the pilots anticipate that if the Israeli plane is not yielded, the ban against traffic with Algeria should include all air travellers holding Algerian passports.

This, in the eyes of experienced diplomats, involves unprecedented use by a civilian body of powerful measures normally exercised by governments in joint action. Whether this use can be effective is another matter.

For example, the French government has strong foreign-policy links with Algeria. The French pilots' union has agreed to support the move by the International Pilots' Federation but there is nothing to prevent one government from substituting military transport to restore broken civilian air links.

Perhaps the most dramatic impact of the pilots' decision is that it will once more focus public attention on the need for effective world action against the hijacker.

The mystery is why governments have been so slow in ratifying the Tokyo arrangement. A British official said his country is trying to move ahead as quickly as possible but maintained its overseas dependencies are holding up introduction of British legislation.

The suspicion lingers, however, that Britain would act only when it is sure other major powers are ready to deposit their ratifications with the International Civil Aviation Organization at Montreal.

Nevertheless in British quarters, there is warm sympathy with the move by the International Pilots' Federation.

Hepatitis Totals Near Epidemic Levels of 1961 and 1962

By KEN KELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A sharp rise in infectious hepatitis in Newfoundland, Saskatchewan and Alberta is pushing the national totals for this liver ailment close to the epidemic levels of 1961 and 1962.

Only those three provinces, however, have followed the expected pattern of increase.

While British Columbia figures are up, their rise has not been as sharp.

Most of the other provinces appear to have escaped so far from the usual cycle of the disease that brings a marked upsurge of cases every seven years.

Hepatitis is a virus-caused disease that can damage the liver, produce jaundice and, sometimes, prove fatal.

Highly infectious, it is generally transmitted through poor sanitary precautions.

The most recent epidemiology figures available at Ottawa showed 4,159 cases reported by the provinces to July 6, compared with 5,344 at that date last year.

Dr. J. W. Davies, chief of the federal health department's epidemiology division, said that by the year's end, the total probably will hit 10,000 cases, up 2,000 over last year. Peak years were in 1961 with 12,314 cases and 1962 with 17,538.

By provinces, the reported cases to July 6, with the comparable figures in that period last year:

Newfoundland 1,000 cases and 313; Prince Edward Island 111 and 118; Nova Scotia 104 and 176; New Brunswick 111 and 254; Quebec 749 and 983; Ontario 905 and 1,118; Manitoba 163 and 183; Saskatchewan 946 and 260; Alberta 304 and 417; British Columbia 859 and 998.

Possibly reflecting a seasonal fluctuation that results in fewer cases in summer than the fall or winter, several provinces reported a tapering off lately.

Newfoundland authorities said that to the end of July the 1,118 cases was more than double the 526 in that period of 1967. However, monthly totals declined progressively to 80 cases in July compared to the 166-a-month average since January.

Saskatchewan's seven-month total was also more than double last year's 493 cases compared with 205. Again there was a monthly decline since January with the single exception of March.

W. J. Totten, executive assistant to the province's director of regional health services said the figure may reflect the more efficient reporting of cases.

Nevertheless, "we are taking a serious look at what's causing this."

Dr. William Watt, local health director for Alberta, said his province's six-month total of 598 cases, compared with 403 last year, is a spill-over from late 1967.

Reports of new Alberta cases declined steadily with only one exception in four-week periods right up to August 3, since the start of the year.

"There's no reason to anticipate an epidemic in Alberta," he said.

"But nobody can be definite about an epidemic when you're dealing with a virus infection."

The Alberta cases were mostly in small northern communities.

In Quebec Dr. Roger Foley, director of epidemiology for the provincial health department, reported 236 cases to July 31 against 203 in the seven-month period last year. Since the 2,310 cases in 1962 and 1,311 in 1963, the annual total for Quebec has been around 500.

In Ontario Dr. J. S. Bell, the province's chief of epidemiology said the anticipated peak last year did not occur and it is too early yet to tell about this year.

Dr. Bell's figures for the first six months of this year show 1,045 against 1,125 for the corresponding period last year. The Ontario total last year was listed as 1,854 well below 1967's peak of 3,485.

4-H Exchange Delegate Notes Condition of Cattle

NAPANEE — Wayne Parks, one of the 4-H Club exchange delegates who recently returned from a visit of over two months to the British Isles, states that one of his most interesting experiences came just before he boarded The Empress of Canada July 13. When visiting the Royal, he had made the acquaintance of a young man whose uncle had purchased 100 of the Holstein heifers shipped from Canada this summer. As one of the heifers had come from Parkhaven, Wayne's home farm, he expressed a desire to see the herd and the nephew made the arrangements.

This was one of the farms cleaned out by the foot and mouth disease, and the owner decided to import purebred Holstein, rather than pick up cattle of a poorer type in England.

Wayne states that he was shocked when he saw the poor shape the heifers were in, and was given the explanation. The crossing had taken 12 days, and for five of those days it was so rough that none of the heifers had lain down. They lost from 100 to 300 pounds apiece during the passage, and the new owner estimated that it would take them a year and perhaps more, to recover. A few of the animals were then milking, their first lactation, and the owner was worried because they were producing so much milk, as it would hinder their recovery, he believed. One animal was giving 60 pounds of milk a day.

The owner had purchased the 100 heifers at $470 apiece, but said that transportation costs brought the cost up to $660. However, he did not regret the move. The number of desirable heifers left in England after the disease was cleared up, was limited.

Junior Farmers Flock to City for Their Day at Fair

More than 300 Junior Farmers and 4-H club members from four counties descended on the Belleville Fair this morning for their annual Quinte district competition.

Under the direction of their respective county leaders, the Juniors started arriving at the fairground well before nine o'clock for a full day of judging events.

First came registration and then it was down to work judging cattle, horses, sheep and swine, as well as agricultural products.

Late this afternoon judging scores will be totalled and this evening the winners will appear before the grandstand for presentations.

All in all it is a big day for the Quinte district farm juniors. They get free admission to the fairgrounds, get to see all the fair attractions and even have lunch on the house.

Ending the competition for the evening was the patch race which was won by El Hubbs on Midget's Pride.

Angling Around the Barrel

A competitor in the Gymkhana eastern Ontario Championship western games last night rounds the barrel in fine style.

Chalk New Champ

Kelsey Dethroned as Gymkhana King

It was a neck and neck run for the Gymkhana eastern Ontario championship for western games last night.

Even right down to a complete runoff of the three events, barrel racing, pole bending, and pick-up, by Wayne Kelsey and George Chalk who were tied for first.

But last year's champion Wayne Kelsey faltered and a new champion was chosen — George Chalk of Napanee.

The only woman in the stiff competition, Joanne McNevin, got off to a good start in the first event.

She won the barrel race with a time of 18 seconds flat. However, a third place in the pick-up race and a disqualification in the pole bending (knocked over a pole) took her out of the running.

Both Kelsey and Chalk were tied with 20 points apiece and they decided to runoff for the championship with a repeat of all three events, Chalk winning.

In the initial events Wayne Kelsey won the polebending event on Jim Dandy with a time of 23.4 sec. and Mel Evans took the pick-up on Little Joe in 19.4 sec.

After the evening grandstand performance was over the Bishop Seed Co. trophy was awarded to the champion.

Between all events last night there were special professional acts ranging from a magician to a rope skill act.

Other contests last night that pleased the good-sized crowd were the chariot races which were divided into three classes according to pony size.

Terry Peter with Tipsy and Lucky won the 44 inch and under class, Lyle Mitchell took the 45 to 48 inch class with Appachie and Tapsy and Laverne Way won the large pony chariot race with Topsy and Ted.

Two show and parade classes were also on last night's schedule. The Arabian native costume class was taken by Linda Luke and Charles Culmer won the parade horse competition.

Lots of Help at Hullvue

There's nothing like having lots of help when you decide to show cattle at the Belleville Fair.

At least that is the feeling of Chicago Black Hawks hockey star Bobby Hull who yesterday at the beef day show had almost the entire family dressing up his herd of Hereford cattle.

Not only was the Big Island hockey star busy with the water hose, curry comb and brush but his had his three young sons hard at work helping to prepare the Hullvue younger cattle.

Brett, the youngest Hull son was hardly tall enough to see over the back of a young Hereford calf but he stuck manfully to the task helping his older brothers, Bobby and Blake.

Yesterday at the fair Dual Purpose Shorthorns, Angus and Scotch Shorthorns were shown during the afternoon while in the evening the Herefords were on show.

Today is Channel Islands Day at the fair with the Jerseys and Guernseys featuring the daily cattle show in the fair coliseum.

Prizes, Tabloid Praised

The president of the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies came from Paris, Ontario for the official opening of the Belleville Fair.

He brought with him a pat on the back for the directors and staff of the Belleville Agricultural Society, sponsors of the annual five day exhibition.

Harold Buchanan, who presides over 220 agricultural societies in Ontario, complimented the Belleville Fair administrators on the simplicity of their prize lists and ...ister of the Fair Board's tabloid edition circulated as a supplement to The Intelligencer the weekend before the exhibition opened.

President Buchanan returned to his headquarters with copies of the Belleville Fair prize lists and copies of the Fair publication as samples to display and be studied by delegates to a convention of western Ontario Agricultural Societies to be held later this year.

Senior Hockey Gets A Start

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor
(First of a Series)

TORONTO—Two hours before the Ontario Hockey Association inaugural Senior "A" meeting here yesterday, and eight weeks before the opening of this winter's loop schedule, the fate of senior hockey in Belleville had not been decided.

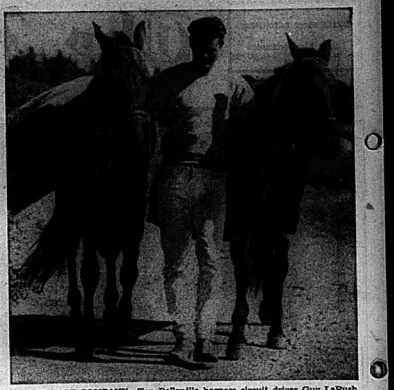
City lawyer Robert Temple—spokesman for the local Mo-Hawk senior franchise group—made that decision yesterday, peeling off $50 in bills and handing them to OHA business manager Bill Hanley as Belleville's 1968-69 entry fee.

Of last year's 10-team Senior "A" field, only the Guelph entry has been scratched, with Toronto and Collingwood question marks, the senior club governors learned in a Maple Leaf Gardens gathering.

Mo-Hawk president Temple admitted his doubts prior to, and even after yesterday's meeting. "It's as expensive hobby, you know," he said, referring to the estimated $10,000-$12,000 deficit the latest city senior entry has incurred in its first two years' operation.

But there appeared to be two glimmers of financial hope in the rumor-ridden maze that surrounds this year's attempt to keep a Belleville team in the popular Senior "A" circuit.

First, three spokesmen for the group of 15-or-so Belleville franchise backers have told The Intelligencer recently that their group's desire to see senior hockey stay in the city precludes the possibility of a Mo-Hawk collapse because of too much red ink on the ledgers.



The second consideration is one that may wind up as the remedy for senior hockey's dollar doldrums for all clubs.

The so-called "share-the-wealth" system replacing guaranteed wages to players by an even split among roster-members of a team's season take is being touted as the only feasible means of keeping senior clubs anywhere near financial solvency.

But before an Aug. 28 meeting sets out the 1968-69 schedule for the club spokesmen, Robert Temple has more than money worries. These he hopes to clarify as soon as possible with Mo-Hawk backers.

Players for a city senior team? "That's another matter, along with the selection of a good manager-coach," the Mo-Hawk president said. "It's pretty late, you know."

Pending calamity, yesterday's Temple trip to Toronto means Belleville is "in" the senior group—but the club doesn't go in over its head.

IN FAST COMPANY—Top Belleville harness circuit driver Guy LaRush cools off the Peters' Racing Stable entries for Saturday's Black Diamond Stake Race, "Keeter Bing" and "Joanne's Gem". The race will close out the Belleville Fair and is the biggest event of the year for local harness racing fans.

Ah, vacation time.

Just when train minor league mothers and fickle senior members of the Quinte sports fraternity were beginning to take their mental tail, along come those two anticipated weeks to the rescue.

What fortuitous fortnight is this I see before mine eyes?

It's not, foresooth, a chance to say: "ball-players begone — diamonds be damned!"

For 14 days, no account-giving telephone calls, scribbled-up scorebooks, and nothing even resembling a ball, bat or Bodenl head.

Of course, I'll probably have to play my tape recording of a teletype machine several times daily just for reassurance that I'm still in touch with reality, but other than that, it's going to be "Hello sunshine, goodbye deadlines!"

But I'll be thinking of you — you Belleville Jaycees, while you're fighting for your playoff lives, — I'll ponder your fate over a tall cool one.

And you Commercial League softball teams — while the top four of you are hammering each other for the league title, I'll pause in my daily swim and hope you have a little less Alemite dust to eat and fewer 98-degree temperatures to withstand.

Not to forget you senior hockey organizers. I may even peer over my sunglasses and see reflections of you harried faces in the glistening coolness of a Kawartha Lake.

As occasional 18 — not the usual two-and-a-half hour quickie jammed into non-working gaps — will bring to mind the frenzied hours put in by the bustling Quinte Country Club committees, readying everything from bunkers to bar-stools as bests for yet another invitational this, or four-ball that.

And you harness drivers: If I do get within a furlong of a track, it'll be to worry about how much money you're going to win for me, not how to correctly spell your names.

And . . .

Hey! What am I doing sitting here?!!

Ottawa Avalanche

Jackson Harried, But Passes Still Soar

OTTAWA (CP) — You can punish Russ Jackson, but you can't always put him down.

The Ottawa quarterback was harried and at times desperate Wednesday night before an onslaught of Saskatchewan Roughriders linemen.

Flattened five times, he picked himself up to throw four touchdown passes and lead his Riders to a 37-23 victory in an interlocking Canadian Football League game before 25,256 fans.

"We either got to Jackson or we got beat," summarized a morose Eagle Keys, Saskatchewan coach.

The western Riders also laid special plans to keep the ball away from Ottawa flanker Whit Tucker, but it was another piece of strategy that went wrong. He caught three of Jackson's four touchdown passes, and they were the sixth, seventh and eighth for Tucker this year.

The win was no cinch, however, and Saskatchewan looked bent for victory as late as the middle of the fourth quarter.

But with the score tied 23-23, Saskatchewan's Alan Ford fumbled the ball away on his own 40, and within five minutes Ottawa had two touchdowns in the bag.

That fumble, one other fumble, and three interceptions led to touchdowns in the game which Ottawa coach Frank Clair described as a "heart-shaker."

It left Ottawa high in Eastern Conference standings, four points ahead of Hamilton and Toronto. Rough Riders scored 128 points in three games, and they now are the last undefeated club in the CFL.

RUSS JACKSON

Saskatchewan retains a one-point lead over Calgary in the West.

Fullback Rick Black and rookie halfback Vic Washington scored Ottawa's other touchdowns. Bill Van Burkleo kicked a 45-yard single and Don Sutherin converted all five touchdowns, and added a single on a 46-yard field goal attempt.

Henry Dorsch and Alan Ford scored Saskatchewan's two touchdowns 87 seconds apart in the third quarter.

Dorsch plunged five yards for his score on a play set up by an Ottawa fumble, and Ford caught a 26-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Ron Lancaster after Saskatchewan took over the ball on a pass interception.

Ford kicked two long singles and Bill Cook picked up nine points on field goals of 25 and 38 yards and two converts and another field goal attempt that missed.

Entry Set

Montreal Safe at Home

MONTREAL (CP) — A historic first dent in the hitherto solid American major league of baseball occurred in a smoke-filled downtown Montreal hotel room Wednesday when Montreal officially became a member of baseball's National League.

"Montreal is now a full-fledged member of the league," said NL president Warren Giles and with these words, the city became the first centre outside of the United States to be admitted to the major leagues.

Club sponsors made the first payment of the franchise fee, a club president was appointed along with a general manager, former prime minister Lester Pearson was named honorary team president, two new backers were added to the sponsors' group and three scouts were named to the Montreal team, in developments announced at a huge news conference.

I believe Montreal is a vibrant city." Giles said after receiving a cheque for $1,120,000 in U.S. funds as Montreal's first payment of the $10,000,000 franchise fee.

John McHale, 46, a man who has spent 28 years in organized baseball—21 of them in the front office—was appointed president and chief executive officer of the club and Jim Fanning, a close friend of McHale's, was given the job of general manager.

Paul Beaudry, a Montreal cement company executive, was announced as one of the new backers and McHale was the other. The latter said he had invested in the club as well as taking on the top post with the team.

The other sponsors are distillery magnate Charles Bronfman, Lorne Webster, whose family interests include ownership of Toronto Globe and Mail and the Windsor Hotel in Montreal; trucking executive Sidney Maislin and construction executive John Newman.

More Than Just A Costume Change

Because, for Pat Steele of Elmwood Drive, Belleville, a change of riding garb usually means an addition to her equitation trophy case. The 18-year-old horsewoman yesterday took second-place Belleville Fair honors in both the "English" class and "Western" competitions. Her "English" mount, shown here, is "Rideau Bend Starlight', while Pat is aboard quarter-horse "Susie Q" when riding "Western" style. She took both titles in last week's Peterborough Exhibition, and this weekend travels to the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto.

A Big Stake

Top Circuit Driver Makes Pacers His Life

By JERRY HOFF
(Staff Writer)

Guy LaRush may have more four-legged friends than any Quinte area resident you can think of.

But the 25-year-old harness driver regards his bevy of stable charges as more than just acquaintances — they're his life's work.

"Horses are my life," Belleville's top harness racing driver says. "They're my only ambition."

And so far, he's made that ambition pay off.

This year, LaRush has driven 40 winners, including Johnny Bing, a $9,003 winner at Toronto, and 13 winners at the weekly Belleville Fairgrounds cards — enough to make him tops at the local track.

"Some of the people around the tracks make horses and racing just a hobby," the tall driver said, "but I've been lucky enough and good enough to be able to make them my life.

"It all started with my brother. When I was 15 and living at home on Wolfe Island, he bought a horse — a race horse. I drove his horse that year. It was my first outing as a driver and I raced on the ice in New York State and won.

"I'm a driver and a trainer now and I'll stay that until I'm too old to drive, then I'll just train horses. I guess I'm sort of lucky, because there aren't that many people who can make a living being around horses, but I have. You've got to know your business and you've got to like it, because it's an all-day job.

"We're up at 6 in the morning," he said, "and we don't slow down 'til 6 at night. Then we have to go out again at 9 that night."

LaRush is the driver-trainer for the Peters' Racing Stables, located between Havelock and Campbellford.

"We have about 48 horses here in all, and we have about 12 racing horses," LaRush said.

The stables are owned and operated by Benny and Ruth Peters of Toronto, who enter their pacers in Toronto, Ottawa, Kingston, Peterborough, Colborne, Campbellford, Orono and Belleville cards.

"We didn't start coming to Belleville regularly until this year," he added. "We'd been there occasionally before — maybe 25 times."

His wife, Judy, expounded: "We really like the way the officials classify the horses," she explained. "You never see a win by ten lengths or anything like that. The horses all finish close and that's good for the horses and for the audience and drivers. And the people are so friendly. We like that track!"

Being track champion is no new thing to Guy. He held the title at Ottawa five years running from 1963 to 1967.

The top Belleville driver won't comment about the possible winners at Saturday's Black Diamond Stake Race. All he said was that it'd be a good race because it will bring "new blood" to the track: "I will say that the race will be run around 2:08 or 2:10, though," he added.

Which should be just Guy's speed. He drove Rosedale Cal to a 2:10.2 Belleville heat this year, for a share with another driver in the season's fastest mile pace.

Silver-Tops Will Test Quinte Par

By George H. Carver

Some of them will peek over their pauncbes to take a poke at the ball...

A lot will wear special headdress to protect cue-ball pates from an August sun.

In keeping with the modern golfing trend many will favor the popular Bermuda shorts. Some, proud of their middle-age physical appearance, will wear the abbreviated type.

Those on whom Time has left its knock-knee'd or bow-legged marks, will favor the conventional slacks.

In most cases middle-age has applied gentle brakes to the old swing and follow-through. But it has not dimmed the keenness of eyesight nor the element of accuracy.

They will be seen in action at the Bay of Quinte Country Club on Sunday August 18th when the bugle sounds the fall-in to these aging warhorses of the links.

Organized two years ago, the "Silver Top Tournament" will make its third appearance on that date.

As one of the younger golfing fry dubbed them, these "Methuselahs of the Links" care not for the good-natured banter of the younger generations nor the gentle needling of the better halves.

They will play in three flights. The first flight admits those between 50 and 55 years of age; the second flight between 56 and 60 years; the third flight from 60 years to as old as they come.

Last year, some 60 of these veterans took part in the tournament and although their speed may have lagged between tees, they showed no physical ill-effects after the long 18-hole haul over Quinte's fairways and whatnot.

And after the middle-age ball was over not a few of the younger Arnold Palmers raised eyebrows in surprise at the scores turned in.

They came in with short pants and drives with cards that would have rated highly in open tournaments.

And the vocal cacophony at the post - tournament "19th Hole" was gemmed with tid bits of tournament reminis cone.

It almost equaled that of the annual "Golden Girls Tournament", another special annual feature of the country club. That must be heard to be appreciated.

Both tournaments are brain children of members and directors of the club three years ago. Both inaugural events were instant successes and the "Golden and Silver" specials became annual features of the golf activities of the club.

This year's Silver Top is expected to draw a record entry since each year adds eligibles to the membership.

The winner will receive the "Silver Top Trophy donated by the club. Last year's winner was Steve Bowerman.

Tanner Triumph

Going Backwards, She Makes Big Splash

WINNIPEG (CP) — When Elaine Tanner swims, pandemonium follows in her wake.

A crowd of 1,000 jumped to their feet and cheered themselves hoarse Wednesday at the Canadian swimming championships as the 17-year-old beauty-mine whiz shattered her official world record in the 100-metre backstroke with a time of one minute, six and seven-tenths seconds.

Her official record is 1:07.1. But Karen Muir of South Africa has a better time pending of 1:06.4. The time has yet to be ratified by the world records committee.

"I had the record in my mind when I started out," said a jubilant Miss Tanner after the race. "I wasn't thinking about who I was racing against so much as that record."

The stage had been set prior to Miss Tanner's appearance when another young swimming star, Angela Caughlan of Burlington, Ont., beat the clock in the 200-metre freestyle event for a Canadian record.

The 15-year-old finished in 2:13.2, defeating by eight-tenths of a second the previous record holder for the distance, Marion Lay of Vancouver. The former record for the event was 2:14.7, set in 1967 by Miss Lay.

Miss Caughlan, quiet but smiling broadly after the win, said she knew she had to stay with Miss Lay and by doing that "I always know I have a chance to outlast her in the stretch."

Another Canadian record was tied in the men's 400-metre individual medley as seasoned Sandy Gilchrist of Ocean Falls, B.C. touched home in 4:51.8. He shares the record with hometown friend Ralph Huston who managed only a third-place finish in the race this year.

Huston is by far the busiest swimmer at the championships, entering 19 events and performing in three of them Wednesday.

Sport Briefs

TONKERS, N.Y. (AP)—Earl Laird was the early favorite for tonight's $50,000 Gotham trot at Yankers Raceway, but the post time choice may be the Billy Haughton entry of Carlisle and Flamboyant.

Earl Laird, with Jimmy Cruise in the sulky, is the 3-to-1 pick in the early odds for the 1¼-mile race, but he broke stride in his last outing. Carlisle and Flamboyant are held at 4 to 1.

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuters)—The soccer referee was adamant.

"No one challenges my authority," he said.

Then he pulled out a .38-calibre revolver, shot and killed the player disputing his penalty decision, scrambled on to a horse and fled from the irate soccer crowd, the newspaper Jornal do Brasil reports.

A team-mate of the dead man was seriously wounded, the newspaper adds.

The referee's identity is not known. The newspaper says he was a spectator who volunteered when the regular referee did not turn up for the weekend exhibition game.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.Y. (AP)—The secretary of the Professional Golfers Association declared Wednesday the PGA would challenge the tourins pros at every turn if they went ahead with their planned break.

"Maybe they won the first skirmish," said Leo Fraser. "The PGA has never stood still during its 132-year history.

"We don't plan to stand still now or do any bowing," added Fraser, president of the Atlantic City Country Club and a long-time PGA official.

The touring pros, which include some of the biggest names in golf, said Tuesday they would set up an independent organization and run their own tour, beginning next year.

George Swings for Pro Title...

QUEBEC (CP) — George Knudson of Toronto today will be out to try for his second consecutive Canadian Professional Golfers' Association championship at nearby Bolsheliel.

Knudson, who has earned close to $70,000 this year on the United States circuit, said he expects lots of competition in the 72-hole tournament with total prize money of $20,000.

"There are lots of guys out there who'll supply competition," said Knudson Wednesday after warming up in an 18-hole pro-am tournament at the royal Quebec Golf Club.

"From what I saw on this course, quite a few fellows will have a chance to win."

Knudson is to tee off at 9 a.m. EDT—2½ hours after the first group hits the fairways—with Jack Bissegger of Ste. Julie, Que., and former CPGA winner Alvis Thompson of Willowdale, Ont.

More than 180 pros are entered, then the field will be restricted to the low 100 and ties after 36 holes.

Today's forecast is for overcast skies with winds up to 20 miles an hour and a chance of showers.

That will be somewhat better than Wednesday's winds exceeding 30 miles per hour and some occasional rain.

It hampered the field and Knudson said the weather made it impossible for him to judge his game.

Although his game now is "pretty good," Knudson could not provide further evaluation for another reason: Wednesday's tournament was a best-ball affair.

Much of Knudson's competition—other than Thompson—is expected from Wilf Homenuk of Winnipeg and Moe Norman of Gilford, Ont., both former CPGA champions.

The four-day tournament will be played over the Royal course, adjacent to the new Quebec course.

Stewart Streit is out to add the Canadian women's closed golf championship to her accomplishments this year as she tees off today in the first round of the three-day, 54-hole medal play tournament at nearby Ile Bizard.

Mrs. Streit, of Fonthill, Ont., winner of the recent Ontario Open and top amateur in the recent Canadian Ladies Professional Golfers' Association championship in Toronto, is out to unseat Betty Stinhope Cole of Edmonton as the closed champion.

Mrs. Streit's achievements so far this year established her as the favorite for the individual closed championship over the 6,200-yard, par 74 Elm Ridge Country Club course.

A total of 96 women from all parts of Canada are set for today's opening round in search of the junior and senior team titles as well as senior and junior individual championships.

Quebec's hopes for the interprovincial team award rest with Judy Evans, Helene Gagnon, Jocelyn Bourassa and Dulcie Lyle.

They face stiff competition from the likes of Gail Harvey Moore of Vancouver, Marlyn Palmer of Kamloops, B.C., and Sue Hilton Higgs of Barrie, Ont.

The B.C. title-hunters in the event are Mrs. J. G. Moore, Miss Palmer, Mrs. D. L. McCleery and Mrs. J. A. Beaton.

Nova Scotia's foursome is Mary Fenton, Mrs. H. P. Connor, Miriam Penney and Charmaine Murray.

Braves Stumbling

"Satch" Needed in Atlanta Bullpen

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hurry up and unfold, Satchel. The Atlanta Braves' pitching staff needs help fast.

The Braves signed elderly Satchel Paige earlier this week and the club's pitchers haven't been the same since.

Cincinnati jolted the Braves 7-4 Wednesday night, collecting 11 hits. That gave the Reds 30 hits and 16 runs in two games against Atlanta, and if ever a situation called for Satchel the Braves have it.

"I don't know what I can do now," said Paige who needs 158 days to qualify for baseball's pension plan. "I'll have to get out there and unfold first."

Paige's unfolding timetable calls for him to go on the Braves' active roster Aug. 23. The question is whether the Atlanta pitching staff can wait that long.

Elsewhere Wednesday, New York trimmed Los Angeles 4-1, San Francisco nipped Pittsburgh 3-2 in 10 innings, Philadelphia took Houston 4-3 and St. Louis stopped Chicago 3-1.

Mack Jones' three-run homer started the Reds assault against Atlanta in the fourth inning. Pete Rose singled and Alex Johnson doubled before Jones connected. An error and Pat Corrales' double gave the Reds another run before the inning was over.

Singles by Johnson and Tony Perez and doubles by Fred Whitfield and Corrales led to three wrapup runs in the eighth.

Felipe Alou homered for the Braves, extending his hitting streak to 19 games.

Jerry Koosman won his 16th game for the Mets, tying the club record established last year by Tom Seaver. The rookie left-hander scattered seven hits as New York beat Los Angeles for the 11th time this season.

Larry Stahl homered and Cleon Jones and Ed Kranepool laced two hits apiece, leading a 10-hit Met attack against Bill Singer and two relievers.

Don Lock hammered a grand slam home run, accounting for all of Philadelphia's runs against Houston. John Bateman had a two-run shot and Jim Wynn a solo homer for the Astros.

Willie McCovey scored the Giants' tying run in the seventh inning, then drove in the winner with a 10th-inning single as Gaylord Perry stymied the Pirates on three hits.

McCovey's two-out single delivered Bobby Bonds, who had singled and moved to second when reliever Ron Kline walked Willie Mays with two out.

Detroit Skipper Slips Tribe a "Mickey"

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mayo Smith has a perfect put-down for those American League die-hards who keep trying to twist his Tigers by the tail. The Detroit skipper simply reaches into his new bullpen bag and slips them a quick Mickey.

Mickey Lolich, who couldn't finish what he started a month ago, hurled 5 2-3 innings of scoreless relief Wednesday night and picked up his fourth victory in nine days as the first-place Tigers flattened Cleveland 3-0.

Lolich scattered three hits and struck out five in his longest relief stint since Smith sent him to the bullpen in late July. He has defeated Cleveland and Boston twice each for an 11-7 season mark and has not given up a run in 15 innings.

In beating the Indians for the sixth time in seven games over a nine-day stretch, the Tigers regained a seven-game lead over second-place Baltimore, who bowed to Oakland 4-1.

Elsewhere, Washington topped Minnesota 4-2 on two homers by Frank Howard; Boston split a day-night doubleheader with Chicago, winning the second game 7-5 on Ken Harrelson's slugging after losing 5-3 in the afternoon, and New York whipped California 5-2.

Lolich replaced Joe Sparma in the fourth inning at Cleveland with the Tigers leading 1-0 on Bill Freehan's 18th homer. He stranded two runners and then stymied the Indians until the eighth, when a double play and centre fielder Mickey Stanley's running, one-hand grab of a drive by Vern Fuller saved him from a possible knockout.

Freehan connected against Cleveland ace Luis Tiant, 18-8 in the second and the Tigers added two runs in the sixth on Al Kaline's double, Gates Brown's single and a triple by Norm Cash.

Reggie Jackson smacked his 21st homer—a two-run sixth-inning shot—to power the Athletics past Baltimore. Bert Campaneris, who hit safely in his 12th straight game capped a two-run wrapup burst with a sacrifice fly in the seventh.

Howard, who had homered earlier with the bases empty, drilled a 450-foot blast following two Minnesota errors in the ninth to carry the Senators from behind. Ron Clark booted Bernie Allen's grounder and Rod Carew made a wild throw to second on Ken McMullen's 19th before Howard unloaded his 30th homer of the season.

Harrelson slugged a solo homer in the day game at Boston, but the White Sox won it with a 15-hit attack while the Red Sox wasted 11 against winner Tommy John.

The Red Sox' slugger took charge under the lights, banging a double triple and a two-run homer his 22nd of the year. After the White Sox cut Boston's lead to 6-5 with a four-run seventh-inning rally, Harrelson doubled, stole third and scored the insurance run on an overthrow by catcher Duane Josephson.

The Yankees surged to a 5-0 lead with the help of Bill Robinson's homer and a two-run single by Horace Clarke, then held off the Angels for a sweep of the three-game series. Believer Steve Hamilton checked a two-run California rally in the eighth, protecting the victory for rookie Stan Bahnsen.

Backlog of Mail Surprisingly Light in Many Centres

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Some postal officials have expressed surprise at the light volume of mail following the end of the three-week postal workers' strike last Friday.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press showed that other centres, especially Toronto, Victoria and Montreal, do not expect to see operations back to normal until next week or later.

"I was surprised that the backlog of mail was not larger," said Marcel Gelinas, postmaster at Kapuskasing, Ont. "The mail has been a little heavier than normal. . . ."

But in Toronto, a spokesman in the mail distribution supervisor's office said Wednesday that workers are going home at night leaving about 1,500,000 pieces of first-class mail over for the next day. A huge backlog of second-class matter—newspapers and magazines—still remains.

A Montreal spokesman said it was still too early to estimate when the backlog there might be cleared.

Mail truck drivers who went on strike last Friday agreed Tuesday night on a settlement with their employers, a contractor that hauls mail to and from postal stations and rail and air depots.

An Ottawa official said an expected rush of mail following the strike by Canada's 24,000 postal workers has not developed. Ottawa post offices had about 10,000,000 items of first- and second-class mail to be handled nationally at the end of the strike, but this was no problem since about 14,000,000 items are handled daily under normal circumstances.

Other Ontario centres, including Niagara Falls, Peterborough, Timmins, Cochrane, Hearst, St. Thomas, Hamilton, Oshawa and Brockville, were "in good shape" but at least keeping up with letter deliveries despite some backlog of second- and third-class mail.

But in Kitchener, Waterloo, Woodstock, Brantford and Sarnia postal officials were less optimistic.

"We're working overtime," said Woodstock Postmaster B. B. Hook. "But the way things are going I would not be surprised if it (the backlog) continued until the end of the week."

"We've been showered by mail," said Waterloo Postmaster Charles Foster. Mail coming in from other centres "is more than we can handle" he said.

Kitchener Postmaster C. R. O'Brien said he hoped first-class mail delivery might be back on schedule today and second-class by the end of the week.

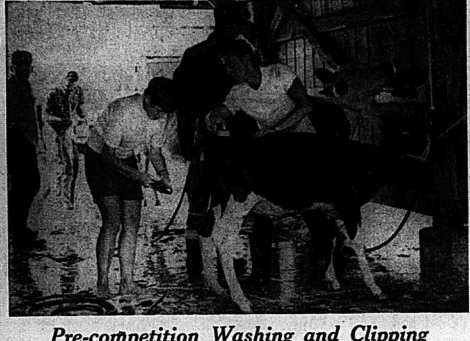
The Sarnia post office reported incoming mail volume was four times normal and several workers were working overtime. An embargo on undressed third-class household mail was being maintained, but addressed third-class was going through, said Postmaster H. W. Haygarth.

Second-class mail was still being pushed aside in favor of letters in Brantford while letter carriers and sorters worked overtime.

Post offices in major western centres were struggling about a day behind schedule.

An Edmonton official said third- and fourth-class mail deliveries there were running about a day behind normal. He said he hoped everything would be normal by Sunday.

Calgary postal workers were each putting in two hours of overtime a day to clear a 24-hour backlog which one official hoped would disappear by the weekend.



Vancouver postal officials also expected to be back to normal by Saturday, but a Victoria spokesman said it might take three weeks before deliveries were caught up there.

Eastern points had less trouble with Charlottetown reporting all classes of mail moving regularly since the beginning of the week.

The main post office in Halifax reported it had removed its embargo on second- and third-class mail Tuesday. Full- and part-time employees were working overtime but they were keeping up with the flow of mail.

In the strike settlement postal workers, members of the Letter Carriers Union of Canada and the Canadian Postal Workers Union, agreed to a contract providing a pay increase of 21 cents an hour retroactive to Aug. 1 last year. Another 18 cents an hour goes into effect Oct. 1 this year.

Average wage before the strike was $2.37 an hour with top rates of $2.63 for letter carriers and $2.75 for postal clerks who sort mail.

Iron Ore Would Lie in Ground Under Tax Report Proposals

HAMILTON (CP) — A Canadian steel producer told the legislature's select committee on taxation Wednesday that if new taxes proposed by the Carter and Smith reports on taxation had then been in effect the company would not have spent "one cent" in developing large iron mines in Quebec and Ontario.

The statement was made by John Sheppard, an executive vice-president of Dominion Foundries and Steel Ltd., which now is developing a large iron ore deposit at Temagami and was a partner in developing Quebec's giant Wabush iron mine.

Mr. Sheppard told the committee that taxes proposed by Ontario's Smith report alone would cost his firm about $1,000,000 a year initially, with the figure doubling within 20 years.

In separate submissions to the committee, Dofasco and the Steel Company of Canada Ltd. argued forcefully against a Smith proposal that the province tax profits of processing as well as mining operations of firms which mine and process ores in Ontario.

The two companies agreed the proposed taxes would work out to about $2 a ton of pelletized ore compared with a current tax levy of 19 cents a ton.

The Stelco brief, submitted by Norman Brown, a vice-president and comptroller of the firm, said the proposed Ontario tax would work out to 30 per cent of all mining costs.

Mr. Brown said Stelco has spent $185,000,000 in developing a giant new mine at Griffith Lake in northwestern Ontario and will spend another $150,000,000 in the area over the next 10 years. But if the Smith report were implemented the firm likely would decide against developing a second large deposit in the same area.

Both briefs expressed concern, that the Smith proposals would discriminate against firms such as Stelco and Dofasco which use ores mined in the province and do not export iron ore to the United States.

Under Smith there would be no taxation on the processing of ores imported into the province and no levy against ores exported from the province.

Mr. Brown said the effect of the new taxes would be to make it more difficult than ever for Canadian steelmakers to compete with foreign steel now being imported in large quantities at distress prices.

Indian and White Man Agree--to Pow-wow Again Soon

TORONTO (CP) — A conference of federal government officials and southern Ontario Indians ended on a note of unanimity Wednesday.

Delegates said it was probably the first time the Indian and the white man have been able to agree on anything since the first Europeans claimed a piece of North America.

They only agreed on the necessity to meet again soon, but all said it was a significant beginning.

During the conference, the 28 delegates relaxed after their initial hesitation to take part in free-wheeling debate with officials from the department of Indian affairs.

The Toronto conference was the third of 18 meetings being held across Canada to determine Indian views before rewriting the Indian Act of 1951. The next meeting will begin Friday in Fort William.

The agreement to meet again came after delegates were asked to elect one representative to attend further meetings in Ottawa some time next year, after all 18 consultations have been held.

It didn't take the 28 chiefs and councillors long to agree they need at least one more meeting to consider the 34 questions the federal government is asking about the Indian Act, the federal statute governing Canada's 219,000 reservation and treaty Indians.

Delegates also levelled barbs at government agents who serve the reserves.

"I don't think a superintendent is qualified to criticize decisions made by band councils," said Chief Harry Miskokomon of the Chippewas of the Thames.

Fred Plain, representing the Union of Ontario Indians, said he doubts the federal government will ever get around to establishing a claims commission to adjudicate Indian claims under various treaties and the Indian Act.

"We go to the government and say, 'these are Chippewa lands' The government insists they are Crown lands. I think these treaties should be referred to the United Nations."

The delegates also agreed the government must adjust its hunting and fishing policies.

"In our reserve," said Councillor Mervin Dewasha of the Gibson band, 20 miles north of Orillia, "there are still some people who make their living by trapping."

Mr. Dewasha, a student of applied science at Queen's University in Kingston, joined other delegates in calling for unlimited hunting and fishing rights for his people.

Under the present system, Indians may be prosecuted under both provincial and federal game laws for hunting and fishing off reserve lands.

Enfranchisement, the term given to withdrawal from Indian status and of protection under the Indian Act, is a key issue across the country. At the Moncton, N.B., conference and again at Toronto, delegates agreed enfranchisement must cease.

They feel Indians must be allowed to retain their status and their rights under the Indian Act whether they live on or off the reserve.

Delegates also called for increased medical services, the option of joining the Canada Pension Plan, a set yearly grant to each reserve, and a guarantee that Indians can be seated on provincial school boards if they wish.

Students to Undertake Survey of Older Homes

TWEED — Miss Dianne Gunning and Miss Denise Kelly of Tweed will undertake a survey of the older homes in Tweed Village and the community north of town during the summer months, in co - operation with the School of Architecture, University of Toronto.

Houses known to have been built or erected prior to 1855 will be of prime interest, according to Miss Gunning, although the survey may include unique houses up to the 1870's. The completed survey will include pictures of the building, location, date of construction, material used and the name of the present owner and the name of the original owner.

Miss Deborah Anderson and Miss Kathryn Cuddy, students at the School of Architecture, are making a survey of homes in Belleville and the area south of Tweed. Rodger Greig, Belleville, is the survey co - ordinator for Hastings County. Mr. Greig is an active member of the Hastings County Historical Society, and has a keen interest in early architecture.

At the present time, he and Mrs. Greig are restoring one of the early homes in Prince Edward County.

Professor William Goulding of the School of Architecture is in charge of the Province wide survey.

The Ontario government through its Department of Records and Archives, which is part of the Department of Tourism and Information, has made a grant to the School of Architecture in the University of Toronto, to begin work on the preparation of an inventory of historic buildings in the province. Such an inventory will form part of a national inventory, preparatory studies for which have been made by the Historic Sites Division of the Federal Department of Affairs and National Resources.

To make such an inventory or record for Ontario will take time, and if it were to be done by professional staff, would be expensive. It would also have less educational value as a project than if local people were involved. It is proposed therefore, to make the inventory on a county by county basis and to ask people who are interested in the county vitsbre they live, to help Project funds will be available to cover the expenses of car travel and for photography.

The survey now underway is identified as stage one, or a general survey, to be followed by a more detailed survey of the general buildings located and identified. It is proposed that every habitable building, house, shop, town hall, court house etc., that is still usable, and built before 1855, will be recorded on the standard form.

The year 1855 may seem arbitrarily, and in certain areas perhaps should be adjusted; however, it represents the transition from the time of local craftsmen building in relatively isolated communities to the time of railroad transport beginning to produce a sudden increase in population, of standardized materials moving out from larger production centres, and of rapid change and much confusion in public taste.

Many fine buildings continued to be built, but they were the special ones. Before 1855 almost every building has some claim to originality because of the settlement pattern in the province. The first half of the 19th century was the pioneer period, and what remains from this period can be considered unique, according to those persons undertaking the survey.

Liquid Furniture

Lezile Brooks reclines on a seven foot square piece of water filled plastic material covered in deep wine velvet which can be utilized as a bed or a lounge. The designer says this is not only a piece of furniture but also an atmosphere that is heated to a 95 degree temperature. The water makes you feel weightless and tranquil. The 3,000 pound bed is on display at the Cannery Gallery in San Francisco. (AP Photo)

Close With Win

Pt. Anne Edges Brants

Pointe Anne closed out their regular Commercial Softball League season Wednesday night with a 5-4 win over Brants behind pitcher Jamie Hunter.

The Cementmen are now ready to enter the OASA Junior "B" tournament with the opening game set for 5.30 Saturday night against Trenton.

The finishing game in the Commercial League made no change for either of the teams. Brants finishes their season with a 4-31 mark in last place in the league. The Point Anne Cementmen close out at 10-15 for fifth place in the six-team loop.

Hunter went the route in taking the win, allowing the four runs on six hits and four Cementmen errors.

Gary Matier started the game for Brants and was relieved in the fifth by Mark Sheridan. Matier allowed three tallies on three hits and four walks with fanning one.

Sheridan allowed two runs on three hits and two walks while throwing three strike outs.

Hunter walked one and struck out four.

Gary Genereaux had the only extra base hit of the game with a triple, Other Brants hitters were Jim Parks and Rod Ridley with a brace of singles each and Bill Connors with one safety.

Eric Maher, the Point Anne catcher, hit two singles to lead the Cementmen while Dennis Maher, Rick Rosebush, Larry Maher, and Doug Olson had singles.

Hitting Holiday

Deacons, Cablevue Win

Deacon Bros. and Cablevue made their rescheduled post-season games a holiday Wednesday night as they topped Reids 21-10 and the Lions 24-12, respectively.

B. Whalen and B. Lovelass led the Deacon Bros. winners, allowing ten runs on five hits and seven walks while striking out 12. M. McClelland and F. Hall pitched for Reid, allowing 21 runs on 14 hits and five walks while collecting 11 strikeouts.

Whalen added a homer, a double, and a single to the winners' total, while A. Rutherford collected a homer and two singles, T. Meagher hit a double and four singles and K. Day hit three singles.

McClelland hit a double and a single for the losers and C. O'Hara added three singles.

Cablevue took their win behind pitchers C. Routley, D. Matthews, and B. O'Sullivan who combined to allow 12 runs on nine hits and 11 walks while striking out nine.

P. Weeks, G. Pearson, and B. Gray allowed 24 runs on 16 hits and 14 walks while striking out four Cablevue batters.

Top hitters for the winners were R. Sturgess with a triple and three singles, B. Bennett with a triple and a single, M. Groh with a homer and two singles and D. Matthews and O'Sullivan with two singles each.

Pearson led the Lions hitters with a double and a single. Weeks collected two singles, as did D. Barrage, D. Andrews, and B. Coughlin.

SOLUNAR TABLES
WHEN TO FISH OR HUNT
Richard Alden Knight

The schedule of Solunar Periods, as printed below, has been taken from Richard Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

The Major Periods are shown in boldface type. These begin at the times shown and last for one hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The Minor Periods, shown in regular type, are somewhat shorter duration.

NOTICE
THE BOARD OF THE COMBINED ROMAN CATHOLIC CONGREGATIONS OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE AND TOWNSHIPS OF SIDNEY AND THURLOW
TAKE NOTICE that The Board of the Combined Roman Catholic Separate Schools of the City of Belleville and Townships of Sidney and Thurlow will meet on the fourth day of August, 1968, passed By-law Number 68-1 to authorize the borrowing of money by the issue and sale of debentures to the extent of $250,000.00 for the purposes mentioned in the by-law.
1. The purpose for which the money is to be borrowed is the new construction of separate school accommodation and the purchase of equipment therefor.
2. The amount to be borrowed is $250,000.00 on the security of the general funds and taxes levied on all the rateable property and premises and any grant or subsidy or contribution to be received in the said year for the purposes of separate school purposes collectible in the said year.
3. The debentures is to be dated September 1st, 1968, to bear interest at the rate of 6½% per annum, payable half-yearly on March 1 and September 1 in each year during the currency of the debentures and to be repayable in instalments of principal and interest as follows: 1969 to 1988, as follows:

Year	Principal Amount	Interest Amount
1969	$ 7,000.00	1970
1970	8,000.00	1900
1971	8,000.00	1900
1972	9,000.00	1900
1973	10,000.00	1963
1974	10,000.00	1963
1975	11,000.00	1963
1976	12,000.00	1963
1977	13,000.00	1907

To Your Good Health
Cause of Mouth Ulcers Is Not Known
By Dr. Joseph G. Molner
Dear Dr. Molner: I have mouth ulcers and would like to know what causes them. My local doctor says they are caused by a stomach disorder but I am only 16 and doubt that.
Another doctor said they were from brushing my teeth, so I quit brushing my teeth for about five days, but that didn't help.
I have had up to 11 at one time. My local doctor would treat them with acid, but they would come back. Do you think I need a complete physical checkup? — S. G.
Mouth ulcers (canker sores or aphtous ulcers) can be aggravating and you're having more than your share.
These ulcers are inside the mouth (not on the gums) and should not be confused with "cold sores" or herpes simplex, which appear on the outside of the lips and are caused by a virus.
Canker sores are stubborn in two ways. They keep recurring and they zealously refuse to give us a good clue as to the cause.
A form of strep germ has been found in such ulcers, and for that reason a solution of the antibiotic tetracycline has been recommended, the idea being to swish it around in the mouth for two or three minutes, then swallow it. Sometimes it works.
Other experts lean toward the idea that injury to the tissues may be a factor—tooth brush or hard foods. Maybe this is part of the cause in some cases. Other times apparently not.
Allergy has been implicated probably with good reason in a lot of cases. Nuts, citrus fruits, vegetables and chocolate are a few of suspected items. Some people are allergic to certain kinds of oranges, lemons, grapefruit tomatoes, or even milk or acid of vinegar in pickles, salad dressings, and so on. You might discover whether your attacks follow use of these acid foods.
Until or unless we can find some common factor which has to be present in all such ulcers, we aren't likely to develop a treatment that will cure all of them.
Meantime I can give you a variety of methods, all of which have been helpful in some cases, none in all.
Keep a "food diary," to see whether you can identify some food allergy. Then avoid the offending foods.
Touching the ulcers with silver nitrate, or with trichloracetic acid, is sometimes effective—but the ulcers can recur. An ingredient in licorice has been reported as useful, also.
Putting a teaspoon of the usual baking soda, mixed with enough water to make a paste, on the ulcers, several times daily, is a simple measure that is sometimes helpful.
In very severe cases steroids (drugs of the cortisone group) have been used to shorten attacks of ulcers and relieve pain.
As high as about 20 percent of the population has trouble at times with these cankers, more women than men by far.
Reason for this? Who knows? There may be a relationship to the menstrual period. Others think emotional stress has some bearing.
Other members of the family may have the trouble, too but this is not believed to be a contagious disease, but rather of a hereditary tendency.
Should a sure remedy be developed, I'll be overjoyed to say so. For the present, try the various methods.
Dear Dr. Molner: Can a person take too much Vitamin C? — Mrs. R. H. N.
No, because any excess of that vitamin is harmlessly discharged by the body.
Note to M.M: Yes, certainly syphillis can be cured, if there is not too much delay in starting treatment of it.

Texas Gulf Question Raised When Is Outsider Insider?

NEW YORK (AP) — The decision this week by U.S. federal judges that some corporate officers violated the law by buying stock in their company before telling the public good news already is being called a landmark.

If this is so, then this landmark is liable to be thoroughly trampled for a while. It may even confuse the confusing business of just what is "insider" information.

The decision, which involves Texas Gulf Sulphur Co., means that insiders, usually company officers, cannot trade stock in their corporation on the basis of their access to information not yet disclosed to the public.

That much is clear enough. But the decision involves as insiders, those outsiders who receive tips on the unpublished news. That involves the mechanics of the market, whose gears revolve on tips, rumors, gossip, speculation and inside dope.

In fact, to learn such information if possible is the business of today's aggressive analysts.

The Texas Gulf case briefly is this:

In November, 1963, officials of the company began receiving reports from geologists at Timmins, Ont., indicating a mineral find might be developing there.

On April 12, 1964, company officers, prompted by rumors, disclosed the prospects but said early reports then circulating might be premature and misleading.

Four days later, however, the company announced a major discovery. A disclosure that made Texas Gulf stock one of the glamour holdings of the year.

The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission found that after April 12 officers of the company had been buying stock and tipping friends to buy also.

This, said the SEC, was a violation of securities laws because they had used for their own personal benefit information that everyone was entitled to know.

After losing in one court, the SEC was upheld in the U.S. Court of Appeals. It is likely now that some form of restitution will be demanded of the Texas Gulf insiders.

In its viewpoint, the decision may be considered admirable, for it is the kind of stocks is to be played fairly, the odds should not be rigged. However, many questions are left hanging there.

—At what point is the recipient of a tip no longer considered an insider? When he receives it first or second hand—or maybe third hand?

—How does a company know precisely at what time the necessity to disclose to the public thereby the obligation to keep secrets from competitors?

—How can degrees of inequity be avoided when aggressive, probing analysts are bound to uncover news that hasn't been made available to all?

—How can you avoid the spread of inside information when a corporate officer might make a casual remark at breakfast to a wife who spends it, day on the telephone?

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market was up Wednesday for the third consecutive day and closed with firm gains on a wide front. Golds, forest industries and oil refiners led the advance.

Brokers say the market should recover some of the ground lost in the rally broke in mid-July, provided k gets a positive lead from New York.

The New York markets were closed for the day to clear up the backlog of paperwork.

In industrials, Ontario Store Fixture jumped 3¼ to 44¾, Imperial Oil 2¼ to 74¾, Silknit 1¾ to 16¾ Wajax 1¼ to 25, Fibre Products 1¼ to 8¼, Dominion Tar 1¼ to 27¾, Calgary Power 1¼ to 23½ and Massey-Ferguson ¼ to 24¼.

Leigh Instruments fell 1¼ to 4¾, Famous Players 1¼ to 55¾, National Hess ¼ to 8¾ and Massey-Ferguson ¼ to 24¼.

St. Maurice Gas, the most active industrial gained 2 cents to 55 cents. Among other heavy traders, Atlbilli and Revenue Properties rose ¼ each to 7¾ and 13¾ and Fleet Manufacturing 40 cents to $3.70

Sogemines advanced 1 to 15. Six-month 40 cents to 63 cents a share'compared with 42 cents last year. White Pass and Yukon gained ¼ to 43¼. Halfyearly profits also were up.

Trans-Canada Pipe Lines rose ¼ to 34¼. A company official said this week's ruling by the U.S Court of Appeals on the 1,000-mile pipeline that will bring Alberta natural gas to central Canada through U.S territory is considered favorable.

Trans-Canada is co-owner of the pipeline with American Natural Gas Co.

In golds, Dome and Campbell Red Lake each rose 2 cents to 30 and 30 and Camflo 50 cents to $5.10 in light trading.

Base metals, falling advanced 3¼ to 42¾, Lelbih ⅛ to 11¼ and Campbell Chibougamau 90 cents to $3.10. Among western oils, Central-Del Rio was up ⅛ to 18¾ and Charter 25 cents to $7.

Minor Fires Be Blamed On Children

Fire Chief Ted Poole said today he's having inspectors check distribution of free advertising match booklets at Belleville Fair.

The move came after the chief says two minor fires in the city last night may have been started by young users of matches.

A group of Princes of Wales School and a blaze in a toolshed at Holy Rosary Separate School were put down by firemen.

Children questioned a fires said they were started by other youngsters who got the matches among give away's at a Fair booth.

If true, the chief says exhibitors should know better. It's just asking for trouble."

OFF THE RECORD — BY ED REED

Farmers Plead for Retention Of Present Wood Lot Exemption

HAMILTON (CP) — A farmer member of the legislature's select committee on taxation said Wednesday that Toronto accountant Lancelot Smith had demonstrated in his report on taxation "that he has a lot to learn about agriculture."

William Newman (PC—Ontario South) made the observation after the committee was told in two successive briefs that the Smith report had erred badly in assessing the effect of the current exemption of farm woodlots from property taxation.

Mr. Smith estimated the saving to the average farmer at only $3 a year and recommended the exemption be removed.

Oxford Federation of Agriculture said on the contrary that the woodlot was an important factor and argued against its removal. And the federation's position was supported from a Halton County farm family who told the committee the exemption reduces their tax bill by more than five per cent.

The federation said farm woodlots are rapidly disappearing and water tables are dropping drastically to the point where farmers in Oxford now must drill more than 100 feet to reach mineral water.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Burkholder of Oakville appeared before the committee to plead that agricultural lands be taxed on the basis of their value to the farmer, not their possible value as subdivisions.

They told the committee the exemption for woodlots reduces their current land assessment by about $450 and works out to saving of nearly $15 in taxes.

Bell Has Deal For Talkers

MONTREAL (CP) — A unique "package" rate for provincewide longdistance calls by customers who prefer to talk for hours rather than minutes was announced by Bell Canada Wednesday night.

The package rate, intended for those who want to talk longer than the regular three- or 10-minute time periods upon which most payment scales are based, takes effect Sunday and will be available on request to more than 2,000,000 persons served by the company in Quebec and Ontario.

The scheme has not been introduced elsewhere in Canada.

A Bell Canada statement said such customers will be able to buy an hour or more of long distance conversation time any day at the special rate of $10 for the first hour and $2 for each additional quarter-hour.

A Bell spokesman said the new package deal would not be useful to every customer, but would represent a saving to those who place many in-province calls to distant centres.

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate
"What's Your Problem?"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Twelve years ago, my husband left me with two small children. I have not seen or heard from him since, but I know he's living with a brother in another state. In that time, I've managed to train myself, obtain a good job, and have worked myself up into a responsible position. The children are now teen-agers and need more space and their own rooms. I'd like to buy a house. I have the money.

But then I remember that legally I still have a husband. A frightening thought has crossed my mind — will he acquire an interest in my property?

Divorce is no solution because my religion forbids this. — Mrs. D. W.

ANSWER: Ordinarily, a husband, no matter where he may be or what he's doing, acquires an interest in his wife's real estate. However, your case is different.

Since your husband abandoned the family and has not supported it for all those years, you have a basis for depriving him of an interest in your real estate. An attorney will be necessary to effect the same.

• • •

Dear Mr. Meltzer: The assessment on my house is too low. Will I get in trouble?

I made settlement last month and paid $22,000. The township clerk tells me that a 50 per cent basis is used for assessments. Therefore, my assessment should be $11,000 — actually it is only $7,000.

What do I do, complain or keep quiet? — Mr. G.

ANSWER: I would venture to say that you have a reprieve of several months or until the assessments are finalized for the coming year. By that time, the assessor will be aware of your purchase price and you will find he will change your assessment to $11,000.

My advice is to enjoy your bliss and do nothing about it. Your increase in taxes will be with you soon.

• • •

Dear Mr. Meltzer: The aluminum siding I installed six years ago is starting to look shabby. It should be given a new coat of paint. Is it possible to repaint prefinished siding? If so, is any special technique required? — Mr. M.

ANSWER: Prefinished siding can easily be repainted. In fact it makes an excellent base.

Steps involved in preparing the surface are wash with mild soap and water to remove dirt and stains. Then rub with finely grained sandpaper. The minute particles that the sandpaper leaves in the old paint give the paint a strong bond. Sanding also removes loss paint and adhering dirt.

• • •

Mr. Meltzer welcomes your letters and comments. Unfortunately he is unable to enter into personal correspondence with readers, but will attempt to answer as many letters as possible through his column.

One of the realistic aims in college rebellions is the abolition of huge classes, for the students know what the faculty should have known (and acted upon) years ago — that you can educate only in small groups, never in large groups, you can merely indoctrinate.

This summer I have been reading "The Herring Gull's World," a study of the social behavior of birds, by Niko Tinbergen, which shows the fascinating way the gulls build up their society every spring, and make it function; "in that respect," the author concludes sadly, "they attain as much as, and perhaps even more than, man, who is becoming a serious threat to his own kind."

Of the seven million people on welfare in the U.S. what percentage do you think is "employable"? If you guess more than two per cent, then you haven't the slightest awareness of the actual composition of welfare clients and are just repeating empty cliches.

OMA Rejects Motion By Belleville on Aged

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A move to have the property tax rebate system for senior citizens improved by the provincial government was rejected by delegates attending the Ontario Municipal Association convention.

The delegates accepted the recommendations of the resolution committee not to take action on resolutions from Whitby and Belleville. It was agreed the provincial government should commence an extensive public relations program in an effort to acquaint senior citizens of the program.

Under present legislation a property owner 65 and over can receive an annual tax rebate of 50 per cent up to a maximum of $120. These funds are replaced by the government when the property is either sold or transferred.

While the delegates supported the resolution committee that no action be taken on resolutions from Whitby and Belleville, it was agreed the provincial government should commence an extensive public relations program in an effort to acquaint senior citizens of the program.

Olden Forest Fire Now Under Control

TWEED — A forest fire burning over 10 acres of Olden township is now under control, Tweed lands and forest department officials report.

The fire is the only one burning in the district at the present time.

Gasoline, hose and food have been dropped to fire-fighters from a lands and forest Beaver aircraft, flown by James Kirk of Tweed.

So far this year, 128 fires have burned over 1,123 acres of forests in the Tweed district. Twelve fires have already been reported in August.

Last year, seven fires occurred in August. Only 112 fires were reported during the full 1967 season, burning over 668 acres in the district.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For Aug. 16th,

Your birthday today: There is a subtle theatrical quality during the year. Life is fantasy, melodramatic, many-sided, and the piecayune annoyances of personal competition. Romantic involvements, if they come at all, tend to be absorbing. Today's natives have a knack for making money.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — April 19): You can easily say what you wish too little thought. Nothing is visible today, so wait. Leave investment matters as they are momentarily. Health precautions are suggested.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Warning: You are susceptible to intrusions on your privacy today. Shopping should follow a conservative pattern, in familiar places. Settle for a quiet evening and relax.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Now is the time to take life more seriously. Check facts before agreeing to any new proposition. Where doubt appears, your best bet is a refusal.

CANCER (June 21—July 22): Complicated schemes defeat themselves today. Keep things simple. Today goes better at a slower gait.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Any deal today will have flaws which the people around you can see easily. Listen to any fair better today. Wait until the cash is at hand before distribute. It. Odd circumstance may hinder your enjoyment of the evening. Be patient, diligent in resolving the hindrance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Play it straight today; nobody is going to believe any exaggeration. In turn, don't you either. You could be sorry.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Everybody has a different pattern of delay. Take it easy, postpone serious moves until you can acquire better information.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): There is great difficulty keeping track of your funds. Small sums escape. Organize the budget and stay with it!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): It seems today is, somehow, a make-believe day. Many of the things you encounter. You may later base a philosophy on the notes. Truth will arise out of the turmoil, but not just yet.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Incomplete knowledge may lead you to errors today. Serious changes should be put off until the facts are better developed.

Air Cadets Planning Press Day

TRENTON — The Air Cadet Summer Camp will act as host to members of Ontario's communication media next Wednesday as "Press Day" is held at CFB.

A spokesman for the camp said "the operation will be along the same line as that of Mayor's day".

Invitations have been sent out to all radio and television and newspapers in cities that have a detachment of cadets at the camp.

Although the day is to be devoted to an informative and relaxing tour of the base, the spokesman added that "the newsman may feel free to do a story if they wish".

Invitations are now being sent out to the various media.

Community Service

Excitement Keeps St. John Brigade Busy

One sign of a good fair is a fair-sized nose bleed.

One cause of nose-bleeds, says St. John Ambulance people on duty at Belleville Fair, is excitement.

And there was a fair number of them yesterday during the big exhibition's opening hours.

The victims usually wound up seeking succor at the distress centre run by the St. John corps and housed in two big tents near the north wall of the city's new recreation building.

Daily for the duration of the fair, men and women of the St. John service tend to a succession of human problems.

Not all are first - aid problems. In fact, the centre is as much a community service as a distress measure.

All lost children — and there can be many during a day at the Fair — eventually wind up there, to be consoled and comforted while their parents are sought.

There also is a free baby-sitting service, perhaps the busiest sector of the operation says Mrs. Lillian Ashley, St. John cadet officer for Ontario.

Mrs. Ashley, recently returned from leading a Canadian cadet group for inspection by Princess Margaret in Wales, says the service operates up to about 10 p.m. daily.

It relieves parents of the burden of tired children, who may just want to sleep with much of the Fair still to be viewed.

However, names and addresses of each parent are taken—just in case.

Mrs. Ashley well recalls the upheaval two years ago when two parents failed to return for their child.

After hunting for hours, police finally located them — at home.

"They'd left the fair and gone down town," she says.

Seeing the Fair all at once can be an exhausting experience, — and the St. John's centre takes care of that, too.

Chairs and bunks are available under cool canvas for fairgoers who just want to rest a spell.

Trailer Stresses Safety

If Ontario road accidents are any fewer one of the reasons can be viewed at Belleville Fair.

It's the OPP trailer, which, in the cause of highway safety has clocked about 50,000 miles in the past two years.

Parked at the east end of the midway, the trailer is drawing a constant stream of viewers, — with youngsters in the majority.

This is all to the good, says local OPP officers staffing the exhibit.

It shows that current safety programs in district schools are sparking response among the youngsters, who quickly identify the trailer with their school lectures.

The interior of the five-ton unit emphasizes the cause and effect of traffic accidents. It stresses school bus and bicycle safety.

Men from the Belleville district headquarters are on duty during fair hours to dispense all kinds of public information. And, if they are stuck for an answer, there's two-way radio contact with local headquarters.

At dark, the trailer makes a graphic point of contact with fair visitors. Safety films designed for maximum impact, are thrown on a screen on the side of the trailer for outside viewing by passersby.

Police Face Extra Duty

Belleville policemen are really working overtime now that the fair is in town.

Two special squads have been formed to cope with the extra responsibility, a special fair detail and sergeant's detail.

But nobody is complaining, even when they had to stand in one spot, as Constable Robert McAlpine did yesterday from noon until midnight, plus work in the mornings.

"Oh well," said one constable, "the fair only comes once a year and a little overtime never hurt anybody."

Quite a few of the men are working three nights of the fair, but some like Constable Thomas Spencer, are on duty for four nights in the schedule that was drawn up to form the details.

"I'm not worried about myself," he said "it's my wife .... she'll have to handle the kids at the fair."

Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said that it takes one sergeant and six men to take care of the fair each day.

"We use extra men on opening day and the night of the motorcycle races," he added.

Chief Crosbie also had nothing but praise for the "strong security force supplied by the fair."

"If we had to take care of all that," he said "then we'd really be in trouble."

In addition, the police force is also maintaining a public relations exhibit at the fair showing equipment and giving a history of the department.

As for men working overtime, he finished, it just depends on whether they were working days or not. "All of them like to get overtime in once in a while . . . the fair gives them the chance."

Kennebec Library Opens On Three-month Trial

TWEED - A demonstration library for the Township of Kennebec, has been opened for a trial period of three-months in the home of Mrs. Kathleen Steele, next to the Arden Post Office. The library contains approximately eight hundred books in the categories of reference, fiction, and non-fiction for adults and children.

The library is open to the general public three days a week; Tuesday and Thursday from 10 to 11 a.m and 2 to 4 p.m., and Saturday from 10 to 11 a.m and 1 to 4 p.m.

The Kennebec Library has been established by the Lake Ontario Regional Library System, one of the fourteen regional library systems financed by the Province of Ontario.

The system tries to provide or improve library facilities in the nine counties along the shore of Lake Ontario, only two of which have public libraries. Four demonstration libraries have been opened in Frontenac County.

If a majority of the township council's agree that a public library is a worthwhile investment, a permanent library will be established with the township providing about one-quarter of the cost and the provincial government the remainder.

Trenton Firm Tests Shad as Cat Food

A Shad Story!

Trawler Combs Shores of PE

By DAVID LEES
(Staff Reporter)

PICTON (Staff) — Shad, or ale-wives, the little fish that pile up to die and rot on area beaches could be the source of an immense industry.

Just beyond the dreaming stage, the project is under the joint guidance of the provincial department of lands and forests, and the federal department of fisheries.

A $125,000 trawling launch the Leola Charles has been operated off the shores of Prince Edward County since Aug. 6, hauling in shad, smelt and the occasional whitefish from the lake bottom.

It is hoped the area today but will return in October to comb mid-water in the area.

From its findings, and the result of industrial tests, will be determined the feasibility of a shad trawling industry on the lake.

Already, a huge industry has been established on Lake Erie, using the highly efficient trawlers. To date, commercial fishermen on the Ontario have steered clear of the trawler. The lake offers little in quantity other than shad.

Now it is hoped a market can be found. Animal food packers in the province, and even some within the immediate area, use large quantities of the fish, but import them from the Atlantic coast.

The Quaker Oats Company, which produces cat food at Trenton is testing lake shad, to determine their appeal.

Should the oats at Quaker Oats decide to lick their lips at lake shad, and should the trawling of the Leola Charles prove profitable, the operation could be given the go ahead.

The survey is to be conducted along the entire Canadian side of Lake Ontario. To date, only the areas off Whitby and Oshawa and off Prince Edward County, have been trawled.

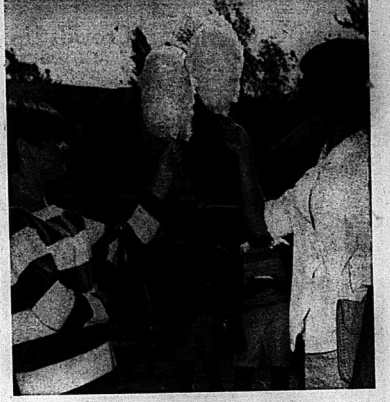
It is hoped however that a final report will be in readiness by March 1, to be presented to the Lake Ontario committee.

From that point on, the project would largely be in the hands of industry and private fishermen, the major problem being one of financing.

Whether the government would step in to get fishermen on their financial sea legs has not yet been determined.

Ronald McIntosh, representing the industrial development service, a section of the department of fisheries on the project, said that the point has yet to be considered.

However Jack Rycroft, also of the department of fisheries points out that if an industry is begun, trawlers would have to be either specially built, or brought in from Lake Erie.



The trawlers, including the necessary radar, echo sounding devices, and trawling gear would easily cost in excess of the $125,000 value of the Leola Charles.

At first glance the fish do not seem to warrant the expenditure.

Lloyd Thurston, of the department of lands and forests, in charge of the project, says that it is not necessarily so.

He points out that the entire purpose of the experiment is to find out just what value exists in the fish.

Salud!

With Belleville's fair nearing its finale, two enthusiastic young fair-goers toast its future in candy-floss.

These men are fishing for more than fish. The provincial department of lands and forests and the federal department of fisheries have been conducting a feasibility study of shad-fish industry in South Bay near Picton. It means catching the pint-size Lake Ontario denizens by the thousands.

LBJ Told Hanoi Plans Attack

SAIGON (AP)—It is the official view of the U.S. command in Vietnam that Hanoi at present is not planning a de-escalation of the war but remains determined to attack with greater force when the time is ripe. This assessment has been conveyed to President Johnson by Gen. Creighton Abrams Jr., the U.S. commander.

The current lull in the fighting, U.S. headquarters believes, was decided upon by Hanoi to enable its forces to bind the serious wounds suffered in this year's battles.

The lull of almost two months is no olive branch, senior officers say, although Hanoi might wish it interpreted as such in the Paris peace talks—if the slackening in the war was dictated by political decisions in Hanoi, there is little evidence of this on the battlefields of South Vietnam, the officers say.

"The evidence is overwhelming that they are still determined to carry out and win the military third phase of their classic guerrilla doctrine," a ranking U.S. authority says.

If many Vietnam watchers now believe that Hanoi is engaged in quietly de-escalating the war, Abrams does not agree. His headquarters vigorously defends intelligence reports of increasing North Vietnamese infiltration into the South.

As a result of the slackening war and increased infiltration into South Vietnam is a signal that North Vietnam is de-escalating the war, Defence Secretary Clark Clifford says the U.S. awaits a clear signal that Hanoi is responding to the reduction in the area of U.S. bombing. The situation is analyzed by authoritative military sources in Saigon is reported in this story by AP's chief correspondent for Vietnam.

Vice-President Humphrey says there is an argument in the U.S. government whether the recent lull in South Vietnam is a signal that North Vietnam wants to de-escalate the war. Defence Secretary Clark Clifford says the U.S. awaits a clear signal that Hanoi is responding to the reduction in the area of U.S. bombing. tion this month probably will come close to July's figure of almost 30,000.

It is at this point, however, that the command's figures come into question.

There has been great confusion about the rate of infiltration, with some military estimates differing from civilian figures.

As recently as one year ago, Abrams's predecessor, Gen. William Westmoreland, admitted that it took six months to get an accurate estimate on infiltration after it had given month. Nowadays, U.S. headquarters claims, quicker and more accurate estimates can be made, partly because of new electronic sensors doting infiltration routes.

Nigeria Rejects Truce As Troops Invest Aba

LAGOS (AP) — With his troops reported advancing on Biafra's temporary capital, the head of Nigeria's military government today rejected Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie's call for a ceasefire in the civil war.

Maj-Gen. Yakubu Gowon also said he would not go to Addis Ababa, the Ethiopian capital, in answer to the emperor's invitation to meet there with Lt.-Col. C. Odumegwu Ojukwu, lead of secessionist Biafra, and five other African heads of state on the Organization of African Unity's Nigerian committee.

At the Lambeth conference in London, the 467 bishops of the Anglican communion called unanimously today for all governments to work effectively toward peace and reconciliation in the civil war.

Nigerian forces were reported 10 miles south of the temporary Biafran capital of Aba today, but informants said elements five miles to the east were running into stiff opposition.

Col. Benjamin Adekunle, whose 3rd Marine Commando Division is driving up from Port Harcourt toward Aba, urged that troops guarding the northern line of the secessionist state be sent in to relieve the pressure on his men.

Adekunle's two commando columns reached the Imo River Wednesday in their drive northward. The column on the west occupied a village 10 miles south of Aba. But the second prong hit strong opposition in the densely populated the heartland.

Radio Biafra claimed the rebels had pushed Nigerian forces back across the river from Akwete; a settlement on the north bank, destroying three boats and killing 65 men. But the Nigerian command said that it held Akwete.

In Addis Ababa, the Ethiopian capital, peace talks continued in a stalemate, and the Nigerian negoiators rejected new proposals for relief flights of food and medicine to the millions of starving Biafrans. The Lagos government turned down a plan for flights to an air strip on Biafran soil that would be controlled by the International Red Cross.

Refugees Waiting For Death

GENEVA (AP) — "Groups of up to 3,500 mothers and children huddled together—emaciated, listless many beyond the point of caring—just waiting for death."

This was one of the grim scenes described Thursday by a United Nations relief leader after returning from federally-held territory in the Nigerian-Biafran civil war.

Henry Labouisse, American executive director of the UN Childrens' Emergency Fund, told a news conference after visiting the Uyo and Ikot Ekpene areas of southeast Nigeria:

"I witnessed the frightful suffering of the many thousand refugees who have poured into that area which now is under federal control."

He said that at one camp of about 3,000 people, "10 to 15 were dying every day."

Labouisse, who was not able to visit Biafran-held areas, added:

"Many are dying from starvation, particularly children, on both sides of the fighting. A great many others are on the verge of starvation."

'Nixiecrats' Assailed

'Platform of Empty Promises'

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Vice-President Hubert Humphrey said today the Republican platform had "empty promises" and he dubbed the Republican party "the Nixiecrats."

Humphrey, in a speech prepared for the United Federation of Postal Workers in the city where he used the mayor's office as a political springboard to national prominence, gave his harshest talk so far against Republican presidential nominee Richard Nixon.

Humphrey accused the Republicans of turning out at their Miami Beach convention a "platform of empty promises—promises that somehow seem to get lost, when the Republicans settle down in Congress."

Americans, said Humphrey, "caught on to this sleight of hand years ago, and they are not going to be fooled in 1968."

"I don't think many of us were prepared for the amazing transformation that occurred in Miami last week.

"We knew there was a Nixon. We knew there were some recent Republicans like Strom Thurmond—one of the first people ever to walk out on me—but who expected them to spin off a new party, that of the Nixiecrats!"

Humphrey was referring to the Democratic national convention in Philadelphia in 1948 when his arguments for a stronger civil rights plank helped start a walkout by southern Democrats who launched the Dixiecrat party with Thurmond as its presidential candidate.

Thurmond, a South Carolinian, later turned his Democratic label and became a Republican.

Thurmond was reported to have a key role in the southern strategy at the Republican convention in Miami Beach which chose Nixon as its candidate.

Recognize Failures

McCarthy Wants Peace Plank

NEW YORK (AP) — Senator Eugene McCarthy says his followers will fight for a Democratic party platform peace plank which calls for a coalition government in South Vietnam and "which recognizes failures of past policy."

In remarks for a Madison Square garden rally which drew 20,000 cheering supporters Thursday night, McCarthy said his proposed platform would affirm "that there must be a new government in Saigon, open to the participation of the NLF (National Liberation Front)."

The presidential contender said his proposed plank would stress that refusal by Saigon to accept such a new government "will result in the reduction and gradual phase-out of American troops and American assistance."

McCarthy omitted the details of the proposed plank from his prepared speech when he delivered it on television due to time limitations, but aides said he stood by the full text.

Earlier McCarthy released a list of Democratic and Republicans who he called "the kind of men I'd like to have in my cabinet" but said he had not made any offers of appointment to any of them.

The list included Senator J. W. Fulbright as a possible secretary of state; Republican Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York as a possible secretary of housing and urban affairs, and John Gardner, former secretary of health, education and welfare, as defence secretary.

Gov. Philip Hoff of Vermont, who earlier Thursday endorsed McCarthy's candidacy, was listed as a possible interior secretary.

McCarthy charged that the Johnson administration "is a not begun realistically to seek a settlement" of the Vietnam war in the Paris peace talks.

"The present policy of the administration remains as inflexible as it was before negotiations began. We continue to bomb the North—indeed we send forth more missions than ever before."

Channel Islands Day

Corbyville Jersey Breeder Wins Two Awards

A long-time Belleville area Jersey breeder, Lorne Jarrell of Corbyville, captured two of four top honors in the Jersey cattle show at yesterday's Belleville Fair.

Mr. Jarrell showed the champion female of the show and also had the reserve champion female.

The Jersey show was part of a Channel Islands Day cattle show at the fair which also saw Guernseys judged.

A Campbellford father and son, with separate dairy herds were also heavy winners in the Jersey classes. Wayne Kerr had the champion bull, while Stan Kerr had the reserve champion female.

In the Guernsey classes John Fennell of Bradford showed the champion bull and the reserve champion female. J. B. Bailey of Uxbridge showed the champion female with Edgar Davey of Cobourg showing the reserve champion bull.

Other Jersey breeders competing in the Channel Islands Day show were W. E. Dextrator and Sons, Ron Hamilton and Dexter Hardley all from the Trenton area.

Fred Sutcliffe and Sons of Napanee and Cobourg was the third Guernsey breeder showing at the fair.

Most of the cattle judged at the fair this year is being done in the evening under the lights at the coliseum cattle show ring.

And cattle showmen from throughout the province are loud in their praise of the new show ring facilities. The paved floor keeps all cattle on the same level and the even lighting shows up the cattle to best advantage.

Cattle committee chairman Donald Spencer said yesterday that better quality cattle are being shown at Belleville Fair each year.

"The fact that showmen can go from Belleville fair to the CNE or the Royal and win top prizes, is an indication of the quality of cattle being shown here," he said.

Wednesday at the fair Dual Purpose Shorthorns, Scotch Shorthorns, Angus and Herefords were shown when beef cattle were featured.

Today is Holstein Day with judging for the Hastings County Black and White Day Show and the open Holstein classes scheduled to get underway in the show ring at 7.30.

Exhibitors in Wednesday's Hereford classes included Bobby Hull of Demorestville, Milton W. Cornish of Indian River; Brigden Farms of Brigden, Douglas Gray of Courtright, Edmund Reavie of Flinton and Allan Franks of Madoc.

Scotch Shorthorns were shown by David Cornish of Omemee, A. J. Elmhurst and Son of Indian River, Mervin Miller, Glasgow Station and R. J. Draper of Elgin, Manitoba.

Angus exhibitors were C. L. Rudkin of Port Perry, Malcolm Bailey of Uxbridge, Lorne Armstrong of R.R. 3 Ashton, Burton E. Griffith, Mt. Hope and J. D. Clarke of King-ston.

Crowds Up, But Oh, That Rain

Belleville Fair suffered its first setback today.

Organizers of the big, five-day exhibition glumly gazed on rain clouds gathering over the fairgrounds site — then sprinted for shelter as the showers came.

The clouds broke shortly before noon, spraying heavy rain over the city and district — shortly after Fair director Angus Hepburn announced attendance spiral.

Yesterday there were 7,528 paid admissions to the fairgrounds — up nearly 2,100 from 1967. So far, the exhibition has attracted 2,224 more patrons than last year and with tonight's star program turn — the Ontario motorcycle championships — attendance was expected to take another boost in its second-last day.

But much now hinges on unpredictable weather patterns.

The duty forecaster at Canadian Forces Base Trenton predicted showers "off and on" during the afternoon and early evening. Afterwards, the weather will turn humid with the possibility of more rain Saturday afternoon.

Visiting Firemen

Duncan G. Anderson, Vancouver area municipal fireman and secretary treasurer British Columbia Fireman's Association, visits with Belleville fire fighters Captain Browning and Deputy Chief Leo Culhane.

Visiting Fireman Talks Shop On Visit Here From B.C.

The practicality of "killing two birds with one stone" is a long accepted fact, but if you can make it three you have really hit the jackpot.

But that's the case with West Coast municipal fireman Duncan G. "Andy" Anderson, who this week flew East to attend the International Firemen's convention to be held in Toronto.

As secretary treasurer of the British Columbia Firemen's Association, Fireman Anderson gets to go to all the provincial, national and international conventions.

But with the upcoming Toronto convention, he is taking advantage of his visit to visit relatives in Belleville and to recall wartime air force days.

Following a tour of duty overseas as wartime wireless air gunner with the RCAF, Mr. Anderson took an instructor's course at Mountain View and later instructed at the air force Initial Training School in Belleville.

The Initial Training School at Belleville was where many a fledgling airman got his air force indoctrination. The ITS was at the Ontario School for the Deaf which was taken over by the RCAF during the war.

Following his discharge Mr. Anderson returned to his home on the West Coast where until the early 1950s he worked as a welder for the CNR.

Then he joined the municipal fire department in burgeoning Richmond township on Lulu Island in the Fraser River delta between New Westminster and Vancouver. The department serves a municipal area of about 35,000 people.

And talk about visiting firemen.

One of the first places the West Coast fireman looked in on at Belleville was No. 2 firehall on West Moira Street.

Here he compared fire fighting notes with on duty firemen. He even later looked in on firemen at their stand at Belleville Fair.

Although he is a native West Coast man, Fireman Anderson has a soft spot in his heart for the Belleville are.

"If I didn't live in British Columbia, I would want to be in the Belleville area," he says.

Indian Act Revision

Mohawks Ask for More Flexibility

SHANNONVILLE — Quinte Mohawks want more flexible self-government on Indian reservations across Canada.

And other Indian groups in Ontario support the stand, says John Brant, former chief of the Mohawk Tyendinaga reservation near here.

Mr. Brant today said he emphasized the issue during this week's Toronto conference of Indian and federal government officials on revisions to the Indian Act. Other delegations "pretty well agreed" to the proposals, he said.

"Any new act must be flexible enough to allow (Indian) band councils to manage the affairs of their reserves in a way best suited to local conditions," said Mr. Brant.

And the white man's government representatives in the reserve agencies must also be aware of this, he warned.

"Agency staffs must recognize this flexibility. This is quite necessary — regardless of any changes made in the act," said Mr. Brant.

The demand is "to give the Indian people more power to look after their own" instead of caretaking by federal administrators.

However, Mr. Brant said he was personally happy with the progress of the conference and the fact federal officials agreed to a second meeting to discuss revised legislation.

Only 10 of 34 contentious sections of the Indian Act were discussed at the Toronto talks, said the former chief.

"We're happy the department officers go along with another meeting in the very near future," he added. "We have to have more time — this is the first time they've taken the Indian people into consultation to such an extent."

Mr. Brant believed the second conference could come within three weeks.

The bearers were Mac Sarles, George Sarles, Arthur Dickens, Frank Dickens, Ronald Love, Ernest Neil. The interment was made in Eggleston Cemetery.

GARY WAYNE SAGER

TRENTON — The funeral for Gary Wayne Sager was held from the Weaver Funeral Home on Thursday afternoon. Rev. D. Wilson of St. Andrew's Church, Trenton, conducted the service in the chapel and the committal rites at White's cemetery.

The bearers were Gordon Hemstreet, Robert Cameron, Charles Sandford, Harry Horton, Wesley Hyatt and Wayne Drake.

In poor health for the past 11 years, Mr. Sager, 54 Third Avenue, Trenton, died in Kingston on Monday. He was born in Trenton, 30 years ago, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Sager and spent his entire life in the community.

He served in the Royal Canadian Navy as an engineering mechanic. He was a member of Grace United Church in Trenton.

Surviving are his parents, brothers Robert of Toronto and Eric of Trenton and one sister, Mrs. Alfred (Sandra) Waddell of Edmonton, Alberta. He was a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sager.

ROBERT J. GOSLEIGH

TRENTON — The funeral for Robert J. Gosleigh, 437 Front Street, Trenton, was held from the Weaver Funeral Home to St. Peter's Church on Thursday afternoon.

Requiem mass was celebrated by Rev. A. Appleton, who also said the graveside prayers in Mount Calvary cemetery.

The bearers were Roy Chatten, Albert Flindall, James Grange, Fred Hubbs, Percy Carr and Earl Bush.

Following an illness of five months, Mr. Gosleigh died in Trenton Memorial Hospital on Monday. He was born in Trenton, 40 years ago, a son of Mrs. Vincent Gosleigh and the late V. Gosleigh and resided in Trenton for 25 years. Mr. Gosleigh was a carpenter by trade.

He was sales representative for Canadian Canners, Ltd. for the past 3 years.

Mr. Gosleigh was a member of St. Peter's Church and is survived by his wife, the former Margaret Davies, his mother and two children Michael and Kathleen at home. Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. James (Marie) Stark and Mrs. Roland (Lucy) Buck both of Trenton and three brothers, Donald and Kenneth of Trenton and William of Newcastle.

The Winners At the Fair

Belleville Fair can be a winning proposition.

And among the winners: Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Davidson and their three children, of 28 Smith Crescent, who drew the gate prize for family fair goers last night. The family received about $50 in merchandise and services, pledged by local businesses.

Prizes ranged from dinner, flowers, taxi rides and free bowling.

Nancy and Brian Rainboth the children of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rainboth, Middleton Park. They're only 13 months old — but with enough of the needed qualities to become the top twins at the Fair's baby show.

Where Have All the People Gone?

Belleville Fair? That's where! At least, that's one reason advanced by officials at Zwick's Island Park for the sudden deserted look of the city's popular Bay of Quinte beach. Usually thronged on a hot, sunny day like yesterday, the recreation area was almost empty of patrons.

DEATHS

IN MEMORIAM

CHRISTOPHER—In loving memory of Mary Christopher who passed away August 16, 1965.
Sadly missed and remembered by sister Kathleen, brother-in-law and Linda.

CHRISTOPHER — In loving memory of a dear wife Lenna Mildred Christopher who passed away today Aug. 16, 1967.
Sweet memories are kept from year to year,
And friends from day to day;
Though she is gone and I grieve,
Time cannot take away.
Always remembered by husband Bill.

SPENCER — In loving memory of Bessie Spencer who passed away August 16, 1964.
What would we give if we could say,
Hello Dad in the same old way,
To hear his voice and see his smile,
To sit with him and chat awhile,
Deep in our hearts his memory is kept,
To love and cherish and never forget.
—Ever remembered by husband, children and family, brother-in-law Fletcher and family.

Belleville Fingered

Nursing Lake Back to Health Long Job

By DAVID LEES
Staff Reporter

PICTON (Staff) — Lake Ontario, tired old lady of the Great Lakes, long abused by the hand of man, is being nursed back into good health.

The project is a slow one. Lloyd Thurston, who is currently working on the lake for the department of lands and forests, was outspoken about the many problems facing the Ontario Water Resources Commission.

He pointed an accusing finger at Belleville, and municipalities of its like, who seem to have little regard for the effluent they dump.

A primary treatment plant only has been established in Belleville. The primary treatment, a settling one, removes approximately 40 per cent of the dissolved solid wastes.

With 60 per cent of the wastes still in the water, and lacking any further treatment the effluent is then dumped into Lake Ontario.

A secondary treatment plant, already established in most cities of Belleville's size, subjects the water to a biological process. Bacteria breaks down as does most of the remaining solids.

According to Mr. Thurston, a third stage has now been developed. The process which is still in the laboratory stage, produces crystal clear water, from the effluents of the secondary stage.

However, like both primary and secondary stages, the tertiary stage still leaves phosphates and nitrates intact in the water.

The two elements are damaging ones and are produced in human and animal wastes. They are potent fertilizers. Mr. Thurston explained that tanks containing the chemical salts in large quantities can, overnight, produce solid growths of plant life, primarily algae.

Plant life, basically beneficial to the water, wreaks havoc as it dies. Solid growths of algae, lying dead on the lake bottoms, decompose, and in doing so, remove needed oxygen from the waters.

With winter freezing, fish are pushed deeper and deeper to the bottom of the lake.

If pushed deep enough they smother and die, on the oxygenless bottom.

For some reason, apparently unknown at this time, lake trout are disappearing from the Ontario. Mr. Thurston speculated that the sea lamprey and over exploitation of the fish are responsible.

Whatever the cause, the passing of the fish, has left a void of life in the centre of Lake Ontario. No new fish have moved in to fill up this rift.

At present attempts are being made at the Glenora Fisheries Station to reintroduce various varieties of trout into the lake. Unlike an earlier project in Lake Huron it has been largely unsuccessful to date.

The picture however is not all bleak.

Lake Erie, with a pollution problem even worse than Lake Ontario, is slowly but surely being cleaned up.

Fishermen report that areas of that lake, formerly barren, are producing fish once again. In one area, only a year was required after the elimination of the disposal from a chicken factory to allow life to take up in neighboring waters.

The Ontario Water Resources Commission has begun a crackdown on offending industries. The battle is a slow one. Big money, big interests and public apathy have dogged the project.

But something, however small has been begun.

Shad

Sold for animal food packaging, shad net 4 to 4½ cents per pound. Trawling in south bay yesterday, the Leola Charles hauled in a ton and a half of shad. At the present four cent rate, that amounts to $120.

However, commercial fishermen, unlike the experimental vessel, would actively hunt down schools of the fish, following them, rather than adhering to a grid pattern. The resultant haul would be vastly increased.

If the Quaker Oats Company and others were to decide the lake shad are acceptable they will mix the fish, 10 per cent with the normally used herring. Each week, 126,000 pounds of sea shad are consumed by the plant.

Fishing costs are fairly low. In a day of trawling, the Leola Charles, operated by three men used about $20 of diesel fuel.

Aside from the shad catch were an additional 550 pounds of smelt, 99 pounds of which were marketable at fair prices for human consumption, 60 pounds of yellow perch, 10 pounds marketable for human consumption, two large lake herring, eight whitefish, two rock bass, and two sea lampreys.

Which One Was It?

He isn't looking for the one that got away. Even if he was, Lloyd Thurston, department of lands and forests officer, would have quite a search, singling out one shad from the thousands piled on the deck of the Leola Charles. Catch is part of feasibility study on shad industry.

Belleville Worst Offender In Pollution War: Chamber

"The worst offender of water pollution in Belleville is Belleville," said Roland Belanger yesterday at a meeting of the board of directors of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

And the rest of the directors agreed with him.

Although in many cities industry is the big cause of pollution, not so in Belleville according to the chamber directors.

"Industry is the least contributor," said Donald Joss and director Gerald Joyce pointed out that the industrial problems Belleville did have worked themselves out.

Mr. Joss referred to a list published last week in the Trentonian naming Trenton industries causing pollution and suggested the chamber follow up that list for a report in six months.

The course of action the chamber decided to take was suggested by Harry Fast who thought it would be a good idea to write letters to all members asking them to lead the way against pollution."

It was also decided by the directors to write a letter to Dr. R. T. Potter, MPP for the riding, thanking him for the work he has done and asking him for an official report on the situation here and when more action can be expected.

Another area discussed by the directors yesterday was the harbor facilities in Belleville. Dockage space was termed inadequate as were gas, water and washroom facilities.

However, it was pointed out that a lot of work had been done with soundings, plans and designs.

To continue investigation into the matter Robert Icely was appointed chairman of a committee to study the problems and examine what has been done and what still needs doing.

Planning districts on a much larger basis was thought by the directors to be a matter of utmost importance.

"If we don't," said Mr. Belanger, "we'll have our factories on our farm land and be growing our food out of rock."

It was mentioned that a regional planning board experiment has been underway in Waterloo but that it would be a while before results are known.

To make sure the matter receives further attention, Chamber secretary manager O. (Brad) Bradley was instructed to bring the matter to the attention of delegates at an upcoming meeting of provincial chamber managers.

This would insure that the topic is put on the agenda of the policy making meeting of the Ontario Chamber next year.

PUC Awards Tenders

Two contracts were awarded by the Public Utilities Commission at their meeting yesterday.

A tender from William Belch and sons for the two new substations that Belleville is building was accepted at $31,949.

Most of the tenders for the substations were only slightly higher but one tender was for $130,000.

"Quite a difference in those prices," said manager E. L. Burnham this morning.

Acquiring the necessary land for the water treatment plant extension was also discussed by the commissioners.

Asking price from the owners is $11,000 but the two appraisals that the commission has received value the land only at between two and three thousand dollars.

And there might also be some dissension over the metering of Loyalist College.

The commission feels that the college should only be metered once, on a main meter.

"That way we are getting paid for all the water we pump," said Mr. Burnham. There is a suggestion the college will want all its buildings metered individually.

Another contract awarded yesterday was to the Tatham Company for the extension of watermains on Tracy St., Davie St., West St., Hannah St., and Elvins Gardens.

Accepted by the commission was Tatham's tender for $38,147.

Art Show Best Ever In Picton

PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward Arts and Crafts Association members crossed their fingers, and probably prayed a little. It paid off, and it did not rain.

The resultant outdoor art show was probably one of the most stimulating shows ever held in Picton.

Public interest, according to Mrs. Lawson Evans, president of the association, was high. A large number of Picton residents signed the lawns on everything from painting to the more exotic wood carving and chair caning.

But just from a viewers stand, the show was more than a success. Eighty prestigiet accented paintings from Belleville, Kingston, Port Hope, Cobourg and the county.

The chicken fencing at the Benson Park basketball court proved perfect for hanging the large number of paintings.

Demonstrations as well as samples were shown of rug weaving, ceramics, papier mache productions and even the little known macarosi art.

Children produced the latter craft. Macaroni, in the many sizes, shapes and forms it arrives in today, were pasted to burlap and paper, painted and lo . . portraits.

Mrs. Grace Hawkins of Picton demonstrated an almost forgotten skill. Cane weaving once was a primary form of production for chair bottoms. Various cane, bark and grass twines are woven together to form the ornate bottom of antique chairs. Mrs. Hawkins' biggest concern, aside from preserving the art, is to find a supply of genuine splint bark, produced from elm, ash and hickory tree barks.

Fine Weather, Fine Arts

Fine weather brought out display of the fine arts at Picton's Benson Park. Romany Rutter is 10-year-old admirer of display — part of Picton's Loyalist Days Festival.

Fickle Mankind

Strange are the ways of man. By turn agreable and perverse, he may exhibit high idealism and humanity on the one hand, baseness and anti-social tendencies on the other.

We are not at war in Canada — as rival factions are, for instance, in Nigeria. Consequently there is the spectacle in West Africa of a central government, once one of the most stable on that continent, bent on a policy of fratricide.

Secessionist Biafra, in the eastern part of the country, must be brought back into the federal fold says the Lagos regime. So while millions of refugees face starvation, mostly in Biafra, Nigeria pursues a costly and so far fruitless military campaign against the breakaway province. At the same time efforts by the Red Cross and other organizations and countries to get food and medicine to the needy have been frustrated by the Nigerian authorities. Red Cross aircraft have been fired on, on the pretext they may be carrying arms for Biafran forces.

No such problem exists in Canada. And yet, can we afford to be complacent? Is it possible Canada might find itself at war one day with a breakaway Quebec? The thought is not a new one — it is the basis of at least one new Canadian novel we read about recently. The borders of Quebec sealed . . . refugees crowding Dorval airport . . . English-speaking women being molested by rampaging Quebec troops. Fanciful? Maybe, but the seeds of such a situation are already present in the lingering "French fact" in Quebec.

Meanwhile we can afford to be civilized . . . humane, behaving as human beings should. We can send wheat to Asia and food and medicine to Nigeria even though it may rot in the African sun for want of a sympathetic, humanitarian government at the other end.

And we can afford also to feel genuine admirable of collective concern and helpfulness as the flying home of a young English woman injured in a car accident in this area recently. Susan Barsby was flown home in an Air Transport Command plane from Trenton.

Canadians are fortunate to live where they do, in a vast land where there is freedom and opportunity for all. We should use these advantages not only for our own benefit but also for the good of others less well-endowed, in the belief that by doing so the best that is in man will prevail.

Party Divisions

U.S. Public Unimpressed by Presidential Candidates

By ROD CURRIE

WASHINGTON (CP)—There is a widely-held view here that the Republican presidential campaign headed by Richard M. Nixon is off to a less than impressive start.

If, as is suggested many Republicans left their Miami nominating convention with less enthusiasm than they arrived with, the cause is the selection of Maryland Governor Spiro Agnew as vice-presidential candidate and the theory that Nixon capitulated to Southern pressure in selecting him.

As the pundits continue to hassle over the convention there emerges a consensus that the only thing to recommend Agnew, a little-known newcomer whose relations with a Negro community of Maryland are strained, was his backing from the South.

Nixon won the nomination with the support of the South, the conservatives and some moderates—a big coalition leaning somewhat to the right of centre on the political spectrum. He won without any large measure of help from the big-city states such as New York, Michigan and California.

To many observers Nixon is again playing the dangerous game of "southern strategy" which brought his party to disaster in 1960 when he was the candidate and in 1964 when Barry Goldwater was swamped by the Johnson landslide.

History is a poor guide to election still to be decided but for what it's worth the past has shown over and over again that this flirting with the South only antagonizes the more liberal northern and big-city Republicans and the independent voters.

Republican hopes in the South appear particularly dim this time in the face of the spirited campaign of segregationist George C. Wallace, the former Alabama governor running as third-party candidate. Speculation is that the Southern states that Wallace does not win outright are likely to go to the Democrats as a result of Wallace and Nixon dividing the conservative vote.

Aside from Negro displeasure with Agnew's nomination, there arises the question in many Americans minds of his qualifications to be president. With two of the last four presidents having gained the White House through the death of the incumbent, this is a matter of growing concern to the electorate.

Still, amid all this criticism of the Miami affair, none of the respected political observers have lost sight of the fact that Nixon is an astute and tested politician, unlikely to be imprudous or to embark on any plan without a clear goal in sight.

Any final judgment on the Republican ticket and Nixon's motivations must be weighed against the outcome of the Democratic convention where considerable family squabbling is guaranteed.

Whatever division the Agnew nomination may have brought to the Republican party could seem minor compared with that in the Democratic party, particularly over Vietnam.

Movement of Freight

Maritime Ports Study "Landbridge" Concept

Saint John Telegraph-Journal

There is a good deal of talk and investigation in Canada of the exciting "landbridge" concept that has bobbed up near the top of the swirling world transportation scene.

The basic idea of the landbridge would be to move both bulk and containerized cargoes across North America by "unit" or "integral" trains, travelling at high speed and almost nonstop. A much-quoted study undertaken by McKinsey and Company, Inc. for the British Transport Docks Board, recently concluded that containerized cargo could be moved significantly cheaper by rail than by steamship. This lends weight to the idea of moving goods from the Orient to Europe via a North American landbridge.

The landbridge would be integrated with Atlantic and Pacific shuttle services employing the huge, high-speed freighters of several hundred thousand tons now being developed, which will require much deeper water than current shipping and use highly specialized berthing and handling equipment.

Atlantic port circles are excited. Halifax has had a study of such a continental system for a year. There is talk of a deep-water port being built at Canso, N.S. Plans have been announced for construction of a deep-water terminal for giant tankers at Mispec, and the New Brunswick government is pushing ahead with planning for a superport at Lorneville, six miles from Saint John Harbor.

Canada is supposed to have an edge, with two uncomplicated transcontinental railways, whereas any such system in the U.S. would require integration of several independent railways. It is a mighty thin edge and will become progressively more uncomfortable to sit on.

At least two separate efforts are under way in the U.S. to get a landbridge operating. Experimental cross-country freights have already been run in 56 hours. The Sante Fe system is organizing one consortium and the Union Pacific and Norfolk-Western are driving ahead with another.

Meanwhile, there is disturbing evidence that more and more Canadian cargoes are moving through New York. Last year and in the first quarter of this year tonnages through Saint John and Halifax have dropped.

Availability and frequency of shipping services to world markets are declining at both ports and increasing at New York. One of the latest to suffer severe curtailment has been service between the West Indies and the Atlantic Provinces. Prime Caribbean port facilities are being allocated to U.S. runs. Atlantic Provinces exporters face both increased costs and a shortage of refrigerated cargo space that has sharply weakened their competitive position.

A landbridge bypassing the Atlantic Provinces entirely could be a reality in 10 years or even five. And since the decision would make the accomplishment, we could be frozen out even sooner — at the point when the significant deals are made.

The fact that silk trains ran to Saint John from Vancouver at the turn of the century, pioneering the landbridge idea, cuts no ice today. It is more instructive to look at the bleak fact that the fastest time recorded in that area of rushing Japanese silk to Europe was made between Vancouver and New York — a 1924 shipment unloaded at New York just 13 days after leaving Japan.

Saint John has no more than a chance to survive as a world port. Unless we move from talk to action with speed we won't even have the chance.

Talks With Indians

The opening of Belleville Fair by Chief Earl Hill of the Tyendinaga Reserve was eloquent of the cordial relationship between the people of Quinte and the Mohawk population.

It is encouraging, too, at the national level to observe steps being taken to bring the Indian population increasingly into the mainstream of society while at the same time permitting them to preserve their own culture.

The biggest single step in this direction is the agreement between representatives of southern Ontario Indians and Minister Without Portfolio Robert Andras that Indians should have full benefits of Canadian citizenship while still retaining treaty-granted Indian rights.

The Fort Arthur MP is heading a government group meeting with representatives of Canada's 219,000 treaty Indians in an effort to rewrite the Indian Act. The meetings being held throughout the country are a significant step forward in the long, and regrettably often unhappy relations, between Canada's first citizens and the white population.

A Lethargic Lot

Slaves as people are to the automobile these days. This generation must be one of the most lethargic physically in the long history of the world.

It is easy to tell from casual observation alone. Step at any picnic area on a weekend, or study the people at the beach. It can be a sight to dismay anyone. And you don't need to be a Dr. Paul Dudley White, the sprightly U.S. heart specialist who at 80 or so rides a bicycle, to realize there are more paunches and sluggish systems around than is good for people.

You can almost hear the bones creak as drivers climb from their cars and amble wearily to the nearest picnic table, there to eat perhaps what they should not and smoke that extra cigaret

But that is the way it is these days. Too much ease and comfort chasing too many people driving too many cars. It is one of the many ways that lead to the cemetery.

Hastings Lake Country Quiet Vacation Retreat

Windsor Star

Providence has endowed Ontario with its lakes and streams. The former comprise the Great Lakes and myriad smaller ones with rivers such as the St. Lawrence and scores of smaller streams.

With an ever-increasing population and more leisure, there is an ever-increasing search for places to get away from it all. This is apart from the annual influx of tourists from across the border.) This applies especially to cottage areas. Those within easy reach of Toronto, for instance, are almost overcrowded and it takes real money to acquire one.

Most people in Ontario are familiar with the Muskoka, Haliburton, Kawartha and Rideau Lakes to say nothing of good beach areas such as Sable and Wasaga. But there is one lovely area about which relatively few are familiar.

This is the Land O'Lakes district, stretching north from Belleville and Napanee. It comprises the eastern part of Hastings County, Lennox and Addington and the southern section of Renfrew, and includes the beautiful Madawaska River valley. It is literally dotted with lakes, to several of which there is not yet access by road.

One reason why it still is relatively unknown is that people of Western Ontario have their large lakes; those of Toronto have Lake Simcoe and those in the Muskoka, Haliburton and Kawartha districts fairly close. Those in Kingston have the Rideau Lakes and those in Ottawa lakes and rivers on both sides of the Ontario-Quebec boundary.

Improvement of highways the opening up of some "new" lakes, provincial parks, etc., helped.

Demonstrations in Fall?

Communist Among Student Agitators Invited to Quebec

Ottawa Le Droit: After the postal and Quebec liquor board strikes, and the agitated air of the airline pilots for whom $20,000 a year is not enough, we are being threatened with student demonstrations in the fall. Student agitation has long been flaming in France, the United States, Germany and Italy and its sparks, as in forest fires, could well reach Canada.

The Union Generale des Etudiants du Quebec has just invited, to enlighten its members on the motives and methods of the dispute, Mr. Jacques Sauvageot—the Intiger with David Cohn-Bendit and Geismar, of the Sorbonne and Nanterre uprisings that shook all of France. Also invited is Mr. Pierre Dube of the Communist Revolutionary Youth, a movement banned by Gen. de Gaulle following the events which put the whole Parisian area to the torch and pushed the Pompidou government to within an inch of its collapse.

Recognized student associations thus are appealing to the very leaders of the revolution. Their presence will certainly awaken a lively interest in those who follow the educational problems in Europe, but it is natural to wonder why the approach was made to leaders of extreme-left radical groups, whose total rejection of society, the established order and responsible authority seems to have become the new gospel. French statistics indicate that only 10 per cent of the students took some part in the May disorders. Why not consider the other 90 per cent? Why trust the "angry ones" and ignore the reasonable ones?

Student unrest is not unknown in our own institutions of higher learning. Students are claiming a voice in the councils of our universities, which does not conflict with common sense when they have worthwhile contributions to make. Some students even want to run the universities, which in truth would go against their own interests. Students in such circles seem to have adopted as slogan: little study, plenty of recreation, complete freedom for the individual, no examinations, and all this at the expense of others.

In light of these negative reactions one can well imagine what damage may be done by Communist agitators who come from France to preach to us the revolt they are no longer permitted to practise at home. They are not the spokesmen of French student youth.

Soviet Naval Strength In the Mediterranean

Toronto Star Syndicate

The United States is concerned about the numbers of Soviet warships making through the Dardanelles into the Mediterranean. British naval government is embarrassed by U.S. suggestions that somehow the traffic be curbed.

In 1936 Treaty of Montreux gave Turkey control over the narrow waterway leading from the Black Sea to the Mediterranean. Under the Treaty regulations, Turkey can close the strait in time of war, but are bound to keep it open to all peacetime traffic.

The Soviet Union is challenging the U.S. 6th Fleet for control of the Mediterranean, probably the most strategic large body of water in the world. Turkey is a member of the North (NATO) — indeed, she's the allimportant Eastern anchor of the alliance. Her embarrassment comes from her NATO alliance and the fact she lives in close proximity to the Soviet giant.

Under the Montreux regulations, the Turkish Foreign Ministry makes an annual report of ship passages to all signatories of the pact. In 1967 the total number of Soviet warships entering the Mediterranean through the Dardanelles was 167. Only 62 war vessels returned to Russian Black Sea bases and the 105 still at large in the inland sea is what concerns the United States.

Here's a breakdown of the Russian ship movements:

Of 51 minelayers entering the Mediterranean, 30 returned to Black Sea ports. Twenty-one PT boats went into the Mediterranean and none returned. Among other fleet units, there were 11 destroyers, 3 cruisers, 9 minesweepers and two submarines and various auxiliary vessels. None of the latter has returned to Soviet waters.

Foreign ships totalling 59 million tons used the strait in 1967 and Russian ships topped the list with 26 million tons. From the manifests it's known most of the 26 million tons was carrying supplies for the Arab nations to rebuild their Israeli war losers.

For centuries Mare Nostrum (our sea) was the boast of the Italians. The British controlled it for years until they began to phase out their colonial powers. The United States, with its Sixth Fleet, still has the largest force in the Mediterranean, but the USSR is challenging its mastery.

Best Birds Flock Together

Poultry lovers attending the Belleville Fair poultry show don't have to search around to find the birds which topped the show.

Thanks to a bit of good thinking on the part of the poultry committee, the championship birds are grouped together in one section of the building for easy identification.

The championship cock of the show in the regular classes was a Cornish (Dark) bird shown by Jack Reynes, while the champion female in the regular classes was a white Wyandotte shown by R. M. Brown.

The best Fantail pigeon was shown by M. E. Waite with the best pair being shown by Larry Waite.

Break-ins Are Foiled

Two attempted break-ins last night were foiled by the owners of the homes.

Around 9.30 p.m. a youth tried to enter the residence of Maurice Rollins on Palmer Rd., by removing a screen from a door.

However, he was heard by Mr. Rollins who came to investigate. By the time Mr. Rollins arrived at the door the youth had fled.

Around 2am o'clock in the morning a youth described only as 18 years old, tried to climb through a window at 21 Brassey St., the home of J. De Geneva.

When he came face to face with Mr. De Genova at the window he also fled. Police have made no arrests in connection with either of the attempts but investigations are continuing.

Report Given On School Conditions

TWEED — The August meeting of the Huntingdon Public School Board was held recently.

Thomas Lindale (Public School Trustee) attended the Council meeting and gave a report on the condition of the Public School in Huntingdon Township.

A special meeting was held on August 12. Debentures amounting to $1,297,523.00 for the addition to Madoc High School were approved.

The 2 per cent discount on 1968 taxes was ordered extended until one week after the postal strike.

A number of accounts were paid.

Workhorses Share Limelight

Among the 70 saddle and show horses in the Belleville Fair officials' opening parade was a team of workhorses and this wagon drawn by four Percherons. The entry belongs to R. S. Cochran and Sons, Burketon.

V. H. Lange Winner Of 4 Horse Events

All day yesterday there were horses at the Belleville Fair.

Competition began at one o'clock and was not completed until 11 o'clock at night after the Gymkhana eastern Ontario Championships.

First came the show classes in the afternoon and it was V. H. Lange from Trenton, who stole the afternoon winning the stallion (two years and over), brood mare and foal trophy, foal of current year and mare (three years and under) classes in the competition.

Nancy Allin won the stallion on line and foal of current year classes. Also winning a foal of current year class was Donna Valleau.

Highland Golden Nugget, ridden by Betty Reeve won the registered stallion (two plus) class. Brood mare and foals by side classes were taken by Morris Munro and Brad Valleau.

Other winners in the afternoon show classes were R. Lightfoot, Laverne Way, Ted Colebourne and Charles Culmer.

In other afternoon events more firsts were captured by D. MacDonald, Karla Kikila, Linda MacDonald, Betty Reeve, Kristin Jenkins, Jack Lange, Sylvia Chalk, El Hubbs and Nancy Allin.

Teachers Attend Refresher Courses in Toronto

TWEED — Ontario high school teachers have been giving up part of their summer holidays to attend "refresher" courses at two Toronto secondary schools. One hundred and eighty-five teachers from throughout the province are participating in the courses, sponsored by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federations.

Among the teachers attending the courses is Jemes Hanna of Moira Street, Tweed, a teacher at the Madoc High School.

Designed to bring the teacher up to date on the latest methods of instruction and subject areas, the two-week courses are being held in Toronto at Lawrence Park Collegiate Institute and East York Collegiate Institute.

Courses are being offered in developmental reading in high schools, Grade 12 chemistry, and these Grade 13 course areas: biology, chemistry, English, French, Latin and mathematics.

Many of the participating teachers are paying their own tuition and expenses, though in some cases their local boards of education are paying the fees.

Around The Cut

A rink of Jerry Hyde Jr., Jack Avery, Orlo Smith with G. B. "Jerry" Hyde as skip gathered honors at the Provincial Lawn Bowling Tournament being held at the Balmy Beach Bowling Club in Toronto this week. The local rink won the Pilot Insurance Company trophy, the third event of the tourney, defeating Jim Grainger and his rink from Richmond Hill in the final match. The other rink playing in the tourney of Ken Ashley, Frank Morrell, William Van Tassel and Percy Graham also skip failed to win any of the trophies.

The eight bowlers will split up in pairs to play in the men's doubles and some of them will play in the singles. The tournament closes on Friday night.

Four rinks of trebles from the Belleville Bowling Club took part in the tournament sponsored by the women of the Trenton Club on Monday. A rink of Ann Watkis, Betty Viner with Carm Mott as skip won the high three-game count and the trophy. The other rinks, Eadie Elliott, Vera McIntosh with Grace Clapp as skip, Edna Jackman, Rita Lloyd with Elsie Humphreys as skip and Millie Wright, Anne Avery with Millie Smith as skip also took part but did not figure in the prize list. There were 13 competing rinks in the tournament.

Embarrassing Questions Result in Friend's Exit

By DORIS CLARE

Dear Doris: The last time I went out with this boy I asked him just where I stood with him. He told me he liked me and enjoyed going out with me but he didn't want a girl friend. Well, I got mad and we had a fight and when I asked him if I was going to see him again he said he didn't know.

That was two months ago. Today he drove by my house. He didn't wave or smile; he just looked at me and kept on going. I know now why he didn't want a girl friend and I understand.

I was wondering if I should write to him and apologize for the fight. Even if I don't go out with him I would like him to know that I am sorry. — So Sorry.

Dear Sorry: Asking where one stands is risking being stood up — at your age. How does he know you wouldn't ask further embarrassing questions?

Write the letter to apologize for your rashness and rudeness and say you understand now about his not wanting a steady, and that you don't want to part had friends.

* * *

Dear Doris: My parents were divorced when I was six. I failed Grade one. I hated a really good stepfather until he died (I was 14), then realized how much he meant to me. I failed grade 10. I was too stupid to keep my job long.

I married and had a lovely little boy. But I also had a breakdown. I became involved with men and my husband divorced me. My boy went to the grandmother.

Later a wonderful man believed there was good in me and I began living common law. He couldn't get a divorce I want a child so much but can't get pregnant and can't adopt because we are not married.

I'd like to take training as a practical nurse but I'm afraid I will fail again. — Depressed and a Failure.

Dear Depressed: Don't you know that we all have self-doubts at times? And we all have failures. I'd say you haven't done so badly, considering the start you got. You have the love of a faithful man. You have borne and loved a child. But you have too much time on your hands to think.

Take the course by all means. Talk over with your man the chances for a divorce now that the laws are easier; and devote yourself to making us attractive home for him.

Forget all that useless self pity. You can do what you think you can.

Dear Doris: Our mother-thinks that to show her love she has to shower us with gifts, hugs and kisses, and give advice even when it is not wanted.

When she visits us she disrupts our home. At one time it used to be a very happy home, regardless of untidiness and the sprawl caused by a big dog and a small active boy.

She warns us constantly that the dog will bite us, worries over the boy and how he should be raised. She walks around the house with a long face. — End of Our Rope.

Dear End: It would take a sledgehammer to drive the point home that love and joy can flourish in a riotous atmosphere. Your mother worships neatness and orderliness.

Better face her with the facts in a frank talk and help her find weekend fun elsewhere. Today the discussion could be reasonable; later on somebody will blow his top.

* * *

Doris has studied human behavior, and can shed light on your dilemma. Write to her, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.

Ann Landers

Ann Likes Crewcuts-Should She Retire?

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I used to think you were a friend of us teens but now I know you are our enemy. I don't mind when you put the knock on long hair for boys, but square middle-aged bosses like the same way. But when you said you hoped the crew cut would come back because it is clean looking, I almost popped a blood vessel.

ANN LANDERS

The crew cut is the most repulsive looking hairstyle ever created. It makes a guy look like he is ready for the electric chair. It is dumb to chop off a fellow's hair and make him look bald. Baldness comes soon enough.

Anybody who would vote in favor of the crew cut is probably wearing high button shoes and using a marcel iron. Why don't you retire, Annie? You are too old for the job. — CHICKEN.

* * *

DEAR CHICKEN — To each his own, bub. I still like the crew cut. Shame on you for trying to put an old lady out on the street. You get five raps across the knuckles with my marcel iron.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My husband is in the drug business. He has been taking just about every kind of pill you can think of for 20 years. At first it was pep pills to help him through the long hours. Then he had to take tranquilizers to calm his jumpy nerves. Next it was sleeping pills. Now he has to take pills to get him moving in the morning. Since he is in the business he can lay his hands on all the pills he wants.

We have been married for 28 years. Our sex life is terrible. Most of the time he is impotent. I am sure the pills are to blame. When I try to explain this to him he gets mad and says, "The Real reason we have such lousy love life is because you don't have any sex appeal anymore."

Pills have ruined our marriage and killed my love for my husband. Please, Ann, tell your readers to stay away from them. — NO CITY PLEASE.

* * *

DEAR NO — Indiscriminate use of pills can be extremely dangerous, and I have repeatedly warned my readers about this. In your husband's case the pills have apparently taken their toll. Pills often mask symptoms of emotional illness and deceive a user into believing he is O.K. I hope your husband will go to a physician and level with him before he suffers a complete collapse.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I work for a high-powered business man who has many peculiarities but I am willing to overlook these oddities because I love my job, the pay is excellent and I keep meeting so many interesting people through this work. I would have to leave.

The thing that bothers me most is that my boss used to be a major in the U.S. Army and he behaves as if he's still giving orders to the troops. He insists that I say "Sir" when I speak to him. Strangely enough, after office hours he wants me to have a drink with him and he becomes very friendly. I have no interest in getting involved with the man (he's married and 22 years my senior).

Do you have any advice on how I can keep my job and my self-respect? — STAFF SERGEANT.

* * *

DEAR SARGE — Say "Yes, sir" from 9 until 5. After 5, say "No, sir."

* * *

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing an unstamped, self-addressed envelope, plus 6c for postage.

down go long distance rates again!

Bell's new plan gives you the widest-ever choice of savings.
We keep on reducing Long Distance rates. This new plan is based on a simple idea: if you make your calls at times when lines have spare capacity, you will benefit from these new bargain rates.

Keep this section handy for your phone bills and reference.

The later you call—the better the bargain!

This chart shows a typical example of the five new rate periods now available Monday thru Saturday, and the two rate periods offered on Sunday, between any two points in Ontario and Quebec.

STATION-TO-STATION Montreal—Toronto	MONDAY thru SATURDAY			ALL DAY SUNDAY
	3 mins.	5 mins.	10 mins.	3 mins.	5 mins.
Day: 6 a.m.—6 p.m.	1.30	2.10	4.10
Evening: 6 p.m.—8 p.m.	.90	1.50	3.00	.65	1.05
"After 8": 8 p.m.—10 p.m.	.65	1.05	2.05
"After 10": 10 p.m.—Midnight	.65	1.05	2.05
Night Owl: Midnight—6 a.m. (On calls dialled direct)	.45	.75	1.45	.45	.75

*Family Calling Time rates are fully explained in the text below.

Notes and Explanations

These new, reduced rates apply on all calls between any two points in Ontario and Quebec, as well as on calls to points in Labrador and the North West Territories served by Bell Canada.

All figures shown on this page give you the price for station-to-station calls. These are the calls you dial direct, or calls which an Operator makes to the number you want. They always cost less than if you ask for a specific person.

The main change is the Day Rate is a reduction of up to 25 cents in the price of calls over 350 miles. On the other hand, the initial three minutes of less than 350 miles will cost more than five to three minutes for 10 cents, and overtime rates are now two minutes instead of three for 5 cents.

As you can see, from the chart, the cost of evening rates (6 p.m. to 8 p.m. on weekdays, and all day Sunday) is the same as the cost of Day Rate calls of 350 miles or less. The cost of a three-minute call is now just 60% of the Day Rate for a call made on the same day, for almost exactly the percentage of savings is a little less.

Family Calling Time is in effect all day Sunday, Monday thru Saturday, it now begins at 10 p.m. instead of 8 p.m.

By paying more than 350 miles, you receive savings from 20 cents to $1.10; on calls under 100 miles, there are increases ranging from 5 to 20 cents.

*This is how Family Calling Time works:

All day Sunday, and after 10 p.m. Monday thru Saturday, you pay for the first five minutes of every call, then there is no charge for the next five minutes, and you pay for the next five minutes at the same rate for the first five. If you wish to continue talking, time for the price of that. If you wish to continue talking, time for the price of that. If you wish to continue talking, time for the price of that

CRAFTS MADE BY CHILDREN AT THE PLAYGROUNDS

Results of Summer Projects

Misses Barb Hennessy, 18 (right) and Bev Lucas, 19, two of the playground leaders employed by the Belleville Recreation Commission, had the job of answering the many queries of the inquiring youngsters that came to look and see.

Playground Display in New Building

The playground display, found in the new Recreation Building, features exhibits made by the children as part of their summer project. The playgrounds are operated and supervised by the Belleville Recreation Commission.

Several unique items were on display — anything imaginable, from a farmyard of plasticine, hand-painted murals to sleeping snoopy mirde from kleenex in colors of pink, yellow, green and blue. Glazed pottery, poster montages, a fort composed completely of popsicle sticks and a lollipop ship made by the little tots were all a part of the colorfully original scene. One of the most unique exhibits was a model of a swordfish, made of macaroni curls and spaghetti, sprayed with gold paint.

Each playground had as its project the goal of making something to put on exhibit at the Fair. The children, who range in age up to 13 years, supplied most of the ideas and enthusiasm.

The only apparent drawback, related the playground supervisors, was the disappointment the children felt on realizing their project wasn't there. The fact that there wasn't enough room for all, failed to satisfy the young artisans.

The most interested of the young spectators were those that contributed their projects to the display, and could proudly point them out to their friends. "That's mine", was a familiar line to be heard, following the pointing of a proud little finger.

The 21 playgrounds are in operation from the first week in July to the last week in August, giving summer employment and great exserience to all those interested in working with children.

Playground Closes A "Great Success"

DESERONTO — Centennial Park playground closed last Friday with a flourish, with races and a parade in the morning, a penny fair in the early afternoon, and a barbeque supper later in the evening.

The day's activities were arranged and carried out by the two supervisors, Miss Carol Kinsmet and her assistant, Mrs. Kay Hood. Merchants and others contributed small articles as prizes for the races and the penny fair.

The races, which began at 9.30, took up about an hour, and all was ready for the parade by 11.00 a.m. Banners were carried by each group, representing Japanese, Chinese, cowboys, Indians and pioneers.

The day was an enjoyable one for all, proving again that the summer playground has been an unqualified success. Donations provided some of the equipment and materials; while supervisors improvised the rest. The classes were carried on for six weeks.

Divorces Increase In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Divorce applications in the Montreal area have resulted in hundreds in the last month.

Jacques Perron, Montreal clerk of a new division of Quebec Superior Court set up to handle divorces, said in an interview Saturday that the number of applicants has increased to 638 from 57 in mid-July.

Quebec is handling its own divorces under new federal legislation which took effect July 2. Applications are being accepted in Montreal and Quebec City, and cases will be heard in camera starting Sept. 10.

In Quebec City, clerk Jacques Fortin said he has received 54 applications so far, bringing the provincial total to 602.

DRIP DRY HAIR STYLES — Actress Celeste Yarnall demonstrates how, in less than two minutes, wet tresses can be fashioned into a controllable yet stylish coiffure.

Popular Hair Styles for Pool Enthusiasts

By REBA AND BONNIE CHURCHILL

Pop out of the pool and into a drip-dry coiffure. That's the on-the-spot solution for girls with water-splattered tresses. As actress Celeste Yarnall demonstrates, in less than two minutes, wet tendrils can be fashioned into a controllable coif. Towel-dry hair, swoop it back from face and swirl ends into a French twist. For damp strands that always poke out of a bathing cap, braid them into thin "shoe-string" plaits then overlap them into hoop-like circles and pin to sides of the hair.

Another way to handle a beach-wrecked coiffure is to fashion "doughnut" curls. Part hair, twirling strands at the right into a large, tight circle. Twist tresses thoroughly to remove excess moisture, and bobby-pin resulting loop over the ear. Repeat on the left side. Celeste, seen in the MGM film, "Live A Little, Love A Little," uses fingers to spread and shape strands to assure symmetry and balance.

Of course, there's an even quicker solution than the twist 'n' turn technique. It's using pin-on, artificial curls. Again, slither the hair back into an upsweep, and then attach a bevy of false ringlets to one side. Or, if you want a fuller coiffure, place curls on top of the head, and arrange them pinwheel fashion. A water-repellent bow or flower also can be snugged into the coif for a dash of color and as an anchor spot for the false hairpiece. Wet or dry, you'll look terrific!

MR. AND MRS. A. PAUL VAN OENE

Van Oene — McCallum

Rev. J. P. Carty officiated at the wedding ceremony in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel on Saturday, August 10, when Dianne Agnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emerson (Mac)McCallum, Belleville, was united in marriage to A. Paul Van Oene, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred McConnell, of Tisdale, Saskatchewan. Miss Dorothy Grant rendered the traditional wedding music accompanying the soloist, Robert Burke, in appropriate nuptial selections.

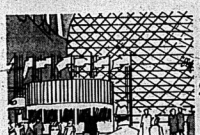
Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown featuring a full length crepe train of Chantilly lace. Her headdress was a crown of tiny seed pearls and crystals, and attached was a nylon bouffant veil falling gracefully to her shoulders. She carried a cascade of Talisman roses and stephanotis.

Matron of honor Mrs. Mary Ann MacLennan, Belleville, wore a floor length gown of burnt orange peau de soie, featuring an empire waist and scooped neckline. Her headpiece was a rosette cluster with nylon veil. She carried a wedding ring bouquet of burnt orange carnations.

Bridesmaids, Mrs. Ann Shaubel, Prot Colborne; Misses Patricia and Margaret Burns, London, were attired similarly to the matron of honor, wearing full length mint green gowns and bouquets of burnt orange carnations. Junior bridesmaid Miss Heather McCallum, sister of the bride, was attired identically to the matron of honor, and carried a similar bouquet.

Attending the bridegroom was Cohen Ferth, Bracebridge; and the ushers were David Panabaker, Hamilton; Robert McCallum, brother of the bride, and Michael Hanley of Belleville. Ring Bearer was Master Kevin Shaubel of Port Colborne.

The wedding reception was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall, where the bride's mother received the guests attired in a pale pink crepe sheath dress, and white and pink lace coat, with pink hat and white accessories. She wore a corsage of talisman roses. Assisting, the mother of the bridegroom was gowned in a blue and tan printed silk sheath, with white accessories. Her corsage was red roses and ferns.



For the wedding trip to Saskatchewan and Banff, the bride chose an ensemble of yellow and grey printed linen. Accessories were black and she wore a corsage of yellow sweetheart roses.

Upon their return the couple will reside in Belleville.

Diverticulum Fairly Common in Babies

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: Would you write something about Meckel's diverticulum? My baby yrgandson died from this. Other than throwing up pretty often in his first three months, he always seemed healthy. His doctor had no indication that anything was wrong.

He was operated on several hours after it burst, but it was too late. What chance would other babies have of being born with the same thing? Can it be diagnosed? — Mrs. B.K.

Meckel's diverticulum is a more common condition in babies than the public realizes, occurring in about 2 percent of infants.

It is a blind pouch extending out from the small intestine, left of centre in the lower abdomen. Why does it exist? Because there is a duct in the fetus, before birth, leading from the yolk sac through the navel and connecting to the ileum, or small bowel.

Ordinarily this duct shrivels and closes after birth. But in one birth in 30, the duct — a part of it, that is — remains in the form of this pouch or "diverticulum."

The tragedy of its rupturing, as in your grandchild, is not the usual outcome, and all I can offer to you and the parents is my sympathy, which I am afraid is thin solace.

The condition can lead on to other consequences. The diverticulum, which shouldn't be there, becomes a ready site for ulceration. It can cause intestinal obstruction. In such cases, clearly, it is dangerous.

In spite of the fact that pediatricians are watchful, it is not always easy to detect, and when it does cause trouble, it mimics appendicitis. The fact that it is on the left, while appendicitis usually (but not always) causes symptoms on the right, can be a clue.

Trouble from Meckel's diverticulum, if there is to be trouble, usually makes its presence known in the first two years. If there is a discharge from the navel or blood in the infant's stool or signs of bowel obstruction or symptoms resembling appendicitis, Meckel's is one of the conditions that should be suspected.

Diagnosis is not easy, however, and even X-ray frequently does not disclose it because the opening into the diverticulum is so tiny. Indeed, such a diverticulum quite often is and only after surgical opening of the abdomen, one of the circumstances in which explanatory surgery may be necessary to find out positively what is causing symptoms.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been told that a gynecyst I have is a Bartholin cyst. I am concerned as it is the size of an egg. Are these cysts usually malignant? And what is the difference between a cyst and a tumor? — Mrs. P.K.

These cysts are not usually malignant, but they can be painful and therefore should be removed. A tumor is an overgrowth of tissue; it grows beyond normal size. A cyst, however, is a gland which has become plugged. As the gland continues to secrete material, the secretion is trapped inside the gland, and hence the gland swells or becomes a cyst.

Such a cyst can be opened to relieve the pressure; however, such cysts have a strong tendency to close again and the process is repeated. For that reason it is wise to remove the whole cyst rather than only on lancing or puncturing it.

Note to Mrs. V.S.: Your questions about surgical menopause (menopause from surgical removal of the ovaries rather than the natural cessation of activity by the ovaries) are too complicated to answer in today's column but will find them explained in my booklet, "Make Menopause Easier." Send 40 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope for a copy.

Send your health questions to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper. Unfortunately, he cannot answer individual letters, but will select those of general interest for his column.

Pretty young guides are touring Belleville Fair to gather fair-goers beefs and bouquets. Their survey of the public's likes and dislikes at the annual exhibition is expected to be completed today.

Quizzes Part of 4-H Show

An estimated 300 4-H club members from the counties of Hastings, Northumberland, Prince Edward and Lennox and Addington gathered yesterday at the coliseum at the Belleville fair to participate in the Quinte agricultural competition.

The morning and a generous portion of the afternoon were spent in examining crops and livestock and in the writing of examinations.

First on the agenda was crops judging and identification with a "quiz" to test the 4-H members' ability in this field. Crops such as hay, barley and potatoes formed part of the test.

The young people then took part in livestock judging of swine, beef and dairy cattle.

In the dairy cattle section a new competition was instituted yesterday, that of dairy cow evaluation and sire selection. The 4-H club members have to pick out the correct sire to produce a dairy cow with good characteristics.

After lunch the agricultural competition ended with the judging of reasons for selections in the livestock judging section of the competition.

Each 4-H member was required to go before a judge to explain why he or she had picked a certain animal as good or bad stock.

The competition wrapped up activities for the young people this year except for a teen dance to be held Saturday night.

Awards were presented last night before the grandstand to the winners of the junior farmers' activities at the fair.

John Murray of Stirling won first prize at the highest-scoring contestant in the agricultural competition.

Top-scoring girl in the livestock judging was Diane Gunning of Tweed and top-scoring boy was Earl Pollock of Northumberland County.

In crops judging and identification the highest competitor was Rosemary Killiher of Northumberland County.

Topping everyone in the agriculture quiz and identification was Robert Jarrell of Belleville. The highest scoring novice was Gordon Wannamaker of Eldorado.

Sights and Sounds

The Eyes Have It at the Belleville Fair

Belleville Fair directors are tuning in to the sounds evoked by its sights.

They're trying to separate the ooks! and aahs! from any possible ughs!

It's no exercise in basic phonetics, but a painstaking attempt to chart the response of Fair patrons to this year's exhibition.

Their reactions may help change the pattern of future presentations.

Each night, strollers along the midway and among the exhibition buildings are being politely buttonholed by a band of pretty young girls, seeking customer reaction to the Fair scene.

The answers culled in the quiz are then despatched to the directors who will sift them for trends.

The study is now nearing completion — 220 of 500 questionnaires already have been completed during the on-the-spot interviews.

So far, says a Fair spokesman, there has been little time to break down the individual reactions. However, one pattern emerging from the paper pileup is the fact that fairgoers while satisfied with the exhibition's general format, want more variety in grandstand events.

The girls doing the groundwork already are familiar to many fairgoers — or at least their orange and white uniforms are. They are drawn from the tour corps of Black Diamond Cheese, loaned by the company to the fair board for the occasion.

The girls hope to wrap up the survey by tonight. But the results of their work won't be viewed until the 1969 Belleville Fair.

Paper Pickers

Anybody noticed the Belleville fairgrounds seem a bit tidier this year? If so these two young boys hired by the fair board to clean up litter around the show buildings could be responsible.

Suicide Drivers Thrill Fans

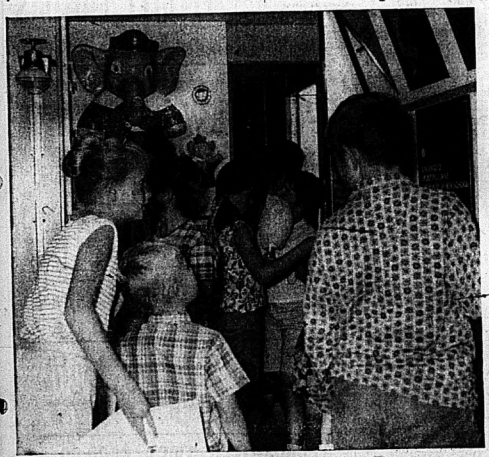
ers brought the thrills of their suicide-driving antics to a jammed grandstand at the Belleville Fair last night.

Spectators also jammed bleachers on the south side of the race track and crowded into standing room only areas on the inside of the track.

The hell drivers, featuring the Williams Twins, thrilled their audience with high-speed driving over ramps that increased in height with the enthusiasm of the crowd as the night wore one.

Meanwhile "Happy, the clown" supplied comic relief with his own brand of driving entertainment.

In the second half of the program the crowd was amazed as a car drove over a ramp, leapt through the air, and landed on the roofs of two other vehicles parked at the point of impact.



The grand finale came with a cross-over leap by the Williams twins from ramp to dangerously high ramp.

The driving act also appeared at the fair last year and has played to enthusiastic crowds all over the world.

Seeing the Sights

George Hees, Conservative MP for Northumberland, and Cameron Bunnett, president of the Belleville Fair Board, stroll through the midway.

The Most Important Animal

Of all the hundreds of animals on exhibit at Belleville Fair, the most important one of all isn't even real. Elmer the Safety Elephant—symbol of schoolchild safety—presides over display in Ontario Provincial Police trailer. Exhibit draws a steady stream of youngsters.

Apples With Appeal

Apples are for more than keeping the doctor away if you're like Lyle Weese (right). They're also for attracting admirers. The Carrying Place grower has a Belleville Fair exhibit that includes 20 different varieties of apples, four of pears and eight various kinds of plums. Helping arrange booth is his son, Bill.

Senior Hockey Bosses Envy Galt Solvency

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor
(2nd of a Series)

TORONTO — Cutting into an inch-thick New York fillet in the cozy atmosphere of the Maple Leaf Gardens' Hot Stove Lounge, Gord Renwick commanded the attention of an intimate group of senior hockey supporters.

Besides the congenial spokesman for the Galt Hornets Senior "A" entry, Wednesday evening's beer-dinner shop-talk involved fellow OHA senior council governors Robert Temple of Belleville and Gord Leach of Kingston, Belleville Mo-Hawk winger Davey Jones, and popular Kingston Aces coach Danny McLeod.

Prime topic on the informal agenda was what is fast being regarded as "the Galt solvency system" of operating a senior hockey franchise

And governors of the Senior "A" clubs gave indication this week they intend to learn some financial tricks of the hockey trade from Galt's "share-the-wealth" operation.

It's either that, or learn from the school of hard-knocks and join the graveyard of teams that have fallen victim to senior hockey's chronic money problems.

Basically, what advice Gord Renwick has to offer fellow governors hinges on the principle that senior hockey salaries should not be a matter of pre-season guarantee.

Rather, the Galt theory goes, at the season's end, each player gets an equal portion of the club's gate profit.

"The system solves so many problems", Renwick was telling his eager audience. "To start with, you get away from all this business of club sponsors losing a bundle of money year after year."

Robert Temple's eyebrows raised, perhaps mindful of the reported $10,000 - $15,000 deficit Belleville Mo-Hawk backers have contended with over the past two years.

"It takes a good season's ticket promotion and program selling campaign, but we managed to pay most of our basic expenses — like travelling and equipment — before the year started", Renwick was saying.

"Then, the players know the better they play, and the more fans they attract, the higher their individual share of the pot will be at the end of the season."

Renwick hastened to point out that Galt players wound up last year receiving in the neighborhood of $27 per game. Unless the "share-the-wealth" scheme is employed, the Senior "A" loop tries to police a strict $25 maximum game salary for any player.

"There are always players who think they're worth a few more bucks that anyone else on the team, but you've just got to be firm," he stressed. "Anybody that's willing to sit out a season for the sake of a few dollars wouldn't be an asset to any club, anyway."

Spokesmen for three of this year's senior entries — Galt, Woodstock, and Kingston — served notice that they will be operating on a "share-the-wealth" basis this winter, and a poll of the other governors indicated a wish to do the same, if their individual circumstances permitted it.

Kingston coach Danny McLeod paused over his steak, and injected another factor to the discussion: "It's time the players got serious and took a good look at senior hockey. Basically backers and players should be realizing by now that our calibre of hockey is primarily a local entertainment."

"We should be concentrating on our home-brew products, because we know we just can't compete with the big leagues when they start grabbing up players with fat offers".

"You've got to have a bunch of fellows who really want to play hockey," Renwick added. "When we started to revitalize senior hockey in Galt a few years back, we had offers from players to play without salaries, just to get the thing going again."

And Mo-Hawk president Robert Temple's comment that backing senior hockey is "getting to be an expensive hobby" for community sponsors was borne out by more than one of the loop's nine governors.

All agree that the $200 bus rentals and $20 team sweaters must be counter-balanced by a re-arrangement, if not a replacement, of senior hockey's fraying purse strings.

Record Entry

Pacers at Gate For "Diamond" Stake

Expert driving, some extra speed and plenty of harness excitement are in store when the Black Diamond stake is staged at the fairgrounds as the finale of the Belleville Fair Saturday night. With the largest entry in its history, 25 hopefuls will race in three elimination heats and a final for the approximately $2700 now in the kitty.

There will be a number of horses in the stake that have not raced in the city this year and that will make things tougher for the bettors, but with the performance of every horse registered on the program they can get a fair idea of their chances. It is most likely that "Justa Tom", driven by Ben Wemp of Kingston will get a big play from those in the know.

Ross Curran, well known trainer and driver now racing a big stable at Rideau Carleton Raceway will be in town to pilot "Adios Richelieu" and "Bye Heck", Dr. John Findlay of Arnprior, who also has a stable on the big-time will be behind "River Gal". And Bob Bell is trucking his good pacer "Bon Echo" all the way from North Bay to compete.

Only horses that had not won $200 before January 1st, are eligible for this year's Black Diamond Stake.

Commercial Finale

Belvedere Coasts to Pennant Win

Commercial Softball League pennant-winners Belvedere Hotel watched the other five league teams try to catch them all season.

But the signs are that when the playoffs start Tuesday night at the Alemite, there will be four well-matched teams finishing it out run-for-run and inning-by-inning for the league championship.

The storm signs went up for the Belvedere nine came in their last four regularly-scheduled games. They all went extra innings as the also-rans pushed the leaders in the wall.

In the final game of the season for both teams Thursday night, it took the bright red-uniformed champs nine innings to put Black Dimond away 2-1.

In the second game at the Alemite Thursday, City Hotel secured second place in the league with a 9-5 win over fourth place finishers Stinson Construction. The games ended the league's regular season, with all six teams having completed their 22-game schedule.

Point Anne, who finished fifth, has to be awarded the hard-luck trophy for the season. The Cementmen lost eight games of their 10-12 record by one run. Although the Point Anne nine didn't make the top four Commercial League cut-off, they'll open League "B" Provincial playoffs Saturday against Trenton in Trenton at 6.30 p.m.

Brant's Body Shop was the bottom team in the league with a dismal 4-21 record.

The first four finished like this: Belvedere 19-4, City Hotel 15-10, Black Diamond 14-11, and Stinsons 13-12.

In Thursday night's closing doubleheader, Doug Ellis pitched his third of four straight extra inning contests for Belvedere.

The Belvedere crew notched the winning tally in the bottom of the ninth when pitcher Ellis reached first on a single. Ellis stood on the bag quietly while the Black Diamond bench erupted at the umpire's "safe!" The argument didn't do any good, of course, and the winning pitcher moved to second on a walk and tagged the plate with the final run on a single by third-baseman Paul Gadsdellene.

Line score:

Bth. Diam.	100 000 000 - 1 5 0
Belvedere	100 000 001 - 2 6 1

Pug Kellar, City Hotel shortstop, collected his second homer in two straight games as the Hotelmen pounded Stinsons 9-5 behind Bob Davenport and Jim Nichols. Bob Boyle took the loss for Stinsons.

Davenport and Nichols, who relieved in the sixth, combined to allow Stinsons five runs on four hits and two walks while striking out five. The Hotelmen made three errors.

Stinsons' Bob Boyle went the distance allowing nine runs on six hits and four walks and two Builder bobbles. Boyle struck out three.

Line score:

City Hotel	010 003 5--9 6 3
Stinson	000 005 0--5 4 2

Last-minute Win

Eskies Take B. C. By-pass

VANCOUVER (CP) Edmonton Eskimos used "eye in the sky" strategy Thursday to turn defeat into a last-minute 28-17 victory over British Columbia Lions before 25,722 Western Conference football fans.

With 37 seconds left to play, leading 17-11 on third down, quarterback Frank Cosentino threw a 15-yard touchdown pass to flanker Larry Lefebvre in the end zone. Peter Kempf converted for the win.

Edmonton's 11th-hour strategy had begun just minutes before.

Assistant coach Ray Jauch was high above field level in the spotter's box. Eskimos were considering a downfield march that had taken them to the Lions' 18, and first down.

Jauch sent down play No. 1. It backfired, and Cosentino lost 10 yards on the play. He sent down another and Cosentino hit Chuck Fulton to gain back the loss.

Then came the coups de grace.

Jauch noticed the B.C. zone defence was faltering. He ordered a pass to the corner. Lefebvre carefully evaded defensive back Jim Griffin, then got behind Bill Lasseter for the payoff.

Coach Neill Armstrong gave Jauch full credit.

"He sent down those last three plays, and I sent them in from the bench."

Armstrong also was pleased with results of using Fulton, his 14th import, and replacing lineman Greg Pipes.

"Fulton gave us some spark that we needed at that time," said Armstrong, whose club now shares first place with Saskatchewan, each with five points.

Edmonton's other touchdown came in the first quarter when Cosentino tossed a six-yard pass to split 3rd Larry Plancke, which Edmonton converted.

Kempf's toe also contributed a field goal from 20 yards out in the last quarter, and a second quarter field goal try added a single.

Armstrong said: "We were fortunate to win."

He was referring to the fact Lions had scored after a Don Lisbon fumble on the opening kickoff, and had all the way until the last minute.

Fullback Jim Evenson crashed over from four yards out, shortly after Ken Ferguson recovered Lisbon's fumble.

Evenson got another touchdown in the third quarter on an exciting 48-yard pass-and-run play from Obler. Ted Gerela converted both and chipped in a 22-yard field goal in the opening quarter.

Lions had an ideal chance, late in the first half, to get a stranglehold on the game. Craig Murray intercepted a sideline pass and ran it back to Edmonton's five-yard line. On second down, Obler tried to hit Jim Carphin in the end zone, but Joe Hernandez intercepted.

Joyces Travel to Vital "Home" Tilt

By JERRY HOFF
Staff Writer

Bill Hatchford, top hurler in the Eastern Ontario Baseball loop with a big 6-0 season mark, will face the Kingston Centennials for the third time Sunday at 3 p.m. in Kingston. As Belleville's Joyce Realtors are fighting to hold the visitors from their fourth — and final win in the EOBA best-of-seven playoff set.

The Kingston crew has topped the Joyces in three of the four playdown games to date with Latchford collecting the only win for the locals and being downed by Kingston once in his two outings with the Joyces.

"Latch is back from his Ottawa Summer Teachers' course for good now," said Joyce coach Al Kelleher. "We'll go with him Sunday on the basis of his record. We have to play the percentages now. Baseball's a percentage game and we've been losing on a percentage basis.

"We beat Kingston six of seven during the regular season and now the percentages say they have some wins coming," the Joyces' colorful coach said.

BILL LATCHFORD

"It's the same with our batting. We've been getting good wood on it . . . swinging good sticks all year. The percentages say you have to have a slump sometime, and since we didn't have it in the beginning of the season or the middle — it looks like we're having it post-season."

But the percentage bad news hasn't got the Joyces down.

"Man, just say we're the better ball players," Kelleher said. "We can beat them one game at a time, and that's what we're going to have to do. Beat them at their own game."

"We need hitting, there's no doubt about that. It's not that we're not hitting the ball at all," he continued, "it's that we're not bunching hits in any one inning. But our sticks have been picking up at this week's practices. All the fellows are good pressure hitters and we know the pressure's on now.

Kelleher hopes to help relieve the hitting slump by putting John McKibbon back in his familiar spot at first base.

"The boys are all veterans. They've been in playoffs before and they know what they have to do. I think they'll do it. Once we get ahead we'll work on running the bases, but we've got to get those earned runs. That's what Kingston's doing. They're hitting and making it count."

The Joyce coach predicts that the Centennials will start their top hurler, Doug McIlroy, who beat the locals 5-3 last Sunday.

"If they do," the Joyce 'Ole Timer' said, "it'll give us an advantage with our left-handed batters (60 per cent of the team) facing a lefty. That puts us at least some percentage points ahead and we'll take care of the rest. With three wins, Kingston's about used up their percentage. Now it's our turn."

Alou Hopes Nothing Comes Up Roses...

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The duel for the batting lead between Matty Alou and Pete Rose seems to be the last remnant of competition for a National League top position now that St. Louis has turned back the late challenge of the Chicago Cubs.

Only three points separate Alou and Rose today while the first-place Cardinals are 14 games in front of the runner-up Cubs.

Alou, 1966 NL batting king, cracked two hits in four tries Thursday night as Pittsburgh Pirates blanked San Francisco Giants 2-0 behind Steve Blass' four-hitter. The Cards walloped the Cubs 8-0 and Houston Astros edged Philadelphia Phillies 3-2 in the only other National League games.

Houston	53	68	.438	25

Alou's safeties raised his average to .320. Rose leads with .333 while another Cincinnati Red, Alex Johnson is third at .321.

Alou triggered a two-run Pirate first inning that carried Blass to his 10th victory against five defeats. Matty singled and later scored on Donn Clendenon's one-bagger. The setback ended the Giants' five-game winning streak.

Mike Shannon and Nelson Briles starred for the Cardinals. Shannon belted the first grand slam homer of his career and drove in another run with a single. Briles pitched a seven-hitter in recording his 16th triumph against seven losses.

Ken Holtzman, 8-9, was knocked out of the box in St. Louis' four-run first. John Edwards' two-run double capped the rally. Shannon's bases-filled homer greeted Bill Stoneman in the second. Stoneman relieved Jack Lamabe after Briles' single and two walks.

Doug Rader's eighth inning run-scoring double broke a tie and gave the Astros their victory over the Phillies. Houston trailed 3-0 in the sixth, but Jim Wynn's 18th homer tied it.

The Phils had taken a 1-0 lead in the opening on Tony Taylor's double, an infield out and John Briggs' double. They added their second run in the fourth on singles by Briggs and Richie Allen, a walk to Tony Gonzales and Cookie Rojas' sacrifice fly.

Rojas had a chance to win the game for Philadelphia in the ninth. However, reliever Danny Coombs fanned him with runners on second and third and two out. Dave Giusti, 7-12, was the winner.

...And Orioles Wish Carew Would Cool Heels

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rod Carew might be the American League's top hitter, but to Baltimore Orioles he looks more like the league's leading runner—had knee and all.

Minnesota Twins' all-star second baseman ran the Orioles out of a ball game Thursday night and left them standing still in their chase after the idle league-leading Detroit Tigers.

Carew, who left the first game with a sore left knee after Baltimore scored three fifth-inning runs for a 4-3 victory, entered the second contest of a twi-fight doubleheader as a pinch hitter for Bob Allison in the eight inning.

The score was tied 1-1 and hits by Rich Reese and Tony Oliva put runners on first and third with one out. Carew grounded to shortstop Mark Belanger, whose throw to second baseman Dave Johnson forced Oliva.

But Carew, shaking off his leg miseries, barely beat the return throw to first base as Reese scored the winning run for a 2-1 triumph and a split.

In the only other games, Boston blanked the Chicago White Sox 3-0, California Angels beat Washington Senators 3-1 and Oakland Athletics slipped by the New York Yankees 4-3.

Carew, hitting .305, helped the Twins to a 3-0 lead in the first game against Jim Hardin when he singled in the first of three runs in the opening inning.

After that bust, the Twins folded while Hardin, 15-8, held them scoreless the rest of the way and completed a six-hitter.

Brooks Robinson started the comeback with a disputed home run, his 16th, in the second inning. The ball appeared to hit the left field wall but Baltimore manager Earl Weaver protested that a fan had pushed it back onto the field and the umpires upheld his claim.

Oakland jumped on Mel Stottlemyre, 15-10, for four runs in the fifth inning as Jim Pagliaroni hit a solo homer and Reggie Jackson, a two-run shot, his 22nd.

Hard Hitters Set CPGA Pace

QUEBEC (CP) — Two hard, straight hitters busted apart par on the back nine of the Royal Quebec Golf Club course Thursday to charge into the first-round lead of the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association championship with five-under-par 67s.

Dick Munn, a 26-year-old Victoria pro, knocked six strokes off Royal's 3,370-yard, par-37 back nine, while a freckled fellow from Winnipeg called Bill Brown played "the best golf of my life" by shooting five birdies on the nine final holes.

Their good golfing put them one stroke ahead of Toronto's George Knudson and Calgary's Frank Fowler, who each trimmed four strokes off the 6,650-yard, par-72 course to share second place with scores of 68 after the first 18 holes.

Two veteran Quebec pros, Gerry Proulx from St. Eustache and Jack Bissegger from Ste. Julie, fashioned three-under-par 69s for third-place position after the first day of the four-day, 72-hole match that ends Sunday.

Nine golfers, including former CPGA champion Alvie Thompson of Willowdale Ont., packed up with 70s after a windy first day.

The pursuit of the total $20,000 purse, with $3,000 for the winner, continues today with the first of 60 threesomes teeing off at 7:30 a.m. EDT. Light winds, sunny skies and below-normal temperatures are forecast.

Munn, a great admirer of eight-time CPGA winner Stan Leonard, and Brown, who grew up on the same Winnipeg street as George Knudson, both employed the same golfing strategy of concentrating on sharp, straight drives.

"I choked up on the driver and tried to keep it on the golf course," said Munn, looking for his first CPGA victory in seven appearances.

"If you keep driving straight, you're OK."

"My tee shots were the strongest part of my game," said Brown, in his first CPGA tournament and so new to national competition that he's an unknown even among pro golfers.

Munn's par-murdering on the final nine included four birdies and an eagle on the last six holes. He putted 18 feet for an eagle three on the par five, 530-yard 14th and missed a 10-foot-try for an eagle by rimming the 18th cup.

Brown, who teed off at 7:27 a.m. without having breakfast, "without even drinking a cup of coffee," was so pleased with his five birdies he was considering playing golf without eating today.

Sport Briefs

(AP) — The chasm between the Professional Golfers' Association and the touring players, who have set up a rival organization, deepened today.

Max Elbin, president of the PGA, said he would ask the special meeting of the PGA executive committee at Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., today for permission to poll each player and "ask him whether he is a PGA member or a member of the other group."

Such action would mean the player would be suspended and ineligible to compete in further tournaments such as the $100,000 Philadelphia golf classic next week.

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—London Nationals of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A circuit, the Gardens hockey arena and 12 acres of adjoining property were sold Thursday to an Ottawa group for $500,000. Formal ratification of the sale is scheduled for Sept. 3.

CALGARY (CP)—Three Toronto riders and one from Saskatchewan have been chosen to the Canadian equestrian team for the Olympic Games, the combined training committee announced Thursday.

Norman Elder, Alan Chilcott and Barry Sosshine, all of Toronto, and Robin Hahn of Belle Plaine, Sask., will represent Canada at the three days of events at the Games in Mexico.

Eight horses will go with the team when it leaves in early September.

MONTREAL (CP)—Sen. Hartland de M. Molson ended an 11-year association with Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League Thursday when he announced that he and his brother, Thomas H. P. Molson, have sold their shares in the Canadian Arena Co.

Sen. Molson told a news conference his cousin, J. David Molson, and his two brothers, William and Peter, have acquired equal controlling interests in the $5,500,000 company, which owns and operates the Canadiens and their home rink, the Montreal Forum.

Predicts Medals

A Midas Pool Touch?

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canada can be sure of at least four gold medals in swimming events at the Mexico City Olympics. Thats' the word from George Gate of Montreal, who will coach this country's swimming team.

"We will win at least four gold medals," said Gate, who thinks the calibre of swimmers at the Canadian national swimming championships is the best ever.

His hope has increased during the last two days as Canadian records have fallen with regularity.

Seven records have been established and the five-day meet still has two days left.

Angela Coughlan of Burlington, Ont., has been the standout so far, setting a record Wednesday in the 200-metre freestyle, then bouncing back Thursday with another in the 400-metre distance with a time of four minutes, 39 8-10 seconds. It was one of five set Thursday.

Miss Coughlan, 15-year-old native of London, Eng., lopped four seconds off the record set in 1967 by Elaine Tanner of Winnipeg.

Miss Tanner also set a Canadian mark in the 100-metre backstroke Wednesday, but "stiff muscles" slowed her down Thursday. While winning the 200-metre backstroke, she was 2.2 seconds off her listed world record for the event with her time of 2:36.7.

Men's and women's backstroke specialists established Canadian marks with Bill Mahoney of Vancouver doing it for the men by slicing 1.5 seconds off the time he set in 1967 for the 100-metre event, winning in 1:00.3.

A more exciting final was provided by the women in the breaststroke as Sylvia Bottrell of Vancouver turned the tables on Susan Smith of Edmonton.

The championships, being held at Pan-Am pool, finish Saturday with the selection of the Olympic swimming team.

Western Women Take Charge

MONTREAL (CP) — Top women golfers from Western Canada were out to increase their leads in various individual and team standings today in the second round of the Canadian women's closed-golf championships at nearby Île Bizard.

Sandra Palmer of Kamloops, B.C., carried a one-stroke lead into today's round of the individual service competition after tacking the 6,200-yard par 74 layout with a 75 and also powered the British Columbia team into first place Thursday in the senior inter-provincial team standings.

Linda Devine, a native of Port Arthur, Ont., is playing under Manitoba colors in the three-day 54-hole tournament and she led the junior individual section by a wide margin after posting an 80 Thursday.

Miss Devine also teamed up with Winnipeg's Tannys Kapp vig, who shot an 80, to vault the Manitoba junior team into a nine-stroke lead over British Columbia in that section.

Miss Palmer fought off cool 60 degree temperatures and strong winds under a clear sky to grab the lead in the individual competition ahead of the favored Marlene Stewart Streit of Fonthill, Ont., and Sue Higgs of London, Ont., who finished with 77s.

An Indication of Miss Palmer's blazing putting came on the eighth hole, a 492-yard par 5 hole, where she dropped a 45-footer for a birdie. She had four birdies in her round of 39-37.

COMPARE PRICES
AND LOOK
SEE THESE CARS

Because of low overhead, and no salesmen to pay these cars are priced $200.00 or more below normal prices, all have radios, while nearly all have extras. These cars have all been checked, greased, oil changed, and carry a certificate of mechanical fitness.

These cars, I feel are much cleaner than most cars and carry a written guarantee with them. Terms can be arranged, with no down payment and no payments until the first of September.

OFF THE RECORD — BY ED REED

Smith Report Hearings End After Receiving 300 Briefs

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — A woman had the last word as the Ontario legislature's select committee on taxation wound up more than two months of public hearings in an attempt to glean reaction to the Smith report on taxation.

Final submission Thursday to the 13-man committee was by Ald. Laura Sabia of St. Catharines who made an impassioned plea for women to be given a better deal under Ontario's succession duties legislation.

Committee chairman John White, PC member for London South, adjourned the hearings after observing that Ald. Sabia's brief had been the 300th submitted by a total of 111 delegations.

The legislators and four consultants—two lawyers, an economist and a tax accountant—will retire next week to a Muskoka resort for a month of intensive work in preparing a report to the legislature which must be in the hands of Clerk Roderick Lewis no later than Sept. 17.

Mr. White said following Thursday's hearings that the committee may elect to release several reports progressively so as to allow the government to start work on white papers which will set out official policy on implementation of 346 recommendations contained in the three-volume Smith report, released nearly a year ago.

First submission at the five-hour hearing was from the City of St. Catharines. A delegation headed by Mayor Mackenzie Chown argued for assumption by the province of the entire cost of education and suggested churches continue to be exempted from payment of property taxes on facilities used exclusively for worshipping.

The Alliance of Christian Schools, a body formed in 1946 by Dutch immigrants who wished to have a religiously-based education for their children, made a plea for parents to be given a free choice as to which school system should get the education portion of their property tax payments.

The submission got a cool reception from local committee members who argued that equal treatment of public and private schools by the province would lead to a proliferation of school systems and a resultant decline in educational standards.

The chamber of commerce brief, submitted by General Manager Ralph Rawsthorne, deplored the basic shelter exemption grant which was proposed by Smith and put into effect this year by the government.

The chamber contended that the grant to homeowners and tenants will "discriminate against business and will affect the competitiveness of Ontario business."

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For August 17

Your birthday today: A year of energy with a tendency to direction is ahead. The temptation is always to play both ends against the middle. You may have to carry the burden of being responsible for both yourself and your competitor's welfare. Today's natives tend to have weight problems and are looking for unusual solutions.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Financial manipulations remain tempting today but do not promise any reasonable results. Time to take stock of what you have. Belated correspondence awaits your attention this evening.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Younger people take up more of your time than usual today. Stick close to your neighborhood. Above all, pay no attention to rumors.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Your energy level is high today. Lots of activity. Proper your health. Discipline yourself against personal excess.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Take a much needed rest and re-examine the last few w e e k s. There should be a pattern there. Consider quality carefully in any purchases today.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): The temptation today is to overdo, to indulge with shocking off to spending. Nobody expects as much from you as you imagine. Confer with your loved ones on future plans.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Expect your social world to brighten. Take over the centre of the party, make yourself known. Take a chance on it gracefully.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Some promising things you see today are within an inventive framework, and should not be taken literally. There are people all around who may become your friends, but who are not yet tested. Hold your own counsel.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Beware! It is likely your friends will allow whatever they know of your private life to become public knowledge. Try to stay clear of them. But seek public entertainment in their company.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. — 22 — Dec. 21): Some people see your spirit as something detachable, to be taken as a prize. Seriously: finances should not be impaired today by poorly planned moves. Spend the afternoon with your favorite outdoor sport if you can manage.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): This indeed turns out to be a very complex day of subtle byplays. Make notes just to save clues for later unravelling.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Shared funds and other responses may be vague today. Records may be confused. Do the practical things, leave the social picture for later today.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Faultfinding is better left unexercised today. Safety precautions are suddenly very important. Check your home and habits: organize a better situation.

Sunday School Lesson

Making A Dream Come True

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

This is a day of widespread protests. Thousands have marched in protest against the war in Viet Nam. Students have demonstrated in protest on many college campuses. Protests have erupted into violence in city after city, and on some college campuses, militants have been willing, like Samson, to pull the whole structure down on themselves in order to right legitimate grievances.

In the midst of these protests and violence, there was the now - stilled voice of a man who had a dream. He dreamed of a just America, where white and black men would work together in nonviolent ways to achieve a greater human brotherhood.

In ancient times, a prophet who helped to rebuild Jerusalem had a dream. His name was Zechariah, and he dreamed that "old men and old women shall again sit in the streets of Jerusalem . . . and the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets." (Zechariah 8:4, 5, RSV)

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for August 18: "Protestors and Prophets," Ezra 4 through 6; Haggai 1 and 2; Zechariah 1 through 8.

He was not the first to have that dream. From the day they were marched into exile, the captured citizens of Jerusalem lived for the day when they could return to their beloved city. Rather let their hand wither, wrote one of their poets, or their tongue stick to the roof of their mouth than that they should fail to think of Jerusalem as their chief joy. (Psalm 137:5-6)

Now the impossible had happened. The long-awaited day had come. Their conqueror was dead. One of his successors had himself been conquered by Cyrus, the Persian. As one of his first acts, Cyrus had freed the Jews to return to their homeland to rebuild their city and their temple.

Now they were back on the sacred soil of their home land. The dream was within their grasp. But dreams do not come true easily. Always there are those who are willing to scuttle a dream. No sooner had the returned exiles arrived back in Jerusalem and begun to rebuild than neighboring people tried to frustrate their plans. First, they tried to infiltrate so they could hamper the plans from within. (Ezra 4:2) When that failed, they appealed directly to Cyrus' successor to halt the rebuilding.

But the returned exiles continued to build as best they could. Spurred on by the prophetic visions of Zechariah, they refused to give up. Finally, a new king, Darius, unearthed from the royal archives the decree of Cyrus permitting the Jews to return and rebuild. He decreed that those who had tried to hamper the work must now contribute toward the rebuilding. This provided some much-needed finances to continue the work.

But 20 years had dragged on since the return to Jerusalem and still work on the temple had not been started. One who shared Zechariah's dream was a prophet named Haggai. It bothered him that no effort had been made to rebuild the temple after the foundation had been laid.

He himself gives a clue to one of the reasons for the delay — the poverty of the people. After returning to the destroyed city, it had taken all their efforts to re-establish themselves in the land from which they had been taken. They had planted seed, but the harvest had never been enough. They did not have enough clothing to keep warm. It took all they could earn to live. It was as if their wages were put into "a bag with holes." (Haggai 1:6)

Some seem to have lost the dream. In building panelled houses for themselves, they had lost some of their desire to rebuild the temple. (Haggai 1:4, 9) It was up to Haggai to try to revive the dream, and to call the people to sacrifice. They would not live to see the temple completed, but they must begin, and let others carry the task forward. (Ezra 5:16)

How like the situation today. People dream of a time when all people and all nation can be safe on city streets. There are still those who would scuttle this dream by resisting necessary change, or by resorting to violent means to gain their ends. Poverty is still one of the basic problems in the way of rebuilding a better society. Government itself must play a major role. But men must not lose the dream. Protests can point out some of the problems, but it will take more than protests to rebuild a better America. It will take people who are willing to work and sacrifice in order to make the dream of a better day come true.

How to Understand World

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

How to Begin to Understand What's Happening in the World Today in 10 Not-So-Easy Lessons:

1. Start by taking a long, hard look at yourself, to determine whether you have significantly altered your views or stance in the last 20 years, or even in the last decade.

2. Ask yourself what you have done, personally, and practically, to help change what needs to be changed, and to help preserve what needs to be preserved — and on what philosophical or moral basis you distinguish between the two.

3. Look around at your co-workers, friends, and neighbors, and assess whether they are engaged in anything but the pursuit of affluence (and if they are enjoying it), and the pursuit of pleasure (and if they are enjoying it).

4. Recall when you last, if ever, had a serious talk with a person under 20, with a poor person, with a Negro, with a foreigner, with a radical — with anyone whose life-position is sharply different from yours.

5. List and evaluate the kind of things you are reading now that you weren't reading 20 years ago, or a decade ago — are you aware of what's going on in the behavioral sciences, in education, in technology, in psychological research, so that you are still reading the familiar and comfortable publications that tell you only what you like to hear or want to hear?

6. Are you reacting to new questions with new insights, or with answers that were beginning to be obsolete a generation ago — and are you able to differentiate between those principles and maxims that have permanent value, and those that merely reflect the "received wisdom" of your father's time but are irrelevant in your own today?

7. Try this imaginative process on yourself: Take a social or political position that is at the opposite pole from your own, and formulate it so that its proponents would be satisfied with the fair way you have stated it — and then, and only then, try to refute it with reason, logic and facts, not with rhetoric, emotion or name-calling.

8. Ask yourself (a) what are your proximate goals in life, then (b) what are your ultimate goals in life, and then (c) are your proximate goals leading toward, or away from your ultimate goals.

9. Consider Bernard Shaw's aphorism: "It is impossible for the smoker and the non-smoker to be equally free in the same railway car," and reflect on how society can arrange optimum freedom for all.

10. Whenever some act reported in the news particularly outrages you, threatens you, or appalls you, ask yourself under what possible conditions your reaction might be exactly the opposite.

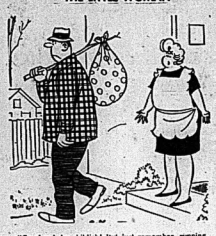
Boy Played Soccer Two Days After Leg Amputated -- 'Routine'

TORONTO (CP) — A Polish doctor has termed "routine procedure" a technique he developed which allowed a boy to play soccer two days after he lost a leg.

Dr. Marian Weiss, head of the rehabilitation department at the Warsaw Medical Academy, met Wednesday and Thursday with Toronto doctors to discuss his technique which involves applying a plaster cast to the stump immediately after a leg amputation.

A seven-year-old boy who lost a leg on a Monday was brought in on Tuesday," he told doctors at the Wellesley Hospital. "I performed the operation and placed a new artificial limb.



"Wednesday we were checking over our list of patients and this little boy was not in his room. A search of the hospital grounds found him in the soccer field, kicking a ball around.

Dr. Weiss first introduced his prosthetic technique at the Warsaw academy about five years ago. He said he and his staff have since checked and rechecked 175 cases involving use of the technique.

"They were so successful, I now can tell you this can be accepted as a routine procedure. We could not say that before this."

The "routine procedure" has been in use by doctors in Toronto hospitals and in the United States the last two or three years.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"Go ahead, be childish! But just remember, running away never solved anything!"

Toronto's Transit Workers Vote to Strike Next Week

TORONTO (CP) — The city's 3,400 transit workers have voted to go on strike next Thursday morning if their contract dispute is settled before then, the commuter will still lose.

Ralph Day, chairman of the Toronto Transit Commission, has warned that higher fares are inevitable if both sides accept a conciliation board recommendation calling for 15-per-cent wage increases in two years.

The subway, bus and street-car operators now earn $3.03 an hour, a sum that would rise to $3.50 if they accept the new pact.

A strike would serve, as well, to cripple public transportation to the Canadian National Exhibition, which opened Thursday for 19 days.

Last year, the commission carried about one third of the CNE's 3,000,000 visitors.

Glue Firm Closes

BRANTFORD (CP) — A glue company here has decided to stop production rather than spend up to $500,000 to prevent pollution of the Grand River.

About 50 employees of the Canada Glue Co., Ltd. will be unemployed when they finish today's shift. An additional 20 men will be laid off by the end of the month when the company ends manufacturing operations.

Mr. Day said acceptance of the contract would mean that four tickets would cost $1 compared with the current five for $1.

Contract negotiations are to resume today but Leonard Moynehan, president of Division 113 of the Amalgamated Transit Union, said that an agreement will have to be reached by 2 p.m. Monday so that a ratification vote can be completed before the strike deadline.

Mr. Moynehan said the 10-per-cent wage increase offered for the first year plus a five-per-cent increase the second year were satisfactory but that fringe benefits were major issues.

Marijuana And Manure Are Mixed

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — If Bloomington-area marijuana users have been smoking more lately and enjoying it less, police have an answer.

City detectives, acting on a tip, found a cache of four pounds of marijuana and three pounds of horse manure in a suitcase, along with a recipe for drying and grinding the manure to mix with the marijuana and "stretch" it.

Prospector, 71, Rescued From B. C. Wilderness

VANCOUVER (CP) — Prospector Bernard Rover, 71, is winning his 12-day fight for life after he crossed a glacier and 18 miles of wilderness in a daze after blacking out in his remote cabin.

He was reported in fairly good condition in hospital Thursday night. He was found Saturday by Mike Chizh of suburban Surrey and Bob Jilburn of Vancouver, who had set out for a week of prospecting as a vacation in one of the province's most rugged areas.

A series of small campfires in the area led them to the prospector.

"We found the old man lying under a tarp with his legs blown up like balloons," said Mr. Chizh. He was pretty much out of his mind but after we got some food and tea into him he told us he had been prospecting at Thomas Lake for the past month.

He said he had suffered a stroke five days ago in his camp and had set out for help. He couldn't remember anything else. He was down to a few hardtack biscuits and a can of sandwich spread. He said he wouldn't have lasted another day without help."

After resting Sunday, the two men carried the prospector to a site where a helicopter could fly in, then notified a forestry camp.

Strikers Forced To Boats

ORILLIA (P) — Some strikers are being forced to travel by boat to reach their homes because of a company blockade of a road owned by the strike-bound Orillia Water, Light and Power Commission.

Stuart Walkinshaw, company general manager, announced Thursday that security guards have been hired to block the road near the company's Swift Rapids generating station on the Severn River. Only persons on a list may use it.

"We don't want the strikers near the generating plant and we will keep the road blocked until the strike is settled," he said.

The 32 strikers walked off their jobs Tuesday after the company rejected a conciliation board recommendation for wage increases of 27 cents an hour in a two-year contract.

The basic wage now ranges from $1.66 to $2.81 an hour.

Elmer Bell Quits Post As PC Head

TORONTO (CP) — Elmer Bell Thursday announced his resignation effective in November after eight years as president of the Ontario Progressive Conservative Association.

Mr. Bell said in a statement he does not intend to seek re-election when the association holds its annual meeting in Toronto Nov. 4-5.

Del O'Brien of Pembroke, national president of the Young Progressive Conservative Association, is expected to be a candidate for the job.

Students Given Role

TORONTO (CP) — A committee to review the governmental structure of the University of Toronto will give students equal representation with faculty, administration officers and governors, Claude Bissell, university president, announced Thursday.

Announcing what he called an "important decision," Dr. Bissell said his recently-announced presidential committee will include two or three representatives of each of the four groups. It will hold its first meeting in early September.

Students at the university recently turned down an offer of representation on the senate until the whole question of university government was reviewed.

Students are represented on the president's council, which gives advice on buildings, curriculum and academic matters.

Draft Johnson Move Gains Strength in U.S.

Running in the Rain

These youngsters, running hard to escape the rain, were about the only people on the midway at Belleville Fair during yesterday's midday downpour. The rain cut daytime fair attendance and forced cancellation of last night's motorcycle races.

LBJ Silent On Bid

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Candidates cultivating delegates for the Democratic presidential nomination have been confronted by a fresh crop of speculation over President Johnson's role at the convention.

And there's also a new, fourth candidate: Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia.

Johnson has been remaining relatively secluded at his Texas ranch while the campaigners scurry about seeking support. But he has one potent force going for him: Uncertainty.

Elliott Roosevelt, Florida national committeeman, contributed to the speculation Friday by saying in Miami Beach he expects Johnson to be drafted by the party.

Roosevelt said a wave of draft-Johnson sentiment would be launched by a stop bombing in North Vietnam.

Chicago Mayor Richard Daley didn't bat down any of the latest Johnson speculation when he appeared at a news conference in Chicago.

Was there any chance Johnson would get the nomination? "I wouldn't know," said Daley.

Did Daley hope Johnson will abandon his decision not to run and become a candidate? "He's been a great president," Daley replied.

White House press secretary George Christian also faced reporters.

Has Johnson expressed any interest in the convention?

"He certainly hasn't to me," said Christian. But "obviously he's interested in Democratic party affairs."

Roosevelt told reporters: "I'm not privy to any inside information. But I've noted that the national committee keeps advising us that the whole day of the 27th will be turned over to an eulogy of President Johnson and his administration . . . and they aren't scheduling any votes on the presidency until after the 27th."

The 27th is the president's 60th birthday.

The Democrats splintered further with the entry of Maddox, who said he feels the party should be given a conservative choice.

What's the Matter?

Mrs. Lenah Fisher, deputy-reeve of Cobourg, raised a few eyebrows at the Ontario Municipal Association meeting in Windsor this week but she was unperturbed. She ignored the stares and carried on puffing at her briar. (CP Wirephoto).

Humphrey Has Kennedy View

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice-President Hubert Humphrey, one of the Johnson administration's chief defenders of its Vietnam war policy, said today he and the late Senator Robert Kennedy "came to hold remarkably similar views on Vietnam."

Thus Humphrey, in a speech prepared for the New York Liberal party's executive committee, appeared to be making one of his strongest campaign efforts to inch away from the political shadow of Vietnam and indentify himself with Kennedy.

To underscore his point, Humphrey quoted a passage from Kennedy's debate with Senator Eugene McCarthy.

Kennedy said he was opposed to forcing a coalition government, which would include Communists, on the government of Saigon, and added: "I would make it quite clear that we are going to the negotiating table, not with the idea that we want them to unconditionally surrender and that we expect the National Liberation Front and the Viet Cong will play some role in the future political process of South Vietnam, but that should be determined by the negotiators and particularly by the people."

Trudeau Flies To Spain

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau flew to Spain late Thursday night for a 10-day holiday break, it was learned Friday.

Aides declined to say even to which continent the prime minister had gone but it was learned reliably that he had flown to Spain.

"This is your captain. We are at 30,000 feet and will now strike!"

Eisenhower Gravely Ill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army doctors reported today that former president Eisenhower remains in "critical condition." They expressed "increasing concern" for him as a result of irregular heart action following his major heart attack Friday.

The doctors reported that Eisenhower, since being stricken Friday, has suffered two episodes of irregular heart action, losing consciousness briefly during both.

They said he rallied after each episode, becoming "alert" with no evidence of brain damage.

However, "the occurrence of these episodes of irregular heart action is of increasing concern to his physicians," said a 10 a.m. EDT statement on Eisenhower's condition.

The doctors reported that the 77-year-old general of the army has received oxygen continuously ever since he was stricken at 1:25 p.m Friday with his seventh, and possibly worst, heart seizure.

The official statement issued by Walter Reed Army Hospital said:

"Gen. Eisenhower has remained in critical condition since the previous bulletin at 4 p.m., Friday. During the past 17 hours he has sustained two episodes of irregular heart action—ventricular fibrillation. Both episodes were terminated promptly by electrical means—defibrillation."

The doctors said Eisenhower is also receiving "continuous medication" directed at maintaining normal heart rhythm.

Florida City Hit By Looting

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — A wave of fire bombing, window smashing and looting swept St.Petersburg early today in the city's first full-scale racial disorder since a garbage collector's strike began in May.

Police say nine persons were injured, most of them whites struck by rocks or bottles as they drove through the disturbed area on St. Petersburg's predominantly Negro south side. None was seriously hurt, however.

Ten men and two women, all Negroes, were arrested on charges of looting, carrying concealed weapons or disturbing the peace. Tear gas was used to scatter crowds.

Mobile Command Now Four Units

OTTAWA (CP) — Declining personnel strength of the armed forces—and rising costs—have forced a regroupment of Mobile Command's land units.

The defence department said Friday that the three 6,000-man infantry brigade groups in Canada will be replaced by four 3,200-man combat groups.

Mobile Command's strength now will be about 25,000 compared with 29,000 less than two years ago. But its estimated cost this year is $260,000,000 compared with $230,000,000 last year.

Over-all strength of the armed forces has fallen to 103,000, a drop of about 23,000 in the last five years. But the defence budget this year is $1,724,000,000, the biggest since the post-war high of $1,758,000,000 in 1956-57.

The defence department recently announced that the RCAF CF-104 bomber base at Zweibruecken, West Germany, will be vacated next summer. Its two squadrons may be disbanded, reducing Canadian squadron strength in Europe to four.

Fresh out of college and seeking his first job, the young man wrote the following question on his application blank: "Are the salary raises here automatic or do you have to work to earn them?"

Bank Bandits at Work

The FBI released this photo showing a trio of bank robbers at work in a Washington bank Friday. A hidden camera in a branch of the American Security & Trust Company recorded the scene as one bandit points a gun at employees; another keeps a revolver at the head of a bank security guard while the third scrambles over the counter at right. The bandits escaped with $13,000. (AP Wirephoto).

Polaris Missile Now Obsolete

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Two highly destructive multiple-warhead missiles designed to penetrate deep into enemy defences entered the U.S nuclear arsenal Friday with spectacular back-to-back launchings.

The missiles—the navy's Poseidon, capable of carrying 10 warheads that can be sprayed on pre-selected targets hundreds of miles apart, and the air force's Minuteman II—were labelled completely successful in maiden test flights from the space centre at Cape Kennedy.

When they become operational, the missiles will replace the Polaris and Minuteman I and II as the backbone of America's retaliatory force. Both are expected to be operational in about two years.

Poseidon, rated potentially eight times as effective as Polaris, is 34 feet long, 74 inches in diameter and weighs 65,000 pounds. Like the Polaris, it has a range of 2,500 miles, but it is reported to be twice as accurate as the older missile.

The bigger, far-ranging Minuteman II is designed to take up to three warheads on a rocket that is 59 feet, nine inches long and six feet wide. The missile weighs 76,000 pounds and is capable of travelling more than 6,000 miles.

Two Commercial Enterprises Expected Says Commissioner

Belleville Industrial Commissioner, Ray Brown, this week had his terms of reference expanded by Commission directors and now has the official okay to work for the location of new commercial enterprises as well as for industry.

But the directors only made official, what the industrial commissioner had already been doing.

At this week's industrial commission meeting, Mr. Brown reported that he had been working on three different commercial enterprises, which hopefully will locate in the city.

Mr. Brown noted that while none of the three could be classed as industrial, if they came to Belleville — and there is every expectation that at least two of them will materialize — they will provide considerable employment and much needed assessment for the city.

In his activity report Mr. Brown brought commission members up to date on the construction progress of two small industries recently acquired by the city.

They are D. C. Transfer Ltd. and the Bill Bailey Metalcraft, both of which are constructing new buildings of from 2,000 to 3,000 square feet in the city's northeast Industrial park.

The metal fabrication building has the walls under way and is rapidly approaching the roof stage, while the foundation is in and the walls started on the Transfer company building. The sale of small properties in the Industrial park area to the two firms was recently okayed by city council.

Industrial Commission Paints New Signs at City Entrances

The Belleville Industrial Commission has had a new paint job done on its big promotional signs on highway arteries leading into the city.

The signs are on the east and west No. 2 Highway entrances to the city and on the north end No. 37 entrance leading to the city's northeast industrial park area.

The new paint job does away with the commission's last year's Centennial Year theme.

The signs feature the big lower case "b" for Belleville which appears on this year's city industrial brochure and urges potential industry to see Belleville's new industrial parks for site locations.

And as a follow-up to the three big signs at the city's highway entrances, smaller individual signs will be painted for direction in the industrial park area.

These signs will indicate the size of industrial plots available.

As Alderman Gerald Joyce the commission's public relations officer, points out "there is no point in selling an industry in 10 or more acres when it wants only one or two."

So all sizes of industrial lots are being made available—all the way from plots of one to two acres in extent to as many as are required.

And the northeast industrial park is developing.

In what little more than a year ago was little more than vacant commons, three industrial buildings — Superior Electric, International Coopergas and Allied Chemicals — have built the new plants in the area with two of them already operating, and the third expected to go into production this year or early next year.

Intruder Forced Out In Hurry

A would-be thief forgot to put on his sneakers last night and the owner forced him out of a Belleville residence in a hurry.

Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson of 37 Bettes Street were awakened at 3.10 a.m. this morning by someone inside their home.

According to the Belleville city police, the intruder gained entry by removing the screen of the bathroom window and crawling through the opening.

After the Andersons awoke the unwelcome guest dove out the window by which he had entered.

Nothing was stolen during the episode.

Obituary

LORNE POLMANTEER

The funeral service for Lorne Polmasteer was held from the Thompson Funeral Chapel on Friday afternoon.

Rev. J. S. A. Spearman of Trenton conducted the service and said the graveside prayers in Elmwood Cemetery.

The bearers were John Hughes, John Lucas, Jack, Victor and Lloyd Morris and Allan Weese.

New Industrial Signs

Alderman Gerald Joyce, member of the Belleville Industrial Commission, inspects newly-painted industrial sign at the No. 37 highway entrance to the city.

Kiwanians Stage Walk-a-Thon For Hospital Coronary Care Unit

There's going to be a few blisters and callouses on the bottoms of Belleville area feet next month.

The Kiwanis Club of Belleville is the organization to blame, but it's all for a worthy cause.

The Kiwanians are sponsoring a walk-a-thon to raise funds for a coronary care unit to be used at the Belleville General Hospital.

The walk, scheduled for Sept. 14 at 8 a.m., will begin at Zwick's Island.

From the island the walkers will trudge across the bay bridge to Rossmore, following the Redoersville Road to Carrying Place, then north on Highway 33 to Highway 2 at Trenton to return to Belleville city hall.

Target for the project is $18,000, needed for the coronary care unit.

Allthoo with feet as bold as their hearts can ebb entry forms at Brennan and McBride Insurance Adjusters; Ashdi's Travel Centre; the Belleville Chamber of Commerce; Coles Jewellers; Shoppette Ltd.; Westgate Pharmacy; the Kiwanis Centre; and the Bank of Montreal.

Stan Johnson Winner

Top Garden on Holden Street

The flowery in more than 60 Belleville gardens should be the apple of the community's eye.

At least, that's the Belleville Horticultural Society's hope as it emerges from spotting scores of garden plots in city-wide competition.

Goal of the contest is community beautification, and the society is the only private group in Ontario fostering such an ideal.

The only other competitor in the field is Hamilton, where a similar competition is run by civic authorities.

More than 20 industries and 120 households came under the scrutiny of BHS judges in recent weeks.

Today, the list of winning home gardeners was announced — a week later than the industrial contestants.

But then, it took that much longer. To be positive of results, each private garden was visited three times by two-man judging teams.

A total of 39 top gardens emerged from the scrutiny — and now a metal trillium marks each beauty spot, symbolizing the gardeners who found favor with society experts. There were an additional 22 honorable mentions.

Winner — and therefore the city's top gardener — is Stan Johnson, of 22 Holden Street, a veteran of the horticultural art.

Other winners were:

W. Miles, 3 Bertram Blvd.; D. Maddock, 167 Bertram Blvd.; W. Slade, 7 Goldfale Rd.; G. Christopher, 306 Harchland Rd.; Ken Hutton, 2 Hutton Dr.; Ron Fox, 10 Lesile Dr.; R. Morris, 233 Parrott Dr.; R. Lowery, 555 Victoria Ave.; C. Parm, Cannifton Rd.; E. Carr, 29 Parkdale Dr.; W. McKay, 248 College St. West; C. MacDonald, 167 Bridge St. W.; L. Fuster, 31 Smith Cresc.; R. Hayes, 20 Smith Cresc.; B. Wright, 5 Sunset Dr.; C. Neal, 7 Stanley Park Dr.; Mrs. George Tustin, 234 Ann St.; Roy Jeffrey, 132 Dufferin Ave.; G. Erickson, 236 Charles St.; R. Gibson, 178 George St.; J. McIntosh, 52 Hillcrest Ave.; E. Jackman, 15 Wellington Cresc.; Rev. J. P. Sullivan, 296 Church St.; G. Equade, 325 Bridge St. East; James Dolan, 26 Edgehill Rd.; Wilbur Fox, 17 Southwood Cresc.; E. J. Rainbow, 84 Crestview Ave.; W. Slack, 12 Sidney St.; R. Irvine, 71 Bertram Blvd.; E. Yeleman, 15 Lee Ave.; A. Horlock, 56 Stanley Park Dr.; W. L. Peddle, 5 Melrose Cresc.; D. Newman, 3 Walden Circle; R. Williamson, 74 Selena Dr.; D S Meadows, 223 Parrott Dr.; J. Birchard 13 Sunset Dr.; D. DeGenova, 582 Sidney St.; R. Ellis, 630 Sidney St.

Laurels in His Garden!

Stan Johnson's garden at 22 Holden Street may have won him laurels — but he's not resting on them. He marks his award by Belleville Horticultural Society for city's best residential garden by mowing lawn.

IN MEMORIAM

HILL — In loving memory of a dear father, Joseph W. Hill who passed away Aug. 17, 1967.
One year since the angels came
To take our loved one home to rest.
God called him home, it was His will,
But in our hearts he lives still.
And taken when God knew best.
We miss him here on very month,
But his presence all seems right,
But we hope in heaven to meet,
Where we shall never part.
Lovingly remembered by Zart and Lorraine.

NOBLES — In loving memory of a dear husband and father who passed away Aug. 18th, 1967.
Our hearts still ache with sadness,
And secret tears still flow,
What it meant to lose you,
No one will ever know.
Sadly missed and remembered by wife Gertrude and family.

NOBLES — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather George Noble who passed away Aug. 18th, 1967.
Time takes away the pain of grief,
But memories stay with us forever,
Till memory fades and life departs,
You live forever in our hearts.
Sadly missed by daughter Bernice Bonds, son-in-law Fred and family.

RUSHNELL — In loving memory of our mother, Margaret Rushnell, who passed away August 17, 1967.
We do not need a special day,
To bring you to our mind,
For the days we do not think of you,
Are very hard to find.
If all the love we have for you were given,
Then you would live on and more,
Come smiling through the door,
Some comfort through the grief.
—Always remembered by son Don, daughter-in-law Doris and grandchildren Terry, Valerie, and Bob.

BIRTHS

BORDNER — Rev. and Mrs. Richard Bordner, of Victoria, B.C., are pleased to announce the birth of their daughter, Mary Patricia, on Wednesday, August 14, 1968 at Kingston General Hospital. Weight 8 lbs., 14 ozs. A brother for Jeffrey.

BUNT — Scott and Betty (nee Davidson) R.N., T. Belleville, are happy to announce the birth of their daughter, Jennifer Ann, on July 31, 1968 at Belleville General Hospital. Weight 7 lbs. 12 ozs. A sister for Kathy and Jeffrey.

ISTEAD — Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Istead, 13 Hillside Ave., Belleville, are pleased to announce the birth of a son John Allan, on Saturday, August 10th, 1968, at Belleville General Hospital. A brother for Robert Earl, Weight 7 lbs., 8½ ozs.

DEATHS

BEVIN, Mrs. Walter — Formerly of 10 Dundonald Ave., at the Belleville General Hospital on Friday, Aug. 16, 1968. Daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Dreaux. Wife of the late Walter Bevin. Dear mother of Arthur, St. Thomas; Mrs. Ralph (Betty) Bellamy, Belleville; 2 grandchildren, in her 53rd year.
Mrs. Bevin is resting at the Thompson Funeral Chapel, 38 Everett St. Funeral will be held on Monday, Aug. 19, at 2 p.m. Rev. Arnold Dunkley officiating.
Interment Belleville Cemetery.

HINNE, Reih Marie — of Oshawa, formerly of Belleville, passed away on Wednesday, August 14th, 1968, at the home of her son, Brent, 26 Centre Street, Oshawa. Dear daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hinne. Loving stepsister indeed by way of Gene Hynes; dear mother of William D., Oshawa; Roger of Belleville, Kenneth S., Oshawa; Brent, Oshawa; Mrs. Lorraine (Barbara) Fenton of Moosomin Lake, Sask.; William, British Columbia; Mrs. Arthur Dunlop (Nina), Belleville, Kenneth Hynes, Oshawa; her 20th grandchild.
Mrs. Hynes is resting at the Cassidy Funeral Home, Orwell. Funeral service will be held on Saturday, August 17, at 2 p.m. Northbrook United Church. Rev. Ray J. Wiley officiating. Interment in Northbrook Cemetery. Agit-2t

TOPLISS, Walter H. (Tex) — At Hotel Dieu Hospital on Friday, August 16th, 1968, Walter Topliss, late of 36 Cassidy Street, in his 74th year. Beloved husband of Dorothy Christopher. Dear father of Mrs. Clarence Kaiser (Irene) of Belleville; Mrs. A. Charbonneau (Betty) of Victoria, B.C., and Shirley Ann at home.
Mr. Topliss's Funeral Residence Service will be held at St. Columbus Street at Clergy, Kingston, on Monday, the Corpus Mondial afternoon at 2 p.m.

IN MEMORIAM

HILL — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Joseph W. Hill, who passed away August 17, 1967.
The work comes with great regret,
It brings back a day we shall never forget.
You fell asleep without goodbye,
But the memory of you shall never die,
We often think of hymns days,
When family circle is broken now,
The family chain is broken now,
Every link is not the same,
To us, he has not gone away,
Nor has he travelled far,
Just entered God's eternal home.
Lovingly remembered by
Beatty and Mildred and sadly missed by daughter Mary, son-in-law Greg and grandchildren Lorraine and Jeff.

LEWIS — In loving memory of a dear friend Ada Lewis who passed away August 17th, 1966.
Just a thought of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory sad and true,
There is not one hour of separation,
Dear one, we remember you.
Sadly remembered by a friend Mary Hamilton.

MITTS — In loving memory of my dear brother James Mitts, who passed away August 17, 1965.
Just a smile, a pleasant word,
A helping hand to all he knew,
He was as kind, as generous and true.
On earth he nobly did his best,
Grant him peace eternal rest.
—Always remembered by sister Roy Margaret and family.

MILLS — In loving memory of a dear uncle, Joseph who passed away August 17th, 1967.
In memory still fondly cherished,
In our hearts a place apart,
Always kept, always sorrow.
—Always remembered by Joe, Eileen, Will, Cheryl and Brent Morton.

Only 14 in North America

Charlie Keeble Sails Lonely Course

By JERRY HOFF
Staff Reporter

How many people can do the same job you do?

That's not to say as well or better, or even worse. Just having the know-how to do the things you do.

Well, Charles Keeble of Belleville has the enviable position of knowing that only 14 firms in North America can do the same job he does.

Mr. Keeble is one of a dying breed. He's a sailmaker.

There are a total of five sailmakers in Canada. Four are in Ontario, including Mr. Keeble, and one is in Vancouver. The U.S. has 10 sailmaking firms.

That makes Mr. Keeble one of the last survivors, which means he is among the fittest. That fitness shows all over his business.

Today's sailmaker is a modern businessman in a business which is fast experiencing a rebirth of interest. The roar of the powerboats is being modified by the fast gaining whisper of the sail.

"The trend today seems to be toward sailing boats," Mr. Keeble said. "There is as much more satisfaction in the skill it takes to handle and maintain a sailing boat and people are rediscovering this. Sailing is more personal, more of a challenge, and therefore, to many people, it is more rewarding."

To meet that demand, the old sailmaker's shanty on the wharf (if such there ever was) has given way to businesses such as Mr. Keeble's.

Mr. Keeble's sail making shop is a large, well-lighted and comfortable "sail-loft." A well polished hardwood floor is his drawing board upon which sails are patterned and cut. Two modern sewing machines are massed, along with the traditional hand - work bench which handles necessary hand-sewing. Occasionally, for those who can afford it, Mr. Keeble will hand sew an entire suit of sail.

Like all modern businesses, Mr. Keeble has found it more profitable to diversify. He handles, besides his sailmaking, rigging, outfitting, and canvas work. But sailmaking is still his main love.

You can see it in his face when he talks of it. "I started sailing as an apprentice in 1917 with an Englishman and a Dane. I worked with them for four years before they allowed me to sew my first sail by myself. I was 16 when I started and 20 when they let me try.

"The old art is still here, but limited by demand, not because there is something to replace it. There will never be machines capable of drawing the exact curve of a sail. Or of stitching it without some handwork.

"No, the machine won't replace this job, or rob it of its art. And sailmaking will never die as long as men sail ships or boats.

"You know," he added, "man has never made a perfect sail, and he'll probably never make one, but he's been trying for more than 2,000 years.

"That's too good a record to die."

The Hands Haven't Changed...

Charlie Keeble's hands splice a rope now the same as they did when he started as an apprentice sailmaker in 1917. The same way sailmakers and sailors have spliced rope since man first went to sea under sail. But some things have changed. "Smell the tarred rope?" Keeble smiled. "It's always been a part of sailing. They don't make it anymore and this is probably the last box of it I'll have."

...Nor Have the Hands' Tools

"The design and the function of that hammer (rigit) haven't changed in centuries," Keeble said. "The materials, some of the techniques and designs have changed, but the hand work — and the tools for it — are still the same."

Tweed Seeks New Chief

TWEED — For the second time in less than a year this village is seeking a police chief.

The search follows the resignation of Chief George Cole, who has been appointed physical activities instructor at the Ontario Police College at Aylmer.

Chief Cole, a former Belleville city constable, began policing the village last November.

His appointment followed a trial period during which provincial police enforced the law here.

He is no newcomer to the college, having headed its graduating class of June, 1965.

His new appointment is effective Sept. 1 and the village council is expected to begin advertising for a replacement this week.

Black and White Show

Area Holstein Breeders Win

Two Belleville area Holstein breeders, Allan McComb and Son, and Harold Detlor, both of Sidney township, won top honors at the annual Hastings County Black and White Day Show held yesterday in connection with Belleville Fair.

Mr. McComb, 3rd concession cattle man, had the grand champion female of the Holstein show, while Mr. Detlor of the Oak Hills district had the grand champion bull.

The reserve champion female was shown by Erie Nelson of Campbellford, while the reserve champion bull was shown by Hudson Ketcheson, 5th concession of Sidney township.

Twelve breeders, showing a total of 72 cattle, made last night's Holstein show in the fairgrounds coliseum one of the most successful in recent years.

And it attracted by far the largest turnout of viewers of the four days of cattle judging at the fair.

There is no cattle judging today, the last day of the fair, but many of the Holstein shown yesterday at the fair are still on exhibit.

Yesterday's Black and White Day show was sponsored by the Belleville Agricultural Society and the Hastings County Holstein Breeders' Club. Judge for the event was David Houck, R.R. 2, Gormley.

Hastings county dairy princess Carol Thompson presented the ribbon to the county black and white day winners.

The list of exhibitors in the Black and White Day show were as follows:

Almerson Farms, Campbellford; George Burkitt and Sons, Frankford; Harold Delnor and Sons, Stirling; Lewis Dunk, Dartford; Honeydale Stock Farm, Dartford; Hudson Ketcheson, Belleville; Allan B. McComb and Son, Belleville; David Merrill, Dartford; Earle Nelson, Campbellford; Scott Stewart, Campbellford; Ronald Warner, Hastings and Lorne Hagerman, Harold.

Bonarlaw Native To Teach at Albert

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
(Staff Reporter)

William G. Andrews has been appointed to the Conservatory of music at Albert College to teach senior piano, voice and theory.

A native of Bonarlaw and a graduate of Marmora High School, he left the Quinte district eight years ago to continue his studies in music.

He confessed that a pleasant surprise greeted him on his return to Belleville.

"I'm impressed with the number of advanced students in the district and by the excellent standard of music teaching in the city," he says.

Mr. Andrews will live in Toronto and commute to Belleville for his classes. He is preparing for an advanced vocal degree from Trinity College, London, England, under the direction of Dr. Ernesto Vinci.

Fluently bilingual and a believer in fostering a better understanding between French and English speaking Canadians, he is also studing for a piano degree from Laval University in Quebec City.

Mr. Andrews is fluent in German and Italian as well and has a vocal command of Hebrew. He has been a soloist in several Toronto churches and Holy Blossom Synagogue.

Mr. Andrews began his musical studies with Belleville teachers Mrs. G. H. Rennie and the late Egerton Boyce. Continuing a year as a clerk in the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce here he enrolled at the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto and later at the University of Toronto.

On two occasions, in 1963 and in 1965, he was awarded French government scholarships to study piano in Paris and Nice. Twice he was presented in piano recitals in Nice by his teacher, Madame Aline Leviste van Barentzen.

Mr. Andrews has sung baritone roles in operas at the Banff School of Fine Arts and in the western Canada tour of Donizetti's Elisir d'Amore.

Always interested in teaching, for the past five years he has combined teaching at his Toronto studio with his advanced musical education.

New Music Teacher at Albert College

William G. Andrews, native Bonarlaw area man, is returning to Belleville to teach music after studies here and abroad. Seen here practising, Mr. Andrews will teach senior piano, voice and theory at Albert College.

Napanee to Have Marina

NAPANEE — Napanee is to have a marina on the south side of the river at the bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Annas of North Fredericksburg have purchased the former Roblin farm machinery depot, and at the meeting of the town council early this week, applied for permission to renovate the building and establish a marina. They plan to spend from $2,000 to $3,000 on the project. Council gave its approval for the building changes.

Also, the new owners wish to purchase 46 feet of land on the south side of their property.

The wedge of land Mr. and Mrs. Annas wish to buy is part of the park land connected with the pool area. The pool was installed by the Rotary Club, and then given to the town. Napanee must obtain the consent of the Club if any part of the parkland changes hands.

Relations With China

If Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield looks askance at what he terms "Government by Press Conference," at least it is better than the threat of Government by Secret Diplomacy."

Hard on the heels of Prime Minister Trudeau's warning to his own ministers to be guarded in their public statements, the prime minister is offering similar counsel with regard to establishing formal relations with Communist China.

This is the way Mr. Trudeau put it at one of those press conferences the other day: "It is conceivable that the contacts will be made on a non-official basis at first — in a roundabout way through third parties.

"If that is the case we may decide that it is not politically useful to have them — the contacts — made known."

Perhaps the issue is all rather academic — as Mr. Trudeau has said, "don't expect early results, the Chinese are a people of infinite patience" — yet the principles of democracy are involved. Canadians should be kept informed of what countries (or contacts) Ottawa is dealing with and why.

For one thing, there is no point in establishing relations with a people — numerous as they are — whose government pushes foreign diplomats around, subjecting them to physical abuse and insults.

In any event, Canada's influence over China, on its way to becoming a nuclear power, and with a population of 700 million, would be negligible.

However, if Ottawa persists in this course there is one diplomat well versed in Chinese ways it would do well to consult.

Sir Donald Hopson, beaten and humiliated by Red Guards during three exacting years as Britain's top envoy in China, has just left the country via Hong Kong. Hopson's exit visa had been delayed about a year. Yet, because of its size and power, Hopson thinks relations with China should be maintained.

Should Canada, on the other hand, establish formal contacts? That is another question which will only be resolved by the feelers — secret or otherwise' — that Prime Minister Trudeau is proposing.

Infant Care

That infant mortality is still high in Canada compared with other advanced nations is a matter that should warrant increased attention by health authorities.

A Halifax specialist, Dr. Kenneth Scott, has been quoted as saying that often doctors must just let infants die because of lack of facilities and research — and what he describes as general public disinterest.

In Nova Scotia alone, says Dr. Scott, 450 infants are born yearly with diseases leading to mental retardation. One factor is low blood sugar, a reversible disease. With simple treatment, brain damage could be prevented.

On the same theme, U.S., columnist Sydney J. Harris says that more than 80 per cent of the total brain growth of the human being takes place during the first three years of life — and if during the mother's pregnancy and lactation, she and the child are suffering from malnutrition, then as a subsequent mental ability of the baby may be 10 to 25 per cent below normal.

Clearly, there is a need for more research into the health of infants. It is a critical time in life, the moment a child is brought into the world, as is the period immediately following. Unless there is access to hospital treatment and specialist care, many a child can die in Canada today.

Silly Season

In the recent attempts to lure a wayward hippopotamus back to its pen in a Brockville area zoo, nobody thought of a French horn. Nor did we for that matter but a picture of 15-year-old Donna Fallon practising on her instrument in a field at her parent's home near London, Ontario, gave us the idea. Grouped around as Donna performed was a herd of attentive cows. And since it was cow calls by two enterprising hippo chasers that finally succeeded in luring the animal back home, a French horn might do the trick next time it takes to the wandering life!

Taxpayers' Club Needs Mike Starr on Executive

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — The seaway strike was sweated out in 24 days.

The postal strike was a 22-day drag, with the mail out of business, actually, for nearly four weeks.

Both strikes finally were settled through an agonizing process of agreement - by - exhaustion.

Exhaustion, that is, alike of the negotiators grown through the endless hours for a reasonable deal, and of the patience of the pushed-around taxpayers.

By keeping his casual cool and avoiding direct intervention Prime Minister Trudeau reconfirmed the cabinet's refusal to be high-pressured or panicked into extravagant Pearson-style back-to-work bribes for sulky civil servants.

Each settlement came reasonably within the government guidelines.

These were drawn by the cabinet in simple self - defence against attacks by outraged taxpayers that the government itself with its fine, fat 30 percent settlements for the Montreal harbor and seaway workers earlier had been the free-spending fashion-setter for inflation.

The grand prize for that uneconomic caper has been the still - spiralling cost of living and the 14-cent dollar.

The cabinet was able to make this initial, but more than reasonably successful attempt to hold the line, because the word reaching the prime minister's East Block command post from the political grass roots was that it had public support.

The taxpayer, especially in the postal strike, was the man in the middle.

The "lemon" as both the prime minister and the postal union leaders called him.

It became a question of how much can he take of inconvenience and hardship.

They made it a sort of equation.

Only when the degree of public inconvenience climbed higher in their estimation than "the right to strike" of the postal workers, would anything be done.

What that degree might be, the prime minister consistently neglected to specify, although there was the suggestion it came at the end of 30 days, coincidentally and with great political convenience, with the settlement.

What took so long?

Could it have been that civil servant was bargaining with civil servants?

The strikers were civil servants. So, too, were the government's treasury board representatives.

It was a kind of in-the-club thing.

And it is a civil service club in which the taxpayer holds no membership, although he alone pays all the fees.

In the very nature of things — unless federal government employees are different from all other Canadians, and maybe they are — civil servants have to be soft bargainers.

For who, humanly, can be tough when the bargaining is all in the family?

The bargaining is soft for two reasons:

Official concern that civil servants lack the right to strike (and most do), and so should be given every brotherly help.

The same official concern that civil servants who do have the right to strike (and many in the "essential" services do), are capable of creating chaos to a degree beyond public tolerance and political safety.

The government is now up to its ears in collective bargaining with some 400,000 workers — but has no professional collective bargainers save treasury board's Douglas Love, himself a civil servant.

How about an independent collective bargaining commission? With a government representative, somebody sitting in for the civil service, a spokesman for the bargaining public, and finally a chairman with special powers reporting directly to the prime minister and cabinet.

A big job. Needs a big man. With some very special savvy. Like who, then?

Sitting at home, with nothing much more to do than mow the lawn — unless somebody else has grabbed him — is former Labor Minister Mike Starr. Trusted by labor and management, the government and the civil service. And a man, veteran of municipal and federal politics, who has had to listen to the taxpayer.

Mike Starr, in his five years as federal labor minister, personally prevented, by his own kind of old-fashioned negotiations, two railway and two shipping strikes.

In heading off one of the two shipping strikes, he did business with that professional tough guy of labor, Hal Banks.

Those who were privileged to sit in on the talks say Hal Banks had never met such a sweet-talking muscle-man as Mike Starr.

If he could hammer hard guy Hal Banks into talking sense, doing business with the government and the civil service would be a soft touch for Mike Starr — the very man Prime Minister Trudeau right now might need most.

Voyageurs Enjoy Manitoba

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I had the honor of representing Quinte Secondary School in a Young Voyageurs trip to Winnipeg. There were 24 of us from the Peterborough, Trenton and Belleville district. It was a rewarding experience for all of us.

We all noticed how proud the people of Manitoba were about their province — its past, present and future. Most of all the people were really friendly towards us. Their hospitality was far beyond that which I had imagined.

On behalf of the group which accompanied me, I would like to thank Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham (our escorts) for coming with us. They were understanding and we enjoyed their company very much. Being with them and the other Voyageurs proved to me that people can enjoy one another's company and that there are some who think the way you do.

French Language in Ontario

Granby La Voix de l'Est: The teaching of French is not taken lightly in Ontario. Whether it be during the school year or the summer holidays it continues at a pace that shows the sincerity of those responsible. In Toronto, in particular, this summer teachers are teaching other teachers, teachers are teaching student-teachers and student-teachers are teaching pupils. The program in which they are involved has a common objective, to produce more teachers for the teaching of French in Ontario primary schools. And to that the evolution of the teaching of French in secondary schools and junior colleges where students as well as adults steadily follow intensive courses and the image becomes apparent of a program under way designed to transform this province into a truly bilingual province, where henceforth (the right to use both) the country's two languages will be compulsory in the legislature. It seems that one thus can take seriously Mr. (Premier John) Robarts' declaration that nothing is being spared in Ontario to ensure respect for the French language wherever sufficient numbers of French-speaking persons live.

Separatists Are Divided

Montreal Star

The failure of Mr. Bourgault's RIN to come to terms with Mr. Levesque's Mouvement Souveraineté-Association, not surprise no one. It was evident ever since the MSA's initial convention that the issue of language and school rights for the English minority within an eventually independent Quebec was a deeply devisive one over which it would be difficult to develop a consensus. The MSA has dedicated to the moderate approach. Mr. Levesque knows that the question of principle, an independent Quebec could not afford any kind of population drain. As for the RIN it has clearly lost its former dominating position in the separatist scene to the MSA. Its position on the language question is a minority one. Even among separatists, French - Canadians' traditional fairmindedness on linguistic issues prevails.

Comparison With Britain

New Rules Attempt to Speed Up Work of Parliament

By CARMAN CUMMING

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Trudeau apparently has high hopes that rules changes planned early in the new Parliament will shake off the Commons' tendency toward draggy debates.

But he has more to contend with than just out-dated rules. Emotion, tradition and the Canadian pattern of several parties all work against a speedup.

The prime minister spoke hopefully at his news conference Wednesday about new rules that would allow Parliament to meet in an orderly way from early fall to late spring, with breaks for Christmas and Easter.

The government proposals are secret but presumably they will follow the thinking of the 11-member special committee headed by Manpower Minister MacEachen which made extensive recommendations last spring, asking that they be put into effect in the next session.

The most profound of these, according to some who have worked with the committee, might be a change that will go almost unnoticed outside Parliament.

This is a recommendation to change the handling of government spending programs. It would continue efforts to reduce time spent on departmental estimates and supply motions releasing money for government spending.

The whole complex business of supply, which gives the opposition its main chance to criticize government programs and to move non-confidence motions, takes up a good part of the parliamentary year.

Studies show that in recent years it has consumed about one-third of the Commons sitting time—78 days in the record 250-day session of 1968-67 and 55 days in the 155-day session that ended in April. By contrast the British House is restricted to 29 days for supply.

Mr. MacEachen's committee made a series of 16 recommendations in this area, designed to mesh the spending program better with the financial year and to shift the emphasis of estimates study to committees.

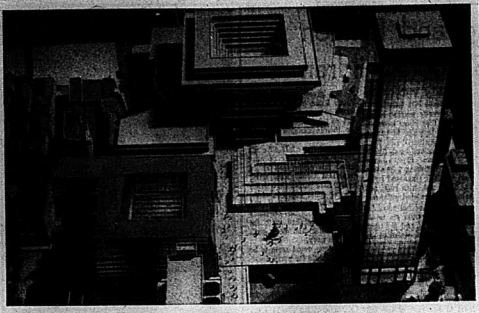
The changes might go some way toward alleviating the chronic shortage of time for government legislation.

But it still would not alter the tendency of the Commons to prolong debates for days or even weeks on a single stage of a single piece of legislation.

Mr. MacEachen's committee visited London early this year and reported with a touch of envy that members on both sides of the British House seem to favor "intense debate followed by decision."

Debate on second reading of a bill seldom takes more than a day in the British House, it said, and the Commons never duplicates work of its committees.

In Ottawa, by contrast, second-reading debate often goes on for days and committee work is followed by repeated attempts to kill almost all of what it comes back to the House for clause-by-clause study.



The MacEachen committee also looked enviously at the frequent use in Britain of a debate-ending closure rule.

Its Canadian counterpart on the other hand is almost never invoked because it strikes emotional sparks reminiscent of the pipeline debate of 1956.

But the British method of handling the question period, under which ministers are required to be in the House only certain days and advance notice must be given of all questions, also attracted some favorable attention from the MacEachen committee.

But it concluded that the British question period was "less lively and interesting than what obtains ours" and left up in the air the question of whether Canada should adopt part of the British pattern.

In one area, at least, the Parliament opening Sept. 12 will have a time-saving advantage over the last Parliament. The elimination of Social Credit in the June election leaves a pecking order of only three opposition parties to comment on each government move.

Churches at Waubaushene Are Attractive to Tourists

WAUBAUSHENE, Ont. (CP) — Churches in this Georgian Bay community are one of the main tourist attractions on a Sunday morning.

"When people are on holidays, many have a tendency to take a holiday from God," Rev. M. J. Hawkins said after saying his second mass of the morning. "But that's not the way with the people around here—the tourists are very faithful."

The migration of vacationers to resort areas such as this one brings some changes to the churches—but the changes are not consistent.

For Father Hawkins it can mean a more-crowded church. For others it can mean a small-er attendance, than during winter months.

Russel Jackson, an Anglican church warden, said he believes time plays a large factor in tourist attendance.

Nearly four times as many people attend the 11 a.m. United Church service as come to the 9:30 a.m. Anglican service.

At St. John's Roman Catholic Church here, more than 200 persons took communion on a recent Sunday and Father Hawkins estimated that about three-quarters of these attending were tourists and district cottagers.

In dress, summer churchgoers in resort areas tend to be just as conservative as when at their home church.

"That's one thing we have never had trouble with," said Father Hawkins. "The tourists are very reverent and I've never seen anyone wearing shorts to church."

IQ Tests Are Not Sacred

TORONTO (CP) — Parents and teachers of children with learning disabilities were warned this week to be wary of intelligence quotient tests.

Dr. Jeanne McCarthy of Illinois and Mrs. Willeta Silva of Pennsylvania, both specialists in teaching such children, said IQ tests are not sacred cows.

"A child's IQ may be higher, or lower, depending on his disability," Dr. McCarthy told a conference sponsored by the Ontario education department and the Canadian Association for Children With Learning Disabilities.

"An IQ test measures the child's ability to visualize, whereas in the classroom a teacher measures his ability to listen and respond vocally," said Dr. McCarthy.

"If the child has a visual problem, his IQ test will be lower than his actual intellectual capacity and vice-versa."

Mrs. Silva told the conference that present educational systems suffer from "a serious disease" in that they look upon special education as a "dumping ground for kids who don't fit into a normal slot."

Some special classes, she said, are for children with an IQ below a certain level. However, a perceptually handicapped child with normal intelligence, but needing special help, often cannot qualify for the special classes because he is "too bright."

Plenty of Styling and Fashion News for All School Children

NEW YORK (CP) — School bells ring earlier than usual this year because Labor Day comes early—on Sept. 2. So shopping for school clothes also will be earlier. And there's plenty of styling and fashion news for scholars from the kindergarten set on up to junior high.

Knitwear is the big news and it becomes more important every year. The Du Pont fibre people say that within 10 years knitwear will make up 75 per cent of school clothes.

Joseph Love, with a factory also in Montreal, is partial to sweater dresses for his young clientele. These include such knits as an Argyle plaid, a popcorn weave and a loose cable stitch called the fisherman.

In Helen Lee's collection knits are important too. She likes a red sweater dress with a wide waistband section. Camel, a popular color in adult fashion, appears frequently in the Lee clothes, ranging from two to 14 years. One knit dress in camel was accented at neck, hem and cuffs by bands of red, white and heather green.

In the Canadian children's fall showing, sweater dresses of orlon knit were on hold contrasting stripes, fully machine-washable, for the kindergarten set. For the preteens there was a bonded orlon knit in vest, skirt and sweater co-ordinates.

Most of the adult fashion trends for fall are found in the young clothes. Leather, a top favorite, is translated into imitation leather prints on washable vinyl. Several of these leather-like fabrics are in jumpers. Exceptionally smart were a belted, side-buttoned style worn with a yellow corduroy shirt, a navy worn over a red knit shirt, and a brown nautical jumper with a boss knit shirt.

Other imitation leather outfits include Love's antique brown dress with metallic and his Tyrolean suspender skirt with white ruffled blouse. In celebrating this peasant embroidery motif is an adult trend that lives particularly well for party clothes.

One Canadian house that believes firmly in the future of washable simulated leather is Gay Togs of Montreal. They introduced it last season and found a ready market for it. This fall they show a child's coat and leggings in orange imitation leather, with Borg collar, lining and hood. Another Canadian firm, Junior Wear, is featuring a pre-teen coat in black simulated leather, Borg-lined, with cuffs and bolmet of simulated white fox.

Waistlines are in fall news for every female from six to 60. Young children and pre-teens haven't a real waistline so there's no attempt to cinch it in. But all the designers of children's clothes agree on a definite contoured look.

Says Elen Henderson of Toronto, a top designer of children's smart clothes: "At least 65 per cent of my fall collection has a natural indented waistline." Mrs. Henderson heartily approves, too, for this means plenty of swing-y skirts. Then presto! Little girls will return to being little girls.

This fall there will be much interest in the clothes worn by Barbra Streisand in the movie Funny Girl. This musical life of the great Ziegfeld star, Fanny Brice, begins when she was a young sister just after the end of the century and wore the then-fashionable sailor dresses.

Some of the children's houses have already re-introduced this sailor look as an important trend. Kate Greenaway uses garnet for a sailor top, the collar edged in white, with a navy pleated skirt. And Alyssa does it in burgundy cotton, self sashed, with the sailor collar and deep cuffs piped in navy.

Velveteen would seem to be the fall fabric for party dresses. Elen Henderson plans a series of bevelled colors. Paradise Children's Wear, also of Toronto, sets off a Victorian jacketed dress in green velveteen with white ruffled jabot and cuffs.

Little boys too will be stylish this fall. In the Canadian market there are such avant-garde items as green tweed knickers and sleeveless jacket with a ruffled shirt, a brown Nehru corduroy jacket, and a checked-Viking suit of a sleeveless and collarless jacket, knickers and cap.

MR. AND MRS. RAYMOND H. EMERSON

Emerson — Whyte

St. Paul's United Church, Bancroft, was the setting for the candlelight ceremony recently, when Edna Lorraine Whyte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Whyte, Belleville was united in marriage to Raymond Herbert Emerson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Emerson of Halloway, Ontario. Rev. Fungo officiated and soloist was Richard Reid of Onawa.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a full length gown of white peau de sole with Empire waistline outlined with embroidered daisies, and featuring three-quarter length bell sleeves. A cathedral train extending from the shoulders was accented with bows and edged with matching daisy embroidery. Her headdress, a cluster of organza roses was caught to a shoulder length veil and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses, white stephanotis and trailing ivy.

Miss Judy Mackey of Belleville as maid of honor wore a yellow taffeta gown with overlay of yellow and white embroidery, with the back of the dress highlighted with a flowing train of yellow chiffon extending from the shoulders and caught with tiny bows. She wore a floral yellow chiffon headdress, the bridesmaids Miss Ann Emerson, sister of the bridegroom of Halloway and Miss Betty Whyte, sister of the bride, Toronto were identically attired to the maid of honor and all carried cascade bouquets of yellow daisy 'mums.

The two little flower girls Miss Rhonda Reide, Foxboro and Miss Lisa Whyte of Toronto, both nieces of the bride were dressed like other attendants but carried baskets of yellow daisy 'mums.

Paul Emerson of Peterborough attended his brother, while the ushers were Bruce Kennedy, Halloway and Lewis Whyte of Toronto, brother of the bride. Stewart Emerson, nephew of the bridegroom, Belleville was the natty little ring-bearer dressed in dark brown double knit suit.

For the reception followed by a dance at the Legion Hall, Bancroft, the bride's mother greeted the guests wearing a turquoise linen sleeveless dress with scalloped lace coat, matching hat, white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. Assisting, the bridegroom's mother wore a blue lace linen dress with white accessories and a corsage of tinted silver white carnations.

Leaving on a wedding trip to points north, the bride chose a green shade dress with white lace trim, white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

On return the couple will reside at 140 Catherine Street, Belleville.

Graded Meat Is Consumer's Guide

OTTAWA (CP) — Graded meat is the consumer's guide to quality, the Canada agriculture department says in a booklet on meat purchase and preparation.

The department has established grades for beef, veal, lamb and mutton. Only meat inspected by the federal government or the British Columbia meat inspection systems is government-graded.

Meat carcasses are graded on the following points:

—The general shape of the carcass and the proportion of meat to bone.

—The amount of fat covering and the distribution of fat through the lean. Top-quality meat will have a good covering of fat and, in the case of beef, will be well marbled with fat.

—Color and character of fat and bone. Top-quality meat will have a smooth, even fat covering of uniform color characteristic of the species fat meat. The age of the animal is indicated by the size and degree of hardening of the bones. Young animals have soft, reddish bones.

—Texture and color of the lean meat.

Beef is still the only meat which consumers can generally purchase by grade. All top-quality inspected beef is being graded and stamped in Canada.

Carcass grades are established for veal and pork, but these have not been used mainly as a basis of settlement to the producer.

Lamb and mutton are not generally graded for consumers except in Saskatchewan where, under provincial regulation, it is sold by grade in the cities of Regina, Moose Jaw, Saskatoon and Prince Albert.

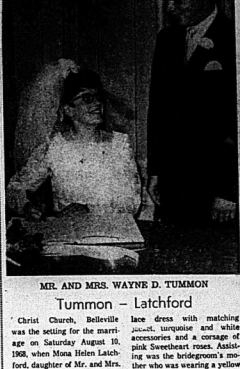
In grading Canadian poultry there is one national standard for each type of inspected poultry must conform to Canadian grade standards although the word "Canada" is not in the grade mark.

The grading standards are centred around a system by federal agriculture department inspectors checking at plants and wholesale and retail outlets.

The grade mark is on a metal tag on the breast, or is printed on a transparent bag or inserted inside the bag.

The poultry grades are:

Canada Grade Special—Commercially unknown, specimens not generally available in retail outlets.



Canada Grade A—The best quality commonly available on the retail market. The birds are normally formed and well fatted and fleshed. A slightly crooked keel bone, a few small breast blisters discolorations and a small number of pinfeathers are allowed.

Canada Grade B—Normally formed but may have a slightly crooked keel bone; not as well fleshed and fattened as Grade A birds. Moderate-sized tears, minor discolorations and pinfeathers that do not seriously detract from the appearance of the bird are allowed.

Canada Grade Utility—Must be inspected for Canada Grade B but one or more parts of the bird may be missing.

Canada Grade C—May be poorly fleshed or have large tears, pinfeathers and prominent discoloration.

Turkeys, ducks and geese may be marked "young" or "mature" on the grade panel or tag.

MR. AND MRS. WAYNE D. TUMMON

Tummon — Latchford

Christ Church, Belleville was the setting for the marriage on Saturday August 10, 1968, when Mona Helen Latchford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Latchford, Belleville RR5, became the bride of Wayne Douglas Tummon, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Tummon of Corbyville RR1.

Rev. Calson D.B. Wright officiated at the ceremony and the church organist John Withers played traditional wedding music and accompanied the six choir boys in appropriate nuptial selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of imported white Chantilly lace which featured a scalloped neckline, long lily - point sleeves and an Empire waistline. The bodice had a scalloped edges. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses entwined with ivy.

Mrs. Ross Parks, sister of the bride as matron of honor, wore a sleeveless floor-length Empire styled gown in blue crepe with lace trimmed bolero. Her headdress was a matching blue crown with short tulle veil and she carried a topiary of Stasia 'mums. The bridesmaids, Miss Dianne Tummon, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Nancy Latchford, sister of the bride and Mrs. Gary Ross of Kingston along with Miss Brenda Parks as junior bridesmaid were all dressed identically to the matron of honor.

Ross Sherman, cousin of the bride, attended the bridegroom and ushering the guests were Ross Parks, brother-in-law of the bride, William Goodfellow, cousin of the bride, Carl Grills, cousin of the bridegroom and Dale Tummon, brother of the bridegroom. Johnny Latchford, brother of the bride carried the rings on a blue satin pillow.

For the reception at the Gilead Hall, the bride's mother wore a street-length turquoise lace dress with matching jacket, turquoise and white accessories and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. Assisting was the bridegroom's mother who was wearing a yellow lace coat and dress ensemble with yellow and white accessories and a corsage of pale green orchids.

Leaving on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and thence to points north, the bride wore a candy pink sheath with pink flowered hat, white accessories and a corsage of white and pink carnations.

On return the couple will reside at 212 Birchimer Avenue in Belleville.

Women's Institutes

RIVER VALLEY W.I

On Wednesday evening, August 7, the River Valley Women's Institute sponsored their annual awards night at the school house, with approximately 90 people in attendance.

John Sheldon, manager of the Kinsmen swimming pool, Belleville and his assistant Miss Ines Sulkevicius presented the awards and pins to 41 children who had completed the project. Mr. Sheldon also gave valuable information re the various classes and explained the procedures for beginners, juniors, intermediates and seniors.

Mrs. Glenn Bush, convener of the institute swimming committee, spoke briefly and the treasurer, Mrs. J. L. Donohoe, reported pool fees at $145; bus fare at $100; and expense for awards night $25; for a total of $320. The total fees paid by the children were $183, and the cost to the institute was $135.

The group adjourned to the school lawn where hot dogs, coffee and freshie were served.

A community shower was held at the home of Mrs. Marie Mitchell with Mrs. Gary Ross as hostess. A presentation party was given by the teaching staff of Smithfield Public School from which the bride is resigning. The bride's mother entertained at a trousseau tea and following the rehearsal, the wedding party was entertained at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Tummon in Corbyville.

Wannamaker Family Reunion

Over 200 guests attended the Wannamaker Reunion at Tweed park recently, coming from most parts of Hastings and Prince Edward counties, Napanee, Oshawa, Brooklin, Petawawa, St. Catharines, Brantford, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and British Columbia.

About 12 noon all sat down to a potluck picnic dinner under the clear skies and as the weather was so nice and warm, was much visiting to do most of the guests stayed for supper.

Prizes were given to the oldest man Ira Bristol of Springbrook; the oldest lady, Mrs. E. J. Wannamaker, Corbyville the youngest baby girl Catherine Bronson daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Bronson Madoc, youngest baby boy David Adams, seven week old son of Mr. and Mrs. David Adams, Madoc; the ones coming the farthest distance were Mr. and Mrs. George Butcher of Coquitlan, British Columbia. Following the farthest distance and returning home after the reunion were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wannamaker Brantford. The largest family was that of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wannamaker, Bancroft with eight children. Youngest married couple was Mr. and Mrs. George Adams of Peterboro, married 11 months, and the longest married couple was Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wannamaker of Middle Lake Saskatchewan married 51 years.

Mrs. Kenneth Thompson retired as president and Mr. Art Young of Bancroft was elected the new president with Carol Wannamaker as vice president and Mrs. Emil Wannamaker of Madoc as secretary-treasurer, Reginald Loney supplied the loud speaker system. It was decided to hold the next reunion at the same place on the 3rd Sunday in July and that each member wear a name tag.

The young children enjoyed swimming and playing in the sand and each child received a balloon and candy while the older members visited and went over the family history that Mr. Art Wannamaker has compiled over the years.

Pill Blamed for Headaches

LONDON (Reuters) — Women who take contraceptive pills are more than 10 times more prone to headaches, an article in the British Medical Journal says.

But the fact so many women are willing to bear the pain is a tribute to the effectiveness of oral contraceptives and an indication of the need for them, it says.

The article, by Dr. Ellen Grant, says while 17 per cent of women reported having headaches before using oral contraceptives, as many as 69 per cent suffered when taking them.

This may be due to blood vessel changes caused by hormones in the pill, the article says.

About 500,000 British women take the pill.

In another article, an American doctor warns that any hospital considering sterilization to save his wife from the possible risks of taking the pill puts in a strong plea for

Sex Frustration Results in Infidelity

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: I agree, in fact everyone could not help but agree, with your advice to Betrayed; however, talking sex to your partner may never solve the problem.

After many years of frustrated marriage, I met a married lady who was far from satisfied with the sex love received from her husband. For 10 years we have enjoyed an affair without falling o v e r board in love, I realize that such a situation could have a possible psychological backlash with anyone with strong convictions on the sanctity of marriage; and certainly it is not the same as true love; but the serving of delicious refreshments by Mrs. Trumble and Mrs. Stewart.

It helps relieve built-up frustrations.

Doris, all the talking in the world sometimes doesn't help. I even tried to convince my wife into both of us getting professional advice (I'm not averse to advice, as it could be my fault also), but s h e thought I was a nut. I would give anything possible to have my wife enjoy sex two or three times a week.

I know from the present day talk I'm not alone in having a disinterested sex partner, but otherwise wonderful wife; nor am I alone in having a sex partner out of marriage. — Another Betrayer

Dear Another: Right. On all counts.

You can talk till you're blue in the face and get nowhere, if his listener's receiving set has been shut off by stern enough, guilt-laden enough, conditioning earlier on.

Today we know about psychological backlashes like we never did before. And we are caught in a dilemma. We hold out for married fidelity, whether or not this means frustration; and we struggle with the education of negative, prim, prejudiced but truly virtuous marriage mates. They know not what they do.

If there's half a chance your legal and beloved mate cares enough about your side of it to read a book, I'll recommend some. Show her this column.

WEDDING

POST — BOYLE

A recent wedding took place in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, when Jacqueline Florence Boyle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs John Raymond Boyle of Belleville was united in marriage to Carl Norman Post, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Post of Brighton. Rt. Rev. J. P. Sullivan officiated at the ceremony and wedding music was rendered by Miss Dorothy Grant who also accompanied the soloist Robert Burke.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace over corded satin with the bodice accented at waist with a band of faille with the neckline and hemline enhanced with scalloped lace. The gown was further highlighted with lily-point sleeves and detachable train outlined with appliqued lace. A shoulder-length veil of nylon illusion, edged from a floral headdress adorned with rhinestones. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and ivy.

Maid of honor Miss Bonnie Brenton was attired in Capri blue Empire styled gown of silk chiffon over nylon taffeta with floral headdress and matching veil. Bridesmaids Miss Judy Henn, Miss Sharon Vieau and Mrs. Nancy Donoghue were similarly dressed to the maid of honor and all carried nosegays of blue and white mums. Miss Joan Gould and Miss Jo-Anne Cooper were also attendants wearing similar gowns but in buttercup yellow with matching accessories. Both carried nosegays of yellow and white 'mums.

Gerald Post attended his brother, while ushers were Art Post, brother of the bridegroom, Jack Boyle, brother of the bride, Jim Wright, Jim Ogden and David Hodgson, nephew of the bridegroom.

A reception was held at the A.N. and A.F. Hall, where the bride's mother received the guests wearing a buttercup yellow cotton lace coat and dress ensemble with white accessories and a corsage of Orange Delight roses. Assisting the bride's mother were a royal blue crepe dress with matching lace coat, white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Leaving on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the bride chose a two-piece mint green cotton lace with a corsage of yellow roses.

The couple will reside at 234 Dundas St. W. Trenton.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

A Recipe Problem Solved

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I am one of your many faithful readers. I have often wondered at the way you solve many recipe problems. You seem to be up with each case, yet I am sure that you must spend much time and effort to find the answer. Please tell me what is given to you. I have a puzzle which I hope you will be able to reconstruct for me. I would call it a pineapple slice. Here are, I think, ingredients for the layer — very much like your Charmin' Cherry Bars of June 22, 1968. Filling — a cooked sweet custard-like pineapple filling with sliced maraschino cherries folded into the custard. Topping — beaten egg whites and moist flaked coconut. I enjoy this special column of yours very much. I have tried many of the recipes they have given. Please, for the benefit of all the other readers print the recipe in this issue. It is too nice to keep it just for myself. I am looking forward to hearing from you and I thank you for the detective job you are going to do for me. — Elise H.

ANSWER: If all were as simple as yours, Elise, I could do my "detective work" with ease. I am grateful for your expression of appreciation.

PINEAPPLE SLICE

Base: 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
¼ cup icing sugar
½ cup hard butter

FILLING:
1 cup scalded milk
2-3 cup sugar
1-3 cup flour
¼ tsp. salt
2 eggs
1 cup crushed pineapple (not drained)

TOPPING:
2 egg whites
¼ cup sugar
½ cup flaked coconut (not shredded)

Make base by cutting butter into flour and icing sugar until size of peas. Press evenly into 9 x 9" pan and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 10 or 12 minutes. Remove from oven.

Make filling by scalding milk first. In heavy saucepan mix together sugar, flour and salt. When mixed stir in eggs and crushed pineapple. Pour in hot milk stirring and cook, stirring until it boils for 1 min. Remove from heat and cool. If desired add ¼ cup sliced candied or drained maraschino cherries, chopped evenly over baked base.

Cover with topping made by beating whites until fairly stiff then gradually adding sugar as you beat until stiff. Remove coconut and fold in coconut. Drop by spoonfuls over custard layer and deftly spread over. Bake meringue topping 8" below preheated broiler burner until pale gold. Cool. Slice and garnish knife dipped into boiling water, cut into bars.

Let me know whenever I may help again.

THE GREAT LOVER

"These I have loved . . ."—Rupert Brookes

• • •

"I have a granddaughter who has a talent to enjoy. I know no one nicer to be with," declared a Bellevue grandmother over the phone. "She came to see me. She had just come from the neighbors' golfing over the sight of their kitchen table laden with four golden meringue lemon pies, a chocolate cake, and butter tarts—all just freshly baked, ready for a local picnic. I could almost smell the fragrant baking odor of the kitchen, so vivid was her description, her excitement.

"She then handed me a small bouquet of white, waxen flowers from her garden, which she had picked, exclaiming over their delicate beauty, which was a pleasure for me to share. As she put them in a vase of water she described a two-year-old child and how cute he was the way he took charge of his tiny tricycle, whom she had seen on her way over.

"I got to thinking about this enjoyment of everyday pleasures, so often taken for granted." the grandmother said, "upon hearing, later over TV, a middle-aged m a g addict who with the help of a dedicated agency, freed herself from its slavery, and a third year over her triumph, with joy myself, for as Homer once wrote, (in poetic form) — a slave is only half a man. And I recall reading recently an experience of a paratrooper-of-war who found that his fellow prisoners, treated as slaves, had lost the ability to find pleasure in little daily pleasures a free life (however dull) might offer. A ch a magazine, a tasty dish, etc. Little things that afford external excitement, new and surprising emotions. Joylessness was a characteristic of t h e present. And h is truly said, it is impossible to have human life without joy.

"And of course, this made me think of that one great person of vitality of life termed that "box of compacted sweets" — Rupert Brooke, who named myriad things how ever curious though potent, but always common, that he "loved" — he, the G r e a t Lover. And of what? Why, of "white plates and cups . . . ringed with blue lines," lamplit wet roofs, furs, c l o u d s, sound of running water from a tap or spring, laughter, singing, sound of a t r a i n, sleep, oaks, glassy horse-chestnuts, firm sand and 'the little dulling edge of foam that browns and dwindles as the wave goes home."

"All these," he wrote in 1914, a year before he died during World War I, "have been my loves . . . ," and entitled his poem, "The Great Lover" in his poem — The Great Lover.

"Indeed, to enjoy is a privilege, a privileged gift," concluded the grandmother, as we said good-bye, and hung up.

Too Bad Gals-Still No Paper Girls

DEAR READERS — Recently a 14-year-old girl asked, "Why can't girls be paper boys?" She pointed out that girls were every bit as reliable as boys, and that many girls help their brothers by carrying their papers when brother is ill. I received many answers and learned, to my surprise, that in some areas girls are permitted to be paper "boys."

ANN LANDERS

But in most places they're not, and since rural hair is privileges, I am printing the letter from the president of the International Circulation Managers Association, Mr. Leon S. Reed of Little Rock, Arkansas.

DEAR ANN — You asked why can't girls be carrier boys? As president of a 70-year-old organization which represents over a million carrier salesman, I would like to respond to your question.

There are many reasons, and I will cite a few:

Today's newspapers are big. Sundays' average is 1½ pounds. It takes a strong boy to carry 100 papers! And how many boys of a 14-year-old girl carrier has had we'd get plenty of phone calls.

Many carrier salesmen must be on the drop corner at 4.45 a.m. They often get as late as 8.00 p.m. making collections. Many of the larger cities are not safe for a young girl at those hours.

There are also legal restriction in some areas on girls doing such work.

With the ever-increasing circulation of newspapers, we need all the carrier salesmen we can get. But because circulation people are still concerned about youth we feel that using girl carriers is not in the best interests of the girls, especially in the larger cities. — LEON S. REED.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Jordie and I have been married for two years. We are expecting our first child. We want to name the child Jordie, Junior, but we have a problem.

As girl Jordie said to date gave birth to an out-of-wedlock child three years ago. She named the boy Jordie and told everyone my husband is the father. This girl is a notorious liar and has a poor reputation.

Are there any tests that can prove the child is not Jordie's? Please help us. — MRS. P. G.

DEAR MRS. — There are blood tests that can prove a man did not father the child whose paternity is in question. There are no tests, however, that can prove he did father the child.

Suggest to Jordie that he see a doctor who can explain this better than I did.

YOUR ANTIQUES

by Jack Jamieson

Cut Glass Was in Every Girl's Trousseau Years Ago

Ninety years ago cut glass was the size gun of every bride's trousseau. Every self-respecting young lady had to have at least a few pieces. If cut glass was beyond her means pressed glass was available in imitation of cut glass although it was looked down upon as a cheap substitute. Cut lead crystal was expensive in the 1870's and remains relatively expensive today.

Cut glass was developed to a high art in England by the end of the 18th century. A prohibitive tax was imposed and to evade the tax, glass works were set up in Waterford, Ireland. The cut glass produced was of high quality and Waterford crystal remains a standard for design, quality and brilliance. Small items of Waterford would be among the prized possessions brought to Canada by immigrants. The Waterford firm ceased production in 1851, although other Irish firms continued. Irish crystal pieces may be marked Penrose, Waterford; Cork Cut Glass Co.; Waterloo Co. Cork, or Edwards Belfast.

The greatest volume and largest selection of patterns in cut glass was made in the Brilliant Period, 1870 to 1910. "Brilliant" refers to the complexity of the pattern and the brilliance of the light reflected by the many-faceted deep cuts that characterize this period. All of the cutting was done by a hand operation and cut and engraved glass houses proliferated in England, the United States and in a limited way in Canada. Many firms bought blank forms and added their own patterns so that a limited number of shapes will appear in a countless variation of patterns.

A number of Canadian firms dealt in cut glass. Clapperton and Son, Toronto, (also known as Gundy Clapperton) manufactured glass from blanks supplied by Baccarat, a very famous glass firm in France. For a time the firm was a Quinte-Clapperton Amalgamated, but this plant was destroyed by fire in 1931. Some pieces are marked with a three-leaf clover enclosing the letters G. C and Co. on separate leaves.

Another Toronto firm, Gowans, Kent and Co., whose stamp is to be found on much Canadian-sold Limoges), also cut fine cut glass. Their trademark was a circle containing a maple leaf with the name Elite embossed upon it. "Elite" is also a pattern name used by the Blackmer Cut Glass Co., of Cleveland, Kent and Co. used it. At about the same time as the Canadian firm, between 1905 and 1915, G. G. Hawkes and Co. of Corning, New York produced an Elite pattern.

Arthur L. Blackmer was established in New Bedford, Massachusetts, after working in the Mount Washington Glass Co. He worked at his own salesman over most of the United States (and presumably Canada). He imported most of his workers from England and the majority of his patterns reflect an English tradition. His work can only be identified by pattern. About 75 known patterns exist.

During the Brilliant Period cut glass tumblers cost about $30 a dozen, a relatively price. In good condition they are worth about twice that much now. Marked pieces are more valuable, those in Hawkes Gravic trademark are worth five times the original price, making a dozen glasses worth $300. Unique signed pieces fetch astronomical prices.

Local Kickers One Out

The Belleville Juniors, one of three local entries in the Bay of Quinte Soccer League, trail one game behind the first place-leading Trenton Travellers with a game in hand in the official league standings issued this week.

The standings include games played through the week of August 5.

The Trenton Travellers head the league with six wins, one loss and a draw for their nine-game stretch with the Belleville Juniors in second at five wins, a loss, and two ties in eight matches.

Trenton's CFB team is third with four wins, three defeats, and two draws while the other Belleville entry in the league, Parsons Penguins, is fourth with a three-win, four-loss, one-tie record for eight.

The Bata-Braves are fifth at 3-2-2 in their seven tilts and a third Trenton entry, the Trenton Juniors, have won one, lost six and tied one in their eight outings.

The third Belleville entry in the league, Belleville United, is tied with the Trenton Juniors for sixth in the seven-team loop with a game in hand. They boast a 1-6-0 mark for seven outings.

Star Sticker Throws Hull to Pitch for Kids

It's that time again. Hully's "pitching" for the children of the area.

The Chicago Black Hawks star will try his softball hurling for the Belleville and District Umpires' Association nine against the Belleville and District League All-Stars in a doubleheader Saturday, Sept. 4, at 6.30 p.m. on the Alemite diamond.

The first game of the evening will feature the Shriner Softball Team against a crew composed of members of the Knights of Columbus and the Alhambra.

Bobby Hull will start the second game featuing the two Belleville and District teams. The All-Star team is composed of four players each from the Commercial League, the Departmental League, the Women's Softball League and the Thurlow - Sidney loop.

The proceeds of the double-header will go to the Shriners' fund for crippled children and the Alhambra Knights of Columbus fund for mentally retarded children.

Minor Softball

Bikes and Drivers on Hand, But Track Officials Ruled Too Much Slip and Slide

Expert driver Dave Sehl, centre, who was to challenge Yvon Duhamel for the Ontario Dirt-Track Championship in the 1968 edition of the event Friday night at the Fairgrounds, takes off on his newly rebuilt bike to test the track. Race officials sent several experts out on the rain-soaked track to try the course. They were the only bikes to travel the oval as the officials called off the race due to dangerous sliding conditions. When the announcement came, senior driver Gilles Meunier of Granby, Que., groaned and quietly begun unlacing his "iron boot" while a female fan glared at the officials and her driver friend slumped to a "tire-ed" seat, his spirits thoroughly dampened. The race has been tentatively re-scheduled for Aug. 30 at the fairgrounds.

Grand Champion Holstein

Allan McComb, Sidney township cattle breeder, leads away the Holstein cow which last night won for him the grand championship at the Belleville Fair Black and White Day show. Twelve area Holstein breeders entered 72 cattle in the show.

Last Day

Rain Slows Fair Activities But Back in High Gear Today

Despite the fact that some visitors to the Belleville Fair 1968 are complaining that it is "the same old thing" attendance shows that some people are enjoying themselves.

Officials of the Fair Board stated this morning that attendance figures for this year are up an estimated 2,000 over last year's statistics.

President of the Fair Board, Cameron Bunnett, stated before this year's edition opened that the weather would decide the fate of the fair.

Weather generally, save for yesterday's heavy rainfall, has been ideal.

The downpour yesterday morning and afternoon forced the postponement of various horse competitions and they will be run-off today.

The Ontario Championship motorcycle races fell victim to a soggy track at the fairgrounds and forced postponement until Aug. 30 when they will be held here.

But attendance for yesterday didn't drop very much considering the dampness that prevailed. Yesterday's figure was 7,529 people compared to the 1967 total of 7,689 visitors.

"Yesterday should have been the best day for us," Mr. Bunnett stated this morning. "Today could be the best day though."

Mr. Bunnett expects the Black Diamond Cheese Stakes, an usual harness-racing event, to draw a large crowd to the fairgrounds tonight.

The weather is predicted to be favorable for today's activities.

This morning area farmers brought in their teams of horses for the horse competitions, some postponed from yesterday, others scheduled originally for today.

Horse events scheduled for today include — from yesterday — tandem pair hackney ponies; single roadster 15-2 and under; Shetland pony teams 14 hands and under; Hackney pony teams; single Hackney horses 15-2 and under; single Hackney pony 13-1 and under; and roadster teams 15-2 and under.

More horse events are expected all afternoon, those that were planned for today originally. A highlight could be the horse - drawing competition which has six entrants.

Elsewhere at the fair, the exhibits will still be open although many activities have already come to a close.

The midway will still be operating although some of it is starting to break up. The main portion of it will remain for the crowds tonight.

The weather is not expected to be a problem today with warm, sunny skies predicted.

Mr. Bunnett explained this morning that the track was already drying up at a quick pace. The Black Diamond Cheese Stakes would have a good track for tonight.

Almost all of the cattle, swine, poultry and other agricultural projects have been judged but some of the exhibitors will be keeping their entries on display for the benefit of the public.

The young people will have the opportunity to dance to two local groups in the coliseum at 9 p.m. tonight. The Sands of Time and the Apple Corps will be on hand to supply three hours of music.

It appears that the fair will leave Belleville for another year with a bang and not a whimper as the gates close slowly tonight at midnight.

A half-inch downpour flooded out the bingo game on the midway yesterday and sent attendants scurrying for brooms.

Sr. Hockey Checks Image

By MAURICE SWITZER
(Sports Editor)
(Last of a Series)

TORONTO — Kingston Area coach Danny McLeod wasn't pulling any punches during this week's inaugural 1968-69 meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association's Senior "A" grouping.

"It's about time players and management . . . and sponsors started to realize that senior hockey in this day and age is more a form of local entertainment than anything," the hockey-wise Kingston pilot said during an informal "bull-session" with fellow senior club organizers.

Another team spokesman, with a long OHA affiliation to his credit, said the day of Senior "A" city fans expecting earth-shaking results were gone, probably forever.

"We don't play for world championships anymore," he wryly observed.

Coach McLeod added: "Our clubs can play an important role, in developing our young, 'homebrew' talent. But even in that regard, when a professional organization comes along with a fat offer for a young player, we can't hold him locally.

"We can't expect to compete financially, and besides, we wouldn't want to stand in his way."

With this type of self-analysis keeping them in touch with reality, senior hockey backers have become very conscious of adopting approaches that make the best of what they have.

Take a matter like officiating. How to assure competent refereeing of senior games, and at the same time avoid the not-infrequent fan complaints of partisanship and poor game control?

To take officials off the spot with hometown fans, and prevent them from suffering what one OHA official termed "over-exposure" in their native rinks, this year's Senior "A" loop will employ a referee pool.

For a $300 fee from each entry, the league will get the services of some of the most qualified officials from the Toronto area to keep senior hockey on its best behavior.

A spokesman added: "Some of them are pretty good drawing-cards in their own right!"

Another area of public image concern for the Senior "A" boosters focuses on regular-schedule tie games: should they stand, should there be an overtime period played, or should a no-decision be invoked?

One Senior governor said the fans consider a draw "a nothing game," while a fellow representative claimed a team gaining a tie on the road should deserve to return home with at least one point if they earn it in 60 minutes.

At this juncture, the hammering-out of a senior hockey crowd-pleasing image hit a snag — a vote by team representatives on the tie-game quandry resulted in a 4-4 split.

It Seems Like A Foul Blow, But--

IT'S NOT WHAT IT LOOKS LIKE at all. It's Bubba Daniels of the Bermuda Nationals and Barry Ellenby of Calgary playing for the Western Canadian Selects, making a play for a header (that's a soccerism for hitting the ball with one's head) during an exhibition game in Winnipeg Wednesday. Ellenby won but the Selects didn't. Bermuda won the game 3-1. (CP Wirephoto).

Stamps Expect Bomber Trouble

WINNIPEG (CP) — Jerry Williams hopes he has all the angles covered for his Calgary Stampeders in Sunday's Western Football Conference game with Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Williams says he is prepared for trouble, but also has plans in the event his Stamps run away with the game.

"We always expect trouble," he says, noting Winnipeg's 43-4 whipping at Stampeder hands last week.

"If we were humiliated in an opposing city, how would you react?

"You never know; this game may be different."

If it isn't, Williams wants Calgary to try more running plays. However, either way he has confidence in quarterback Peter Liske's passing and the abilities of numerous receivers.

For the winless Bombers, coach Joe Zaleski has been plagued by pre-game troubles, including weather.

A day-long rain turned the Bomber practice field, adjacent to a slaughter house and stock yards, into a mire. The team was kept inside for classroom work.

Zaleski, trying to mold a rookie-studded lineup, has lost three veterans to injuries—guard Sherwyn Thorson, defensive halfback Ernie Pitts, and tackle Roger Hamelin, who is out for the season.

However Pitts, who tore a rib cartilage two weeks ago, is a possibility Sunday.

Calgary is healthy except for fullback Ted Woods, who likely won't see action. Williams says he is saving him for Toronto Argonauts Wednesday. Winnipeg has spent most of the week sharpening defence. The squad has given up 88 points so far this season while scoring only 32.

But Calgary is prepared should the Bombers manage to fill a gaping hole Liske and receivers utilized in their last contest.

If Stampeder outside receivers are covered, Liske may choose Herm Harrison, top receiver in the last game. Other possibilities are Dave Cranmer or Terry Evansben, who was too well covered last game to get into much of the action.

On the offensive side, Winnipeg has had little success so far this season in freeing Dave Ramsey for a downfield romp, but the line is showing signs of pulling together for quarterback John Schneider.

Zaleski says Schneider may do some passing from the short punt formation as in his last meeting with Calgary.

KNUDSON'S WORLD OF GOLF

QUEBEC CITY — When people asked me what I thought of going into the CPGA championship here this week, I said I expected it to be a more competitive tournament than ever before.

I expected more legitimate contenders than in other years because of the Canadian tour.

Prize money increased on the Canadian tour this summer and my prediction is that it will become even bigger. I hope that one day it will become part of a minor tour that is a stepping stone to the big U.S. tour.

They have started satellite tournaments in the U.S. to give the overflow golfers a chance to play. Now, if we can get some of these American players on our Canadian tour, perhaps we would be part of it.

There is a lot to be learned from playing with better players, so I'm sure our Canadian wouldn't mind. And, with better fields, bigger galleries and more press coverage, it could become an important annual series of events.

Playing top competitive golf week after week could be a lot for golfers such as Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver and Ken Fulton, the former Winnipegger who now plays out of Trail, B.C. I use them as examples of good Canadian golfers who, finally, are getting a chance to play.

And it should help my good friend Alvie Thompson from Toronto. He spent the winter on the U.S. tour and rarely had a chance to play. This summer he played regularly. Now, if he hobbies up with competitive solid here, it could carry over when he returns to the U.S.

Most golfers make the mistake of waiting until the winter tour in January to ice their hand in the big time. Why sit around for two months in the snow?

The Canadian pro should make his move in the fall. Immediately after the Canadian tour ends and while his game is at its best.

He has little chance, after sitting around for two months, trying to tee it up against the best in the world.

And that's what I'll tell any young pro who asks me about it here this week.

"Out for A Walk"

Knudson Tops PGA Mark

QUEBEC (CP) — Whistling George Knudson, "just out for a walk", strolled into the second-round lead of the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association championship Friday with a record-breaking 64 at the Royal Quebec Golf Club.

Knudson's eight-under-par stroll, combined with his four-under 68 opening day, took him to a one-stroke lead over Victoria's Dick Munn, who shot 66 Friday to go with his first-round leading 67.

Knudson sank eight birdies as he broke the record 65 established 30 years ago on the par-72, 6,650-yard course.

Knudson, 31, whose earnings this season on the United States golf circuit are close to $70,000, whistled favorite tunes between par-breaking shots and later played down his record-breaking score.

"Sixty-four? I've had scads of them".

He also shrugged off the rating of the par-35, par-37 course.

"Quite honestly I think that back nine is a very good par 34. I probably would also rate the front nine at 34. I don't think one is harder than the other."

Asked what he thought of the gallery, silent with awe as he played, the Toronto star said:

"What do I know? I was just out for a walk. I didn't see anybody."

One hundred and nine of 180 starters survived the 155 cutoff. Cloudiness and showers are forecast for today 8:45 a.m. EDT tee-off.

Golfers closest to Knudson's two-round 132, 12 under par, and Munn's 133, were setback pros Gerry Proulx of St. Eustache, Que., and Alvie Thompson of Willowdale, Ont., tied for third at 137.

The 53-year-old Proulx finished Friday's round with a 68. Thompson, who won the CPGA 18th.

Records Fall in Nova Scotia

Eastern Juniors Set Marks

HALIFAX (CP) — Elizabeth Damman of the Kitchener-Waterloo, Ont., track club set a Canadian open and native record in the midget women's 80-metre hurdles—one of three events she won at the eastern Canadian junior track and field championships Friday.

Miss Damman, 15, won the hurdles in 11.6, one-tenth second faster than the record set in 1963 by C. Chapman of Toronto. She also won the midget women's 100 yards in 11.5 and the midget women's high jump with 5-1, three inches higher than the Nova Scotia open record set in 1961.

Cris Sovers of Toronto won the juvenile men's 120 yard hurdles in 14.9, cutting one-tenth second from the Canadian open and native record set in 1967 by R. Ross of Okanagan, B.C.

The day marks sponsored by the Nova Scotia Track and Field Association and sanctioned by the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, continues today.

Track officials had a busy day as the 320 competitors set 24 Nova Scotia open and six Nova Scotia native records.

Mike Vateur of St. Louis-de-Kent, N.B., and Larry Dixon of Peterborough, Ont., finished the junior men's 100 yards in 9.9, one-tenth of a second faster than the provincial open record. Vateur placed first.

In the midget men's one mile, Jerry Bouma of Owen Sound, Ont., won in 4:36.6. The provincial open record had been 4:48.

The three women's one-mile events were new in Nova Scotia and the results count as provincial open records.

Maureen Wilson of Toronto won the midget division in 5:26.2, Carroll Hadrall of Toronto took the junior in 5:29.9 and Anne Todd of Toronto won the juvenile in 5:36.

Three-tenths of a second was cut from the provincial open mark in the junior women's 100 yards when Pat Miller of Toronto won it in 11.5.

In the women's 440 yards, Joan Fisher of Ottawa, a member of Canada's Olympic team, won the junior event in 57.8, well ahead of a provincial open record of 64.5 set in 1967. Leslie Burley of Toronto won the midget class in 59.2, taking 11.2 off the provincial open mark and Penny Werthner of Ottawa won the junior in 58.6. The record had been 63.6.

Efim Melandenoff of Toronto won the midget men's 110 yard hurdles in 14.3. It was a new event and the time will be declared as a provincial open record.

Revolt in the Ranks

PGA Execs Run Tour

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — The split between the Professional Golfers' Association and the touring pros apparently is final.

The executive committee of the PGA, at a special meeting Friday, abolished the PGA tournament committee and said it has assumed complete control of the tour "for all time".

Gardner Dickinson, Jack Nicklaus, Frank Beard and Doug Ford were player members of the tournament committee. They are among the rebel players who have set up a rival organization to conduct a tour of their own, starting next year.

There was no immediate comment from Dickinson of Nicklaus at Harrison, N.Y., where they are competing in the $250,000 Westchester Golf Classic. There was none, either, from Sam Gates, counsel for the rival organization, tentatively called the International Professional Golfers' Association.

Max Elbin, PGA president, said the tournament committee was abolished because of the players' rejection of any chance of compromise.

Elbin said the players had demanded "full rod complete authority over the tour" and refused to submit the question of arbitration.

Joe Black of Dallas, Tex., will take over as tournament manager, Elbin said, "no later than the start of the Thunderbird Classic, Aug. 29 in Clifton, N.J."

"Personally, I Liked It"

But whether expert rider Dave Sehl, (left) liked the condition of the Fairground track Friday night or not, the track referee, Larry Bastidio, still had the final word and it was "No." So Dave and his youngest brother, junior rider Doug, packed up their bikes as did more than 50 of their fellow drivers — and went home to wait until Friday night, Aug. 30, the rescheduled date for last night's rained-out Ontario Dirt-track Championships.

Carmel Doubles Win

Doubles were the order of the day as three Carmel - Thurlow Peewee "C" batters collected two - baggers to pace their team to its second win in the best of five EOBA Peewee Championship playoffs against Frankford Tuesday.

John Masterson, Dale Tunnicliffe, and Bruce McDonell collected doubles (with Masterson adding a single) in the 8-2 Thursday night victory over Frankford.

Paul McDonell pitched the win while Frankford's Richie Connelly was tagged with the loss. The Frankford nine have won one and lost two in the first three tilts of the series.

Connelly, Paul Bedard, Bruce Hoyle and John Bastido were the top batters for the losers.

OUT OF THE SHADOW — Pete Ohler of British Columbia Lions is the starting quarterback for the team this year, after spending five years in the shadow of imported quarterbacks. Ohler, a 27-year-old native of Vancouver, spends his off-field time writing poetry and collecting rare Canadian oil paintings. (CP Photo).

Rare Native

Canadian Ohler Steps Out of Import Shadow

VANCOUVER (CP) — "Made in Canada."

Can a quarterback carry this label and still be successful in pro football?

Pete Ohler of British Columbia Lions is getting a chance to provide an answer this season after spending five years in the shadow of imported signal callers.

A husky 220-pounder who spends his off-field hours searching for rare Canadian oil paintings and writing blank verse, Ohler hopes to emulate Russ Jackson of Ottawa Rough Riders whose brilliant field generalship and ability have long since answered the question with a resounding "yes".

Lions' head coach Jim Champion this season awarded Ohler, a 27-year-old native of Vancouver, the starting job at quarterback. He got the nod over imports Paul Brothers and Hank Schichtle. It had been a long time coming, and there are some who still are willing to bet "Ohler won't have the job when the season ends."

When he first came to the Lions, after two years as No. 1 quarterback at Washington State, Ohler stood in the tall shadow of Joe Kapp. Lions first-string signal caller and one of the best in the Canadian Football League.

He quickly became little more than the finger that held the ball for placement kickers.

"Aside from that, the only action I ever got was falling off the end of the bench," he recalled.

But in his second season with the Lions he got to hold the ball for a field goal try by Peter Kempf in the 1964 Grey Cup game. He fumbled the snap, grabbed the bobbling ball and threw it to Jim Capshin for a touchdown that helped Lions whip Hamilton Tiger-Cats 34-24.

The next season he tried for a pay raise, reasoning that being dressed and on the bench was surely worth the same salary as import backup quarterback Mel Melin who was making twice as much as Ohler while sitting in the stands.

Lions didn't agree. This provoked him to open his first art gallery and book store, in suburban Richmond. Lions attempted to send him to Winnipeg in a player - equalization deal, but he wouldn't report, and stuck to his paintings.

In the 1965 season he went to Victoria as player-coach for the Steelers of the Continental League. When 1967 rolled around, Kapp had played out his option and moved to Minnesota. Ohler was summoned back and thought he would get a real shot at starting quarterback, but Bernie Faloney, acquired from Montreal, was No. 1.

This season Faloney has retired. Ohler is the starting quarterback and Brothers the alternate.

"I feel I can do it now," Ohler says. "Jim Champion has given me confidence. You need that.

"Then there's Jackie Parker. We never had a former quarterback on the coaching staff before. I learned more about playing quarterback in my first half-hour with him than I'd been shown since I came to the club five years ago."

But just in case things don't work out, he still has his art studio—not the original one in Burnaby, but a more sophisticated shop on a fashionable section of Vancouver.

He specializes in work by Canadian artists, and feels Canadian works should be given more attention by art lovers and buyers.

Canadian is one of his favorite words, when he talks art. He hopes it continues to be one of the favorites of Jim Champion when the head coach talks quarterbacks.

Combines in Third

Departmental Playoffs Set

The CNR Combines sewed-up third place in the Departmental Softball League Thursday night with an 11-10 win over the Post Office.

The loss moves the Mailmen to fourth, the cut-off line in the league playoffs for the Mel Barriage Trophy.

The fourth-place team will meet the second-place Fire Department for the best three-of-five in the Series B Playdowns while the Intelligencer crew, league champs, will meet the third-ranked Combines for the best of five in Series A.

The playoffs start Monday with the Series A teams meeting at CNR diamond and the Series B nines going at it on the Prince Charles diamond.

Both games start at 6.30 p.m.

In the Thursday night Combine win, Brooks and Bellis combined for the win, allowing the Mailmen ten runs on 11 hits and three Combine errors.

Wayne Johnson went the distance for the Post Office, silencing 11 runs on 13 hits and five Post Office bobbles.

The winners were led on the offence by McMurter with three safeties while Bellis and Day had two hits each. Six other members of the Combines hit safely.

Soup Campbell led the Mailmen with three hits while St. Louis, Sinfield, and Bohan had two safeties each. Tebworth and Reid collected a hit apiece.

Final Series Qpener

Planes Draws First Blood

Bernie Coughlin and Garn Adams got Planes of Canniffon off to a winning start in the South Hastings Ladies' League finals Thursday night as they pitched Canniffon nine to a 6-2 victory over Reid.

The two pitchers won the first of the best of seven after allowing 10 hits and two walks for two runs and striking out 11. Frank Farrell who went all the way for Reid lost the tilt by allowing six runs on 11 hits and two walks and four Read errors, five earned.

Coughlin contributed a homer to his own win. Larry Adams collected three singles for Planes while Bob Moon had two singles, Don Forsythe had a double, Bob Luffman hit a two-bagger, and Ron Irvin, Court Bralley, and Pat O'Connor had singles.

Carm Reid led the losers at the plate with three singles and a double, Gerry Brennan scored a double, Joe Enright had two singles, and Hanley, Leo Enright, and Harold Pascoe rounded out the six Read hits with singles.

Read gets a rematch Sunday as they play host to Canniffon for the second game of the finals.

To Your Good Health

No Need to Fear Sabin Oral Vaccine

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: Should a child receive a booster of the Sabin oral live polio vaccine when starting school? She had three doses a month apart, when she was a baby. The doctor told us when she moved here that boosters are given at the age of four years. Since the Salk is a live vaccine, I am worried whether there is any possibility of getting polio from a booster. — Mrs. A. D.

Until fairly recently, it had been hoped that the oral (sugar cube) vaccine would give permanent protection. As time has passed and continued trials have been made, it has become known that the immunity from the original immunization fades gradually.

Therefore the answer to your question is yes, the child should have a booster when she starts school and a repeated booster every five years.

The virus used in the vaccine is a "modified" virus; that is, a deliberately attenuated or weakened virus. It is strong enough to build the body's defences against the disease, but not strong enough to cause the disease. Do not fear the boosters.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: Occasionally I feel an itch, and when I scratch, there is a raised lump. It goes away in a few minutes but leaves a mark. What could this be? — M. L.

Sounds like dermatographia or "skin writing," which is not serious and occurs usually in people with a tendency to allergies. When you scratch, histamine is released in the cells, and a bivelike reaction follows.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband has Paget's disease. We have been told there is no cure but if they do not know the cause. However, we thought there was something new, some treatment or diet.

So far they say nothing can be done, only pain-killer pills, but he refuses to take any strong ones, and suffers much of the time. Mrs. A. D

You were advised correctly; the cause of Paget's disease is not known. It is a chronic, progressive disorder of the bones and it affects twice as many men as women.

About one percent of older men have the disease to some degree.

There is no specific treatment. Large doses of salicylates (aspirin and its derivatives) not only relieve pain but are thought to arrest the course of the disease to some extent. Sodium fluoride also has been used — your physician would have to advise you about that.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: I have had a headache now for three weeks. Every day I take a tablet in the correct amount but am wondering whether that can harm me after a long period could be harmful. Is there anything stronger I could take?

I hate to go to our doctor with a simple complaint—of a headache, but am getting tired of always having one. — Mrs. L. M.

"Simple" headache? Headache is one of the most difficult symptoms to untangle. Books have been written on that one topic, and some hospitals have special clinics devoted exclusively to headache.

The causes of headache are numerous and include infection, injuries, allergy, poisoning, tumors, blood pressure, nervous tension.

All of us are entitled to an occasional headache, and usually one of the aspirin-type tablets, in these simple measures, or one that recurs or grows in intensity, deserves analysis.

I suggest that you go to your doctor. Tell him how long you have had this headache and what remedies you have tried, and he may decide that you do have a real problem.

Politics Is A Game

Negroes in Harlem play a new game devised by comedian Godfrey Cambridge called 50 Easy Steps to the White House. Based on Monopoly, it satirizes the social and political situation in the U.S. Some of the squares in this game are Harlem, Watts, Mississippi and Newark. (AP Photo)

West Berlin Expecting Pressure

man government - expects increased Communist pressure on West Berlin in the next few weeks, informed government sources reported today.

What form it might take is not known, but sources believe it will be designed to retrieve some prestige lost by Moscow and East Berlin through failure to stop Czechoslovak liberalization.

It was thought improbable that the Communists would try to block air access between West Germany and West Berlin, which lies some 110 miles inside East Germany.

Air traffic between both points remains under control of the wartime allies—the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France—which are responsible for Berlin as a whole.

East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht may have obtained permission from Moscow to ply more restrictions on ground access to the city in addition to the visa and taxation measures he introduced in June.

The expected deterioration gives fresh impetus to Bonn's efforts to persuade the Allies to join in a declaration on Berlin's status, spelling out what the West feels is Bonn's stake in the city.

The West Germans argue that their presence in West Berlin politically, economically and culturally is justified by their contribution over the years to the life of the community.

The Communists say West Berlin is a separate political entity, while East Berlin is the East German capital.

The "Bonn group" of Berlin specialists of the three Western Allies and West Germany meeting here this week set up a special subcommittee to explore ways of strengthening the West Berlin economy. This will concentrate on attracting increased Western investment in the city, the sources said.

Mia Farrow Divorces Sinatra

HOLLYWOOD (CP) — Actress Mia Farrow, Frank Sinatra's young bride, Friday obtained a quickie Mexican divorce in Juarez.

Judge Lorenzo Holguin Cisneros granted the divorce to the 23-year-old former star of television's Peyton Place after she claimed she and Sinatra, 52, were incompatible "due to irreconcilable arguments."

"She's really not going to bare her soul" about the reasons for the break-up, a representative for the actress said, "but she said it privately asks, there's certainly no third party involved."

Miss Farrow was in seclusion at her $370,000 Bel Air home. Sinatra flew east Thursday after taping a television show in Hollywood and was unavailable for comment.

The seemingly fragile actress with the close-cropped hair and frightened grey eyes married the then-skinny Sinatra July 19, 1966. Hollywood was abuzz, and some predicted that because of the age difference — a mere—29 years — it could never last.

Their on-again-off-again courtship was quickly turned into an on-again-off-again marriage as their separate careers often kept them apart.

More than a year ago there were reports of an estrangement caused by arguments over whether Miss Farrow should continue her film career or remain in a home and have children.

Sinatra made an unsuccessful attempt earlier this year to bring about a reconciliation.

At the Juarez hearing Miss Farrow read the short, uncontested petition nervously. No property settlement was mentioned but she asked the court to restore her maiden name.

She did not detail the arguments, but her petition declared she and Sinatra agreed to separate Aug. 15, 1967. They had not lived together since last December.

Friends of the pair said the latest sizeable break came as a surprise to them.

Imitation Scotch Destroyed

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — For more than 20 years, 5,247 cases of an imitation scotch whisky have been gathering dust in a St. Paul warehouse for want of a buyer.

With agents of the U.S. customs office looking on, the booze met a sad ending Thursday. The 62,964 bottles were hauled from the warehouse and a bulldozer shattered the bottles.

The liquor, Auld Maleish, was manufactured in Estherby, Ont., during the Second World War when real scotch was scarce in the United States.

A distributor in the southern United States had ordered the 5,247 cases, but went bankrupt while the liquor was being shipped.

Customs agents placed the liquor in bond. Until it was determined who would pay the federal excise tax, it was locked up in the warehouse. Real scotch, meanwhile, flooded the U.S.

Research Team On Lake

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — The federal government has pulled together three of its departments for a joint operation which Sunday will sail into Lake Superior for a 10-day study of alleged pollution.

The research team of 16 scientists—from the department of energy, mines and resources, the department of national health and welfare and the fisheries research board—have completed similar studies on the lower Great Lakes.

The study has set up laboratories aboard the 198-foot seagoing trawler Theron.

Arnold Holer, expedition chief and a retired sea captain and veteran oceanographer, said the Lake Superior cruise next week is just a start.

Asked if any of the Great Lakes are polluted already, Mr. Holler said, "it's too early for Gordon to say." He said his interest in the inland waters was stirred by the "horrible stories of terrible pollution here."

He said the research team will take water samples from all depths in the lake in a grid pattern. Reports and samples later are to be filed to the project centre, the newly-formed Canadian Centre for Inland Waters, in Burlington, Ont., and the health and welfare laboratory in Kingston.

Macauley May Run For Mayor

TORONTO (CP) — Robert Macaulay, 41, former Ontario cabinet minister, said Friday he is considering running for mayor of Toronto next year.

Mr. Macaulay said a sizeable number of persons had urged him to seek the mayoralty and added:

"I have talked with a number of people but I have made no decision. Right now I am a non-candidate."

Mr. Macaulay was minister of commerce and development for Ontario under Premier John Roberts and also held the portfolio of minister of energy resources.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For Aug. 18th, Your birthday today: The coming year brings you unexpected personal triumph over inscrutable individuals. There will probably be several changes of direction, some requiring great ingenuity. Romantic interests must wait while work opportunities are at hand. Social activities are better at affairs large in scope.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Social invitations should be made and accepted today. Your church needs your support. The late evening is good for planning the coming week.

TAURUS (Apr. 20—May 20): Romance lurks around every corner today (for those eligible). The long-married are apt to find some new, fascinating quality in their mates. Compare notes with friends; some of the news is odd.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Just when it seems the day is going just great, events take a queer bounce. Keep your composure while you figure things out. Your home is the best place today.

CANCER (June 21—July 22): Long-range planning comes after your religious considerations. Great care in driving or around the house is essential. Take no chances!

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Your friends may upset you. There is no reason to the situation as it used to be.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): This Sunday should mark a sparkling point in your life, with a turn of event worthy of celebration. Expand a bit for the season and the day!

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): It may be time to write off some venture. If there are people seeking to acquire what you have, ask what the value may be to them. Be skeptical.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Luck and romantic interests dominate your Sunday. You are for surprises. Gather with family and friends this evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. — Dec. 21): Luck and romantic interests dominate your Sunday. You are for surprises. Gather with family and friends this evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): There may come today some invitation to relocate to a distant area. Take a long look at whatever is offered. You can learn a great deal. You might even move.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Your community is the better if you will join in at church this Sunday. Look up old friends and neighbors, get acquainted with new ones, and compare ideas.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): There is something in your life to commemorate today. Take a look at your future probabilities. Think what you would like to come to pass, and work toward these goals.

FOR August 19

Your birthday today: Your path tends to be normal, untouched by crisis. Your earnings will probably increase faster than usual. Sentimental attachments tend to be scattered, with no focus. Today's natives: They are good talkers.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): There are continuing, perhaps awards or raises for your work. Take such commentary in stride and with the same air a minor criticism. There's more to the story later.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — MAy 20) There is apt to be some announcement of personal significance to you today. Everyone's in a fraternizing mood. Enjoy your share.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Make your peace with reality today. Apologize (if you need to) to friends, family, pals in relationships. Your home is a brighter place now.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Your neighborhood is full of social activity. Your enthusiasm can bring forth the spirit in others. Pick time in the afternoon for a moment of solitude.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): This is a good day for settlements of accounts. Ventures begun today promise to prosper.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): The feeling is that some happy experience is coming into your life. Help open the doors! Accept a gift simply, put it to good use.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Your vision is clearer today. Make revisions in your plans. There is a solid support from old friends for your schemes.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 — Nov. 21): Watch this day for a unique opportunity — through intervention of some important friend. Concentrate on the main ideas today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): The enthusiasm of the weekend subsides over into the workweek. Keep high morale, and watch the results! Find time for a relaxing or serious reading.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Today is great for relocation or at least planning moves or expansion. Distant goals seem attainable today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Your work receives favorable notice. Keep up the pace, ask for a raise or better working conditions. Expansion ends from the weekend await your attention this evening.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): It is time to settle down, even though you probably feel happy-go-lucky today. Give yourself a break so you can keep your morale high for the near future.

Employment News

By: J. R. STAYELEY
Manpower Consultant

A significant trend during the past week in the local labor market was the initial increased recruitment activity for summer holiday period, for additional male workers from the Industrial field. The female employment opportunities were confined to the Service businesses.

With the local grain crops now being harvested with only limited additional labor required due to modern equipment, the next substantial seasonal requirement will be to harvest the tomato and apple crops. It is anticipated that the local canning firms will commence the processing of this year's tomato crop by the week of August 26. Local farmers who have not listed their labor requirements for tomato pickers are invited to contact this office as soon as possible.

A representative of the International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd., will be at the Canada Manpower Centre on August 22 to interview prospective mine workers, either as underground miners or above ground surface workers. Previous mining experience is not a requirement. Anyone interested in this type of regular work, which is located in Sudbury, Ontario can obtain further information from this Office.

The following employment opportunities are now available at this Office.

In the female division there is a requirement throughout the Quinte area for experienced waitresses, kitchen help and short order cooks. A number of these positions call for evening and night shift work. The job vacancies being located in Napanee, Trenton as well as Belleville. Anyone interested in these positions can obtain further information from the respective Canada Manpower Centres. In addition, the Canada Manpower Centre of Trenton has a requirement for factory workers who would be willing to work on an evening and night shift basis. Locally, a limited number of sales clerks are required by Retail businesses for either part - time or full - time work. Still in demand are capable housekeepers who are bonded - in. Other vacant positions call for an experienced seamstress for women's clothing alterations, a qualified secretary, collection clerk and clerk typist.

In the male division locally, as yet unfilled is the position calling for a Chemical Engineer who possesses one to three years of industrial processing experience. Another attractive vacancy exists for a Civil Engineer who has a background of industrial and institutional construction experience. An industrial plant has a Class 11 Stationary Engineer, in a neighbouring town, a Class 1V Stationary Engineer is required by a plywood manufacturer firm. Out of area demands cover an urgent requirement for a dentist and an electrical recruiter. A local industrial plant is seeking an accountant who possesses either an R.I.A. or C.G.A. Certificate together with at least two years of accounting experience at this level. There is an interesting vacancy for a young man interested in the legal field; the requirements call for at least a Grade 13 level of education.

If you are interested in any of these positions, seeking other employment or thinking of re-entering the labor market, you are invited to contact the Canada Manpower Centre at 326 Church Street, Belleville or telephone 962-8681.

UN Reprimands Israel for Aug. 4 Air Attacks Against Jordan

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The UN Security Council condemned Israel Friday for Aug. 4 air attacks in Jordan which the Israelis said were aimed against Arab terrorist bases set up with Jordanian permission. The council warned against a repetition of such attacks.

Jordanian officials said the raids killed 34 persons and injured 82.

Arab nations wanted the 15-nation council to threaten Israel with sanctions in case of future attacks, but in 10 days of behind-the-scenes consultations the Arab resolution was watered down to state that the council would take notice of any new attacks.

The resolution, approved unanimously, was similar to one adopted by the council last March 24 after an Israeli raid on what the Jewish nation described as a major base of Al Fatah, the Arab terrorist organization.

Canada, in supporting the toned-down resolution, made clear that it feels there were violations of the Middle East ceasefire on both sides.

Ambassador George Ignatieff said:

"We believe that acts of violence feed on one another and that all violations of the cease-fire must be avoided."

He warned that the ultimate outcome of this cycle of violence can only be a breakdown in the tenuous peace in the Middle East.

U.S. Ambassador George Ball said he regrets recent outbreaks in the Middle East diverted attention from peace efforts by UN special envoy Gunnar Jarring. Ball said none of the parties is "without guilt."

The resolution took account to a lesser extent of Arab raids against Israel by recalling in a preamble paragraph a previous resolution deploring all violent incidents in breach of the cease-fire.

Israeli Ambassador Yosef Tekoah said this was insufficient and reflected the inability of the council to deal adequately with the situation.

Tekoah pledged Israel would do its utmost to ensure the maintenance of the ceasefire.

"It expects the Arab states to do the same," he said.

"I'd love to sell our house and move into an apartment, but I've still got 500 envelopes with this address on them."

Divorce Applications Triple; Flood Still to Come

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Divorce applications have about trisled in Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia since Canada's more liberal divorce law took effect July 2, but court holidays in the areas and lawyers' uncertainty in the Prairie provinces have so far held back the expected flood in other provinces.

Court officials across the country predict a full-fledged stampede in September.

The new legislation adds homosexuality to the "marital offence" section of the old statute, which included adultery, sodomy, bestiality and rape as grounds for divorce.

To the marital offence, the new law adds mental cruelty and "marriage breakdown," which includes separation for more than three years, drug addiction and criminal tendencies.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press showed divorce application figures to mid-August.

There was only one application in Newfoundland since the new law took effect, none in Prince Edward Island and 20 in New Brunswick.

In Nova Scotia, where cruelty was grounds for divorce before the new law, an official reported "some increase but not a great increase" in applications — 89 since July 2, the yearly average is about 450 actions.

Quebec recorded the biggest upswing with 800 applications at Montreal and Quebec City since July 2. There were only 700 all last year.

At Osgoode Hall in Toronto, assistant registrar Tony Bridges said 839 petitions for divorce

Osgoode is also the clearing house for the province. Figures for Ontario outside Toronto, with all but three of the 47 counties reporting, showed 699 applications in July—about double last year's number.

Winnipeg's court has processed 100 applications under the new law since July 2, 80 of these under the new separation grounds.

Ross Johnston, head of the court's filing department, said 100 applications for the period was more than usual.

Lawyers are the holdup in Saskatchewan, with only 27 writs issued so far under the new law.

Said a court clerk: "Normally, there would be 200 a year. Initially there was a long lull."

He said Regina lawyers do not have pattern divorce forms used by lawyers in other provinces.

Alberta's two main centres, Edmonton and Calgary, each recorded about 70 applications for writs issued between July 2 and also go there to avoid the publicity of registering in their home counties, he said.

applicants from other counties

Aug. 14, compared with 246 for the same 1967 period.

Osgoode Hall is the registry office for York County, including Metropolitan Toronto, but under the new law, this is a normal number for Calgary, and slightly higher than normal for Edmonton.

Vancouver petitions since July 2 numbered 335, compared with 127 for the same period last year. Many were for grounds other than adultery.

PC Party in Power For Quarter Century

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Progressive Conservative party is sparing no glance backward at 25 years of continuous government.

"I'm going swimming," said Elmer Bell, president of the PC provincial association when asked about his plans for today, which marks the quarter-century of Conservative government.

Only other noticeable prodding did Mr. Bell issue a statement about the anniversary and it remains the only indication that the government is aware of its birthday.

John Robarts, fourth premier since the Conservatives took power in 1943 from the Liberal government of Mitch Hepburn, will attend no official functions.

Occasional rumors of retirement for Mr. Robarts continue to be heard at Queen's Park. Although he indicated last fall he was not interested in leadership of the federal party, he appears to have recovered his health after treatment of a hiatus hernia last year and he won his second election last October with a reduced but comfortable legislature majority of 69 out of 117 seats.

In 25 years there have been 35 by-elections, with the Conservatives winning 28, Liberals six and New Democratic Party one.

Killed Three Persons Vancouver Court Told

VANCOUVER (CP) — Claude Wagnar, 24, told a hushed magistrates court here Friday that he murdered three persons during the last seven years.

He said he was paid a total of $8,200 by underworld sources to act as a hired killer and that the murders took place in the United States.

Wagnar, who gave his birthplace as Montreal, was on the stand as a material witness at the preliminary hearing of Jean Sunor, 30, of Quebec, charged with being an accessory to the March 13 slaying of Real Desjodges, 35, in a skid road rooming house in Vancouver.

Sunor was bound over for trial on the charge.

Wagnar had given evidence for the prosecution earlier about conversations concerning the Desjodges slaying that he said he overheard when in jail on another matter.

The witness told Magistrate Jack Anderson he killed first in 1961 when paid $3,000 to murder a man he named as Edwin Watson.

Wagnar said he followed Watson's car from Albany, N.Y., to a spot 20 miles outside the city, then ordered Watson out of the car, killed him with a shotgun blast and buried the body at the roadside.

"I never saw the man before and never spoke to him," Wagnar testified. "I was told to do the killing. I was paid to do the killing. I was paid $3,000."

Wagnar said he was next hired to kill a man, whose name he didn't know, in Atlantic City, N.J., in 1963.

He said he threw the screaming victim off the end of a pier into 100 feet of water. Wagnar said the man had been fishing off the end of the pier.

"It was fairly dark," he said. "I was told to do the killing. I was paid $3,500."

Wagnar testified the third killing was committed in 1966. He said this was also in the U.S. but did not specify a location or name the victim.

Robarts Pledges Aid to CNE

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government is preparing detailed proposals which could result "in the season of the Canadian National Exhibition being significantly expanded in duration," Premier John Robarts said today.

Mr. Robarts suggested a CNE lasting for at least two months, instead of the usual three weeks. This would make it possible to give greater emphasis to the "national aspect of its name."

"Why should we not invite the people of other parts of Canada to come here and present such major events as the Calgary Stampede?"

"The government of Ontario intends to play its part to ensure the continual growth of the CNE and is willing to provide leadership wherever possible," he said in officially opening the 90th annual exhibition, the fair opened Thursday and will continue through Sept. 2.

The government "will be directly involved in the future development of the CNE," he said. "We will go ahead immediately with creation of an entirely new government of Ontario complex . . . located on the waterfront south of Lakeshore Boulevard on newly-created land."

The government display will be less reliant on large permanent structures than in the past, using "the natural setting of the waterfront, modern structural designs and "the mood of gaiety and openness" in seeking the success won by the Ontario building at Expo 67.

The display, "given the co-operation we seek," could be ready for use in 1971, Mr. Robarts said.

"We would hope creation of this government complex would be the impetus required to inspire other developments along the entire Metro waterfront development which are under intensive study by many private and governmental agencies."

The premier called for "a successful three-way partnership" of federal, provincial and municipal governments to improve the CNE.

The exhibition has "a major role in ensuring the continued unity of the people of Canada" and "when one considers the importance of this exhibition to the people of Canada it is apparent that all of the people of Canada have a deep interest in its further growth and development."

Mr. Robarts said the provincial government already is working with the Exhibition Association, Metropolitan Toronto and the federal government on plans to give the CNE "a new and greater role to play in the life of our province and country."

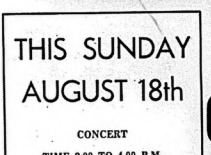
It should become the focal point of a major new recreational development.

The land area should be expanded by creating new land, especially south to the waterfront and east to Toronto islands. New islands might be created offshore, with marinas, restaurants and other new facilities provided.

He urged forestry, mining and manufacturing industries to consider increased participation to develop "thematic exhibits which could deal with our country as a whole."

Agriculture might be displayed outdoors, where it belongs, the premier suggested.

To keep up with changes in technology, Mr. Robarts thought, new buildings should be designed for shorter life spans, perhaps of 10 or 15 years.



All new facilities should meet rigid design standards and "reflect the vibrancy and fun of living."

"If the CNE is to remain a vital part of the lives of the people of Ontario and Canada in the years ahead, we must get away from what has previously been an attitude of 'anything goes.'"

Pearson Heads Study Of Aid to Have-nots

Youth's Whim Kills

NEW YORK (AP) — A sniper fired into a moving Long Island Rail Road train early Sunday, killing one passenger and wounding another with a single shot.

Within a half-hour after the pre-dawn shooting police picked up 16-year-old John Whitmore, quoted as saying he had fired at three LIRR trains "just for the whim of it." He was charged with homicide.

Police said the fatal shot, from a .30-40-calibre sawed-off rifle, was fired from a sandy embankment near a railway trestle. The bullet hit Vincent Maher in the neck and Gabriel Jansen in the elbow.

Maher, 31, an elevator operator and father of three children was dead when the train pulled into Pennsylvania station in Manhattan. Jansen, 48, was taken to hospital.

He said he was dozing when the shot was fired.

"I woke up to a big bang," he said. "I thought it was someone playing a joke."

World at Their Feet

For these three lads, the midway at Belleville Fair Sunday morning was still a world of enchantment. They used the horse judging stand as a lookout tower to watch workmen dismantle tents and rides.

Egyptian Airliner Crashes

NICOSIA (AP) — An Egyptian airliner fell into the Mediterranean Sea between Cyprus and Egypt Sunday, killing all 41 persons on board.

The Soviet-built Antonov 24 was on a flight from Cairo to Damascus when the Nicosia air traffic control centre reported losing contact.

RAF planes began a search and five hours later spotted wreckage and bodies about 120 miles south of Cyprus.

Six Killed In Crash At Ottawa

PLANTAGENET, Ont. (CP) — Six persons were killed and two women are in satisfactory condition in hospital following a head-on collision between a light truck and a car on the Trans-Canada Highway about 35 miles east of Ottawa Sunday night.

Four of the dead and the two injured women are natives of India. Their names were not released immediately. The dead include a child, a middle-aged woman and two men.

The two occupants of the truck, Ewald Birkner, 48, and Margaret Hisko, both of Renfrew, Ont., were killed.

The crash occurred at the crest of a long, straight hill in traffic described by a provincial police constable as the heaviest he had ever seen.

Pacemaker Fails To Smooth Rhythm Of Ike's Heart

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former president Dwight D. Eisenhower remains in "extremely critical" condition and has suffered numerous episodes of irregular heart action since Sunday night, army doctors reported today.

Doctors at Walter Reed Army Hospital said an electrical pacemaker, inserted earlier into the heart of the 77-year-old army general, had been removed after it failed to stop the spasms.

The recurring irregularities, doctors said earlier, constitute a "constant and critical hazard" to Eisenhower's survival.

The text of a morning medical bulletin:

"General Eisenhower's condition remains extremely critical. The electrical pacemaker was removed late yesterday because of its demonstrated ineffectiveness.

Choice Is Made By World Bank

WASHINGTON (CP) — Former Canadian prime minister Lester B. Pearson was named Sunday to head an international commission charting a new strategy for helping the world's under-developed nations.

Announcing the appointment, World Bank President Robert McNamara said Pearson's group will study "one of the most urgent problems facing our world, the division between a relatively few rich nations and the great majority of the world's peoples who remain poor."

The commission will report by the end of 1969 on "strategy for aid and development for the next 10, 20 and 30 years," and on the World Bank's role in the future, McNamara said.

McNamara said the Canadian elder statesman will head a commission "of persons drawn from around the "world, who have had experience with and shown capacity for understanding world problems and offering leadership in their solution." Pearson announced he will select commission members in the near future.

The World Bank president said the group "should review the impact of external assistance on the development of the poorer nations over the past two decades, noting where it has been most successful and where least," and should try to identify the causes of relative success and failure.

He called on the commission to consider "methods of giving assistance and the orders of magnitude for that assistance which appear necessary over the next decade and the next generation in order to ensure a reasonable hope of sustained, and eventually self-sustaining, growth in a number of the less-developed countries."

Boy in Coma Is Flown To Give Girl New Heart

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Within hours after her heart transplant Sunday, five-year-old Maria Giannaris was awake, alert and able to visit with her parents.

MARIA GIANNARIS

The girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Giannaris of Hagerstown, Md., was reported in satisfactory condition at Texas Children's Hospital today.

The donor was an 11-year-old boy who suffered a brain hemorrhage Friday and lapsed into a coma. When the family physician told the surgeons the boy was a potential heart donor, they agreed to his transfer to Houston.

The boy, son of a professor at Purdue, was flown here early Sunday and died several hours later without regaining consciousness.

Maria had been in Texas Children's Hospital three weeks before the operation.

Dr. Alex Haller of Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore "told me the heart transplant was our only hope," Giannaris said.

"On Thursday my baby got so sick the doctors didn't think she would live," he said. "And on Saturday they told us just to pray."

Civil Rights Battle Looms Over Democrats' Credentials

CHICAGO (Reuters) — A battle between civil rights supporters and white segregationists faces the Democratic convention credentials committee today when it opens week-long hearings on delegate legality.

A challenge to the representation from Mississippi, with two Negroes among its 44 delegates and 22 alternates, is first on the committee's agenda.

Before the week is out, the committee will hear challenges against delegations from 17 states making up more than one-third of the 3,099 delegates to the convention, which will nominate the party's presidential candidate next week.

It is the largest list of disputed delegations in party history.

The outcome of the hearings is virtually certain to spark bitter fights on the convention floor between supporters of Vice-President Hubert Humphrey, pinning his strategy on clinching the nomination on the first ballot, and Senator Eugene McCarthy, the underdog ever since he began his campaign.

Only in the Mississippi case will the vice-president and his fellow Minnesotan be ranged together attempting to unseat the state's regular delegation.

Other credential challenges will be Humphrey-McCarthy fights as the senator's forces make all-out bids to reduce the vice-president's long lead in delegate strength, hoping to deny him a first-ballot victory in nine days.

Humphrey's campaign organization Sunday accused McCarthy of attempting to "paralyse the convention" by planning to "lock out" almost one-third of the convention's delegates through credentials challenges.

A McCarthy spokesman countered by giving a list of about 215 delegate challenges he said were sponsored by McCarthy forces. The rest of the — almost 1,000 challenges to the seating of the delegates and alternates — they said 5,611-were brought by other groups, the spokesman said.

As the credentials committee prepared to open hearings, it seemed certain Mississippi's predominantly white delegation would be denied convention seats. -

The state party ignored all exhortations to open its ranks to Negroes, thus defying the party's ruling four years ago that no one should be denied full and active participation in the party because of color, creed or national origin.

The biggest credentials fights may not come, however, until Wednesday when McCarthy forces attempt to cut down Humphrey's delegate strength from Georgia, Oklahoma and Texas.

The Georgia delegation—like Mississippi today—will be challenged on racial grounds.

Jerusalem's Israelis Riot After Bombings

JERUSALEM (AP) — Mobs smashed Arab cars and attacked Arabs in the streets Sunday night after a series of bomb blasts touched off a riot.

Three explosions rocked the city Sunday injuring at least nine persons, and riot police were called in to disperse bands of young Israelis who ran through the streets for more than an hour seeking reprisals.

Police equipped with night sticks, shields and steel helmets cleared all seven gates to the Old City and allowed nobody through.

Informed sources said about 30 Arabs and 20 Israelis — mostly young people —were arrested during the disturbances.

Explosions occurred in the city bus station, in a gas station near the railway station and at the intersection of King George and Allenby roads after police found two unexploded grenades outside a movie theatre and in a public toilet.

Trudeau in Spain Under Assumed Name

MADRID (AP) — Prime Minister Trudeau was reported today to be vacationing in Spain, near Malaga.

Sources at Barajas Airport in Madrid said the Canadian prime minister, travelling under an assumed name, passed through Madrid during the weekend.

He was reported accompanied by Michael Pitfield, cabinet secretary, and Inspector William Buchanan of the RCMP. The exact location of his vacation retreat was not known.

Humphrey Balks at Plan to Give Reds South Vietnam Role

WASHINGTON (CP-AP) — The divided Democrats began hearings today on the platform they will present to their national convention next week in Chicago.

The 110 platform drafters have been urged to seek reconciliation in their plank but the split over Vietnam policy between the Humphrey and McCarthy factions seemed wider than ever.

Proposals to include Communists in a future coalition government in South Vietnam deepened the conflict during the weekend.

Vice-President Hubert Humphrey, who says he believes he will win the presidential nomination on the first ballot, balked on Communist participation in a South Vietnamese government, a key point among the seven proposed by Senator Eugene McCarthy to bring peace to the war-ravaged country.

McCarthy insists that the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, be included in any coalition government.

If this point isn't settled in the platform hearings—and that seems unlikely—it probably will result in a floor fight when the four-day convention starts next Monday.

"The fundamental difference between myself and Senator McCarthy is on the imposition of a coalition government . . . I cannot agree with that," Humphrey said.

McCarthy said there is no hope for compromise in peace efforts "unless you have a willingness to include in a new government the forces that are fighting it."

"He (Humphrey) is rejecting . . . the heart of the proposal I have been asking. . . . I don't see any evidence of compromise."

McCarthy unwrapped his proposed peace plank Saturday. It called for an immediate halt to the bombing of North Vietnam, a curtailment of American operations in South Vietnam and the creation of a new coalition government in Saigon with "substantial participation" by the NLF.

If Saigon rejected such a coalition, McCarthy specified, U.S. military support would be withdrawn.

Humphrey obviously was hunting for a compromise. He said Saturday he accepts most proposals of "peace Democrats" including a qualified agreement to halt bombing.

But the vice-president said that a cessation of bombing should be in response to some restraint by Hanoi. And he declared he could not accept a plank which repudiated "the policies and sacrifices of the past."

McCarthy backers claim they have more than enough supporters on the platform committee to bring a dissenting plank to the convention floor. More than 300 witnesses are scheduled for appearances before the committee, which meets in Washington and moves to Chicago Thursday.

Picton Strikers in Ugly Mood Following Violence

PICTON (Staff) — Violence which erupted Friday at Proctor Silex Ltd. here has left strikers in an ugly mood.

According to IUE local president George Le Blanc, however, it is unlikely the incident will be repeated.

"We've lost our 'ace-in-the-hole,' he said, referring to International Business Machines equipment from the plant.

"As long as that equipment sat idle the company was under pressure to conclude the strike," he said.

Mr. LeBlanc did not condemn the violence. "The company now knows that we're not fooling around," he said. "The outbreak was brought on by the continuing delay on management's part."

Two pickets were charged following the fracas with police. Proctor Silex company had called the officers when the truckload of IBM equipment was being removed.

While one man fought with the police, for the most part strikers contented themselves with hurling paint, eggs and tomatoes and shouting abuse.

A meeting between company and union officials scheduled for Wednesday has not been cancelled. The strike is now in its 34th day.

To date three meetings have been held between union and company officials. Little has been accomplished. Both sides have presented the other with package proposals. The proposals have been widely separated.

At a meeting held last week efforts were made to "clear the air" by both parties but it seemed as though no actual move was made towards a settlement.

Strikers are now speculating that Proctor Silex is not looking for a return to work until the fall-with an increase in business.

Throughout the strike company officials at the plant and in Toronto have refused comment. In light of the disturbance Friday, however, J. V. Finlay, plant manager, has granted an interview for late this afternoon to reporters.

Much public sympathy appears lost by the picketers Friday. Most of the town residents and businessmen had seemed to feel that the local had a justified complaint. Few, however have condoned the violence.

Minimum wage at the plant for women is 85c per hour, although more money can be made through a company incentive plan. Minimum wage for men is $1.23.

Anderson New Chairman Of Loyalist College

Judge J. C. Anderson of Belleville — one of the founding organizers of the community college idea in East-Central Ontario — has been elected chairman of Loyalist College board of governors.

His election completes establishment of the college as an autonomous centre of education officially serving the Quinte area.

Judge Anderson was one of the original members of a governing board appointed to blueprint establishment of a community college in the Belleville-Peterborough area. The group eventually moved to set up a campus in each centre, with Loyalist allocated to the Quinte region.

Earlier this year, both the Peterborough and Belleville institutions were formally designated as separate autonomous colleges.

JUDGE J. C. ANDERSON

Judge Anderson served as joint chairman on the original founding board with specific responsibility for the organization of Loyalist.

Vice-chairman of the board is Frank Rabel, of Frankford, assistant general manager of the Bata Shoe engineering division.

Mr. Rabel also will serve as chairman of the college's building committee — one of three standing committees administering major areas of Loyalist affairs.

Other committee chairmen are W. J. Williams, of Trenton, (finance) and Amelias burg reeve G. W. Cunningham, (management).

Committee members are: Finance — H.S. Coliver, Picton; Rev. H. J. Maloney, Bancroft; J. Earl Morrison, Napanee; Management—Mrs. G. S. Wannacott, Belleville; R. A. Loader, R. R. 3, Belleville; Donald E. Hodgins, Tweed; Building — John Donelan, Napanee; W. C. Down, R. R. 1, Hilton.

Clifford Manion of Plevna leads his team off the field after they won second place in the heavy team class in the horse drawing competition at Belleville Fair Saturday.

Playground Activities

Prince of Wales — Scavenger hunt, followed by a track and field meet. A lucky cake draw — winner to be determined on race.

Queen Victoria — Dress-up day including a "follow the leader" parade and a peanut scramble.

Sir Winston Churchill — A pajama party was held with Chris Coates being the over-all winner. A knee, legs and toes painting contest was also held. Janice Christopher was declared "Best Painter."

John Street — A Hobo day was held. There was also a trip to Zwick's Island featuring a marshmallow roast.

Stanley Parkers — A pet show; trips to both Black Diamond and Zwick's Island; a scavenger hunt and peanut scramble.

Fireball — Racing contests.

Welkington Crescent — Peanut Party and a hat-making contest.

West Hill — A scavenger hunt.

East Hill Dinosaur egg hunt, a Mexican Day which included a jumping bean contest and a Fiesta.

Coming Events:

August 19 to Aug. 23, having been declared "Playground Week" by the Mayor, concludes the playground program in Belleville and will thus see many events scheduled for the period. On Tuesday Aug. 20 "Neighborhood Night" will be held for the benefit of the parents on the individual West Hill playgrounds.

On the same night, at seven o'clock, the East Hill leaders, children and interested parents will meet at East Hill Playground (corner of Bridge St. and Bleecker Ave.) for the drama production "The Lighthouse Keeper's Daughter" presented by the Belleville Theatre Guild.

On the following night, Wed. Aug. 21, the West Hill children will have the opportunity to see the same Drama Show at Parkdale Community Centre at seven p.m. while the individual East Hill playgrounds will entertain the Parents at their own "Neighborhood Night."

Thursday morning and afternoon will be spent in preparation for the annual "Fenny Carnival" to be held at six p.m. that evening.

Booths will include "fortune teller," "penny toss" "candy" etcetera. The evening will end with the crowning of Miss and Master Penny Carnival 1968.

On Thursday, Aug. 15, a "Mixed Up Day" was held at Hillcrest Playground. Winners of the day's events are as follows:

Costume Contest: Funniest: Barbara Prudden; Modest : Sharon Prudden, Oddest: Keith Ward, Ugliest: Claudia Ward; Best — Kim Godbout.

Talent Show: Sally Ward and Barbara Prudden for their Gypsy skit.

Backward race : Andy Knott, Marsha Ward, Marvin McCormick.

Piggy Back Race: Chuck Scerri, Barry Scerri; Marlee Gerald Kerik and Jimmy Ward, Sharon Prudden.

Piggy Back Fight: Chuck Scerri, Barry Trice tied with Gerald Kerik and Gordon Belch; Marlee Ward, Sharon Prudden; Kim Godbout and Andy Knott.

Apple Bobbing: Chuck Scerri, Donna Corbay, Barry Trice and Barbara Prudden.

Loyalist Days Successful

PICTON (Staff) — Loyalist days are over for the year but plans are already under way for 1969.

Wayne Ring, recreation director, said that a meeting would be held in about two weeks when the events this year would be evaluated and plans prepared for next year. Mr. Ring called the show a great success.

Large crowds, many of them people from out of the area, attended.

Perhaps the most successful display was the penny carnival, dance and bingo held Wednesday night at Benson Park.

Downtown merchants fared well, all shops reporting increases in business. Many participated, setting up sidewalk stands attended by sales staff decked out in period costumes.

Horses Climax Activities

Horses were the order of thursday Saturday at Belleville Fair.

The Black Diamond Stake Race climaxed the five-day fair, and horses were also in the limelight in front of the grandstand in the afternoon.

Final events in the horse and pony show were run off, with many classes raised out on Friday being shown on the last day.

Mrs. Norman Smith of Brampton was judged the best woman driver; and also won the best hackney pony team and best pair of harness show ponies 50 inches and under classes.

Another triple winner was Lorna Hoskins of Blackstock, who took the awards in the roadster classes with a best in the single roadster 15 hands, two inches and under class.

John Sheridan of Stirling had the best tandem pair of hackney ponies and also won the single hackney horse stake.

Other winners were: team of Shetland ponies, Howard Ellis, Woodbridge; single hackney horse 15 hands, 2 inches and under, Leckie Brothers, Sarnia; tandem pair, shetland ponies, Robbilzrd Family, Brooklin; best pair of hackney horses over 15 hands, two inches, Miles Benedict, Belleville; gentlemens' road race, Lloyd Cochrane, Nestleton; hackney pony stake, Ralph Sadler, Nestleton and two-wheel bike horse race, Ivan Cochrane, Nestleton.

Winner of the light team class in the horse drawing competition was Jerry McLaughlin of Lanark, and winner of the heavy team horse drawing was Mac McGillvary of Bancroft.

Around The Cat

In the Thursday afternoon bowling in the Recreation Section, Edna Jackman with "Doll" Argue as skip won the high count of the afternoon. Tied for second place was a ring of Flossie Coleman, Irene Trudeau with Carm Mott as skip and a rink of Nora Kyle with Betty Vince as skip. In third place was a rink of Lil Hermon with Elsie Humphreys as skip.

The tea hostesses were Mrs. Elmer Sandercock, Mrs. Boone, Mrs. Cooper and Mrs. Wilson. There were seven tables of bridge in play.

Bill VanTassel and Percy Graham journeyed to Trenton Saturday and won the men's doubles trophy and accompanying prizes.

ANAF News

The president and members who attended the Dominion Convention in Ottawa, some of whom took the opportunity to visit Banff and Vancouver before returned, arrived back in Belleville over the weekend.

It is reported that the convention was successful and, as predicted, Jack Thompson was re-elected as Dominion President for an unprecedented fourth term. Wednesday evening was designated Ontario night and among the guests invited was a Bowmanville boy and member of Unit 201, Ted Hobbs.

The convention was just over when the Dominion 1st Vice-president had a serious attack and passed away. It was a sad ending to a very successful convention.

A number of Belleville veterans journeyed to Toronto to attend the Warriors Day Parade. Dominion President J. C. Lundberg was on hand and proudly led the Army, Navy and Airforce Veterans contingent in the parade.

The chairman of the sick committee reports three comrades in hospital: S. Cherry, Belleville General, J. Lane in a Toronto hospital and W. Moore in hospitalized in Ottawa. The chairman, just back from the convention, is trying to get the names of the various town hospitals and would appreciate it if anyone who knows, phone him or the steward.

Another month and the general meeting will be held and the fall activities will be reorganized and started again. Any new plans to attend.

President George Christopher will report on the highlights of the convention and will have some very interesting resolutions to pass on to the members.

Thieves Get $1,400 In Break

Police this morning are investigating a report of a break and enter that occurred over the weekend.

No specific details are yet available but Chief Douglas Crosbie said that $1,400 in cash was taken from a house on William St. and that it looked like a case of break and enter.

Pet Dog Causes Accident

PICTON (Staff) — An overfriendly pet dog caused an accident Saturday with damages amounting to $1,500.

The driver and two passengers suffered onl ymino injuries.

The accident took place on county road seven near Cressy.

The vehicle driven by John Buchanan of Picton went out of control when a dog leaped on the driver's lap.

The vehicle left the road and rolled over three times. In the car at the time were Leon Rutter of RR 8 Picton and Harold Fennell of Mary Street, Picton.

Marathon Swim Raises $430

TRENTON — The Canadian Forces Base Slag-Out group is $430 closer to a new stage and sound system setup.

The cash was gathered at a marathon swim at the base pool Saturday. Eight members of the youth group participated in the seven-hour, swimming 52 lengths of the pool.

Each swimmer was sponsored and received cash donations for successful completion of the endurance test.

The swimmers included Mark Campbell, Bonnie Duffin, Bev Greskiw, Tom Lewis, Ray Lobban, Doreen Porder, Marg Burford and Brenda Lewis.

The group, popular for its vocal entertainments plans to build a stage and install sound equipment.

TREASURER'S SALE OF LAND FOR TAXES
CITY OF BELLEVILLE
COUNTY OF HASTINGS

TO WIT:

By virtue of a warrant issued by the Mayor of the Corporation of the City of Belleville under his hand and the seal of the said Corporation bearing date the 6th of the sixteenth day of May, 1968, the sale of lands in arrears of taxes in the City of Belleville will be held in the Council Chambers, City Hall, Belleville, Ontario, at the hour of 10.00 o'clock E.D.S.T. in the forenoon on Monday the eighteenth day of September, 1968, unless the taxes and costs are sooner paid.

Notice is hereby further given that the adjourned tax sale, if necessary, shall be held on Monday, the thirtieth day of September, 1968, at 10.00 o'clock E.D.S.T. in the forenoon, whereat the Corporation of the City of Belleville shall purchase any and all parcels of land if the price offered is less than the arrears of taxes and cost accrued.

Notice is hereby given that the list of lands for sale for arrears of taxes were published in the Ontario Gazette on the first day of June, 1968, and that copies of the said list may be obtained at my office.

Office of the Treasurer,
Belleville, Ontario.
June 1st, 1968.

John J. Grohn,
Treasurer.

Fair Ends In Violence

A note of violence ended the final night of the Belleville fair.

Suffering from a fractured nose, contusions and a possible fractured skull is 22 year old Robert Thorne of Borden Drive in Trenton.

The injuries were the result of a fight during the end of a fair dance that was held Saturday night. However, the other person involved has not been identified to police.

"No one at the dance would admit what happened," Chief Douglas Crosbie said this morning, "but some of them must have seen it."

Chief Crosbie referred to a possible reason for the fight: "We learned that earlier in the evening Thorne had been bragging about being in a fight and beating someone up, perhaps it was some sort of retaliation."

Investigations into the incident are still continuing and Chief Crosbie said that Thorne was not in very good shape.

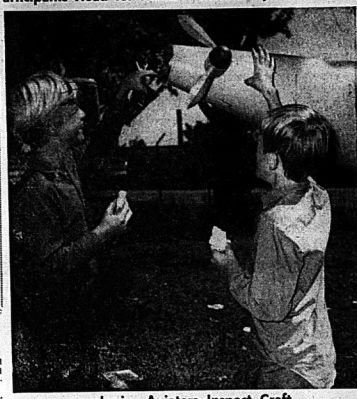
Fair Attendance Jumps



Attendance for the full five days of Belleville fair was up 3,421 over the figure for last year.

Paid admissions this year totalled 35,623. This excludes children 12 years acd under, who were admitted free.

Total attendance in 1967 was 32,202.

Friday's downpour dampened the enthusiasm of fair goers and lowered the attendance figure from that of the same day last year.

However, the number admitted to the grounds Saturday climbed to 9,174 — 1,229 more than on the last day of the fair in 1967.

Eight Students Receive Honors

Eight area accordion students received honors or first class honors as the result of examinations held recently in Belleville by the Canadian Accordion Teachers' Association.

In grade two, first class honors went to Denise Rhodenizer and Weston Rhodenizer. In grade three, honors went to Ronald Smith and Susan Wessels.

In grade five first class honors went to Anne Aquino and honors went to Josephine Feeck, Thomas Aquino and Debra Dunn.

Accident Damage Totals $6,500

TWEED — Accidents in the Tweed area over the weekend resulted in $6,500 damage to nine vehicles.

At eight p.m. Saturday on the Southern outskirts of Tweed, a two-car mishap resulted in $2,000 damage.

A vehicle driven by James Halpenny, 55, of Tweed, sustained $800 damage when it came into collision with another vehicle driven by Thomas Trumble, 24, of Tweed and owned by Lloyd Robinson of Oshawa.

According to police, the Halpenny car was being driven into the Halpenny yard when the incident occurred. The Halpenny vehicle was knocked 100 feet and ripped down a hedge, some oriental trees, hopped over a three foot retaining wall and ended up in the back yard of the Halpenny home.

The Trumble automobile ended up south of the accident area. A passenger, Dennis Blake, 19, of Tweed was uninjured.

Mr. Trumble was shaken up, but treated at the scene.

A second accident, just over an hour later at 9:15 p.m. resulted in $1,500 damage to a vehicle driven by Michael Craig Goddard of Meadowlands, Ottawa. There were no injuries.

The mishap occurred just south of Tweed.

Five minutes later two first cousins came into collision in their cars six miles north of highway 7 on the Flinton Road. Damage was estimated at $500 to each automobile.

The drivers, Maurice Reavie, 27, of Flinton and Neil Randolph Reavie, 16, of Flinton, were uninjured.

The Back of the Moon Road near Tweed was the scene of a two-car mishap Sunday at noon. A vehicle driven by Michael Harold Craigen, 21, of Tweed sustained $100 damage and a second car driven by William John Mackenzie, 50 of Ottawa sustained $200 damage.

At three p.m. the same afternoon a car driven by Michael Hugh Sullivan, 17, of Toronto came into collision with the fencing around Tweed Park. Dapage to the car and fence combined was estimated at $200.

An hour later on county Road 11 in Marmora Township a one-vehicle mishap resulted in $1,500 damage to a car driven by Darrell Amber Vilnap, 20, of Marmora. The vehicle was owned by Clifford White man of RR2, Marmora. There were no injuries.

Scouts Commended -- Tremendous Job

Boy Scouts were used for the first time this year at Belleville Fair to assist with traffic control and parking, and earned the praise of General Investigation of Canada's security guard captain.

"They did a tremendous job," he said. "Through rain and other trying moments they were polite and efficient and commanded the complete respect of the fair-going public."

Mr. Bishop, in charge of the 29 guards assigned to the fair by his company, said the Scouts were a great asset to his force during peak attendance periods.

He added that his company works many fairs in the province and this is the only fair he knows of at which Scouts are used to augment the security guards, Belleville troops provided ten Scouts each day during the fair.

"In addition to being a big help to us, their work at the fair has given the Scouts valuable training in crowd control in case of a future emergency," Mr. Bishop commended.

GALE UNCOVERS COINS

MOSCOW (AP) — A gale in Lithuania uprooted an apple tree and uncovered a buried treasure of gold coins including some minted in the United States in 1824. The Soviet news agency Tass said the discovery was made by school children at Kaunas but did not estimate the value or speculate on how the U.S. coins got there.

Soviet Competition

Although Egypt's giant Aswan Dam was built largely with Soviet aid, complaints of faulty Soviet-built equipment used on the project were many. Frequently Egyptian engineers had to resort to British and Swedish machines and vehicles with superior performance.

Now things seem to have changed. An Etobicoke construction equipment firm has brought into Canada more than $3 worth of Soviet machinery since last March. The equipment includes dump trucks, excavators and bulldozers. An excavator — a combination power shovel, crane and drag hoe of 40 tons — and three bulldozers are being used in the Welland Canal and are reported to be performing well.

Evidently it has also been a good deal for the Canadian firm. One of its officials observed: "This is straight business with us. The equipment is 20 per cent less expensive than that made in the United States. We can supply the maximum machine for the minimum dollar."

The firm currently is renting the equipment with a view to purchasing it once it proves itself under Canadian conditions. The government of Newfoundland is also reported to be considering rental of the machinery for construction jobs there. Similar equipment from Russia has been used in Britain for the past five years.

The bulldozer is claimed to be the largest in the world with a sound-proofed cab and air-conditioning. It is powered by a 300 hp diesel-electric engine.

Russia has been making a great deal of progress in this sphere of late. If some of their equipment wilted in the North African heat during the Aswan Dam job, the vehicles in use here are said to be well suited to the Canadian climate. A number of Soviet engineers accompanied the machinery and are training Canadians in its use.

A Permissive Age

There is no doubt this is a permissive age. Traditional mores and old concepts of sin have undergone considerable modification.

Reaction of the public and the church ranges all the way from acceptance to outright condemnation, such as this statement in support of Pope Paul's encyclical on the subject of birth control.

"Today, the world is submerged by a wave of neo-paganism in which sexuality is the dominant note. . ."

The statement was made by Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, dean of the Sacred College of Cardinals and one of the Pope's closest advisers.

Yet when all the arguments are exhausted, the issue remains one of individual conscience. Modern codes of conduct often are more radically at odds with old ones than ever before, but people must still be answerable to their own consciences. And as well as respect for themselves they must also have regard for the welfare and dignity of society as a whole.

Strange Bedfellows

It sounds preposterous, but a Montreal Star correspondent in Bonn says President de Gaulle has made German help for Quebec a principal condition to French acquiescence in any scheme linking Britain with the European Common Market.

Of all the international deals that have been made this one would surely be one of the most absurd. We should imagine that the Bonn government has enough problems of its own without wanting to join with de Gaulle in establishing a Franco-German Reich in Quebec.

In any event it is strange that de Gaulle would even consider seeking outside help to continue meddling in the affairs of Canada, even allowing for the political setback that hit his administration in the wake of the recent student riots.

All In The Game

Our recent editorial about a Montreal woman who won $100,000 in that city's voluntary tax plan draw has drawn a response from a Wooler reader.

She wonders why a person should have to answer one or more "skill-testing questions" before collecting the loot. Why, a person might know the answer but flunk it because of nerves.

Well it's a point. In the Montreal draw, however, it seems the answering of questions was incorporated in the rules as a legal requirement. It might be said too that questions add a bit of spice to the competition.

It is like that short putt the professional golfer must sink before he pockets the big cheque. A bit nerve-wracking yes — but all in the game.

Humphrey in Squeeze

Democrats Might Turn to LBJ As Candidate

By ARCH McKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Johnson holds firm in his demand for a "clear signal" of de-escalation from Hanoi before he will order a complete halt to the bombing of North Vietnam. The U.S. stand was reiterated Thursday by Defence Secretary Clark Clifford at a press conference.

Meanwhile the peace negotiations in Paris remain in stalemate, and there has been of speculation have developed here.

The first and most obvious speculation is that Johnson hopes to bring off some kind of peace coup closer to the Nov. 5 U.S. election date.

Second is that the campaign of Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey to succeed Johnson in the White House is being harmed by the unabiding question eviident in Paris. Humphrey would benefit in popularity from any type of Johnson peace success, but meanwhile is saddled with the Johnson record while two other presidential aspirants, Senators Eugene McCarthy and George McGovern, were Democratic nominating convention votes with unabashed anti-war stands.

Finally, stubborn skepticism is being kept alive as to whether Johnson really means to step aside as president, a decision he announced March 31.

Johnson called "completely irrevocable" his decision not to be a candidate for re-election. But some observers remain doubtful.

Last week the Wall Street Journal set rumors flying with its suggestion that President Johnson seeks a package that would give him a triumphant trip to Moscow, capping his presidency, plus an understanding with North Vietnam leading toward peace.

The president sought to defuse the war as an issue in announcing his abdication and has succeeded except for Senators McCarthy and McGovern.

Richard Nixon, after gaining the presidential nomination for the Republicans, said he would not rock the boat and accepted a first-hand presidential briefing on the situation.

The squeeze has been hard for Humphrey.

Columnist Marquis Childs envisages this situation at the Democratic convention which begins in Chicago Aug. 26.

"The rumor keeps popping up that President Johnson has not entirely abandoned the idea that at a climactic moment the convention will turn to him as the way out of the dilemma posed by the challenges of . . . McCarthy and now . . . McGovern.

"Aug. 27 is Lyndon Johnson's 60th birthday. Johnson idolaters in the White House would like to turn the whole business at Chicago into a paean of praise. . . . And as the president broods at his Texas ranch about his place in history, he might not be averse to lighting up the sky with the reflection of his glory."

That, says Childs, would further overshadow Humphrey.

Childs says he has never believed Johnson "harbored the slightest intention of reneging" on his March 31 statement of political abdication. Others are less sure.

The Washington Star says "new doubts that President Johnson really meant it . . . are circulating."

It says Johnson agents "are said to be quietly testing support for the president with the Democratic delegations to the national convention at Chicago."

The newspaper sees the possibility of the president, in a convention appearance after polls show Humphrey running behind Nixon, offering to save the party by seeking the presidency for another four years.

Another East-West Confrontation

Drivers—Take It Easy

'Rat Race' Only an Illusion

Safety News

We are constantly reminded about the "stress and strain" of modern life. To hear it told, it seems that each one of us exists in a frenzied atmosphere of rush and hustle. Modern civilization, we gather, sets an exhausting pace and demands a constant rush from all who wish to keep from being over-run by the pack.

Somehow, this conception of a "streamlined era" with everyone under intense pressure, does not seem to match all the facts. Most workers spend 40 hours or less a week in surroundings that are quite tolerable, if not down right comfortable. They have the means, and the time, for a wide range of recreation. They can relax in homes that are miracles of luxury and convenience compared with homes in "the good old days". In fact, to most of us life looks pretty good.

Yet this impression of pressure and hustle, whether it is an illusion or not, does exist and does affect us. And in no area is this more obvious than in our driving behavior.

The sense of urgency that the average driver gets when he takes the wheel is usually completely illogical. When he starts out he may have no real reason for hurry, and is usually heading off to do something he will enjoy far less than driving his car; yet he tries to complete the journey in the shortest possible time. He winces at every momentary delay. A car cutting in to line ahead of him is an affront. A red light is a minor tragedy.

The irrational part of the urge to hurry-drive is that it is largely ineffective. Most of us who give way to the urge know that trying to speed saves very little time, particularly in congested areas.

The reasons for taking risks in traffic are hard to understand. But the results are, too often, tragically obvious.

Birth Rate

Chicago Daily News

Of even greater consequence is the damage that may occur to the church's moral authority among Catholics themselves. Careful studies by the Population Reference Bureau in Washington show that church teachings have little effect on birth-rates. Literacy and economic progress are much more important factors in the spread of family planning. Birth rates in countries of parallel economic development, whether Catholic or non-Catholic exhibit astonishing similarities.

Visual Arts Revolution

Ottawa Journal

At one time the visual arts were largely restricted to painting on a flat canvas, chiselling at stone and molding clay. And now? Well, everything from Long Island hillsides to sawdust is putty in the artist's hands.

In concept and medium, the new art aspires to freedom from every convention and movement. One young artist uses a projector and prisms to cast ghostly multi-colored shapes on blank walls. Another plans to reach out and literally touch onlookers with emanations from an unnamed energy source. A third uses a broom to sweep sawdust into bizarre patterns.

To some, galleries are little more than institutionalized yawns. One young artist is seeking the freedom of the open air, is "activating" a Long Island hillside by scattering wood chips and in his next project will use bulldozers to "create" a landslide.

For the future, who knows? Artists may transform the Rocky Mountains into psychedelic rubble, fill in the Grand Canyon with neon lights and redecorate Hudson Bay into a 1,000-mile silhouette of Raquel Welch while Tom Thomson spins in his grave.

When It Comes to a Sun Tan or Hair Style People Tend to Conform

Lethbridge Herald

Dr. Ferdinando Serri, speaking at the annual convention of the Canadian Dermatology Association, issued a warning to women about sunbathing. He said that only occasionally is skin beautified by a sun tan. Mostly sunbathing ages the skin which should be of great concern because greater life expectancy means that skins will be used longer.

The doctor should have saved his breath. Warnings about the detrimental effect of the sun on skin have been made repeatedly but few people pay any attention, least of all the girls. To be bronzed is to have style. The bronze color can be bought in bottles to be applied in winter or by girls who are stuck in offices all summer. Nobody bucks the style.

Consider the care and culture of the hair. So much time is required to acquire the right look for the hair that some girls spend most of their time in the bathroom. This has given rise to that classic, story about a teen-age girl who was returned to her home by police after being a run-away for several days. The parents had to confess that they hadn't missed her: they thought she was in the bath room!

Sometimes there is not much choice but to yield to the style (let a gentleman try to buy trousers that do not fit like bandages, for instance). Where there is choice, as in whether or not to age the skin, the rationality of the human being ought to prevail. Rationality is largely a fiction when it comes to styles. Most human beings are slaves to style.

LBJ Still in the Saddle

London Free Press

For a lame duck President Lyndon B. Johnson still packs a lot of muscle. This was shown in the manner in which he met the threat of a sharp rise in steel prices.

On the heels of the wage settlement with the steelworkers' union, which allegedly added a billion dollars to company costs, Bethlehem Steel and several other large producers posted substantial across the board increases. President Johnson objected and ordered defence buying diverted from the companies which made general price increases.

U.S. Steel, bellwether of the industry, put into effect a more moderate and selective price increase and now Bethlehem and other leading concerns are falling in line.

According to the president the new prices are a substantial improvement from the general inflationary threat, while Arthur Okun, chairman of the president's council of economic advisers, asserts American consumers have been saved $500; 000,000.

News like this, coming at the same time as the Republican convention and stealing some of the headline from that nose-too-dramatic performance, must make Mr. Johnson feel somewhat better.

Peterborough Gets Air Service

Peterborough Examiner

Inaugural flights of the first regular air service to Peterborough mark a milestone for the community. The Royalair service will prove to be a boon for industry and commerce in the city in their business dealings with such centres as Montreal, Toronto, St. Catharines and Pembroke. The air service is also handy for access to such spots as Chalk River and other cities which are serviced by other airlines flying out of Montreal and Toronto. The relatively expensive cost to such places as Montreal will be offset by the time saved.

During the initial period of service it may not be attractive for Peterborough businessmen to fly to Toronto. The time spent getting to the Peterborough airport and from Toronto International airport could make it more convenient for businessmen to make the journey by train or automobile. However, for those wishing to make connections for national or international destinations the service to Toronto International airport is ideal. The service to Toronto is somewhat complicated by the fact that the return flight from St. Catharines overflies Toronto to Peterborough. This is because Royalair does not wish to become a short route feeder service to Toronto. Passengers returning from Toronto therefore have to catch west-bound flight to St. Catharines before flying to Peterborough.

Royalair's service will become even more attractive when it is expanded to take in Kingston and Ottawa. Thoughts of switching to Toronto Island airport will undoubtedly have to await assessment of demand and convenience since there would probably be a minimal time saving by using the Island airport while creating inconvenience for those wishing to make connecting flights at the International airport.

Royalair's two eastbound and two westbound daily flights from Peterborough airport will probably lead to increasing use of the airport facilities by more planes. The airport will not become listed in international service because of its links with Montreal and Toronto international airports. This alone should attract more tourists who might fly into the area to vacation. As it is, the airport is already being used regularly by a number of vacationers who seek quick access to the Kawartha area.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By the CANADIAN PRESS

Five women were hanged for witchcraft at Salem, Mass., 276 years ago today —in 1692—after a book on witchcraft by Cotton Mather, Congregationalist pastor of Boston, stimulated frenzy and lady alike. In Salem, 19 girls accused Tituba, a Negro slave, and two other old women of bewitching them. Within months hundreds were arrested and tried; 19 were hanged and one pressed to death for refusing to plead. The governor ordered the release of all held for witchcraft in 1693.

1809—Accommodation, the first Canadian steamship, was launched at Montreal.

1916—Gen. Stephen Kearney proclaimed the United States forces began shelling the Italian mainland around the Gulf of Sicily.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1918—British forces advanced in the face of strong enemy opposition and reached Morlancourt Ridge. French troops took Le Hamel; the movement for the encirclement of Chipilly continued as French soldiers reached the outskirts of Lassigny and captured the village of Primecy.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1943—American bombers, escorted by Allied fighters, attacked German-held airfields at Vlissingen and Gilze-Rijen in The Netherlands, shooting down 34 enemy planes; Canadian losses in Sicily up to Aug. 4 were reported to be 1,895, including 385 killed; United States forces began shelling the Italian mainland around the Gulf of Sicily.

Napanee Plans Police Museum

NAPANEE — Napanee will soon have an added tourist attraction: the only police museum of its kind in Canada, according to Police Chief Joseph Paquette.

The only other museum similar is located in Regina, Saskatchewan, but the museum pertains to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. As plans now stand, a section of the Lennox and Addington County Museum will be set aside for the police exhibit.

The exhibit will be divided into several sections. Articles seized from criminals, i.e., firearms, and other types of weapons, will compose the majority of one section; while a second section will contain various devices used by the police in controlling suspects under arrest (these include handcuffs, blackjacks, "thumb comealongs", a device which was slipped over the thumb of the lawbreaker). The majority of these devices date back to the beginning of the century, and are no longer in use.

A third section will be devoted to documents of several types, such as old police court dockets and a copy of the criminal code, dated 1227; one document is dated as far back as 1874.

Chief Paquette pointed out that he has boxes of articles in his possession which he is donating as the nucleus of the museum. The donations have been coming to him since his plan became public and he is hoping that other people who have articles of interest will donate them to the museum; they will be picked up if the donors call or write him.

Kayak Carries Englishman From Lakehead to Montreal

TRENTON — A parking lot attendant from England should have acquired a lifetime of experience as a canoeist, on Canada's inland water routes, by the time he completes his Port Arthur to Montreal trip in September.

In the meantime Gerald Brailsford, 37, of Bradford, England continues to gather information to write a book entitled "Greenhorn on the Great Lakes."

Late yesterday Brailsford, who is making the trip in a 10 foot long kayak, paddled into No. 1 lock weary but still looking forward to the next leg of his four month undertaking. He travelled 30 miles from a start at Campbellford early in the morning.

Brailsford tried to immigrate to Canada in 1932 during the height of the depression. His application was refused then but his desire to see a new land never changed.

Then when he had his wife three years ago he looked for something to fill the void. He decided an adventure in Canada would be a challenge and set about planning the details.

He arrived at Montreal on May 15 with the kayak and 50 pounds of camping equipment. The journey to the lakehead with his paraphernalia was overland.

Since his departure from Port Arthur the worst that happened to him was at a dock when he overturned the canoe-like craft. His typewriter and camera were under the with the food and sleeping items stowed inside the canvas covered hull.

Brailsford expects to be back in Montreal in three weeks time. He'll return to England aboard the Empress of Canada and spend a month adding the finishing touches to his story. He's managed to chronicle each day's observations as he moves from place to place.

Already the determined visitor has formed a number of impressions about Canada and the vastness of the great lakes system. More than anything else, however, he has noticed the friendliness and generosity of the people he has been meeting.

The memories he'll have when he gets back to work at the parking lot in Bradford are reward enough for all the effort required to paddle and sail the long distance, he says.

Plans Completed For Coe Hill Fair

Styled as the "showplace of North Hastings," the Wollaston township Coe Hill Fair will hold its 86th annual exhibition on Friday and Saturday of this week, Aug. 23 and 24.

Friday is preparation day with the fair itself to be held on Saturday.

Featured will be the North Hastings 4-H achievement day; Junior Calf Club and livestock showing. A prize list of more than $4,000 is being offered.

Special events include step dancing contests, old time fiddling and wood chopping contests, ladies' nail driving, log sawing and pie eating contests.

The fair will be concluded with a dance in the agricultural hall at night.

WILLIAM ALFRED COLES

In failing health for the past five years, William Alfred Coles, 283 Albert Street, died in the Belleville General Hospital on Saturday evening.

Mr. Coles was born in Bradninch, England, 81 years ago, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Walter Coles. He had resided in Belleville for the past 13 years but spent 30 years of his life at Shannonville.

He came to Canada in 1913 and joined the old Grand Trunk Railway, as a section man. He rose to foreman and retired in 1952.

Mr. Coles enlisted with the 38th Battalion in 1915 and served overseas, being twice wounded. He was discharged in 1918. Since residing in the city, Mr. Coles had taken an active interest in the Senior Citizens' Club.

He was a member of Tabernacle United Church. Surviving are his wife, the former Alice Lydia Massingham, one daughter, Mrs. Bruce (Dorothy) Grace, Lake Orion, Michigan, and four grandsons.

Mr. Coles is resting at the Pinkston and Luscombe Funeral Home. Service will be held in the chapel on Tuesday, Aug. 20 at 2:30.

Interment will be in Belleville cemetery with Rev. Robert Crooks officiating.

MRS. JOSEPH T. ROTHWELL

The funeral for Mrs. Alberta Charlotte Rothwell was held from the John R. Bush Funeral Home on Saturday afternoon.

Rev. Alfred Poulter conducted the service in the chapel and the committal rites at Belleville cemetery.

The bearers were Dickson Hutchinson, Roger Orrell, Maxwell Lush, Melbourne and Paul Bertrand and Kenneth Thompson.

MISS FLORENCE JANE (Flossie) Rosebush
Stirling

STIRLING — Following an illness of three years, Miss Florence Jane (Flossie) Rosebush, died in the Belleville General Hospital on Saturday.

Miss Rosebush was born in Sidney township, 76 years ago a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Rosebush and has resided in the Stirling district all of her life. MRS. ARTHUR WRIGHTMYER

The funeral for Mrs. Mabel Wrightmyer was held from the Thompson Funeral Chapel on Saturday morning.

Rev. Alfred Poulter conducted the service in the chapel and also said the graveside prayers at Belleville Cemetery.

On Friday evening the members of Minerva Chapter No. 138 Order of the Eastern Star held a memorial service in the Funeral Chapel with Worthy Mistress Arline Ashbury in charge, assisted by Adam Stalker, George and Viola Greatrix and Frances Mercer.

The bearers were Keith Chambers, Reuben Freeman, Vernon Post, Steven Greeja, William Enright and Earle Elliott.

MRS. WALTER BEVAN

In failing health for five years, Mrs. Maria Bevan, 290 Herchimer Avenue, died in the Belleville General Hospital on Friday evening.

Mrs. Bevan was born in Liverpool, England, 91 years ago, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Brenan and had resided in the community for a number of years.

Mrs. Bevan was a member of St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill, Church and was active in parish work when health permitted. Surviving is one daughter, Mrs. R. T. "Tim" (Agnes) Norridge of Belleville, two granddaughters, Mrs. Ralph (Joan) Nelson of Belleville, Mrs. Richard (Doris) Maki, North Bay, one grandson, Leslie Norridge, Belleville and three great grandchildren.

Her husband, Walter Bevan, died some years ago. She was the last of her family.

Mrs. Bevan is resting at the Thompson Funeral Chapel.

Service will be held in the chapel this afternoon at two o'clock. Interment will be in Belleville Cemetery with Rev. Arnold Dunlop officiating.

CWL Opens Convention In Toronto

WINNIPEG (CP) — Delegates to the Catholic Women's League of Canada convention were told Sunday their 48th annual meeting should make a serious beginning to update the organization.

Rev. Thomas J. McCarthy of St. Catharines, Ont., retiring league national director, was addressing the opening of the convention, first in Winnipeg since 1920.

He said the convention carries "a more than normal" load in its agenda and constitutional bylaw revision.

The league, after revisions approved at the convention are made, should take immediate steps to continue revising the lay group to "make it as even more effective agency, social and religious," he said.

The league has untapped potential, he said, that could be developed in a "well-thought-out overhaul of image" and function.

The convention ends Thursday. It has attracted 200 delegates representing a membership of about 165,000 in Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Colden Wed for 50 Years

Lifetime residents of the Roslin area, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Colden were "at home" Saturday to about 100 friends and relatives on their 50th wedding anniversary.

All of the couple's six children and most of their grandchildren and great grandchildren attended the anniversary. Among the congratulatory messages received were telegrams from Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield and Hastings M.P. Lee Grills.

Anniversary gifts received included a studio couch from members of the community; a lamp from the Trinity United Church Women and a chime clock from the family.

Retired for the past seven years, Mr. Colden worked for more than 30 years as a miller — first at the Tweed Feed Mill and later for about 15 years at the Chisholm Brothers' grist mill east of Roslin. Mrs. Colden is the former Elizabeth Minnie.

The couple are members of Trinity United Church at Roslin.

They have five sons, Stafford, Harold and Walter, all of Roslin; Jack of Picton and Max of Belleville, and one daughter, Mrs. Earl (Yvonne) Howard of Cobourg.

Local Talent At Art Show

Tweed, which has two progressive art schools in the district, had a number of talented artists of considerable ability participating in Guelph's out door art show, the "painting on the green", from August 16 to 17.

Artists were entitled to enter six paintings for the hanging fee of $1; and all crafts and paintings were up for sale.

Mrs. Enid Reed, the well-known artist of Agincourt, sketched portraits in pastel and black and white for a nominal fee.

Guest artists were: D. Matkey, Houstoun, Henri Van Bentum, Frances-Anne Johnston, Peter Haworth, B. Cogsill Haworth, Gus Wiseman, and Frederick Hagan, all of Toronto, and Miss Molly Middleton of the University of Guelph, and Francoi Dallegret from Montreal.

A painting by the noted Guelph artists, Evan MacDonald, was on view, and completed for the show. Many prizes were donated by generous donors and will be awarded for the best entries. There will be a grand prize of $50.

MR. AND MRS. RAYMOND G. FINKLE

Finkle — Belsey

Christ Church was the scene when Canon R. B. De Blois Wright officiated at the wedding ceremony of Karen Lynne Belsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Belsey, Belleville, and Raymond Glen Finkle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allyn Finkle of Foxboro. John C. Withers rendered the traditional wedding music accompanying the six choir boys.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of pure silk chiffon over taffeta, featuring a jewel neckline and a fitted bodice with a loose cape over the taffeta; the yoke and short sleeves were of Swiss lace. The matching chapel length train which fell from mid-back, was attached by four tiny bows. The bride's headpiece was a crown of organza, trimmed with jeed pearls and tiny bo peeals crystals holding a three layered silk illusion veil. She carried a crescent bouquet of shasta daisies encircled with polynesian sunset roses and ribbons of stephanotis and ivy.

Miss Barbara Belsey, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore ice-nile green organza in a cage effect with gathered ruffled trim on the sleeves and outlining the hem. She carried a nosegay of shasta daisies and pink roses. Also attending the bride were Mrs. Bette Ross of Port Hope and Miss Barbara Cook of Scarborough. They were identically attired to the maid of honor.

Attending the bridegroom was Anthony Meddings; while the ushers were Harold Finkle, brother of the groom and Jack Reppard. Robert Belsey, brother of the bride, assisted as a server during the ceremony.

The wedding reception was held at the Belleville Shrine Club, where the mother of the bride received the guests wearing an imported pure silk worsted lime A-line dress featuring a jewel neckline with guipure lace yoke and bracelet length bell sleeves. White accessories and a corsage of white sweetheart roses completed her ensemble.

The mother of the bridegroom assisted wearing an iceturquoise sheath in worsted silk featuring a rolled neckline and three quarter length sleeves of guipure lace. A matching mohair hat and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses were also worn.

For the wedding trip to Bermuda, the bride donned a pure Irish linen print dress and coat ensemble, bright yellow straw hat, white accessories and a corsage of tinted white "mums. Upon their return, the couple will reside in Belleville.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM C. SEYMOUR

Seymour — Lough

On Saturday, Aug. 10, 1968, Wallbridge United Church was the setting when Joan Lough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Lough, Belleville, RR2, was united in marriage to William Charles Seymour, foster son of Mrs. W D Kleinsteuber, Tweed RR1, and the late Mr. Kleinsteuber. Rev R. J Bunner officiated at the ceremony when wedding music was rendered by Mrs. A Lott who accompanied the soloist Mrs. Weigand.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length sheath styled gown of white nylon organza over taffeta with the bodice featuring a portrait neckline and long lily-point sleeves. A matching sleeveless coat of lace and organza swept into a chapel train. Her crown headdress of lace petals was caught to a nylon tulle shoulder length veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses with trailing ivy.

The maid of honor Miss Sandra Lough, sister of the bride and the bridesmaids Miss Jane Douglas of Port Hope and Mrs. Pat Lenord of Belleville were dressed alike. All wore floor-length sleeveless gowns of capri blue silk organza over taffeta with flower waistlines, outlined with band of beads with bows at back. Each carried a bouquet of white and blue tinted carnations. Little Miss Sharon Lough, sister of the bride as flower girl, wore a floor-length gown of white crepe with capri blue organza trim.

Gregory Morton of Port Hope attended the bridegroom while the ushers were Donald Seymour, brother of the bridegroom and Robert Lough, brother of the bride.

At the reception in the Legion Hall, Belleville, the bride's mother received the guests wearing a pink A-line dress with matching coat, accessories and a corsage of pink and white carnations. Mrs. D Kleinsteuber assisted, wearing a navy print dress, white and navy accessories, and a corsage of pink and white carnations.

For the honeymoon trip to points in the United States, the bride wore a turquoise blue coat and dress ensemble with white accessories and a corsage of pink and white carnations.

On return Mr. and Mrs. Seymour will reside in Trenton.

Club Enjoys Bus Trip

With ideal weather conditions 36 members of the Prince Edward-Belleville Ladies' Club enjoyed a bus trip last Wednesday.

All gathered at the Recreation Centre at nine o'clock with the first stop made at Bon Echo Park on Mazinaw Lake where a tasty dinner was enjoyed at the Kimberley Lodge there.

In the afternoon the bus continued through Eganville, Cobden and Renfrew and stopped at Perth where the group enjoyed supper, and returned to Belleville at 9.15 p.m. with all reporting a most enjoyable outing.

Another bus trip to Hamilton is planned for September 11.

Philippa Faulkner has received a Master of Fine Arts Degree at the Instituto Allende, San Miguel De Allende, G Te. Mexico, incorporated with the University of Guanjuato.

Business and Professional Clubs Name President

QUEBEC (CP) — Margaret Ashdown says if she has a hobby, it is the improvement of the status of women, which makes the time excellent for her—Mrs. Ashdown will be president of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs for the next two years.

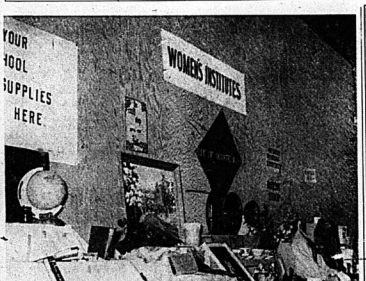
She was elected Wednesday during the federation's five-day annual biennial meeting here.

Mrs. Ashdown said in an interview it was as a result of a personal experience that she joined the organization to work through it for recognition for working women.

Because of her sex she had been excluded from a dinner to celebrate the successful completion of a project she had worked on. She decided then and there to work to protest and prevent such situations occurring.

She says she feels discrimination against women in the work force is waning, and has never been pland and deliberate.

"But I feel we must improve the climate, change the climate. There is still a cultural lag.



"The status of women royal commission should be an excellent vehicle for publicity for the purpose," she said.

Mrs. Ashdown says apart from the one experience, she has not suffered personally from discrimination.

"I was fortunate enough to marry a man who was a greater feminist than I," she says of her late husband, Edward Ashdown, who encouraged her in her work and club efforts.

She says she believes the last great hurdle for women is in their getting senior posts when they are qualified.

One of her first duties as president will be to lead a Canadian delegation of 240 women to London next week for a triennial convention of the international federation. They take with them an invitation to hold the 1971 international triennial in Edmonton.

Interesting W.I. Display

The area Women's Institutes had several displays at the Fair, this one was located in the horticultural building. Every imaginable article was exhibited, with school supplies on sale. The Institutes were also responsible for the efficient meal service in the Junior Farmer Building. Anyone who ate there will agree the trip to the Fair was worthwhile, if only for the delicious meals served.

Young Man Can't Understand Canadian Girls

Dear Doris: I am writing you regarding your list of books on Sex and Dating for a young man. For the past few years, I was an deeply involved in politics that I lost all my girl friends. Now I would like to start again a new life and live like everybody else, but find it quite difficult to get the kind of girls I like interested in me.

Always tried to be nice and treat them like ladies, but they don't appreciate it. I maybe do not understand them or vice versa. I am considered an old-timer. Perhaps you could give me some hints on how to find and treat Canadian girls besides sex. — New Canadian

Dear New Canadian: And girls complain to me that it is the boys who are only interested in sex.

It just isn't so, either way, believe me. But now that you have come to and are looking around, the assortment of eligible members of the fair sex of your age group has dwindled. Could it be that the "ladies" are now married?

Read up on Canadian dating practices, by selecting from the literature I have listed for you. Your kind of gal will find your old-timer manners attractive. Don't reform; just have circulating.

Dear Doris: I had a few shock treatments about four years ago. They affected my memory, even though my psychiatrist said they weren't strong enough. I am better than I was but can't remember some things, which irritates me. Also, I would like to work again in an office, a couple of days a week if possible, but I haven't confidence in myself, because of this.

Do you know if this is a common thing, after people have treatments? I always had a good memory. — Forgetful

Dear Forgetful: People do have trouble remembering things after shock treatments, some people. Usually this is quite temporary.

You can improve your memory by using some recommended techniques (enclosed). One of them — that I use regularly — is to keep pencil and pad right at hand. Without it I would forget dates, phone calls, reference details intended for readers, and what to have for dinner.

Dear Doris: I'm sending you the other three stanzas of Midwinter Night's Dream, for which a reader is asking. The Canadian poet; William Wilfred Campbell, published it in 1899, in a volume called Lake Lyrics and Other Poems. — M. W.

Dear M. W.: Thank you. It seems a shivering poet was not eulogizing soft summer days but was dreaming his way back to a soft summer romance.

Now that we have the whole thing, anybody else want a copy?

Ask Doris for the information you need. If she doesn't know she'll find out from one of her consultants. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for her private reply.

Ann Landers

Mode of Transportation Is A Dump Truck

DEAR ANN LANDERS — First let's get one thing straight. I am not a teen-ager. I'm 41 years of age and I hold a responsible position in a bank.

My husband died five years ago and I have been going with a man who owns a fertilizer business. (I'm fed up on jokes about his business and I have heard them all, so please don't come up with any.)

Last night was Horace's lodge dinner. He belongs to the Moose. I got dressed up in a silk outfit and had my hair set and my nails manicured. I even bought a brocaded shoulder stole for the affair.

ANN LANDERS

Horace came for me a little late but I didn't say anything. I almost died when I saw he was driving his dump truck. I'm not sure but I think it had some fertilizer in it. All he said was, "I sold the Buick and the new car won't be here till next month."

I am not a snob but I don't think a dump truck is proper transportation for a middle-aged couple. Should I refuse to ride in it in the future? — EMBARRASSED.

DEAR EM — A dump truck is all right for a trip to the beach, maybe, but surely not to a banquet — with you in a brocaded stole, yet. Tell Horace you'd prefer to take the bus until the new car comes in, if it's all the same to him.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am 21 years old and the mother of a beautiful little daughter. The father of my child refused to marry me. Although I was hurt at first I have come to the conclusion it was all for the best. He was a bum.

I am very proud of Rochelle and my family and friends know she has no legal father. They treat her kindly and nothing is ever said about it.

Recently I took a new job and moved to another section of town. When I was shopping in the market Saturday a new neighbor asked, "What does your husband do?" I replied "The baby's father did not marry me. She is an out-of-wedlock child."

The woman's mouth dropped open and she yelled at the top of her lungs, "HOW DID IT HAPPEN!" She knows very well how it happened. Why would she ask such a dumb question?

Please tell me what to say to cruel people who ask questions that are none of their business? — ALONE BUT PROUD.

DEAR A. BUT P. — "What does your husband do?" might be a tactless question from a casual acquaintance but it is not cruel. You invited the cruel question ("How did it happen?") when you volunteered the information that the baby's father did not marry you.

In the future if you are asked about the baby's father, simply say, "He is a plumber — or whatever he is — but we are living apart."

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I read with interest the quote in today's column from a French philosopher who said, "There are no frigid women! Only clumsy men!"

Here's another one, from a Rumanian poet: "If a woman does not get the man she wants, God help the man she gets."

If you fail to see the connection, I'll point it out. Some men are clumsy because they don't get the cooperation. And the reason they don't get the cooperation is because the lady didn't get the man she wanted. Get it? — THE HUNGARIAN POET.

DEAR HUNG. — Are you commenting or apologizing? Thanks for the pearl, Ded.

Friend Requests Summer Apple Pie for Dessert

By MARY MOORE

We have a dear friend living 40 miles away who phones and naughtily announces he will come for dinner if we will make him a summer apple pie for dessert. He is a great favorite so I made two — one for him to take home with him.

We served it with room-temperature cheese and sherry and unabashedly claim it to be apple pie par excellence.

SUMMER APPLE PIE (two deep two-crust pies)

Pastry:
4 cups sifted but unsifted all-purpose flour
1 one-third cups shortening
¼ cup butter
2 teaspoons salt
¼ cup cold water

Apple Filling:
16 summer apples (about 2½" diameter)
1½ cups sugar
about ½ teaspoon nutmeg

Make Pastry by cutting shortening and butter into flour and salt until size of large peas. Add cold water, 1 tablespoon at a time, tossing with fork until all flour is dampened. Press into four balls of equal size. Roll out thinly to fit two large deep 9" pie plates.

Wash, pare, core and slice summer apples to fill both crusts heaping full but be sure to have ¼ cup sugar measured beside each pie plate and sprinkle apple slices with sugar as you fill each. Sprinkle top of both sparingly with nutmeg. Roll out two top crusts, fold over and gash centres. Moisten edges of bottom crusts and carefully cover with top crusts. (This pastry is tender. I transferred mine from pastry board by lifting with two egg turners.) Trim and crimp edges. Brush tops with mixture of 2 tablespoons each milk and sugar to glaze. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. 10 minutes then reduce heat to 350 deg. Fahr. for 35 minutes longer or until juice bubbles through gashes and when apples are tested through gashes with point of knife they are tender. If possible serve warm.

MONDAY

Mixed Grill: Lamb Chop, Bacon, Chicken Livers, Crumbed Tomato Halves; Creamed Cauliflower; Hot Rolls; Plum Cobbler; Iced Coffee.

NOTE: If you make two pies and need only one for current meal you can 1) refrigerate one pie unbaked for a day or two and bake for dessert later on, or-2) bake both and freeze one for future. A frozen pie will have to be thawed and warmed in a slow oven.

Always Wanted to Act

OTTAWA (CP) — Acting. The busy family is part of Doris Beckett's life. It's her way of combatting the housework blues.

In her early childhood in England, she caught stage fever.

Her family, which included two brothers and a sister, lived in the village of Langley, and her parents took the children the 20 miles to London to theatrical performances and ballets.

High school drama only served to increase her interest and by the time she was 18 all she wanted to do was act.

"My parents put their feet down and promptly sent me to business college. I guess they realized what uncertain living actresses make unless they're good."

Mrs. Beckett came to Ottawa in 1957 and soon she was acting in Ottawa Little Theatre productions.

"I met my husband about two months after I got here and we were married the following year."

Now they live with their three sons, Warren, 9, Graham, 7, and Blair, 3 in a pleasant home in the suburbs.

Through the years Mrs. Beckett has continued to act in local theatre productions but nothing was as exciting as the Dominion Drama Festival last year in St. John's, Nfld.

The play, The Blood is Strong, by Lister Sinclair, was chosen best play in the Eastern Ontario Drama League before going on to the festival where, Mrs. Beckett said ruefully, "we were slaughtered."

"Not actually," she added quickly, "but the adjudicator, who was extremely fair, disagreed with the interpretation of the play. But I did get an honorable mention for supporting actress.

Acting in plays takes time and the family must rely on it. "It requires a tremendous amount," Mrs. Beckett said. "But it's worth it."

Many people have criticized me for being away from home so much last summer," she admits. But her husband, who has no interest in acting, has "resigned himself to the fact that this is part of my life."

"If I'm in a play I'm much more alive, more receptive to things than I would be just by sitting around the house."

Catechist's Grave Recently Located

TYENDINAGA RESERVE — Through the efforts of Mrs. F. Downing, chaplain of the Mohawks of Tyendinaga, the grave of the catechist who accompanied the original settlers of the reserve has been located in the reserve cemetery.

John Ochechuskoh died June 1810. He was appointed catechist by the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in 1780, when the Mohawks were still at Fort Hunter in the Mohawk Valley.

He later fled with them to Lachine, and following the landing on May 22, 1784, the service of thanksgiving as they grouped about the upturned canoe. On the canoe rested the stained altar cloth, a Bible, and all the pieces of communion silver given them in 1714 by Queen Anne. Part of that silver, together with the Bible, is now in Brantford.

The grave has evidently been lost for years, and the chaplain requested Chief Earl Hill and the council members to have the grave restored and cared for.

Bride-to-Be Honored by S. S. Teachers

Recently members of Centenary Sunday School teachers and executive held a surprise shower at the home of Mrs. Jack Empey, for one of their teachers, Miss Joan Emerson, a September bride-to-be.

Joan was presented with a red rose corsage by Mrs. Empey and an evening of fun and fellowship followed.

A cookbook was compiled and presented to the bride-elect with each person contributing her favorite recipe. An apron was also given with the name of each member printed on it in liquid embroidery.

Highlight of the evening was a robe which was designed, made and modelled by the hostess.

John Best presented Joan with a gift of cornflower crystal on behalf of the Sunday School and recalled the years Joan had spent not only as a student, but the many hours of service she has given as a Sunday School teacher.

Joan expressed appreciation for the gifts and invited everyone to visit her future home.

A dainty lunch was served by the hostess and a delightful evening was brought to a close with a message and prayer by Rev. John Bunner.

Women's Institutes

LONSDALE WI

NAPANEE — The members of the Lonsdale branch of the Women's Institute and their three guests who attended the July meeting heard an interesting program which had been prepared by Mrs. Bernard Walsh, chairman of the health committee. While she herself was unable to attend, Mrs. Eric Campbell read the paper on caution in using drugs which Mrs. Walsh had prepared. She pointed out the tragic result of the use of thalidomide by expectant mothers as an example of what could happen if new drugs were used before they have been properly tested.

Since this was Farm Safety Week, the address on that subject was timely. The speaker was Mrs. Percy Carman of Marmora, who dwelt principally on safety in the home, particularly on the caution which must be taken to keep poisonous substances out of the reach of small tots. The two-year-old is especially curious and will eat or drink anything no matter what the taste, since he is at the active learning stage and so many experiences are new. Medicines, cleaning substances, and above all, insecticides, must be kept out of the reach of little hands, preferably under lock and key, she stressed.

Other phases of safety were treated also, safety in lighting and extinguishing fires when camping; traffic safety, especially for children with bicycles, and safety in common things in the home, such as keeping stairs free.

Mrs. Carman's talk was well prepared, with graphic illustrations. She also provided her listeners with booklets.

Mrs. Brooks Allen, the president, was in charge of the meeting.

MIXES WORK WITH PLAY

BUDAPEST (AP) — A Hungarian accused of combining apartment sales and fraudulent marriage offers into a $33,000 business is up for trial. Authorities said Sandor Kesztheiyi proposed to 10 women and sold apartments to three of them, promising to buy new ones after the wedding.

Sidney South WI Holds Bake Sale

A week ago Sidney South W.I. held a successful bake sale at Skinhut cottages near Warkworth.

Mrs. H. Nobes, Mrs. G. Sills, and Mrs. M. Nobes were in charge of selling the baked goods which ranged from pies, cakes and cookies to homemade bread and buns.

A profit of $25.00 was realized from the sale with donations still to come in.

At 70, Pope Prepares for His Longest Journey as Pontiff

VATICAN CITY (AP) — With doctors certifying his good health, 70-year-old Pope Paul prepared today for his longest journey since he became pontiff in June, 1963.

The Pope will board a plane Thursday morning for a 12-hour flight to Bogota, capital of Colombia.

The pontiff will attend the 39th International Eucharistic Congress being held in Bogota. He journeyed to the last congress in Bombay, India in December, 1964.

Pope Paul expressed hope Sunday that the congress would help alleviate the misery of Latin America's poor and oppressed.

He said he hopes it will engender an intensive effort "that would invite the well-off, the developed peoples and economic and political authorities to resolve the two grave situations, of fixed authorities on one side, and intense misery on the other."

Speaking at his summer residence, Castel Gandolfo, the pontiff expressed his concern for poverty one week after a group of young Roman Catholic priests and laymen barricaded themselves in the main cathedral of Santiago, Chile, to protest what they called the church's alliance with the rich against the poor.

The demonstrators said elaborate plans for the papal visit to Bogota exemplified wasteful spending of funds that would better have gone to the poor.

The Pope said he looks forward to meeting the Colombian poor. He is expected to talk with the country's peasants Friday morning, the day after he arrives in Bogtoa for the sixth trip outside Italy during his reign.

Church Has Too Long Flaunted Its Wealth

LONDON (CP) — Most Rev. Howard Clark, Anglican primate of Canada, told worshippers in Westminster Abbey today that the church has for too long presented a face of richness, power and triumph to the world.

The only face the church should have is one lined and weathered, marked and worn by the struggle to serve others, said Archbishop Clark, taking a leading part in the Lambeth Conference or Anglican bishops here.

"The church must turn its back on power and position and live only for the service of others," said the Canadian primate, preaching to the 800-year-old abbey where all of England's sovereigns have been crowned.

"The only claim Christians can make is the claim to serve."

Archbishop Clark cited as a praiseworthy example Montreal's Cardinal Leger, who gives up his Roman Catholic archdiocese earlier this year to work among lepers in Africa.

Most of the other 36 Canadian bishops attending the Lambeth Conference disappeared all over Britain to preach in city and country parishes as part of a missionary weekend.

The project will reach a climax tonight, with a mass communion service in West London's huge White City Stadium, with 120 bishops and a congregation expected to number more than 15,000.

It has been one year since the pontiff fell ill because of a prostate condition. He underwent surgery last Nov. 8 for removal of an inflamed prostate and did not resume his normal activities until Dec. 8. As recently as Easter he still looked tired, but in the last few weeks he has seemed fit and vigorous.

In July, leftist newspapers hinted that the pontiff was still not well enough to endure the trip to Bogota. Papal doctors denied the stories, saying his health was fine.

Pope Paul, his aides and many journalists accompanying him on the three-day trip have undergone a special physical examination, with emphasis on the heart, because of Bogota's high altitude.

As far as is known, however, the Pope has never had trouble with his heart.

In Bogota, a special envoy of the Pope opened the congress Sunday with a plea for world social and economic justice.

Giacomo Cardinal Lercaro told an open-air audience of nearly 100,000 persons that those who shoulder "civilian responsibilities" must work toward "an equitable distribution of riches."

"Let there not be someone who has tunics while another has nothing to cover himself, let there not be someone eating in abundance while another starves; let all have homes and not hovels," the Cardinal declared.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"Let's not overdo it, Mrs. Butterworth. All you have to say is, 'Dinner is served!' "

Catholics Clash Over 'Pill' Ban

LONDON (AP) — Roman Catholics scuffled Sunday outside Westminster Cathedral when groups for and against the Pope's ban on artificial birth control came face to face.

Crowds pouring out of Sunday high mass were confronted by posters urging: "Show compassion. Good priests are needed."

A hundred demonstrators from a suburban church, whose priest has been suspended on the birth control issue, were recruiting support for a planned protest march across London.

On the cathedral steps, a counter-demonstration quickly developed.

A banner was unfurled: "We support the Pope, Catholics, think before you act."

An elderly woman shouted: "Everybody in support of the Pope over here!"

A man who criticized her was told: "You're a bad Catholic."

Within moments, shouts of "hypocrite" and "traitor" were being traded.

The argument grew heated. Two men started scuffling and had to be separated by friends.

Reconciliation Ends in Death

EDINBURGH (CP) — An Irish farm laborer, who had emigrated to Canada, came back to shoot his estranged wife and then turned the pistol on himself during a reconciliation attempt in a Roman Catholic presbytery Saturday.

Margaret Kearney, 25, and her 38-year-old husband, Daniel, died side by side without a priest having time to administer the last rites of the church.

Msgr. Peter Connolly of St. Cuthbert's Church, who had attempted the reconciliation, was too shocked to comment on the double shooting.

Few Poor Peons Have Heard Pope's Ban on La Pildora

LA CALERA, Colombia (AP) — The day Pope Paul spoke out against artificial birth control devices, Jacinto Gerena Murcia, 73, worked on a tiny corn patch behind his house.

Despite his age and the oxygen-thin atmosphere in this 10,000-foot high village, Gerena still hires out as a farm hand when work is available.

Farming and cement making are the main economic activities in this chilly, clammy town of 10,000, an hour's drive up the mountains from Bogota, the Colombia capital Pope Paul will visit later this month in a historic first trip to Latin America.

Gerena is the father of 14 children, 12 of them still living. The youngest is an ample-cheeked girl of 18 months. Gerena's wife is a stout, pleasant woman of 44.

"We've been married 30 years," she smiled. "I was only 14."

The day of the Pope's encyclical, 2,054 Colombians were born. Was there concern in La Calera about the explosive birth rate? Had they heard of the Pope's encyclical?

Mrs. Gerena had heard something about the Pope on the neighbor's radio. "It had to do with the family," she said, uncertain of the precise subject. But her husband, like most of La Calera's villagers, had not.

Mrs. Maria Elena Orjuela de Aguilar, 29, knew of the encyclical and had definite views on its message. She has six children, she said, and there will be no more.

"There's no way to feed them."

"I doubt very much many here have heard of the Pope's message," said Eduardo Vilar, 32, the town government secretary. He earns 823 pesos, about $49 a month with which he supports six children and a wife.

"I'm afraid I'm all for La Pildora (the pill)," he said.

La Calera, far from the world of popes, presidents, kings and dictators is typical of rural Latin America. Commenting on the papal statement, one of Colombia's best known newspaper columnists, Enrique Santos, wrote: "In Colombia, four-fifths of the population will not read or understand the encyclical."

Here, as in the rest of Latin America, birth control is the concern of a minority—the clergy, professionals, the upper and middle classes.

The papal encyclical aroused sharp comment among laymen and professionals in Bogota where the Pope will visit for three days Aug. 22-24. The Colombia Roman Catholic hierarchy, described as the most conservative in the Western Hemisphere, lined up solidly behind the Pope. Leading professionals, including Roman Catholics, criticized the message as a "step backward" in the birth control problem.

There is expectation in lay circles that the birth-control controversy, this time involving Roman Catholic liberal militants from other countries, notably Brazil, may surface during the papal visit.

Reluctant Horse Owner Now Winner

By JERRY HOFF
(Staff Reporter)

George Blatherwick of Shannonville is hooked on harness racing after his first year in the sport.

And a first year, as this has been for the owner of the Black Diamond Stake Race winner, would hook anyone!

"My friends talked me into buying a horse three years ago," Blatherwick said, "so I picked up this colt from Jack Mitchell of Battersea."

That colt, now a three-year-gelding named Justa Tom, has run in 13 races for Blatherwick this year and never finished out of the money. Those 13 starts include wins in the two biggest stake races in the area.

Justa Tom went to Kingston on Aug. 5 for the Hiram Walker Stake Race and won that, then came back to Belleville Saturday night to close the Fair with a 2:12.0 win in the Black Diamond Stake Race.

"He's done enough this year," said the proud owner Saturday night after the Black Diamond. "I'm going to put him out to grass for the rest of the year. He deserves it."

After 13 races as an owner, how does Blatherwick feel about the friends who talked him into buying Justa Tom three years ago? "They did me quite a favor," the owner smiled, "it love it, and now I'm hooked. I have his half-sister, an eight-week old colt and I'm going to run that one too."

Justa Tom took the race in two seconds more than his 2:10.0 win in Kingston at the Hiram Walker, his best time.

"But there was a heavy track," said driver-trainer Hugh Wemp, "and that accounts for some of the difference.

"And there was no one pushing him," Wemp continued. "This is the first year I've ever raced in the Stakes, and I've been driving since I was big enough to hold the reins. It's been a good year and a good horse. He's given me six wins and always in the money.

Two out of three stake races isn't a bad record for us rookies and he finished second in the O'Keefe Stake, the only one he didn't win. You can't beat that."

Justa Tom took the Black Diamond in front of 2,802 fans who bet a record $23,922.00 at the pari mutuel windows.

Claude Wann paid the highest purse to win with $19.70 and the highest to place with $15.

The stake race was marred on the back stretch in the final lap by a three-horse pile up involving Typhoon Gratton, Way Hal and J. J. Frost. All three drivers and horses escaped serious injury but Way Hal is expected to be out of the entry list for a while because of bruises incurred in the accident.

Race results:

"Now Where Are We Going to Put This?"

Owner George Blatherwick (left) seems to be asking Justa Tom what to do with the Black Diamond Stake Race trophy when they get home. Driver Hugh Wemp is just plain proud. Wemp has driven the three-year-old gelding to wins in the Hiram Walker and Black Diamond Stake Races this month and finished second in the O'Keefe Stake Race in July.

Belligerent Joyces Lose; Forfeit Series

KINGSTON (Staff) — Bill Latchford, top hurler for the Belleville Joyces, EOBA Senior, was put out of the starting position in Sunday's EOBA playoff game at Kingston by a sore arm, but still managed to be the centre of attention in the game that Belleville forfeited 9-0 along with the EOBA title.

The lanky hurler relieved starter Rodger Hunter in the third with the Joyces trailing 4-1 in the fifth game of the best of seven series that Kingston led 3-1. When "Latch" came to bat in the top of the fourth, he singled. Outfielder Doug Dafoe promptly moved the pitcher to third with a stand-up double. The cat-off threw to home was wild, and Latch took the opportunity to race home.

That decision, one might say with more than some understatement, was the turning point of the game.

Latchford slid into home as Kingston catcher Wayne Carey scrambled for the ball by the Kingston bench. Pitcher Art Leeman moved in to cover home, took the flip from Carey, and tagged the runner.

Plate umpire Merv Bonney called him out.

The Belleville players didn't see it that way.

Player-coach Gary Goyer of Belleville charged out to home and was nose-to-nose with Bonney when third-base coach for the Joyces, Moe Hunter, took a running shot at the big ump and flattened him with a body-block.

The EOBA playoff convenors watching the game were then witnesses to a full-scale donnybrook with both the Belleville and Kingston benches and the grandstands erupting onto the field.

After some confusion, including an incident where Belleville's Wayne Woods turned to a fan and remarked, "You better get out of here," only to end up with a split lip (the fan was Danny White, brother-of Kingston's leading hitter Guy White), the officials managed to clear the field.

Kingston team captain Ron Earl and Goyer met at the plate and Goyer withdrew the Belleville team to end the game in a 9-0 forfeit by the Joyces.

Al Kelleher told us something like this would happen," Goyer said, referring to the absent Belleville coach. "He said we wouldn't get a break down here, and we didn't."

Kingston advances to the Ontario Baseball Association playoffs in Toronto as winners of the EOBA, 4-1.

Golden Mile Ties Game, Wins Series

Jim Aitken's two goals were enough to give Ellis Printers a 2-2 tie against Golden Mile on Saturday but it wasn't enough to save his team from elimination.

An earlier 4-0 victory gave Golden Mile the series in the Bellevile peewee soccer playoffs and moved them into the semi-finals against West End. The winner of this series will play the Idle Boys's in the championship round next Saturday.

In this weekend's game Bryan Goodfellow and Eddie Grills scored for Golden Mile. One of Jim Aitken's two goals came on a penalty shot.

The soccer season ends this Saturday as both the peewee and bantam divisions stage a year-end soccer championship playoff at Zwick's Island with the first game starting at 10 o'clock and games scheduled for every hour until champions are declared.

Golf Pros To Name Czar

NEW YORK (AP) — Bud Wilkinson, former Oklahoma football coach, is the man the pro tournament golfers want to run their organization. Wilkinson, now a business executive and part-time television announcer, may be tapped for the post today when the players announce plans and format for their new set-up in competition with the U.S. Professional Golfers Association. Wilkinson could not be reached immediately for comment, but several golfers say they think they recognize. He would be commissioner of big-time tournament play. Both the PGA and the players, who announced last week a breakaway from the parent organization to run their own tour have called press conferences today. Principally, the PGA will announce that a number of the tournament pros are not in sympathy with the players' revolt and probably will stick with the PGA. The PGA officials also will enunciate a determination to continue a golf tour under the PGA banner in competition with the so-called rebels.

Big Four Leaders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The nine points Hamilton Tiger-Cats scored Saturday in beating Saskatchewan Roughriders 9-3 caused hardly a ripple among the individual scoring leaders in the Eastern Football Conference.

Flanker Whit Tucker of Ottawa Rough Riders leads the scorers with an imposing 48 points.

Dave Jowett of Belleville were fourth with 282 points and Kingston's Bob and Lois Cossar were fifth with 280 points.

On Your Mark, Get Set--

Driver Frank Harnden and his navigator Terry Kemp pile out and run to the finishing check point of the sixth annual Waterson 450 Sports Car Rally Saturday at the Fair. The rally started at 9 p.m. Friday and covered a 450-mile course. Harnden and Kemp won the event by collecting the lowest number of penalty points.

Rough Rally

Route and Storm Make It Tough

Norm Storms and Gord Smith, organizers of the sixth annual Waterson 450 sports car rally held this weekend, combined with lightning, rain and fog to challenge 14 entries to one of the "roughest rallies the area has seen."

Storms and Smith laid out the 460 mile, 15 hour course which consisted of 90 per cent unpaved back roads bounded by Colborne to the west, Cloyne to the north, and Maberly to the east.

"I've never seen worse conditions," Smith said. "The cars were down to 10 mph in many sections and the lightning was flashing and running around on the ground so badly that some cars turned around and came back to the check points. It was like someone sitting on your front bumper and popping flash bulbs at you. Fourteen cars entered and ten finished."

The event was observed by Bruce Simpson, Ontario rally chairman from Toronto, for possible inclusion as a provincial championship event for 1969. Simpson said he couldn't say for sure, but everything looked "all right." and he would write the Quinte Auto Sport Club with the final decision.

Belleville's Frank Harden, driver, and Terry Kemp, navigator, won the-event in an Austin Mini with 246 penalty points. Kingston's Jim Bean and Wally Pitt finished with 252 points for second; Fred McLaughlin and W. C. Nicholson were third with 281 points; John Cameron and

Stampeders Prance in the Rain to First Place Position

WINNIPEG (CP) — Wet field or dry, it makes no difference to Peter Liske and his army of pass receivers.

Calgary Stampeders took the rain-soaked route to first place in the Western Football Conference Sunday, trouncing Winnipeg Blue Bombers 31-0. The Stampeders shrugged off the dampness as 313-yard aerial attack.

"It was a bit sloppy in the first quarter," Liske said, "but the field conditions weren't that bad—it was a matter of concentration."

With four games behind them, the Stamps have three wins and a loss for six points one better than Saskatchewan Roughriders and Edmonton Eskimos.

The Roughriders, 9-3 losers to Hamilton Tiger-Cats Saturday night, have two wins and a tie in five games while the Eskimos are 2-1-1. B.C. Lions have one win in three starts and the Bombers are winless in four outings.

The Blue Bombers, absorbing their second pasting from Calgary on successive Sundays, managed to keep play in the Calgary end for most of the first quarter when the rain was at its heaviest.

Stampeders coach Jerry Williams credited Liske with pulling Calgary out and said his defence "did a good job."

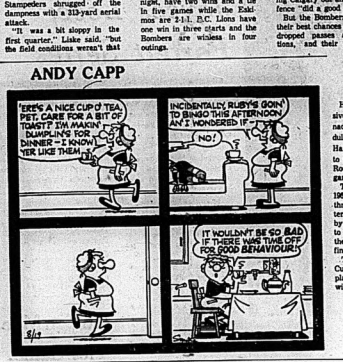
But the Bombers threw away their best chances with fumbles, dropped passes and interceptions, and their total offence amounted to only 49 yards. Dave Raimey, their fleet halfback, was repeatedly stopped for losses and netted only 26 yards in 10 carries.

The Bombers may have suffered another blow with an injury to halfback Butch Pressley, who went to the dressing room in the fourth quarter with shoulder damage and did not return.

It was the same shoulder he injured last year, but team officials said they hope the dislocation won't keep him out of the next game. Pressley said he probably will play in a shoulder harness.

Liske threw touchdown strikes of 12 yards to Bob McCarthy in the end zone and 54 yards to Dave Cranmer on a pass-and-run. He scored the other himself on a one-yard plunge over centre after interference was called against the Bombers on an end zone pass.

Larry Robinson, who plucked off one of Calgary's three pass interceptions, had a 13-point afternoon with three converts, field goals of 14 and 36 yards and three singles off wide field goal attempts.



Jim Furlong rounded out Stampeders scoring with a 65-yard single when his punt went over Rich Watson's head and was conceded.

Calgary's first touchdown march started from the Stampeders' 46-yard line. A 28-yard pass to Cranmer put them on the 12 and McCarthy outraced defender to the corner of the end zone to take the scoring pass.

The second touchdown started from the Calgary 10 after a holding penalty against the Stampeders. Liske threw 35 yards to Terry Evanshen on second down and two plays later found Cranmer in the clear from the Winnipeg 54.

Winnipeg got nowhere after the kickoff and Ed Ulmer, getting set to punt, fumbled a high snap into Harrison's hands. Then came the interference call against the Bombers and Liske bulled straight ahead from the one for the touchdown.

Touted Grey Cup Replay Just a Yawn

HAMILTON (CP) — Defensive football returned to the Canadian Football League with a dull thud Saturday night as Hamilton Tiger-Cats lumbered to a 9-3 win over Saskatchewan Roughriders in an interlocking game before 24,393 restive fans.

The teams which met in the 1967 Grey Cup game struggled through a scoreless first quarter, Hamilton took an 8-0 lead by the half, Saskatchewan cut it to 8-2 after three quarters and the teams split singles in the final 15 minutes.

The victory leaves the Grey Cup champion Ticats in second place in the Eastern Conference with two wins and one loss. Saskatchewan is tied for second with Edmonton in the Western Conference, one point behind Calgary.

The only touchdown of the game came when Garney Henley, veteran defensive halfback for the Tiger-Cats, picked up a George Reed fumble and ran wide for 23 yards. Tommy Joe Coffey converted. Quarterback Joe Zuger kicked two singles.

For Saskatchewan, Bill Goods was wide on two field goal attempts of 17 and 33 yards. Both went for singles. The other Roughrider point came on a 55-yard punt single by Alan Ford.

Reed, second in scoring in the West last year with 90 points on 15 touchdowns, had been suffering from a broken toe until Saturday night's game. The big fullback, along with halfback Silas McKinnie, did most of the ground work for Roughriders. Reed picked up 95 yards and McKinnie rambled for 102 of Saskatewan's 252 yards along the ground.

In a game played mostly between the 25-yard stripes, Hamilton went 14 minutes and 28 seconds without a first down.

Both teams were hitting hard. Wilbert Scott, picked up by Hamilton after being cut by Montreal Alouettes, smashed Saskatchewan quarterback Ron Lancaster to the turf on one bruising play but he stayed in the game.

Among players helped off the field were Larry DeGraw, Jim Worden, Ted Page and Doug Mitchell. None was hurt severely.

Ford had a good night with a 47-yard average on 12 punts but Zuger was sensational, averaging 50.5 yards on 15 punts.

Hamilton parcelled out the running duties, Willie Bethea picking up 94 yards in 11 tries, Dave Fleming 36 on 10, Alan Smith 22 on two.

Each team intercepted once to kill scoring drives and midway through the second quarter, with the Roughriders trapped along their goal line, Lancaster flipped the ball back to Ford who quick-kicked on second down to relieve the pressure.

It was a game, of frustration for the players as well as the fans, who at one point were cheering first downs.

As the game stuttered toward a close, Lancaster began throwing in desperation as Hamilton kept up its steady blitz. One throw ended up in the third row of seats.

With little more than a minute to go, Worden went 30 yards off a screen pass, then Jason Francis dropped Lancaster's long toss as the minute flag was up.

Gambling on third down, Lancaster was incomplete with a long pass to the Hamilton five-yard line and from then on, the Tiger-Cats ran out the clock.

Olympic Swim Team Hopes for 5 Golds

WINNIPEG (CP) — Billed as Canada's strongest Olympic entry ever, a swimming team of nine men and six women has been chosen to go to Mexico City in October.

Coaches have hopes for at least five gold medal performances, three from a strong men's squad headed by freestyle sensation Ralph Hutton of Ocean Falls, B.C.

Canada hasn't produced a male gold medal swimmer since George Hodson in 1912, but men's coach George Gate of Montreal pins his hopes on Hutton.

Women's team hopes go to Elaine Tanner of Winnipeg, becoming an old hand at world competition at 17. Coach Ted Thomas of Calgary says he believes she has a chance for two golds.

The Olympic team was chosen Saturday night at the close of the Canadian championships here.

With 20-year-old Hutton on the men's squad are Jim Shaw, Toronto, Sandy Gilchrist, Ocean Falls, Ron Jacks and Ken Campbell, Vancouver, Tom Arnoso, Pointe Claire, Que., George Smith, Edmonton, Bill Mahoney, New Westminster, B.C., and Glen Finch, a native of Winnipeg now living in Los Altos, Calif.

On the women's team with backstroke star Miss Tanner are Marilyn Corson, Parry Sound, Ont., Marion Lay, Covina, Calif., Jeanne Warren, Vancouver and Anne Walton, Winnipeg.

"It's the strongest team we've ever had, without a doubt," said Gate.

Hutton, presented the Sir Edward Beatty Trophy as top swimmer in the championships.

Calgary's Larry Robinson footed 12 points in Sunday's Western Football Conference game at Winnipeg to take the individual scoring lead in the West.

Robinson made three converts, three singles and two field goals in the game which saw Winnipeg Blue Bombers blanked 31-0.

Bill Goods of Saskatchewan booted two singles in Hamilton against the Tiger Cats Saturday, that fell from the top scoring spot with Robinson's performance Sunday.

Hamilton beat Saskatchewan 9-3.

TORONTO (CP) — Teresa McDonell, 14, of Toronto, and Steve Mitruk, 21, of Hamilton, came through with final-day performances Saturday to win positions on Canada's Olympic gymnastics team.

The team, to reorecent Canada at the Olympic Games in Mexico City Oct. 12-27, was named following the two-day trials at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Women's team: Sandy Hartley, Vancouver; Suzanne Cloutier, Montreal, and Jenny Dichan, Marilyn Minaker and Teresa McDonnell, all of Toronto.

Men's team: Gil LaRose, Sid Jensen and Roger Dion, all Montreal, and Barry Brooker, Toronto, and Mitruk, Hamilton.

Teresa, younger sister of Susan McDonell who won a gold medal for Canada at the Pan-American Games in Winnipeg last year, had to beat out three other girls.

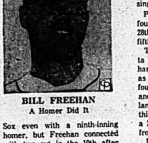
Tigers Outlast Red Sox in 10 Innings Saturday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The bunting game is something Detroit might be able to do without, but Juan Pizarro and Boston Red Sox are willing to make sacrifices . . . any time they help cage the runaway Tigers.

The Red Sox, losers Saturday in a 10-9 struggle that turned on a pair of botched Detroit bunts, put on their own bunting exhibition Sunday in trimming the Tigers 4-1 on Rico Petrocelli's clutch Pizarro.



Three perfectly executed sacrifice bunts, including a go-a-head squeeze by Pizarro, helped the Red Sox salvage the finale of a three-game series as Detroit's American League lead slipped to seven games over second-place Baltimore.

The Orioles whipped Minnesota 7-1 on Frank Robinson's slugging; New York Yankees strolled past Oakland 7-5 in 10 innings; Tommy John and Joe Horlen hurled Chicago White Sox to a 4-2, 8-1 doubleheader sweep over Cleveland and California downed Washington 6-4 despite Frank Howard's 35th homer in Senator All-games.

Bill Freehan's 10th-inning homer beat Boston Saturday, nullifying a gallant comeback by the Red Sox.

In the eighth, reliever Sparky Lyle grabbed Al Kaline's bunt on the fly, but threw the ball away trying to double Mickey Stanley off first base; Stanley took second on the error and scored on Norm Cash's single, giving Detroit a 9-8 lead.

Ken Harrelson pulled the Red

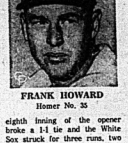
Sox even with a ninth-inning homer, but Freehan connected with two out in the 10th after Willie Horton flubbed a bunt attempt and then rapped into a double play.

Sunday, the clubs were knotted again, at 1-1, in the seventh inning when Joe Foy doubled and Russ Gibson bunted him to third. With a 3-2 count on Pizarro, Foy broke for the plate and the pitcher dropped a bunt toward second base, giving the Tigers no chance for a play at home.



Mike Andrews then drew a walk and Dalton Jones belted a home run, making it 4-1. Andrews failed to hit safely for the first time in 10 games, but his sacrifice bunt in the third moved Pizarro, who had walked, to second and Carl Yastrzemski delivered a two-out single for Boston's first run.

Pizarro checked the Tigers on four hits, including Horton's 28th homer, on the way to his fifth victory.

The Orioles flattened Minnesota behind rookie Dave Leonhard, who scattered seven hits, as Frank Robinson drove in four runs with a single, a double and his 11th homer. Mark Belanger's two-run double in the third inning gave Leonhard, 6-5, a 2-0 lead and Robinson took it from there.

Lew Krausse, the sixth Oakland pitcher, walked Rocky Colavito and Frank Fernandez with the bases loaded in the 10th, enabling the Yankees to complete a 6-1 road trip to the West Coast. Andy Kosco homered for New York while Reggie Jackson accounted for three of the Athletics' runs with a double and his 23rd homer.

John and Horlen each fired a six-hitter as the White Sox snapped a four-game losing streak with their double victory over the Indians. Duane Josephson's two-run homer in the eighth inning of the opener broke a 1-1 tie and the White Sox struck for three runs, two of them on Buddy Bradford's double, in the fourth inning of the nightcap before pulling away with the help of a two-run homer by Ron Hansen.

Tom Burgmeier scored the tie-breaking run at Anaheim on an eighth inning throwing error by Senators reliever Phil Ortega. The Angels added two more runs before repulsing a ninth inning Washington rally touched off by Brant Alyea's first homer. The Senators used five pinch hitters in the ninth, tying the American League record for one inning.

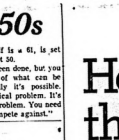
Cubs Find Lost Column Just Greasy Slide

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Maybe Phil Regan, ace reliever of Chicago Cubs, should stop wearing that greasy kid's stuff —at least during the National League baseball games.

Umpire Chris Pelekoudas claimed Sunday that he found Regan's cap during a game against Cincinnati Reds. And Chicago manager Durocher — one of Regan's team-mates, Al Spangler and Randy Hundley, were ejected from the game for defending Regan's innocence.



The Cubs lost the game 2-1 to Cincinnati. The Reds went on to win the second game of the doubleheader 6-3 and extend their winning streak to six games.

In other Sunday NL games, St. Louis Cardinals pounded Atlanta Braves 10-1, Philadelphia Phillies tripped San Francisco Giants 5-3, Pittsburgh Pirates dropped Los Angeles Dodgers 5-1 and New York Mets split a doubleheader with Houston Astros winning 8-1 before losing 5-2.

Saturday, Cincinnati blanked Chicago 4-0, Houston took New York 1-0, San Francisco downed Philadelphia 5-4, Pittsburgh beat Los Angeles 3-0 and Atlanta edged St. Louis 3-2.

The Regan fuss erupted in the seventh inning of the first game against the Reds when the veteran reliever came in to face pinch hitter Mack Jones. With the count 1-0 on Jones, Pelekoudas went to the mound to warn Regan about illegal pitches and changed the count to 3-1.

Durocher rushed to his pitcher's defence and the umpire and manager compromised on a 2-2 count. Then Jones apparently flied out but Pelekoudas mulli-

RANDY HUNTLEY
Say It Ain't So

fied the play, ruling another illegal pitch and giving Jones another strike.

Now Durocher argued again and the umpires demanded a towel to wipe off the inside of Regan's cap. Durocher and Spangler, who interjected his comments from the bench, were both thumbed out and Jones finally grounded out.

In the ninth inning Pete Rose apparently struck out against Regan but again Pelekoudas nullified the out and gave the batter another swing. This time Rose singled and Hundley, the Cubs' catcher, was ejected.

"We found vaseline on his cap," charged Pelekoudas. "His ball was sinking without spinning. A sinker spins. An illegal pitch breaks down without any spin."

Cincinnati power made the difference in both games. Tony Perez' fourth-inning homer won the first game with brilliant ninth inning relief by Clay Carroll saving it for George Culver. Perez, Rose, Fred Whitfield and Alex Johnson all homered in the nightcap.

Roger Maris and Orlando Cepeda lugged two hits apiece in a nine-run first inning explosion that carried the Cardinals past Atlanta. Mike Shannon had four straight hits for St. Louis.

Bob Veale pitched a four-hitter and the Pirates stunned the Dodgers, scoring two runs on an error by Bob Bailey.

Successive eighth-inning homers by Rich Allen and Bill White carried the Phillies past the Giants. Allen's 25th homer snapped a 3-3 tie and then White's ninth and second of the game wrapped it up for Philadelphia.

Don Cardwell scattered six hits and singled in the first two New York runs as the Mets ripped Houston in the first game. Jim Ray allowed four hits and struck out 10, nailing down the nightcap and gaining the split for Houston.

Knudson Shooting for the 50s

QUEBEC (CP) — Canadian golf champion George Knudson, whose perfect swing has launched him beyond his countrymen into "a different world", wants to become the world's top par-buster by shooting 18 holes in the 50s.

After easily winning the 72-hole championship of the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association at the Royal Quebec Golf Club Sunday, Knudson announced these plans for the future:

"Birdie every hole. Why not?"

Knudson said he will play in two more major U.S. tournaments, then take off five months to undergo a physical fitness program that he hopes will bring his score down into the 50s.

"I'd like to shoot a 50," he said. "It can be done. It's physically possible."

In four days over the par 72, 6,650-yard Royal course at nearby Boischatel, Knudson gathered 24 birdies and an eagle and went one over six times to win the tournament with a 72-under 288.

He won his third CPGA championship, the $3,000 first prize, and the Labatt cup and set a course record of 64, out-playing the second-place golfer by nine strokes.

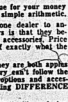
Dick Munn of Vancouver won the money of $2,200 with an 11-under 277, finishing the tournament with a one-under 71 Sunday. He described Knudson as "inhuman".

"You look at him and you wonder if he is real", he said "He seems to be in a different world somehow".

Third place and $1,700 went to Calgary's Frank Fowler, who almost quit the tournament half way through the final round when he was bothered by pains in his "very bad back". His score was a seven-under 281.

Fowler's finish was spectacular. He scored birdies on four of the last five holes to come in with a back-nine 33, best of the day coming home. His 18-hole score was 71.

Rodolphe Huot, Boischatel pro whose course record of 65 was set by Knudson Friday, said:



"Knudson is the best golfer Canada has ever produced. Many rate him as the fifth-best golfer in the world".

Knudson say, he has mastered the technique of golf, but lacks the "equipment" to improve his game further. Now he is down around 157 pounds, he plans to build up his weight to 175 by muscle exercises.

Knudson, whose best score in competitive golf is a 61, is set on shooting that 50.

"It's never been done, but you never know. You have no idea of what can be done. Physically it's possible. It's not a physical problem. It's an emotional problem. You need someone to compete against."

THE CAR BUYER'S PROBLEMS

DO YOU KNOW HOW TO SHOP FOR A NEW CAR?

Many buyers don't. And though they work harder than the salesman who sells it to them, they fail to make a satisfactory purchase in the end.

Buying a car so that you get the most value for your money is just a matter of a little common sense and simple arithmetic.

In comparing price, for instance, from one dealer to another, the most common fault of some buyers is that they become confused regarding models, options and accessories. Price means nothing, of course, if you lose sight of exactly what the price is paying for.

If you are comparing apples, make sure they are both apples and that one is not an orange. If your memory can't follow the complications, write down the exact model, options and accessories. Make sure the price figure is the trading DIFFERENCE only.

Dealer price competition is very close in Belleville and elsewhere. If a difference quotation is exceptionally low, use caution. Look for a reason.

Lower finance payments are no bargain. The lower the payment the higher the interest charge, and it is never necessary to sign a blank contract.

Finally, never forget that as soon as your new car needs service, WHERE you bought it can become very important. If you wish to avoid regrets later, you must think about this BEFORE you buy.

Blunt answers to questions about borrowing from Pacific Finance

Q. What happens when I come in for a loan?
A. A few questions in private—like where do you work, where do you live, and why you want the extra money. Our business is making loans, not refusing them.

Q. How fast can I get my money?
A. If you call first, it's not unusual to have your money within 20 minutes after you walk in. Same day service is standard.

Q. How much can I get?
A. Usually, you're a shoo-in for all you need. As a rule of thumb, you are probably good for a loan equal to three times your monthly salary. Over half of the people who come to us for loans qualify for more than they ask for.

Q. What happens if I don't make a payment?
A. Pacific Finance is easy to talk to at times like this. We know you can get trapped by bad luck. If you need more money, tell us. If you want to take longer and make the payments smaller, we can probably work that out for you too.

Q. Are you a fly-by-night outfit?
A. We have over 600 offices throughout the United States and Canada. We've been in business since 1920. Right now over a million people have loans with Pacific Finance totaling over a half billion dollars. And Pacific Finance is part of the Transamerica Corporation that also owns other companies such as Occidental Life and United Artists. No matter what amount you need, stop by your nearest Pacific Finance office. Better yet, give us a call.

How can we explain the sudden popularity of Seagram's 5 Star?

Easy.

Easy tasting. Easy to look at. Easily the best value among Canadian whiskies. And when you think it has the Seagram name on it, no wonder so many are happily switching to 5 Star. Now that we've explained it, get the proof. That's the real easy part.

Tweed

TWEED — A farewell party was held for Rev. and Mrs. Orr, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rosemond, Kaladar. They received many lovely gifts and a money tree. Mr. and Mrs. Orr will be in Brighton at the Pentecostal charge there. Mr. and Mrs. Bombay will be taking over the Kaladar-Northbrook charge.

Recently a family reunion was held for the Hughes family, at Bon Echo Park. Prizes for the oldest man present were by Ed. Hughes; the oldest lady present was Mrs. Amos Hughes; and the youngest child was baby Kelly Murphy. Approximately eighty were in attendance, coming from Oshawa, Kingston, Arden, Kaladar and Tweed.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McInnes of Plevna, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wood of Northbrook, visited in border and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wood in Port Arthur.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Aythart and children of Magnora spent the past few days with Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Sidney, Tweed.

Mr and Mrs. Gordon Francis and family and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Longley and daughter, Mary, all of Smiths Falls, spent a few days recently in Tweed.

Cold Milk Is Not Harmful to Baby

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any harm in giving an infant cold milk? Does it damage the stomach in any way?

I have been giving my baby cold milk since he was a month and a half old. He never has cramps or tummy ache and spits up less and is more content.

Recently another mother insisted that cold milk is not good for a baby, that the baby is suffering and has to have warm milk. Also that "everyone knows warm milk is best." — Mrs. D. C.

It used to be supposed that milk had to be warm; medical studies more recently show that milk does not have to be warmed for a baby.

This does not alter the fact that babies may have preferences. If a youngster consistently pushes the nipple away if the milk is cold, but not when it is warm, then he prefers warm milk. So give it to him. Other babies are the opposite.

I would be dubious about giving a baby ice-cold milk, particularly if he already was used to warm milk. But I suspect myself that is that cold milk is not harmful.

Dear Dr. Molner: Have you any articles on a poison called salmonella? I can't find it in my dictionary but need to know about it. — HM C.

Salmonella is a class of germs. (There are many varieties of salmonella, the typhoid and paratyphoid germs being two.)

Salmonella infections results as a rule from eating food tainted with the germ. It takes three to four days for the germ to multiply in the intestinal tract to the point of causing illness.

Salmonella, while not the commonest form of food poisoning, is by no means rare. The commonest is food poisoning from another germ, staphylococcus aureus, which develops much more rapidly, in about four hours instead of days.

As the staph germ multiplies it releases toxins which do the dirty work.

It is the danger of either of these germs that impels me (and others) to voice so many warnings that food should be kept refrigerated. Popular picnic foods such as potato salad, salad sandwiches, egg dishes, and so on, are particularly dangerous because so often people allow these foods to be kept without refrigeration for several hours. In warm weather that's all it takes for the germs to flourish in the food and cause trouble.

Dear Dr. Molner: In 10 years I have been in the hospital eight times for kidney stones and twice have had surgery to remove them.

The stones consist of several materials, but cystine is always present.

I drink a large quantity of milk each day besides taking an alkali solution three times a day but the stones still form. Are cystine stones so rare that there is nothing one can do to prevent them from forming again? — Mrs. R. J.

About 3 per cent of kidney stones are the cystine type. Excessive excretion of cystine is due to what is known as an "inborn error of metabolism" and formation of such stones is difficult to combat.

As with all stones, it is necessary to consider several factors: infection, obstruction, adequate fluid intake.

You are correct in drinking ample water or other fluids, and in using an alkali — citrocarbonate in your case.

Recently penicillamine has been used for cystine stones. It would have to be used under the direction of your physician or urologist, of course.

Boros Looks Icy Calm And It's Worth $50,000

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — Watching him play, all loose and relaxed, you'd think he wasn't a nerve in Julius Boros' middle-aged, overweight body.

Not so. Boros admitted after surviving a five-man scramble Sunday and nailing down the $50,000 first prize in the $250,000 Westchester classic golf tournament, the richest on the pro tour.

"I know what it looks like," the 48-year-old Boros said. "But he's deceiving. He's sometimes just like anybody else. There are times out there when I get excited."

Boros came from three strokes off the pace with a final-round 68, four under par for the 6,648-yard Westchester Country Club course, and finished at 72-hole total of 272.

Jack Nicklaus, defending champion who sought his third consecutive tour victory, vet-eran Dan Sikes and rookie Bob Murphy who led all of the first three rounds, finished in a tie for second, at 273.

Nicklaus had a closing 66, Sikes a 68 and Murphy a par 72. They picked up $30,416.66 apiece.

Billy Casper, in the thick of it all before fading, was alone in fifth place with a 67 for 275.

Al Balding of Toronto had a final-round 69 for a 282 worth $2,034.

Murphy was the lone bogey-man on the opening hole and had lost the lead to Boros when they made the turn.

Nicklaus, Sikes and Casper each made a run at the lead at one time or another and there was a three-way tie for second when Nicklaus finished his round with a birdie after coming out of a trap.

OASA Playoff Rolls

Intermediate "B": Redden-dale is scheduled to play Picton at Picton tonight at 8 p.m. in the first game of the second round in this division.

Preswe "B" Verona will travel to Amelia burg Tuesday night to play at 6.30 p.m.

Junior "B" Point Anne will meet Trenton at Bayshore Park in Trenton for the first game of the first round of eliminations Tuesday at 8.15 p.m. The return game will be played at Point Anne Thursday at 6 p.m.

Midget "B" Trenton will meet Odessa in Napanee Tuesday at 8 p.m. for the first game of the second round. Odessa will play Trenton at Thursday at 8.30 p.m. in Bayshore Park for the return game.

Bantam "B" The first game of the second round in this division will have Norwood meeting Trenton at Centennial Park tonight at 6 p.m.

Bantam "A" Belleville SACO took the first game of a three-game series against Oshawa Saturday 9-3. The Bellevile win was thrown by Jim Spracklett who gave up three runs on eight hits and two errors.

Ted Rezenkski pitched for Oshawa, giving up nine runs on nine hits and four errors.

Al Travis hit a double and a triple for SACO and Bill Kirkham had a single and a double.

Belleville will meet Oshawa Saturday at the Alemite 2 p.m. for the second game of the set.

Preswe

Belleville's Belch Construction tied the best-of-three series with Peterborough with a 6-4 win Saturday. Peterborough topped the locals in the first game of the series. Wally Hull posted the win, allowing three hits four walks and striking out 13. K. Walden pitched for Peterborough and allowed six hits and six walks while striking out nine.

Bruce Sutherland led the Belleville attack with a single and a triple. The third game of the series will be played at Peterborough later this week.

Marlene Adds Closed Golf Title

By GARY McCARTHY

MONTREAL (CP)— Marlene Stewart Streit didn't let a heavy rainfall dampen her spirits or her performance Saturday as she added the Canadian women's close golf championship to her string of many victories.

"I'm really thrilled." Mrs. Streit said after she shot a one-over-par 75 in the final round Saturday to beat Ellen Moore of New Westminster, B.C., by two strokes.

"I'm always happy to win any tournament," she said. "It was very happy with the way I played."

Mrs. Streit started the day two strokes behind the leaders, Mrs. Moore and Barbara Bonsass of Shawinigan.

She fired 15 pars and one birdie for her 72 over the 6,200-yard par 74 Elm Ridge Country Club course at nearby Ile Bizard. That gave her a three-day, 54-hole total of 228.

Mrs. Streit, from Pomfhill, Ont., was caught in a driving rain on the 15th hole but by the time she, Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Bonsass got up to the 18th, the sun broke.

Mrs. Moore closed with a 79 in the final round for a 230, one stroke better than Marilyn Palmer of Kamloops, B.C., who led the first round.

Miss Bonsass ran into trouble almost from the start of the final round and went over par on eight holes, dropping out of contention.

However she wound up in fourth place with a 54-hole 234 after her 83 Saturday. Betty Stanhope Cole of Edmonton, last year's close winner, finished in a tie for fifth with Gail Borthwick of Ancaster, Ont., at 236.

Planes Win 2nd Game Of Series

Planes of Canniton took a two-game lead in the best of seven series with Read in the South Hastings Baseball League playoffs with a 4-2 win Sunday. Read won downed Thursday in the first game.

Pat O'Connor won the roster for the winners in Sunday's victory, allowing two runs on five hits and one Canniton error. He struck out three and walked two.

Court Bradley was the game's hero with a third-inning homer that knocked in two to break the 2-2 early-inning deadlock.

Larry Adams and Warren Hay added their two singles in the winners' 11 column and Bob Moon contributed a double.

Ted Abrams hurled for the losers, allowing four runs on seven hits and two Read errors. Carm Milligan led the Read hitters with two singles. Pete Hamilton, Gerald Brennan, and Bruce Pascoe added singles.

The teams meet for the third game Tuesday at 6.30 p.m. in Canniton.

Sherbrooke In Search

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Sherbrooke-Lennoxville, Que., Canada's Little League champions flew from Windsor to Williamsport, Pa., Sunday where they will compete in the Little League World Series, starting today.

Sherbrooke clinched the Canadian title and earned the trip to the World Series with a 1-0 victory over Whidby, B.C. Saturday before a crowd of 8,000.

Norman Houle, 12, again was the key to the Quebec team's victory.

Houle, a hard-throwing right-hander, gave up two hits and struck out 10 in the six-inning championship game.

Houle tossed a three-hitter in the first game of the tournament when Sherbrooke eliminated Ontario champions Windsor East 1-0 in seven innings.

Carbon Accumulates Quickly If Big Engines Driven Slowly

By RAY STAPLEY

A reader writes "I have a 1968 Comet Cyclone with a cubic inch engine. When I purchased the car I was doing a lot of highway driving for which it performed beautifully. However, for the last year it has been driven almost entirely in the city and I am told the engine is all carboned up and there is nothing I can do except to drive it hard on the highway again. It is unlikely for the next year or so that it will get much highway driving and I don't wish to trade at the moment. Do you have any suggestions as to how to keep it in good working order"

Whether it is a Comet Cyclone 390 engine or any other make of massive V8 power plant, the net result is the same. These powerful engines require lots of high speed exercise and most of them suffer considerably when they don't get it. The higher rpm in highway travel plus the heat generated at sustained high speeds tends to loosen the carbon and blow it out through the exhaust system. But when driven constantly at lower speeds carbon accumulates quite rapidly in combustion chambers, valves and piston rings can become gummed up resulting in rough idle, stalling, engine "ping" and a general all-around drop in performance.

The car makers, through improved engine design and in their laboratories, and the petroleum engineers are constantly improving fuels and lubricants to minimize carbon deposits. But nevertheless a certain amount of carbon must be accepted as normal and, of course, the slower the driving the faster carbon will accumulate. Voluntarily fuel additives are available, such as additives for the gas tank or detergents that can be poured right into the throat of the carburetor. If made by a reputable manufacturer these chemicals can be helpful but even so their use should be accompanied by a good, fast highway run. The only 100 per cent sure method of removing carbon and gum is to dismantle the engine and clean it out, but this is expensive. In order to keep a powerful V8 engine in good healthy condition, it is wise to drive on the highway at maximum speed as often as possible. A four or six cylinder engine is far more suitable for those who do most of their driving in the city.

A reader writes "I drive a 1965 Dodge V8 and it has gone about 33,000 miles. I do most of my own repairs and recently installed two new standard duty rear springs. Now the rear end of the car is much higher than the front end and even on high beam my headlights only light up the road for about 60 feet ahead of the car. What is the best way to cope with this problem?"

The front end of this vehicle is suspected by lyes adjustable torsion bars and it would appear that yours have settled down to some degree. It is a simple matter to adjust these bars and raise the front end of the car to any desired height. After this has been done it would be wise to have the headlights tested and if necessary adjusted by a technician who has the proper equipment to do this job. In order to maintain proper balance of the body and headlight focus front torsion bar adjustment should always be checked when new rear springs are installed. Incidentally, if the shock absorbers are the original ones they should be tested for efficiency. Weak shocks allow overflexing of all the springs.

'Reasonably Good Progress' Made in Air Canada Talks

MONTREAL (CP) — Talks between Air Canada and the Canadian Air Line Pilots Association broke off early today after "reasonably good progress had been made," an Air Canada spokesman said.

The spokesman said the talks were recessed after 11 hours of bargaining which began Sunday afternoon. They were to resume at 10 a.m. today.

Earlier Sunday it was announced Air Canada pilots voted 89.8 per cent in favor of a strike that could ground the nationally owned airline Tuesday.

A spokesman for the pilots association said the vote, taken last Tuesday and counted Sunday, was 918 to 115 in favor of a strike.

A company spokesman said late Sunday, however, that the company was hopeful a settlement could be reached.

Strike vote results were: Toronto 380 to 37; Montreal 306 to 49; Vancouver 159 to four and Winnipeg 70 to 25.

The pilots have asked for a 21-per-cent pay increase. Their association says pilots' wages range from less than $700 a month to $28,000 a year for senior pilots.

Air Canada has offered a raise of 17 per cent over 28 months. The airline says this would increase the annual payroll for its 1,100 pilots by $5,700,000 to about $20,700,000.

A 16.5-per-cent pay increase was recommended by a conciliation board headed by Dean Maxwell Cohen of the McGill University faculty of law.

After making its offer last Sunday, Air Canada said that "other working conditions and fringe-benefit changes" in its proposal would amount to a further increase of about four per cent.

Air Canada was grounded in November, 1965, when 5,200 machinists, members of the International Association of Machinists, left their jobs for 12 days before accepting a 20-per-cent wage increase with an additional seven per cent in fringe benefits and adjustments.

Robarts Attends Moosonee Meeting Marking Self-rule

MOOSONEE, Ont. (CP) — Premier John Robarts, seated in a church pew between the altar and a wood stove, participated Sunday in the inauguration of self-government for this Ontario community of 1,500 on James Bay.

The premier and four of his cabinet ministers took part in the ceremony in the small Anglican church attended by about 50 persons.

Mr. Robarts' role was to announce proclamation of the Moosonee Development Area Board Act which inaugurates in effect, Canada's first self-government project for Indians.

The act provides for basic services such as sewers and indoor plumbing. It also provides for a board to raise realty taxes in an effort to pay part of the $2,003,000 cost of the project.

"Not all the problems have been attacked and not all solved," said the premier. "But a great deal has been done."

In the last three years, the government has spent $3,000,000 in this one-time trading post. Nearly $3,000,000 was for an education centre to teach the Cree Indians new skills.

Echoing the premier's promise of more help for the area, Municipal Affairs Minister Darcy McKeough told the gathering: "We're not done by a long shot."

Other ministers who attended were Rene Brunelle, minister of forests, Thomas Wells, minister without portfolio and James Auld, tourism and information minister.

The first appointments to the new board were announced by Mr. Brunelle, who represents Cochrane North, the riding that embraces Moosonee.

Appointed were chairman Edward Butcher, of vice-Chairman David Wynne, 69, a Cree, and members Patrick Grey, Arthur Mitchell and Xavier Wesley, also a Cree.

"There are local people who have the needs of the area and will see that it is upgraded," Mr. Brunelle said in his speech.

Rumor PM Off to Wed Is Denied

OTTAWA (CP) — The prime minister's office Sunday night described as unfounded a Montreal report that Prime Minister Trudeau had gone to Spain to be married.

The resort, apparently originating with an unidentified Montreal radio station, was carried on the CBC national TV news Sunday night. Mr. Trudeau earlier was reported holidaying somewhere in Europe.

The girl was identified in the Montreal resorts as a Therese Guerin or Garron, formerly of Montreal. One report was that she is a librarian working in London.

In Montreal, The Gazette says the "persistent rumors" were proven unfounded "according to reliable sources in Ottawa."

The story, in the final edition, says Ottawa aides "denied even cabinet associates reacted with consternation" to the rumor.

"One Ottawa source said that if the prime minister had indeed been married he had been badly duped.

"On his own, without consultation and advice of anyone," The Gazette says.

Strictly Personal

Heart Is Now Dethroned

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Since the most ancient times the "heart" has been considered to be the source and centre of human emotions—every language in the world is filled with references to the heart as the very core of the passionate personality. Then along came the heart transplant.

Suddenly, the whole human metaphor has to be changed. Science has shown the heart to be what it always really was — nothing but a hollow muscular organ that pumps the blood through the body.

One heart is as good as another, and maybe better. A black man's heart in a white man's body makes absolutely no difference; a woman's heart in a man's body makes as little difference; in the near future, perhaps, any large primate's heart will make no difference.

The heart has been dethroned from its supreme position in legend, literature, folk-lore and song. In the past, people have been stout - hearted, hard-hearted, large - hearted. Now it is all the same — a hollow muscular pump, stout-hearted, soulless, heatless, and utterly de oid of a sense of feeling.

No longer can we legitimately speak of men's vital spirit as residing in the heart. Feeling, sensibility, capacity for sympathy, courage, enthusiasm, romance, all were wiped out with the first successful heart transplant. The ancient polarity between "heart" and "head" is now seen as a meaningless metaphor — these emotions are just as much a part of the mind as logic, grammar and geometry.

It marks just as much sense to apothesize the liver or the gall-bladder as it does the heart; to speak of a "sweetlivered" man or a "hard gallbladdered" woman. One organ is the seat of love, another, asexless, heatless, and utterly de old of a sense of feeling.

No longer can we legitimately speak of men's vital spirit as residing in the heart. Feeling, sensibility, capacity for sympathy, courage, enthusiasm, romance, all were wiped out with the first successful heart transplant. The ancient polarity between "heart" and "head" is now seen as a meaningless metaphor — these emotions are just as much a part of the mind as logic, grammar and geometry.

In the long run, this dethronement of the heart may turn out to be a good thing, for it may help us think more clearly about the relations between mind and emotions. They are not separate functions. As we like to think, but both parts of a single pattern of behavior, a total personality response to any given situation.

Feelings of a kind are involved in all our thoughts, and thoughts of a kind in all our feelings. And emotions like thoughts, can be rational or irrational; that is, appropriate or inappropriate to the objective reality. Likewise, feelings can be trained, just as thinking is trained; only they must be trained in a different way, by love and example, rather than by formal instruction.

Getting rid of the heart as a symbol of man's deepest life is clearing the ground for a better understanding of our emotional drives. If only it were as easy to transplant some sense into feeble or fever ish minds as to transplant he arts into cardiac cases, the human race might begin to make some real and permanent progress.

Plainclothesman Beaten in Yorkville, Perhaps by Policeman

TORONTO (CP) — Police Chief James Mackey ordered Sunday a full investigation into the beating of a plainclothes constable that some witnesses claim was administered by fellow policemen.

The brawl in the midtown Yorkville coffee house district where hippies congregate ended with Constable Wayne Powell, 24, a plainclothes policeman, being taken to hospital with a cut mouth and broken nose.

Witnesses, including a priest, claimed that Constable Powell and his plainclothes partner, Constable John Barrer, 41, started the trouble Saturday night by acting in a rude and boisterous manner.

Constable Powell claimed he was hit across the face with an umbrella, knocked down and kicked when he tried to break up a scuffle.

Rev. Richard Renshaw of St. Bernard's Church, near Yorkville, said he was standing on the sidewalk talking to three persons when two men "burst into our group and shoved one person out of the way."

"The two men were very boisterous and rude and were unco-ordinated to some extent. . . ."

Father Renshaw, a social worker in the Yorkville area, said he told the two men they could be charged with assault.

"They started mouthing off and told me that they would be very happy to be charged."

Father Renshaw said he later saw the two men in a crowd of about 200 outside a hamburger stand.

"One of them that I later learned was Powell had pulled his shirt off and thrown it on the ground. His partner, was holding him back. Barrer had his arms around Powell's shoulders and Powell was straining to break away."

He said Constable Powell wanted to strike at one individual, not named, who claimed the policeman wanted a fight.

The priest said he did not know the men were police constables until he saw Constable Barrer help uniformed policemen push the crowd back.

"It was obvious to me that he was a policeman and I asked him his name. He told me it was Barrer and he also gave me his number-badge number 798," the priest said.

Another witness said Constable Powell broke away but was chased by a uniformed police man who hit him with a night stick.

Biafrans Fighting in Battle-of-Britain Style

TORONTO (CP) — Biafrans are fighting with a "Battle-of-Britain determination against federal Nigerian forces—they will ne'er give up," says Rev. Edward H. Johnson of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

Dr. Johnson, the church's secretary for overseas missions, returned to Toronto Saturday after 10 days in secessionist Biafra.

Tuesday he meets External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp to seek additional Canadian aid to the West African country.

Dr. Johnson, one of the first outside observers of the war when he visited Biafra last January, said in an interview Sunday Biafrans feel they are fighting for their freedom.

"They are fighting in the mood of Sir Winston Churchill when he said "we shall fight on the beaches . . . the landing grounds . . . in the fields and in the streets".

Dr. Johnson flew into Biafra Aug. 2 in a relief plane from the small island of Sao Tome, off the West African coast.

He landed at Uli, where the airstrip, a widened road lighted by kerosene flares, is the only one operative in the country.

The purpose of his visit was to determine how the relief aid program is working, how the war has affected Biafran morale and what are Biafran plans for the future.

Of the relief program, he said the need is "desperate."

"The need cannot be overestimated. The best estimate I could obtain from Red Cross and relief workers was that 6,000 persons a day are dying of starvation and the number is increasing."

Greatest need, he said, is for an agreed air-corridor for safe transmission of relief goods. Current relief flights are only occasional because of Nigerian anti-aircraft fire.

"The Biafran government has done a remarkably good job by establishing about 800 relief camps and putting aside 1,000,000 pounds (Biafran) a month for relief work. Relief workers are given top priority."

Morale in general is high, said Dr. Johnson, and life in the towns and villages has a normal air. Business continues and there has been little disruption of normal services such as electricity and water.

Biafrans look to the future with hope, he said. If they can't achieve a peaceful settlement they will fight.

From Uli Dr. Johnson went to Geneva to confer with the World Council of Churches and the Red Cross on methods of relieving Biafran starvation, and later went to London.

Scots See Canadian Paintings

EDINBURGH (CP) — Jean Martineau, chairman of the Canada Council, hailed Scotland's contribution to Canadian life and history Sunday as he formally opened an exhibition of paintings by 12 Canadian artists at Edinburgh's international festival.

Speaking in French and English, the silver-haired Martineau brought laughter from a sophisticated festival audience as he described the efforts of older generations to comprehend the work of avant-garde artists.

Martineau personally greeted guests arriving for the opening at the Royal College of Art. They included high dignitaries, art critics and skilled members of this city's various professions.

To one guest he emphasized that the show might be a surprise to viewers with traditional ideas about Canada. But it was designed to show how diverse and modernistic Canadian painting can be—"if you can call it painting," he added with a chuckle.

Among the dozens of guests at the opening were Peter Diamand, director of the Edinburgh Festival, and J. E. C. Hardy, deputy high commissioner for Canada, who was acting for ya-catoning High Commissioner Charles Ritchie.

Martineau described the Canadian show as giving back to Scotland "at least a part of what we in Canada owe to her." Hardy said the exhibition showed what "highly individualized minorities" are capable of contributing to Canadian life.

Eighty Killed in Accidents

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least 80 persons were killed in weekend accidents across Canada, 65 in traffic.

A survey by The Canadian Press from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday, local times, also showed seven drownings, three persons killed in a fire and five deaths from other accidents.

Quebec had the worst toll with 32 dead—29 in traffic, one drowning, and two persons asphyxiated.

At least 24 persons died in Ontario, 20 on the roads and four by drowning. Six were killed in one collision at Plantagenet, Ont.

British Columbia reported ing, three persons killed by fire three road deaths, one drown and a man hit by a train.

Nova Scotia had six deaths—all in traffic.

Five persons died in New Brunswick, three in traffic, one by drowning and one in a miscellaneous mishap.

Saskatchewan and Manitoba both recorded two traffic fatalities, and one man was killed when his light aircraft crashed in Alberta.

Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island were fatality-free.

Known suicides and slayings, natural and industrial deaths are not included in the survey.

Detroit Hit By Hepatitis

DETROIT (CP) — An outbreak of hepatitis has hit the Detroit area and city and county officials have warned residents to observe special personal cleanliness precautions.

Although the outbreak of the sometimes-fatal liver disease is following a predictable seven-year cycle, this year's strain may be more severe than usual because of heavy rains which backed up sewers, officials said.

So far this year Detroit's hepatitis infection rate is running about 83 per cent ahead of last year and the disease has killed more people already this year (17) than during the whole of 1967 (14).

Five Face 35 Charges

ORILLIA (CP) — Provincial police investigating a rash of car break-ins in the Go Home Lake area, 35 miles northwest of here, have laid a total of 35 charges against five Toronto-area youths.

Charged are James Eric Sills, 19, of Brampton; Lesson M. Laing, 19, of Port Credit; Alexander M. Gerol, 19, and Lawrence W. Anderson, 21, both of Mississauga; and David Dallas, 18, of Toronto.

They each face three charges of theft over $50, one of attempted theft over $50, two of theft over $50, and one of attempted theft under $50.

In addition, Dallas, Anderson and Gerol face separate charges of conspiracy to commit armed robbery and possession of unregistered weapons, including two automatic pistols, a derringer and a sawed-off .22 calibre rifle.

Newspapers Are Called 'Great Teaching Tools'

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP) — Teachers attending a seminar on newspapers in the classroom were told Saturday that the daily newspaper is a "great teaching tool" because it is an ever-improving record of society.

"But don't become so sold on us that you fail to see our faults," said Ralph Costello of Saint John, N.B., president of the Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers Association.

Mr. Costello, publisher of The Telegraph-Journal and The Evening Times-Globe in Saint John, said he did not hesitate to recommended a newspaper as a text book because it is under constant re-design by people who are never satisfied.

"We offer it to you as responsible, stimulating and ever-changing," he said, adding that the newspaper would be a challenge to educationists.

Fifty-three teachers from across Canada are attending the weeklong seminar which opened Saturday at the University of Waterloo.

Boutiques Close

Air Canada Pilots' Strike Now Unlikely

Vote Is Planned Within 5 Days

MONTREAL (CP)—A pilots' walkout that was to have grounded Air Canada today was averted Monday when negotiators reached accord on a 27-months contract incorporating a 17-per-cent wage increase.

A spokesman for the government-owned airline said services will continue uninterrupted while the Canadian Air Line Pilots Association submitted the agreement to its membership.

The spokesman said leaders of the pilots association would recommend ratification to the pilots "as soon as possible." He could not say when the ratification vote would be taken.

The pilots last week voted 88 per cent in favor of striking, today, rejecting the airline's offer at that time of a 17-per-cent increase in a 28-month contract.

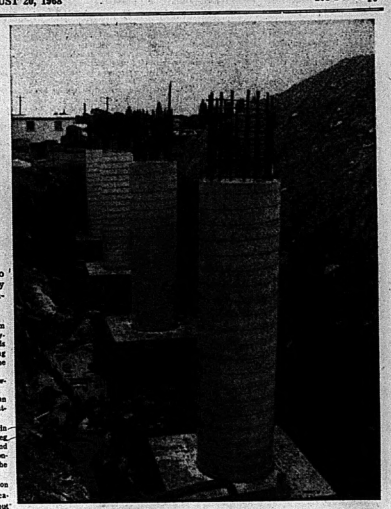
The contract agreed on Monday would run from last April 1 to July 2, 1970, providing a 10-per-cent pay increase in the first 15 months and a further seven per cent in the last year.

Air Canada estimated that the whole package, including fringe benefits, would cost about $6,700,000 over 27 months.

The pilots had asked for an increase of 21 per cent. Their association said wages ranged from a low of less than $700 a month a high of $28,000 a year for senior pilots.

Clauses covering fringe benefits and working conditions included:

—A gradual increase in the minimum monthly pay guarantee to 70 hours by the end of the contract period from the present guarantee of 67 hours;



—An increase to nine from eight hours in the minimum layover time between duty periods away from home where sleeping accommodation is located at the airport;

—An increase in meal allowances.

The Air Canada spokesman was unable to say when the ratification vote would be taken.

"The pilots have to vote in Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver," he said, "and furthermore our pilots are constantly moving in and out of the country.

"We would think the union could come up with a ratification—or a rejection—in about five days' time."

No Lady Fair With Tradeau On His Isle

IBAZA, Spain (Reuters)—Prime Minister Trudeau is spending a quiet holiday on this spanish Mediterranean island, a usually reliable source said Monday night.

The source said Trudeau arrived here Saturday, accompanied by an RCMP officer and an aide.

The prime minister, who also was being escorted by two Spanish plainclothes police officers while on the island, could not be reached by telephone at his hotel Monday night.

Sunday, Trudeau, wearing dark glasses, slacks and a short-sleeved shirt with a tie, toured the old town of Ibiza, capital of the island, admired the view over the bay, and visited the town's archeological museum, the source said.

Trudeau had no female companion during his tour, the source added.

There had been earlier unconfirmed reports that Trudeau was married during the weekend.

* * *

OTTAWA (CP) — After a spate of weekend rumors, the prime minister's office Monday issued a firm denial that Prime Minister Trudeau is in Spain to be married.

"The prime minister's office officially and categorically denies Mr. Trudeau is getting married," said James Wightman, one of Mr. Trudeau's press officers.

Another denial was made in Montreal by the reported bride, Carroll Guerin, 32.

"There is no substance to it," she said of the report. "I have not married Mr. Trudeau."

"It's the one that carries the beard!"

Nigeria Ignores Pressure

LONDON (AP) — Nigeria still ignores British pressure and refuses to let Red Cross planes fly relief supplies to Biafra, informed sources say.

They say Anthony Enahoro, Nigeria's chief negotiator at the stalled peace talks in Ethiopia, told British Minister of State Lord Shepard Monday that the Nigerian government insists that any relief supplies go through a land corridor.

That proposal has been rejected by Biafra, which claims food would be poisoned by the Nigerians. The Nigerians are opposed to the mercy flights because they feel they would be used to bring in ammunition and arms.

The International Red Cross ceased its flights to Biafra Aug. 10 after being fired upon from the ground by Nigerian forces. Some supplies are still being flown in by the Roman Catholic relief organization Caritas.

The action reflects an apparent high-level decision to beat Soviet cosmonauts around the moon.

Air Force Maj.-Gen. Samuel Phillips, Apollo program director for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said Monday the flight will not include a manned earth-orbital test of a lunar module, the spacecraft section that will leave the nose of an Apollo command ship in lunar orbit and take two astronauts to the moon's surface.

Instead, he said, the 363-foot-tall Saturn 5 will be scheduled to hurl into space only a three-man Apollo command ship piloted by Air Force Col. Frank Borman and Maj. William Anders and Navy Capt. James Lovell Jr.

"The basic mission plan is for operations in low earth orbit," Phillips told a news conference. "While preparing for that basic mission, we are studying possible alternatives."

Preceding that first Saturday 5 launch will be a three-man Apollo earth-orbital flight by Navy Capt. Walter Schirra Jr., Air Force Maj. Donn Eisele and Walter Cunningham, a civilian astronaut.

The Schirra crew is to blast off Oct. 11 aboard a Saturn 1 rocket, forerunner of the larger Saturn 5 man-to-the-moon booster.

If the Schirra flight, named Apollo 7, is good, "we may be able to change flight plans accordingly" for the Borman-Lovell-Anders-Apollo 8 mission, Phillips said.

Possible alternatives to the flight plan include penetrating "several thousand miles" into space while still remaining in earth orbit or swinging around the moon itself, the Apollo program director said.

Sources said the possibility of a circumlunar flight was a prime consideration in NASA's decision not to put a lunar module on the first Saturn 5. The Soviet Union is reported to be planning to orbit cosmonauts around the moon as soon as it is technically able, possibly late this year or early 1969.

Despite the problems, Phillips said, "a lunar landing next year is clearly possible."

CF-100 Hits Vacant Homes

ST. BRUNO, Que. (CP) — A CF-100 jet crashed in a housing development today, setting four unoccupied model homes afire, but both crew members escaped with minor injuries.

A Canadian Forces spokesman said both men, from the base in nearby St. Hubert, were ejected from the aircraft before it crashed on a training flight.

Ike Is Still Fighting To Beat Heart Attack

WASHINGTON (CP) — Gen. Eisenhower today entered the fourth day of his battle to survive his seventh heart attack as doctors disclosed that they once seriously considered replacing his heart with a transplant.

The 77-year-old former president's condition was still critical.

Word of the possible transplant was included in the latest bulletin at Walter Reed Army Hospital which said the wartime Supreme Allied Commander was resting comfortably with fewer instances of the irregular heart beat that had brought him near death.

The general's age—he will be 78 in October—and "other major medical conditions" were given as grounds against a heart transplant.

Only Monday, Dr. Christiaan Barnard, the South African surgeon who was the first to perform a human heart transplant, said he felt Eisenhower would have been an ideal transplant patient if he had been younger.

However, a transplant carried out on the general at his age would have been fatal, Dr. Barnard said.

But Dr. Denton Cooley of Houston, Tex., who has made 10 heart transplants on humans, more than any other doctor in the world, disagrees.

Dr. Cooley says such operations could be performed on appropriate patients of any age, including Eisenhower.

The report of the decrease in irregularity struck a relatively optimistic note in the 10:30 p.m. bulletin compared with an earlier bulletin Monday afternoon which said his condition had deteriorated.

Eisenhower has had seven heart attacks since 1955, four since April. The latest struck Friday afternoon and his condition since, although fluctuating, has carried him nearer to death.

The 10:30 p.m. bulletin said:

"Since the last bulletin at 2:30 this afternoon (Monday) Gen. Eisenhower has continued to rest comfortably. He has had fewer instances of ventricular irregularity and these have been limited, for the most part, to isolated irregular beats rather than sustained irregularity. However, it is felt that his basic condition, for the moment, remains unchanged."

Only hours earlier, the doctors had reported failure of electrical treatment intended to stop three irregularities which they said continued to pose "a constant and critical hazard."

If Airline Bans Sideburns Union Will Forbid Shaving

NEW YORK (CP)—A union spokesman has warned Northwest Orient Airlines that any restrictions on sideburns worn by employees could lead to a no-shaving union edict that could turn Northwest into an "all-hippie airline".

Northwest, after talks with the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists, agreed Monday temporarily to reinstate eight employees it had suspended for "refusing to shave their sideburns.

The airline suspended 14 cargo handlers and agents Saturday night for ignoring a company rule that sideburns end at the middle of the ear. Six bowed to the razor but eight took their protest to the union.

After the truce a company spokesman said a final executive decision in the dispute was not expected until Wednesday.

Frank Cremona, a union representative, demanded an unrestricted sideburn policy. "If the airline insists on any restriction regarding sideburns," Cremona said, "we will order the men not to shave and we'll make Northwest an all-hippie airline."

Three reporters of the newspaper El Tiempo who were unable to show the proper passes were clubbed by police.

"I have no fear for the safety of his Holiness," the Pope's secretary said of the security precautions. He said he had never seen such stringent measures on any previous papal trip.

The journey will be the sixth and longest trip abroad by Pope Paul, who has said the trip to close the congress is "of exceptional importance."

During his visit he is to make a speech to the peasants stating the church's plans for promoting social change.

This is viewed as the most crucial phase of the Pope's three-day visit.

More than 60,000 persons attended the opening session of the eight-day congress Sunday. Roman Catholic leaders from seven continents are in Bogota.

Fashions Get Religion

Even A Cardinal Must Display His Pass

BOGOTA (AP) — Security measures for Pope Paul's visit Thursday have turned Bogota into an armed camp.

Some 14,000 troops and police, armed with rifles, have been deployed in the city, site of the 39th Eucharistic Congress.

Troops have shown sharp hostility to anyone who cannot produce the proper passes.

Monday, police stopped Ireland's William Cardinal Conway from taking his place in the congressional dignitaries' section until he was able to locate his temporarily misplaced credentials.

Harassment Striker's Fault: Company

Union Heads Understood Reason for Move: Proctor-Silex

PICTON (Staff) — The violence, at the Proctor Silex plant here on Friday prompted the first press release to come from that company since the beginning of the strike, July 17.

J. V. Findlay, plant manager protested union tactics, saying "their argument is with the union, not with our personnel."

He referred to harassment at the picket line of office personnel.

Office workers were told to remain at home yesterday, for fear of a repetition of the Friday incident.

Paint and eggs were thrown at a company truck, while some strikers wrestled with police. Employees cars were scratched with wire as well.

Mr. Findlay charged that union members had cut telephone lines leading into the plant early Saturday morning. The action left the plant without fire protection until yesterday when the lines were repaired.

The outbreak Friday was in protest of the removal of International Business Machine Equipment from the plant.

The move explained Mr. Findlay was part of a long range plan to consolidate office furniture, equipment and administrative staff in main offices in Toronto.

Union officials George Hutchins, Canadian president of the IUE, W. J. Miller, field representative, and George LeBlanc of local 585 were informed on July 22 the move was to take place. It was explained that the move was in no way related to labor dispute, said Mr. Findlay.

He added that the offer was made to allow union observers to be present in the plant at the time of the move to ensure that no production equipment or material was removed.

The offer was declined, but Mr. Hutchins stated that the local committee would ensure that no violence would take place during the move, the company officer said. The union stated at those meetings that they knew and understood this planned movement was within the company's legal rights, he said.

In defence of the long standing silence of the company, Mr. Findlay explained "it is not company policy to negotiate with the union through the press. To do so, he said, only encourages and intensifies misleading replies.

In reply to union charges of low wages he explained that although the company incentive plan was based on a 93 cents per hour rate for workers, they were guaranteed the provincial minimum of $1.00 per hour, and that many women earned up to $2 per hour, and in some cases, more, because of the incentive plan.

Union charges have been laid as well, that company officials have been "stalling for time" until production picks up in September.

Mr. Findlay denied the charge, pointing out that he was responsible for other duties as well, and like other members of the company negotiating committee, does not devote all of his time to the labor problem.

"As many delays have resulted from union officials not being available," he said.

The very presence of the IUE has brought about a de-

Steve Clark (left) and Dave Fisher are among Ontario youth group behind Newcastle arts festival. They wound up not only with summer jobs — but stagestruck. Missing is third member of young Bellevillians at festival — Greg Brown.

Three City Teenagers Spend Summer on Stage

It's been curtains all summer for many a job-seeking student.

But curtains have been what summer work is all about for a trio of Belleville youngsters.

Steve Clark, 16, Dave Fisher, 16 and 18-year-old Greg Brown are only earning $5 weekly plus room and board.

What their job lacks in cash is compensated by color and excitement.

The three are participating in the Newcastle Great Pine Ridge Festival of the Arts — a summer long theatre venture for Ontario youth.

And suddenly the trio is famous.

It all dates back to February when a theatre company played at Centennial Secondary School in Belleville.

The three teenagers all Centennial students, doubled as backstage technicians during school auditorium events.

Director of the February visiting production was Roy Higgins, who also had been assigned as co-director of the Newcastle, summer theatre project.

During the performance, Mr. Higgins suggested the three students join the festival and contribute their backstage talents come summer.

Opening night, Aug. 8, found them at their posts in the converted Newcastle town hall auditorium — Steve on lights, his friends on sound.

They've been there five nights a week since — with Sundays and Mondays, off.

Between performances they are housed along with other members of the company on a nearby farm.

All three are enthusiastic about the festival — which sets a participating age limit of 21, and has a budget of $15,000 partially subsidized by area industry, labor and community groups.

"If it goes over this year, it'll be an annual event," enthuses Steve, "And we'll be back."

PEI Band Plans Trenton Visit

Band concert goers will be well entertained on Aug. 31 when the Trenton branch of the Canadian Legion presents the Summerside, Prince Edward Island Concert Band.

The band is nationally known for its high calibre performance. As W. T. Lawson, past-president of Branch 110 said, "We hope every citizen interested in good music will take advantage of this opportunity."

The festival closes Aug. 31 after an ambitious run of three major plays — Billy Budd, The Admirable Crichton and A Man for All Seasons.

As for the Belleville teenagers, the event may have stimulated lifetime careers. All three believe now they will seek their futures in theatre.

Murray Canal Annual Swim On Sunday Next

Next Sunday will see the annual marathon swim take place along the Murray Canal.

The usual warriors will begin at Cedardale Bridge and finish at the Carrying Place Bridge.

The event is sponsored by the Trenton Board of Commerce and will begin at 2 p.m. Ten trophies will be awarded to the various class winners.

Progress Report Given At Conservation Meet

TWEED — The Moira Conservation Authority has held a number of committee meetings during the past summer months.

Highlight of the earlier meeting of the Water Control Advisory Board included a progress report on the Stoco Lake and Lower Moira Seasonal Dams. The report was forced to temporarily abandon work on the Caton's Bridge Dam, owing to rising water in the river over lapping the coffer dam. Work on the Lower Moira Dam is progressing ahead of schedule.

The Moira Lake Cottagers Association was requested to provide the Authority with the elevation at which the Association wishes to have Moira Lake maintained during the summer months.

The board recommended to the executive that E. Thompson and F. Manion be employed to improve the Deerock Reservoir Access Road, and that a representative of the Authority be employed to supervise the work.

A report was received of flooding in Marlbank, along Marlbank Creek, also, a resolution passed by Hungerford Township Council at a special meeting on June 26th, 1963, requesting the Authority to investigate clearing the bottom of Marlbank Creek.

Owing to the imminent danger of Marlbank Creek flooding the village of Marlbank, an amount not to exceed $300, will be spent on raising and reinforcing the creeks banks.

The engineering section of the Conservation Authorities Branch will be requested to inspect and make recommendations on further remedial and protective measures.

Owing to the urgency and need for immediate action to prevent further flood damage, it was arranged that C. Richmond would do the necessary work on the creek banks immediately.

Concern for the safety of small children using a popular swimming area on the Moira River below the dam at Chisholm's Mill, was expressed at the mid-July meeting of the executive committee. On receipt of a request from Tyendinaga Township, the Moira River Conservation Authority will provide the township with life saving rope and buoys for a children's swimming area on the understanding that the Authority will not assume any legal liability.

Rev. D. Wilson conducted the service in the chapel and the committal rites at Mount Evergreen cemetery.

The bearers were Angus McDonald, William Taylor, Gordon Hemstreet, Robert Cameron, Douglas McMasters and Alex Webb.

Mr. Coles, research analyst with the Pyrotenax Cable Company Ltd. in Trenton for the past nine years, died suddenly in Trenton Memorial Hospital on Wednesday last. He was born in Ordwick, Machester, England, 50 years ago, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Coles and has been a resident of Canada for some years.

Yesterday Mr. Coles was a member of Trent Lodge AF and AM No. 38, St. Mark's Chapter, RAM No. 36, Trenton, King Baldwin Preceptory No. 8, Belleville and Ramsess Shrine in Toronto.

Surviving are his wife, the former Elsie Wilkinson, one son, Jack Coles, Brighton and one daughter, Mrs. G. W. (Dorothy) Clarke, Leeds, England. Also surviving are two grandchildren, Kathryn and Julia Pillister.

MRS. CLAYTON POTTS

MARMORA — The death occurred suddenly at her home, 130 Charles Street, Kingston of Lillian Victoria Potts on Thursday, August 15th.

Born in Maynooth 58 years ago, and educated there she was a daughter of the late Mr. Archibald Sexsmith and the former Martha Carmichael. A member of the United Church and of the U.C.W. of St. Andrew's Church, Marmora, before going to reside in Kingston.

Her husband Clayton (Jimmie) Potts predeceased her a few years ago. She had lived all her married life in Marmora where Mr. Potts was a hardware merchant.

One daughter Mrs. Douglas Gerbel (Joyce) of Tweed survives, one brother Percy Sexsmith of Maynooth and two grandsons Chris and Terry Gerbels.

The funeral was held Saturday in the Howden Funeral Home, Marmora with Rev. Douglas Miller officiating. Bearers were Clayton Creighton, Cecil Neal and nephews Clayton, Eric, James and David Bedore. Interment was in Marmora Protestant Cemetery.

City Incorporates Expenditure Controls

With the year half way along on June 30, the city of Belleville was solvent although city hall department heads were being advised to exercise strict control over expenditures.

City Manager J. R. Reynolds in his budget report for the first six months of the year said expenditure control would be necessary to ensure that an over-all deficit did not occur come December 31.

However, Mr. Reynolds said that except for certain branches of some departments revenue and expenditures appeared "to be fairly well in line with budget estimates."

Overall expenditures for the first six months of the year totalled $3,248,563. Budget estimates for the year were $7,175,370.

On the other side of the ledger city revenue to June 30 had not quite reached the half way mark of $7,175,370. Revenue from taxation had reached $2,675,984 of the $3,078,-035 expected from this source.

Foundation for School Addition Is Excavated

DESERONTO — Workmen are excavating for the foundation of the addition to the Deseronto Public School. The Hesketa Construction Co. of Kingston moved in and began working as soon as final approval had been given by the Ontario Municipal Board.

The contract calls for the completion of the addition within four months this per imitting the full use of the building when school re-opens after Christmas.

Built on the north side of the present structure, the addition will contain a large room which will double as auditorium and gymnasium, and as a classroom if absolutely necessary; a library-classroom; a kindergarten; and a special education room. Until the addition comes into use, classes are to be conducted in the basement of St. Marks' Anglican Church, as last year, and in the main Sunday School room of the United Church for the first time.

Donald Reid, chairman of the board, believes that the postal strike was a blessing in disguise in getting the approval of the OMB in time. Letters between Toronto and Deseronto were often days or weeks in coming. Once the postal strike was on, letters to Toronto contained further information were delivered personally by the chairman Reid, who visited Toronto daily in his capacity as a transport driver. Replies were telephoned to Deseronto the same afternoon, together with requests for further information. This reached the OMB the following morning. August 8 was the deadline for the board, as the tenders expired at midnight.

Construction of CPR Overpass To Be Completed This Fall

With the construction project under way for less than a month the giant earth moving job of placing 47,000 yards for fill for the approach ramp to the CPR overpass in West Belleville is nearly complete.

By yesterday the man-made hill across the north end of Zwick's Island Park had soared to more than 20 feet and Ron Prain, field supervisor for Damas and Smith, consulting engineers for the project, said that only another two feet were needed to bring the approach to the required height.

Lightfoot Construction Ltd. are the general contractors for the overpass and Bay Bridge Road approach project.

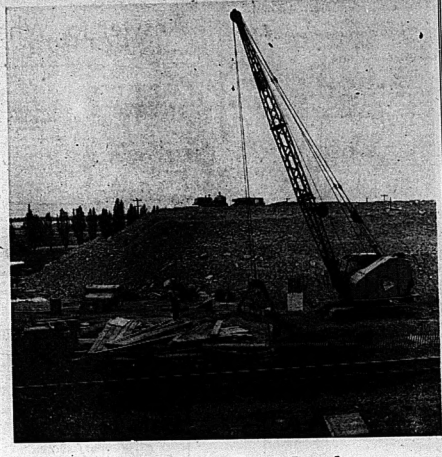
Footings for two of the three sets of support columns for the overpass have been poured and the columns brought up to ground level.

The support columns go down to bed rock — down through 14 feet of top soil, garbage and mud.

The new overpass will have a clearance of 23 feet over the railway tracks and will provide for a park road to run parallel and south of the tracks.

On completion — expected some time late this fall — traffic along Bay Bridge Road will be routed up over the new overpass to emerge on West Dundas Street, just west of the Devil's Elbow.

The present level crossing leading from Dundas Street to the Bay Bridge Road will then be closed.



By that time it is hoped the re-paving job on West Bridge Street and Bridge Street will be completed.

The CPR overpass and approaches, costing $361,804, is the first stage of the three phases Dundas Street roadway and bridge project which will ultimately see a new bridge across the Moira river and a new connecting road along Dundas Street to the top of the Devil's Elbow Hill.

Last week at a special meeting city council authorized Damas and Smith to prepare final plans for the new river bridge.

Construction Employees Hard at Work

Almost to Final Level

Only two more feet of fill is required for the CPR overpass approach ramp now under construction across the top of Zwick's Island Park. Overpass will provide 23 feet of clearance over tracks.

Employers May Return For Evening Classes

TRENTON — From the response shown in a recent survey of Trenton retail merchants it looks as if many of the town's retail employers will be going back to school.

The survey, conducted by Tan Darling, was designed to discover what facets of their business the employers wanted to know more about.

The survey came about as a result of meetings with Loyalist college who said an effort would be made to set up special 13 week courses to satisfy the most popular demands.

The survey began on Friday, Aug. 10 and it was today that Mr. Darling reported the results had been sent to Loyalist.

"Time could not be wasted," said Mr. Darling, "this could be the greatest boost to practical education this area has ever seen."

What did the employers think would aid them in their business?

Mr. Darling listed the potential courses in order of demand. The most popular was advertising or "how to let the public know about the product."

The rest followed; customer relations, cost control, account ing and free services.

Mr. Darling emphasized that Loyalist "might not go for all of these but they should accept some."

At the commencement of the survey he described Loyalist as "ready to go, they were just waiting for us."

With the acceptance of some and rejection of others, whatever the case may be, the individual amount of payment for the course will be established along with the time the course is to take place.

"If this works out," added Mr. Darling, "we will go to the employers again but this time ask them what training they would like prospective employees to have."

As the courses must be set up by October Mr. Darling expects action by Loyalist to be swift.

An industrial survey of the same nature, with the same goals, is planned for the future.

Fair Bike Winner

Nine-year-old Terry Greer of Wellington was all smiles as he picked up the new bicycle which he won in a draw at the firemen's booth at Belleville Fair. Handing over the bike to the lucky winner is Captain Elmer Helm.

Rotary Plays Host To 4-H Members

It was rural-urban day at Belleville Rotary yesterday, when the club played host to some 30 young people from the two 4-H clubs it sponsors and to Quinte-area agricultural officials.

The young people were from the club's calf club and Jersey calf club led by Delbert McCoush and Claire Trevethen (calf club) and Ron Hamilton (Jersey calf club).

Winner of the stockman's award at Belleville Fair was Glen Jarrell. In his absence last year's winner Nancy Eggleton, received the award on his behalf from Rotary President Kenneth Wormald.

Also introduced at the meeting, by rural-urban committee chairman Harry Burns, were Hastings county agricultural representative Douglas Kimber, associate agriculturalist representative Wayne Martin, and extension field man Raymond Pinder.

Speaker at the meeting was Norman Watson, associate director of extension of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Mr. Watson spoke on the essentials of good planning.

Prominent Picton Lawyer Served as Crown Attorney

PICTON (Staff) — Queen's Counsel, Lance Nethery died at his home Saturday night.

Mr. Nethery, 65, had been a prominent Prince Edward County resident for most of his life. His death came following a long illness.

He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Nethery, and was born at Redneersville. He received much of his education in Columbus, Ohio, while his father was posted there by the Canadian Immigration Department.

Upon completion of a law degree at the University of Toronto, and being called to the bar in 1929 he returned to Picton to open a practice.

In 1938 he joined up with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, and served overseas throughout most of the war in the capacity of paymaster. When he left the army in 1945 he had attained the rank of captain.

Back in Picton, he once again became active in municipal affairs. Prior to the war he served as reeve in 1939. In 1947 and '48 he was elected mayor.

He served as judge for the Juvenile and Family Court and acted in a part time capacity as crown attorney for Picton magistrates' court. He was appointed to that position on a full time basis in 1960, succeeding the late Gordon T. Walmsley.

Mr. Nethery was a member of the Masonic Lodge and the Royal Canadian Legion serving the latter for several years on the board of advisors, and for several terms as president.

He is survived by his wife, Katherine, and a son William.

A private family service was held Sunday. Mr. Nethery had willed his body to Queen's University. He had requested as well that donations in his memory be made to the Canadian Cancer Society. They may be left at Hicks Funeral Home, in Picton.

Kiwanis Plans Walk

A walk-a-thon sponsored by the Belleville Kiwanis Club and the purpose of the walk — a new heart monitoring device — will be the main subjects of a club meeting to be held today at noon.

According to O. F. Bradley, a Kiwanis spokesman, Dr. Bruce Cronk, a heart specialist and a representative from American Optical Company Ltd. will be on hand to discuss the device.

It is believed that the device may increase the survival of heart disease patients at the rate of 40 per cent.

The Kiwanis Club walk-a-thon will be held Sept. 14 and will start at Zwick's Island, ending at Belleville's city hall after a journey down the Red nersville Road to Trenton. Return route will be along highway 2.

The Kiwanians hope that the project will net the $18,000 needed for the new device.

P.M. in Spain

Prime Minister Trudeau cannot be said to have been dragging his feet since taking over the reins of office. He has been here, there and everywhere — up to the Arctic, by special train to Stratford for the theatre while at the same time attending to business, and back to Ottawa.

There have been strikes and another one involving Air Canada pilots is a possibility. However, while he agrees with Opposition leader Stanfield that the country faces serious problems the prime minister sees no reason why Parliament should be recalled before the scheduled September 12 date.

So relaxed in fact does Mr. Trudeau appear, and so confident is he that Canada can do without him for a spell, that he has sped off to Spain for a ten-day vacation.

Any prime minister is entitled to such a break if time permits. His duties are manifold, but Mr. Trudeau's trip overseas in a sense is indicative of the resilience and stability of this country.

Compare Canada's problems with those of the United States for instance. The headlines from the U.S. the other day were typical of any day in that country. "Florida City (St. Petersburg) hit by looting." And "Bank Bandits at Work" (in Washington).

And all against a background of a presidential campaign where the candidates from both Democratic and Republican parties are unimpressive enough that there is talk of President Johnson being drafted again.

So more power to Mr. Trudeau. With ten days in Spain behind him he should be in fine fettle for Parliament when it resumes September with be big testing time. Canadians will see then of what mettle he is really made. Mr. Stanfield will have his chance then too. The most interesting Parliamentary period in Canada in years is only weeks away.

Barbed Words

Members of Parliament lead busy lives and to stay the pace they must enjoy good health and have an infinite capacity for work. It helps too if in the words of former British colonial secretary Lord Chandos they regard "everybody and everything as fascinatingly interesting."

Perhaps their most needed quality, however, is that of being "thick-skinned." Politicians are merely human, yet more than any group in public life they must endure ordeal by jest, innuendo and even insult.

A recent debate in the Ontario legislature serves as an example. The Conservative member for Armourdale, G. R. Carton, was saying that while it must be said for the cut and thrust of debate, but I must confess (he went on) that on occasion, not the debates but the interjections — and in all fairness the interjections on all sides — sometimes make me cringe.

"On occasions," said Mr. Carton, "the remarks are downright cruel and I hope are not meant; if meant in the heat of the moment I hope they are forgiven and forgotten for surely we are all on hon. members trying our best in our own way to represent our constituents and the people of this province. . ."

Mr. Carton's words were well said but they must have fallen on at least one pair of deaf ears, as the Hansard record shows. The member for Armourdale, in the same address, was speaking of an Italian-born member of the legislature and of the contribution made to Ontario life by the people of Italy. The text went as follows:

"I spent about one year in Italy during the last war where even under the most adverse conditions, I learned to appreciate the natural beauty of the hon. member's mother-land, and the warmth of its people, and at the time I acquired some knowledge of the Italian language. . ."

An hon. member: "And the Italian girls!"

Whatever the reaction of members to this piece of impertinence by the unnamed member, Mr. Carton chose to ignore the remark, and went on to congratulate his Italian-born colleague, Mr. De Monte, the member for Dovercourt, and address some words to him in Italian.

Words can hurt as anyone who takes up a parliamentary life learns quickly enough. But then, two or more can play the game and often it makes for stimulating debate. Occasionally someone oversteps the mark — and then it is the task of The Speaker to restore order and if necessary administer a suitable reprimand. In the example described no objection was raised, although it surely could be described as borderline.

Answer to 'Where Oh Where Does the Tax Money Go?'

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — The federal Civil Service scarcely has begun to bargain collectively on wages and salaries.

Most of its divisions will bargain under the restraint, in the public interest, of compulsory arbitration.

But a few of its branches will be negotiating, in the union interest, with the right to strike.

So what?
So this:
In five short years the federal payroll has jumped by $569 million.

From $899 million in 1964.
To $927 million in '65.
To $1,185 million in '66.
To $1,317 million in '67.
To $1,468 million currently.

And that is just the federal Civil Service payroll — excluding the wage and salary bill of such government enterprises as the CBC, CNR, Air Canada, Central Mortgage and Housing, Atomic Energy, or any one of some 30 other crown corporations, commissions, boards, bureaux and assorted agencies.

That is a payroll increase averaging just a shade less than $113 million a year for five years.

But that is just the average. The real cause for alarm has been the increase in the increase.

Last year the payroll jumped $152 million.

This year, with the government making mighty noises about what it calls "restraint" — something apparently for other people — the increase has been cut to a mere $151 million.

That is $1 million less of an increase.

This is "economizing!"

Look at the current payroll. Study the figure: $1,468 million.

How much, actually is it?

Well, by the government's own accounting of tax collections — as reported by the national revenue department — it just about takes the combined total levy on the personal incomes of everybody in Canada's nine largest cities to cover the bill.

That is, every nickel of every dollar of income tax paid by taxpayers in Toronto, Montreal, Vancouver, Hamilton, Winnipeg, Ottawa, Calgary, Edmonton and Quebec City, if pooled, would pay the federal staff with $8 million to spare.

Among them, the taxpayers of these nine centres of population pay a combined income tax of $1,476 million.

And that is 50 percent of the tax take from the 68 "selected" cities, as the national revenue department calls them, from Alberni to Woodstock.

How else can you tax-equate the $1,468 million federal payroll?

Well, for example, in figures rounded from the revenue tax tables:

It is more than 17 times the total income tax bill — $85,000,000 — paid by Canada's 15,500 medical men.

More than 133 times what all Canada's 2,767 engineers and architects pay in income tax — $11,000,000.

Nearly 40 times the total tax — $37,000,000 — of the nation's 8,374 lawyers and notaries.

Just $73,000,000 more than the total income, not tax, but the income, that is — $1,395 million — of the country's 233,670 business proprietors.

About 82 times the $18,000,000 paid by all 3,357 dentists.

Just about 4 times the $20,000,000 bill of all 91,719 taxpaying Canadian pensioners.

You think you pay a lot of income tax now?

Well, if you add up the total tax bills of Belleville at $6,700,000 — Port Williams and Port Arthur at $19,500,000—Grande Prairie at $4,900,000 — Kitchener at $29,000,000 — Moose Jaw at $6,400,000 — Owen Sound at $3,100,000 — Prince George at $9,100,000 — Prince Rupert at $3,900,000 — Saint John at $12,000,000 — St. John's at $13,200,000 — St. Thomas at $5,000,000 — Stratford at $5,100,000—Sudbury at $20,600,000 — Sydney at $9,000,000 — Victoria at $31,500,000, you should come up with a $179,000,000 total.

Now, to cover the federal payroll you would have to multiply that 16-city income tax-take by eight.

Or, to put it another way — increase by eightfold the tax rates of all those already overtaxed taxpayers, and you would just about make it.

Australia Attracts More Americans Seeking Escape From a Problem Society

Toronto Star Syndicate

Australia's late Prime Minister Harold Holt summed up his government's immigration policy in 1966: "Every country reserves to itself the right to decide what the composition of its population will be."

Australia has barriers against Asians and other non-Europeans. The continent needs people but the Australians look at racial troubles in the United States, Britain and many other parts of the world and are sure her selective immigration policies are right.

Since 1945 almost 3 million newcomers have come to reportsent about 25 percent of the population. British citizens account for more than half the total immigrants, followed by Italians, Greeks, Dutch and other Europeans. There are about 40,000 from the United States, raising from 842 in 1959-60 to an estimated 3,000 new arrivals in 1968.

The Americans are coming for various reasons; some want to get away from the Negro problem and some are upset over the U.S. government's role in Vietnam. Others think Australia is the "last frontier" for adventure and riches. They see the land "down under" as comparable to the U.S. at the turn of the century when the West was being opened and there were still frontiers.

Very few Negroes apply for entry to Australia. Under government regulations they are accepted if they "meet the criteria for non-Caucasians." Non-government sources are convinced Negroes are somehow discouraged and seldom enter.

It is wrong to think Australia is a hot-bed of racism. As individuals, they discriminate no more or less prejudiced than other people. Times are changing: A South Asian nation can't bar its doors against non-whites indefinitely. From 1966 non-Caucasians on long term entry permits may apply for resident status after five years instead of fifteen just as may Europeans. Entry permits are still rationed, though, and preference is given to professional persons.

Peaceful Costa Rica

St. Catharines Standard

What does Costa Rica have that other countries don't have? We wouldn't know. But we do know now what Costa Rica doesn't have that other countries have.

It doesn't have a cannon. It had to borrow one from neighboring Panama to use for the ceremonial gun salute when President Johnson dropped in earlier this week.

And it doesn't have any gunpowder either. It had to borrow that from Guatemala for the occasion.

And it doesn't have an army. Somehow the local police managed to fire the gun salute to the U.S. president.

By now, the cannon has been wheeled back to Panama and the gunpowder. . .well, that's gone too.

Lucky Costa Rica.

Lack of Respect for Others

A Careless and Unheeding Society

Editor,
The Intelligencer

One of the hallmarks of our age seems to be the lack of respect for others. This manifests itself in many ways but has its beginnings in home relationships. It shows itself in the way people use public parks and community centres, and in the way persons treat our highways, streets and waterways.

This summer I had the opportunity to "show off" our city to visitors from other centres across this great country of Canada. Without exception the response that I received was far from heartening. The litter in the streets, the group of young people either lying around the public thoroughfare idle or running wild up and down the streets at night was far from a public relation man's dream of a happy and well-adjusted society.

I have been told that in some communities curfews have been enforced to keep young people off the streets after a certain hour at night, laws have been enacted that make littering our streets and waterways a punishable offence. But to me to have to come to this type of thing means that we, like the people in the Old Testament, because of the hardness of our hearts cannot govern ourselves. The more laws we have the more freedom is eroded away and we become a "robot society". Man must learn to be the master of his fate and the captain of his soul, and this can only be done in the family. The breakdown in our society is a breakdown in the Christian ethic of family life. The respect for authority, the love for one's neighbor and hence the respect for his property and the things that belong to him begins with mother and father teaching not only through word but also example the right way to live.

I see mothers and fathers dragging their children through red lights in a hurry to get across the street, I see them exceeding the speed limit on residential streets for the rights of other people and I see mothers and fathers too busy with the "fast buck" and getting a higher standard of living to really insist that the true "high standard of living" is a living lived at its best where body, mind and spirit are equally developed into a complete and well-adjusted personality.

While it is the exception nowadays, rather than the rule there are still there families in which the complete worth of the human being is recognized and the responsibilities that he must assume as a good citizen stressed. Perhaps I can best summed it up very well when he said to the American people "Ask not what your country can do for you, but rather what you can do for your country." We also well use this as a motto of our city to those who want everything laid out in front of them still complain "Ask not what Belleville can do for you, but what you, as a good citizen, can do for Belleville." If you look closely there are plenty of opportunities for you and I to make Belleville an even better place in which to live.

CBC Program on Pill Is Strongly Criticized

Editor,
The Intelligencer

I would like to comment on the CBC's public affairs program "The Pope and The Pill." The CBC might have done a great service in the general public and the faithful of the Catholic Church by presenting a serious and detailed development of Pope Paul's encyclical "Of Human Birth". Indeed the CBC had very excellent commentators for such a presentation in Fr. Cooker, Father Principe, Father Sheridan, and Monsignor Vaughan. Yet, with Mr. Callaghan as moderator, such a development was seemingly impossible; and the members of the panel must share their responsibility for this failing as well.

The program could not help but lead to further confusion on this most important question, and Lisake the CBC to task for treating it so lightly, and at times, as if it were a joke. Since when can we speak of the dignity of man, the value of human life, the meaning of true conjugal relationship, the proper respect for the father and the purposes of the marriage act, the sacredness of marriage, and the respect for authority, both civil and divine so lightly. Yet, this was continually lacking in the program's presentation.

I urge all who are to make a judgment on this issue to read and reread the encyclical "On Human Life", and to study it carefully all of the Church's teaching on Marriage. Pope Paul is presenting us with what is to be followed in married life, and this ideal must be striven for continually through Christian perseverance and grace.

I'll Call the Shots on Vietnam While in Office, Says Johnson

DETROIT (AP) — President Johnson says that while he is still in office he will call the shots on Vietnam policy—there will be no total bombing halt of North Vietnam or other de-escalation of the war.

Speaking Monday night to a convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Johnson said he will go no further in the search for peace until Hanoi shows decisive signs of wanting to end the fighting.

The president said all moves by the United States to end the fighting have gone unanswered by the North Vietnamese.

"The next move must be theirs," he told a cheering audience.

The president seemed to be answering critics within his own party, particularly Senators Eugene McCarthy and George McGovern, who have made opposition to the war major parts of their campaigns for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Referring to the fact that his term does not expire until next January, Johnson said: "This administration does not intend to move further until it has good reason to believe that the other side intends seriously to join with us in de-escalating the war and moving seriously towards peace."

He also predicted his successor will wind up with the same policy once he has all the information and responsibility that comes with the presidency.

"It's one thing to be seeking responsibility and it's another thing when you've got it."

Johnson said nobody wants peace more than he. He condemned Hanoi for not responding clearly and affirmatively to his March 31 order restricting bombing of the North.

In withdrawing his candidacy for a second White House term nearly five months ago, Johnson said he wanted to divorce his search for peace abroad and harmony at home from partisan considerations.

But Monday he made it clear he doesn't like all he hears in the current campaign.

Some White House aides argued afterwards that his hold-the-line address could only help Vice-President Hubert Humphrey, the leading candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

This was based on the theory that Humphrey's Vietnam position is far closer to Johnson's than that of his chief rival for the nomination, Senator McCarthy, who is calling for a total and unconditional bombing halt.

But some others, outside the White House, wondered if the gains might not be the Republican presidential nominee, Richard Nixon, whose Vietnam policy in many respects is close to a carbon copy of Johnson's.

Speaking Out on Campus

Martin Loney, 24-year-old president of Simon Fraser University's student council, speaks to a crowd of students at a recent campus rally. Mr. Loney is leading student attacks on what he terms dictorial administration of the university.

...May Seek Re-nomination

DETROIT (CP-AP) — Will President Johnson change his mind and run for re-election?

Because of some rather cryptic remarks in the speech he made to the Veterans of Foreign Wars Monday night, some of the president's listeners wondered if he might be weakening in his "completely irrevocable" decision of last March against seeking another term.

One was the following comment about U.S. troops doing the fighting in South Vietnam: "They are going to have a voice in this campaign before its over."

Another was his statement that "I did not take myself out of personal partisan presidential politics . . . in order to permit our pursuit of peace to be colored in the slightest degree by domestic political considerations."

But eyebrows probably were raised highest when he amended a prepared statement that he had faith "that when the political campaign is over—and all sides will take up the responsibility of the presidency—they will take a similar view" to Johnson's.

Platform Committee Hears Vietnam Critics

WASHINGTON (CP-AP) — The Democrats today threw open their platform committee hearings to some of the most important figures on both sides of the Vietnam controversy that has split the governing U.S. party.

John Kenneth Galbraith, the Canadian-born Harvard professor who spoke for Senator Eugene McCarthy, urged platform writers not to "gloss over this disaster."

"It is more important for us to get out of this mess," he said.

Defending the Johnson administration's war policies in a committee meeting tonight will be State Secretary Dean Rusk. His appearance follows presentation of a statement by Senator J. William Fulbright of Arkansas, an arch critic of the administration.

The platform—with Vietnam a key part of it—is the plank the Democrats will present to their national convention in Chicago, opening next Monday.

Fulbright, head of the Senate foreign relations committee, argued in a prepared statement for a halt to U.S. bombing of North Vietnam and the inclusion of the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, in any discussion of the future of South Vietnam.

Fulbright's position is similar to the stand of Senator McCarthy, the major challenger to Vice-President Hubert Humphrey for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"It will be necessary at an early stage to bring the Saigon government and the National Liberation Front into the discussion of their country's future," Fulbright said.

McCarthy wants the NLF in a temporary South Vietnamese coalition government and says the U.S. should begin withdrawing if this is not done.

Humphrey, who generally supports Johnson's war policies has said he will not impose a coalition government on the South Vietnamese.

Fulbright's criticism of past administration decisions was r-latively muted. He said that inserting U.S. ground forces "was supported at the time by most responsible officials, including members of Congress who have since become critics of the war."

"American intervention in Vietnam has been the result of honest but serious errors in policy," Fulbright said.

But Galbraith urged platform writers not to seek "a form of words which glosses our recent Asian policy a success."

Galbraith, born near St. Thomas, Ont., released his statement Monday night although it was scheduled for presentation today.

"It is more important to get us out of this mess than to redeem the judgment of those who got us in," he said. He called for the establishment of a government, including the NLF, a bombing halt and reducing U.S. operations to a purely defensive role."

The NLF, he said, consists of "the custodians of Vietnamese nationalism."

Another aspirant for the Democratic presidential nomination, Senator George McGovern of South Dakota, told the committee in prepared remarks that the U.S. should start removing military forces from Vietnam now.

"There is no considerable international interest, no diplomatic commitment, and no other compelling reason to continue the American military intervention any longer.

"The most compelling reason for ending the war is that it is a moral disaster for America and for Vietnam. This war has become a smouldering cancer that is eating away the ideals of dignity and compassion which have been our surest guides from the earliest days of the republic."

But President Johnson rejected the arguments of his war critics when he said in a Detroit speech Monday night there would be no halt in bombing or further de-escalation until North Vietnam takes some step to indicate it is serious about peace.

"This president—this administration—will not move down that slippery slope" to a unilateral withdrawal, Johnson said.

Credentials Committee

McCarthy Challenges Humphrey Backers

CHICAGO (CP) — Senator Eugene McCarthy was expected today to go after a slice of Vice-President Hubert Humphrey's commanding lead in Democratic delegate votes with a series of challenges here to the party convention's credentials committee.

But some party professionals felt the challenges would not do McCarthy much good because, they claim, Humphrey has the nomination sewed up on the first ballot.

Lawrence F. O'Brien, former postmaster-general who is running Humphrey's campaign, said the vice-president has a solid base of 1,400 convention votes—with 1,312 needed for the nomination at next week's convention. O'Brien estimated McCarthy has about 600 votes.

McCarthy, gearing up his anti-Humphrey drive in "this long-odds fight to win the presidential nomination, sought to erode the vice-president's overwhelming support in one western and two eastern states.

His attack was aimed at the Washington, Pennsylvania and Connecticut state delegations, totalling more than 250 votes, where his supporters claim they have been denied fair-and adequate representation.

The Democrats, who begin their four-day convention Monday, will face a Republican ticket that is wasting little time in the battle for the votes in the Nov. 5 general election.

Republican presidential candidate Richard Nixon told a crowd in Columbus, Ohio, that his first full day of national campaigning Monday convinced him he can win the election by a landslide.

"Across the country a tide is beginning to run," Nixon said. "All we have to do is push it day and night and it will be a landslide."

Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia, another presidential candidate among the Democrats, delivered a scathing attack on the United Nations. He called it a Communist-oriented organization seeking one-world government. He also praised the ultra right-wing John Birch Society, but said he was not a member.

Opening its second day of hearings on an unusually large number of challenges, the 110-member credentials committee was faced with an all-out McCarthy attack on the Humphrey power base—the regular state Democratic organizations pledged to Johnson administration policies during the last four years.

The credentials committee also was to vote tonight on a Mississippi delegation dispute which pitted civil rights leaders against white segregationists when hearings resumed Monday.

A biracial opposition Democratic group known as The Mississippi Loyalists are challenging the state party with racial bias and a refusal to comply with the national party's rules of a four years ago that no one should be excluded from party activities because of color, creed or national origin.

Both Humphrey and McCarthy support the challenge of the loyalists, who are about evenly split in sentiment for the contenders.

Governor Richard Hughes of New Jersey, credentials chairman, said the committee has total of challenges, estimated at around one-third of the delegates to the convention, but it has agreed it is the biggest convention seating squabble in party history.

McCarthy forces pinned their hopes of stopping Humphrey from grabbing a first-ballot victory at the convention on the outcome of this week's challenges. McCarthy was hoping to reverse a setback he suffered at the committee's first meeting.

Hughes said the ruling was based on the fact that if he agreed to the motion, "We wouldn't have a convention at all."

But McCarthy representatives said today they will drag the credentials issue onto the floor of the convention, pressaging—with the wrangle over the party platform—a bitter and intensive political battle.

KEEP FIT OR RETIRE

As part of a new fitness program, the mayor of Manila has ordered all city hall employees to stay away from night clubs

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch
Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.
A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissue.
One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved... actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.
Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and I cost important of all, results were so thorough that in most cases recovery was maintained over a period of many months.
This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is perfected in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.
In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination easier. It also helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.
Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Private Counselling Aid Now Available in City

By LINDA GELDART
Staff Reporter

A private family counselling service, under the auspices of an area social worker, is now in operation in Belleville.

The project is being undertaken by Mrs. Marlene Castellano, who has been supervisor of the Unmarried Parents' Service (in affiliation with the Belleville Children's Aid), for the past two years.

Mrs. Castellano, who has a master's degree in social work from the University of Toronto has been actively involved in this profession for more than 10 years. She has worked for the Children's Aid in Winnipeg, and with the Family Service Association in Metropolitan Toronto, rendering her well-qualified to assess the specific counselling needs of this area.

The service located at 220 Dundas E., will handle personal and family problems: especially marriage problems. Asked if there would be any affiliation with public agencies in this regard, Mrs. Castellano replied that there would be "a good deal of communication with both public agencies and other professionals involved in these services."

What were some of the things that made her decide that Belleville definitely did need such a private agency?

First, and foremost, she stated, many professionals in the field of social work, and members of the general public openly expressed such a need. Secondly, Mrs. Castellano said, she personally was strongly influenced by the recent divorce legislation, which specifically emphasizes the important role of counselling in determining whether a marriage should be terminated or re-established on a sounder basis.

In larger centres, such as Toronto, social workers quite often set up private practices of this kind, in order to fill the need of many people who need this kind of help, but are reluctant to make use of public agencies.

Mrs. Castellano proposes to use consultation with other professional specialists to supplement the services of her agency. She hopes referrals and assessments can be set up between her agency and others, after the exact need in the community has been assessed.

The fees for this private service will be based on a flat rate. The organizer maintains that when the public has the option of free or private service, that they are quite prepared to pay for it if they choose the latter.

In determining whether or not the venture is a success, Mrs. Castellano said that in the next few months, "the response will indicate whether or not there is a demand for this type of service." Even if a few people are helped, she explained, it would be a success.

At present, Mrs. Castellano is the one and only staff member, but she welcomes all inquiries about this" service. More information can be obtained by calling her at her home, or arranging an interview with her.

MR. AND MRS. WAYNE D. WAITE

Waite – Boyd

Dr. H. M. Davis officiated recently when Eleanor Jeanne Boyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. (Archie) Boyd, of Belleville, exchanged marriage vows with Wayne Dennis Waite, son of Mrs. G. Waite of Belleville, and the late Mr. G. Waite. The ceremony was held in Bridge Street United Church, where Clifford Templer rendered traditional wedding music and Mostle Moorcroft was the soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by both her mother and father, wore a floor-length gown of imported French Chantilly lace, featuring a portrait neckline with the scalloped edging of the lace and long lily - point sleeves. The gown was highlighted at the bustle back by layer upon layer of scalloped lace in bouffant styling. The lace flowed out to a short chapel train enhancing the three tiers of lace. The bridal headpiece was a combination of a summer crown with chiffon petals and seed pearls, this was caught up by a four-tier scalloped nylon illusion veil that fell slightly over the shoulders. She carried a bouquet of pink sweetheart roses, English ivy and fresh white heather brought from Scotland.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Earl (Patricia) Campbell, of Scarborough, wore a floor-length gown of iced-lilac, featuring an Empire waistline and an A-line skirt of chiffon over taffeta. The bodice of the gown was lace over taffeta. Other features included a rounded neckline and elbow length sleeves. Bridesmaids were the Misses Barbara Boyd and Susan Boyd (junior bridesmaid), both sisters of the bride, who were attired identically to the matron of honor. All wore headpieces composed of circles of smaller yellow 'mums, and carried cascade bouquets of yellow 'mums.

Flower girl was Miss Nancy Waite, of Kingston, niece of the groom. Her gown was identical to that of the other attendants, and she carried a basket of yellow shasta mums.

Attending the bridegroom was Glenn Waite, brother of the bridegroom, and ushers were Merrit Waite, also brother of the bridegroom and Mr. James Boyd, brother of the bride.

The reception was held at the church hall, where the mother of the bride received the guests attired in a petal pink French gown of shirred ribbon and rose-point lace featuring semi-fitted promenade coat of matching fabric, and a turban hat of imported pink silk melina. While accessories were complemented by deep yellow rose corsage. Assisting her, the mother of the bridegroom wore a beige silk worsted two-piece ensemble, with pure lace trim. Her orange flowered hat, beige shoes and gloves were complemented by an orange-pink rose corsage.

For the wedding trip to the West coast, the bride chose a navy and white A-line dress, and navy and white accessories, completed by a corsage of pink carnations. Upon their return, the couple will reside in Belleville.

EVIL EYE RUINS CONTEST

DAR ES SALAAM (AP) — Villagers at the Tanzanian coastal town of Mheza annoyed officials by refusing to participate in a countrywide program of beauty contests and baby shows for fear of witches. They said the witches might kill the winners with the evil eye. A government official told them it was "high time they dropped such silly superstitions."

In Preparation for New Service

Help is at hand, Mrs. Marlene Castellano, area social worker, is busily engaged in the task of letting more people know about the new private family counselling service available in Belleville and district. Mrs. Castellano's hope is that her private agency will fulfill the present need for this type of counselling in the community.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN H. KOOMANS

Koomans – Klompmaker

Maranatha Christian Reformed Church of Belleville was the scene of the August 10th wedding when Rev. E. Gritter united in marriage Betty Beatrix Klompmaker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Klompmaker of Stirling to John Hubert Koomans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Koomans of R.R. 5, Belleville.

Melis Koomans, rendered traditional wedding music while Mrs. Grace Doornbos was the soloist for the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a floor-length gown of chiffon over satin. From the empire waist fell an A-line skirt with lace ruffles at the hem. The bodice featured flowered lace over satin with a scooped neckline with seed pearls, and lily-point sleeves. The chapel length train, also with wide lace ruffles, fell from the shoulders and the shoulder-length veil was attached to a pill box touched with seed pearls. She carried a cascade of sweetheart roses with trailing ivy.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Lamnie Kwantes, of Port Credit, sister of the bride, wore a full-length gown, empire style, of beige moire with a white cascade-collar bodice. She wore a matching headpiece and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations. The bridesmaids Miss Dorothea Koomans and Miss Maria Koomans, sisters of the bridegroom, wore similar gowns of blue moire and carried identical bouquets.

The flower girl was Miss Francine Klompmaker, of Stirling, niece of the bride who wore an identical gown of pink moire with matching headpiece and carried a basket of pink carnations and white 'mums.

Attending the bridegroom was his brother Hans Koomans of Barrie. The ushers were Tony Klompmaker of Bowmanville, brother of the bride and Bas Koomans of Sudbury, brother of the bridegroom.

The wedding reception was held in the church parlors. The mother of the bride received the guests wearing a coat and dress ensemble of turquoise blue with beige accessories and a corsage of red roses. Assisting was the bridegroom's mother who wore a dress and matching jacket of gold and black with black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

For the wedding trip through the U.S. the bride chose a sleeveless two-piece outfit of pale green crimpoline with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Upon their return the couple will reside in Markham, Ont.

TURN THE TABLES

EDMONTON (CP) — June, traditional month for weddings, was also big for divorces in Edmonton this year. Courthouse officials said the 184 divorces processed during the month were "away ahead of 1957." They compared with 434 June weddings.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Previous to her marriage, Mrs. Wayne D. Waite (nee Eleanor Jeanne Boyd) was entertained at several showers. A miscellaneous shower was given by Mrs. Earl Campbell at her home in Scarborough, with Mrs. John Oliver as cohostess; another miscellaneous shower was given by Mrs. Russell Bodley at her home RR1, in Belleville. A presentation was made by the staff of King George School (of which the bride is a member), Afternoon tea was given by the bride's mother, Mrs. A. E. Boyd in honor of her daughter. A rehearsal party was given by the groom's mother, Mrs. G. Waite, after the rehearsal for the wedding party.

Have Same Privileges

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — "Female government employees are just as human as other people," legislator Chang Fu told the Formosa provincial assembly, "and are entitled to the same privileges." He spoke against a ban on civil servants visiting girlie restaurants and found unexpected support from a woman member, Wang Sung Chiung-ling. She said bureaucrats should not be denied the companionship of pretty girls if they can afford it.

Physician Claims Psychiatrists "Balmy"

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Why do you urge your readers to get psychiatric help? Don't you know the suicide rate of psychiatrists is the highest among the professionals? If you doubt it write to the Journal of the American Medical Association and get the statistics.

I am a physician who works with all types of specialists. The psychiatrists are the balmiest of the lot. I'm sure many psychiatrists go into the field in search of solutions to their own problems. Please do your reading public a favor and tell them the truth. — A READ 'ER.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR READER — Bob Kipbuth who spent 41 years at Yale was the world's greatest swimming coach. He turned out many champions but was a mediocre swimmer himself. When I go to a shoemaker I don't look at his shoes. I look at the work he has turned out for others. When I go to a carpenter I don't ask to see the house he lives in. I am interested only in the quality of the work he has done for his customers. I've seen beauty operators whose hair looks frightful, but who do beautiful work on their clients. I know excellent physicians who are dangerously overweight and gall bladder operation for four years. Having the information and being able to apply it to one's life are not one and the same, my friend.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My husband is a divorced man and the father of two children. I am 28 and teach school. We have no children.

When my husband and his wife broke up she took the kids, which was O.K. with him. Yesterday he received a phone call from his ex saying she was leaving town for good and since the kids would be a burden he would have to take them. He said "fine" without even asking me.

When he hung up he turned to me and said, "Congratulations, you are now the proud mother of two children." I told him I was not prepared for the "honor" and the least he could have done was ask me.

We got into an argument and he said either I take the kids or get out.

Does the law in Virginia say a stepmother has to take a husband's children by a former marriage? The kids are 12 and 10 a real handful. — FLABBERGASTED.

DEAR FLAB — The legal aspects of this problem are the least of your worries, Lady. You need a third party to mediate the war.

Your husband should certainly have asked you, even though it appears you have no choice. I've said it before and I'll say it again: When you marry a divorced person with a family, that family becomes part of your life whether you like it or not.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Here is a ticklish situation that calls for an Ann Landersish approach.

Scene: A social gathering. Clumps of guests are seated or standing — some small (or large) talk. You find yourself chatting with two bright people. The conversation is fast-moving and provocative. You discover after a few minutes that the other two conversationalists are addressing each other and you begin to feel like a third foot.

A person of good taste does not wish to interject himself into a conversation when he feels no one is interested in what he has to say. Does one just sit there and listen or is it best to walk away? If you feel it is best to walk away, what does one say when he leaves? — IGNORED PARTY.

DEAR IG — One says good-bye.

Family Reunions

FLEMING FAMILY

The Fleming Clan gathered recently at the Tweed Park to enjoy their annual family reunion. Some 150 enjoyed a picnic luch at noon. The president, Clifford Ray conducted the formal business, necessary to such a gathering and welcomed all the families present.

The afternoon was spent in competition among the children for the prizes offered in games and races in playgrounds.

The next reunion is to be held at Zwick's Island on the third Sunday in July and all the clan is encouraged to join the reunion.

Girl Sorry She Ever Started Smoking

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: Please send me your leaflet "Why Smoke? I'm 27 now and have been smoking since I was 18. I'm only sorry I ever started and wish there was some way to stop young people from taking up this deplorable habit in the first place. I've tried several times lately to quit, but my husband also smokes and this makes it more difficult. He doesn't want to quit but if I can 'maybe he'll consider it too.

I have found lately that my throat is always sore and I have trouble breathing when I over-exert, also coughing at night time, all of which I'm positive is caused by cigarettes and still I can't seem to break the habit.

I'm always reading articles about smoking but that old human failing of how "It can't happen to me" prevails and I go right on as before. — Hate The Weed.

P.S. I have another moving factor for quitting: three beautiful little girls. After all, how can I tell them not to smoke if I do?

Dear Hate: I'm with you 40 ways. At 18 I started to smoke because the other university students kept offering me cigarettes and teasing me about my refusals. I hated to be thought a prude.

Eighteen years later, after many false stops, I quit the lowdown habit for keeps. My first resolution was just to avoid cigarettes during one conference weekend; then it got to be a challenge to see whether I could keep resisting them, for just one day more.

After a few days, I began feeling less short of breath, less easily tired, and I thought it would be a shame to spoil my growing record of abstention by breaking down and taking just one. Thus I conned my self into a resistance which has now lasted several years.

My 10-cent leaflet "Why Smoke?" is on its way to you. Good luck!

* * *

Dear Doris: The guy I went with for two years is taking my girl friend to a big dance and since she told me it's been bothering me. What's wrong anyway? Sure, I still like him but haven't been talking to him since we broke up.

My girl friend talks about it quite a bit and I just burn up and am about ready to break down. I just can't figure it out because I'm going with a very nice guy now and think a lot of him. Every time I see the other guy I want to be with him instead but when I don't I don't want to be. — What Gives

Dear What Gives: Get your mother to tell you the story about the Dog in the Manger. You don't want Guy Number One but you don't want anybody else to have him.

You can't keep 'em all. Better let go.

* * *

Dear Doris: How old should a child be before a mother returns to work? I was told three and a half years of age. — Wondering

Dear Wondering: Let your conscience be your guide. No law spells it out. Just provides that no child should be left "unattended" — under 16 in most provinces.

If your community provides a good nursery school, part time work is o.k. for you, while he's there. Otherwise, finances permitting, I hold out for full time home duty until the youngster goes to school. Children need their mothers; not a succession of baby sitters.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Barbecued Chicken for Ten

By MARY MOORE

The majority of smoke-sealaugh at our little garden barson barbecuers would laugh at our little garden barbecue.

Surrounding us are neighbors with modern rotisseries revolving whole chickens, rolled beef roasts, pork loins, etc. I do not have a rotisserie so made chicken in a packet. Four houses down the street my secretary, Shirley, was barbecuing a chicken on her battery - operated rotisserie. She brought me a leg to taste. Both tested methods of barbecuing chicken are great — and economical.

ROTISSERIE BARBECUED CHICKENS (serves 10)

two 3-lb. chickens (no stuffing)

Barbecue Sauce:

⅛ cup oil
¼ cup lemon juice
½ cup water
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup brown sugar
½ teaspoon tarragon
½ teaspoon rosemary
½ teaspoon chopped chives

1 teaspoon dry mustard

Truss legs and wings tightly to chickens. Impale close together on spit. Wrap in wide heavy duty foil to protect from burning and barbecue four inches above glowing briquettes, rotating constantly for 3 hours. Remove foil and baste several times with combined sauce ingredients brought just to boiling. Barbecue, basting frequently, for 1½ hours longer. Serve cut up.

CHICKEN - IN - A - PACKET

Place individual serving of cut-up chicken in squares of foil large enough to fold completely over chicken. Before closing packet, sprinkle chicken with barbecue seasoning or M.S.G. and salt or 1 to 2 teaspoons of dehydrated onion soup mix. Using a "drugstore fold", wrap chicken in foil to form leakproof package. Be sure there are no protruding bones to break through foil. If desired, wrap required number of scrubbed baking potatoes individually in foil and place with chicken on grill. Bake 1 to 1¼ hours or until chicken is tender and potatoes are cooked. Turn packets once or twice to promote even cooking. Serve with mixed salad of crisp greens and diced or sliced vegetables in French or Roquefort dressing. One package of dehydrated onion soup is enough for six servings of chicken.

World Weather Experts View McGill Station

MONTREAL (CP) — It looks like a giant dollop of ice cream atop a slim tube, dominating the flat farm land of the Ste. Anne de Bellevue region near here.

But this is not a children's confection.

It's the most modern radar weather station in the world, operated by McGill University.

It was the meeting place Monday of a number of weather scientists from various parts of the world.

No matter what language they spoke, however, they shared breathlessness as they met briefly on the top of the 110 steps that led to the radar pan, 85 feet above ground.

The weather station, able to give up to four hours advance warning of storms gathering and threatening the Montreal area from 200 miles away, was in partial operation early this summer.

But this was the first chance for 15 of 200 scientists attending the three-day 13th Radar Meteorology Conference at McGill to see such a weather forecaster.

The conference, which opens here today, will hear more than 130 papers on the science of weather forecasting from Soviet, Swiss, Japanese, Indian, Australian, Canadian and U.S. weather organizations.

The slim tower, with its impressive radome—a fibreglass and aluminium geodesic dome—houses a 30-foot radar dish which emits a radio wave 8-10ths of a degree wide towards the north.

Prof. J. S. Marshall of McGill University's meteorological department, one of the organizers of the international meeting, said the data collected by the new weather station is made public and forms a link in the chain of U.S. research operations.

He said half the support for the $500,000 project came from the U.S. and most of the equipment used both in the tower and at Dorval airport is American.

The station would be most useful in winter with its sensitive ability to detect gathering snow storms. Eventually it will replace the existing weather forecasting facilities at Montreal International Airport.

The station is one of eight such weather towers in Canada. The U.S. has 150.

Marijuana Penalties May Be Cut

REGINA (CP) — Federal Health Minister John Munro told delegates to the annual meeting of the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association, federal authorities are considering more lenient treatment of youthful offenders convicted of possessing marijuana.

He said giving criminal records to several thousand curious t-e-e-n-a-g-e-r-s each year serves no worthwhile social purpose.

"The teen-ager who tries pot at a Saturday night party because someone has some and passes it around and everyone else tries it, may be very foolish, but he isn't a criminal, at least not in the sense that I think of criminals," Mr. Munro said.

He said one suggestion would be to put marijuana in a new category of restricted drugs under a Food and Drug Act amendment that will probably become law during the next session of Parliament.

Another suggestion by the Ontario John Howard Society calls for Parliament to pass a marijuana control act with lesser penalties and prosecution before a magistrate rather than in the higher courts.

"These and other options are being given very serious consideration by the departments at the moment," he said.

Marijuana now is controlled by the Narcotic Control Act, under which penalties may range up to life imprisonment. It has been treated as a narcotic in Canada since 1923.

The law provides a maximum sentence of seven years for possession, but the courts impose sentences that vary from suspended for some youthful first-offenders to several years for repeaters. Those convicted of possession for trafficking, trafficking and importation are most severely treated.

Mr. Munro said that "marijuana is, in fact, not a narcotic at all, but rather an hallucinogen," and not necessarily addictive. He said wide publicity to the danger of using LSD has made it a less severe problem than a year ago.

Oil Hunt Satisfies Chretien

EDMONTON (CP) — Jean Chretien, Indian affairs and northern development minister, returned here Monday after spending three days in the Canadian North touring Panarctic Oils Ltd. operations.

The minister said he is "satisfied with progress" made by the joint government-private industry $20,000,000 oil exploration venture on the Arctic islands.

Mr. Chretien and representatives from the 20 participating companies covered more than 5,500 miles by aircraft and spent most of Sunday on Melville Island where seismic operations are being carried out.

Much of the remainder of the trip was spent traveling to and from the area and viewing mineral deposits and some plant operations en route.

The tour left Calgary Saturday with a stop at Yellowknife, N.W.T., before continuing to Resolute Bay, N.W.T.

Mr. Chretien said the principle of financing explorations jointly will probably stimulate additional interest in Canada's North and facilitate faster development.

Several companies working together with government support would realize the potential of an area which one company would be reluctant to finance by itself, he said.

He said government investment in northern areas is "probably more satisfying to the Canadian people" than participation through taxation because there is more direct involvement.

Burial Site of Early Anglican Catechist Who Served Mohawks Is Rediscovered

DESERONTO — After 150 years in the limbo of history, John Ochechuskoh has been rediscovered for the Mohawks.

With him, the Indian band, already richly recorded in the white man's history, contributes yet another personality to Quinte annals.

Ochechuskoh was probably the first layman in North America raised to the important Anglican church post of catechist.

But, if his burial site is any indication, much more personal detail may yet await the explorer, says Rev. F. F. Downing, chaplain of the Tyendinaga Mohawks and the man who literally resurrected Ochechuskoh's identity from the grave.

An avid guesser of Mohawk history since his appointment last year, the former pastor of Stirling made his exciting discovery less than two months ago.

Exploring the old Mohawk graveyard behind Christ Church, Rev. Downing's attention was drawn to a site as imposing as it was neglected.

Overgrown with weeds and brambles, its limestone guard walls long ago had been splintered by tree roots. The inscription on the massive, flat gravestone was almost indecipherable.

However, Rev. Downing doggedly set about unravelling the weatherworn inscription.

It revealed itself as a grateful testament to Ochechuskoh, buried here in 1810.

Checking out Mohawk history, this biography emerged:

Ochechuskoh was appointed Anglican catechist of the Mohawks before the tribe fled their traditional homegrounds in New York's Hunter Valley after the American Revolution.

He therefore likely was with his people when, as virtual refugees of war, they made their historic landing here in 1784.

He died in 1810, after 30 years in the service of the church, ministering the needs of the Mohawk congregation between the infrequent visits from Kingston of missionary Dr. John Stuart.

His historic status is linked to the importance placed by the Mohawks in their church, as part of the British establishment to which they swore loyalty. That loyalty is still a proud fact of Quinte Indian life today. The Mohawks still closely associate themselves with the monarchy: the Union Jack still is recorded a place of honor on formal occasions.

Today, Christ Church is a repository of emblematic links with the Crown, with enough signs of royal affection to make even the loyalest of United Empire Loyalists look like plebeians.

Mohawk regal possessions date from Queen Anne, who sent them a magnificent silver communion service. Christ Church is dominated by a triptych of the Ten Commandments, the Lord's Prayer and Apostle's Creed, bestowed by George III. A royal coat of arms from the same monarch hangs over the church doorway. A massive bible used during services was sent by Queen Victoria on her accession.

The same bible has been affectionately signed by Queen Elizabeth and Prince Phillip.

And, just for good historic measure, the Christ Church belfry houses the first church bell used in Upper Canada, claims Rev. Downing.

The first act of the Mohawks on their 1784 landing here was to hold a Christian thanksgiving service on an upturned canoe — a moment in history that is still annually celebrated.

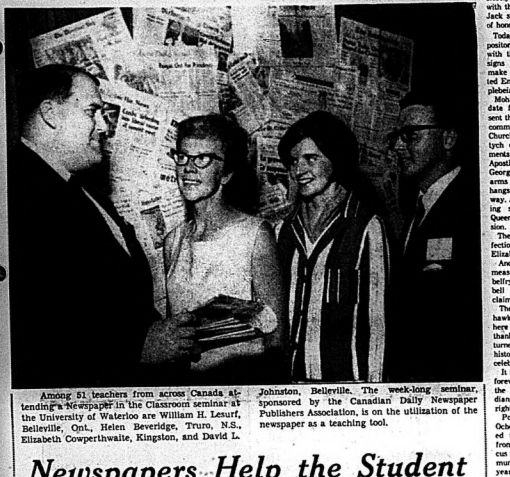
It is the colorful gesture that forever dates the arrival of the Mohawks as the first Indians believed granted reserve rights in Canada.

Possibilities are that John Ochechuskoh may have directed the thanksgiving — and from there went on to give focus to the entire Mohawk community until his death 26 years later.

Circumstantial evidence testifying to his high standing comes only from the gravesite at present.

Carved limestone grave markers were a rarity at that time in this particular part of Upper Canada, believes Rev. Downing. And Ochechuskoh's gravesite had a touch of grandeur that dominates the surrounding scene, despite the shabbiness incurred by neglect.

It is no common resting place — hence Ochechuskoh was no commonplace personality, deduces Rev. Downing.



"They must have thought a great deal of him or else they never would have erected a tomb like this," says the chaplain.

Now, Rev. Downing hopes to promote sufficient interest to restore the grave to its pristine state.

Meantime, he will continue seeking out clues to Ochechuskoh, his work and personality.

Already there is one personal sidelight of interest revealed by the massive gravestone.

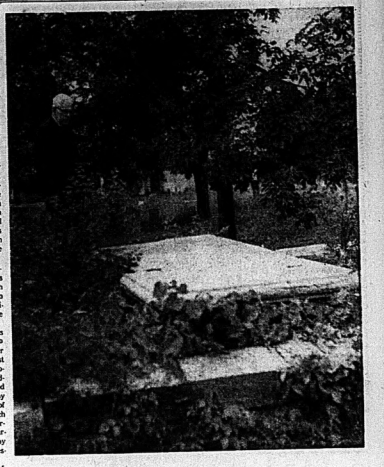
Ochechuskoh's wife Eleanor died May 5, 1810. The inscription calls her an "exemplary wife." The catechist survived her by little more than a month — to June 17, 1810.

Among 51 teachers from across Canada attending a Newspaper in the Classroom seminar at the University of Waterloo are William H. Lesurf, Belleville, Ont., Helen Beveridge, Truro, N.S., Elizabeth Cowperthwaite, Kingston, and David L. Johnston, Belleville. The week-long seminar, sponsored by the Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers Association, is on the utilization of the newspaper as a teaching tool.

Newspapers Help the Student

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP) — Newspapers can help teach superior students to be analytical and critical, says Wayne Tomkins, associate co-ordinator of special education in Toronto.

Speaking Monday to delegates attending a seminar on newspapers and the classroom, he said the gifted student needs special attention from teachers, but this attention is usually denied in school systems which aim at the average child.



"The needs of the superior child are all but ignored by most teachers."

He said bright students must be encouraged to read more than one news story.

The teachers attending the week-long conference also heard speeches from C. W. Davey, managing editor of the Hamilton Spectator.

Mr. Davey stressed the changes newspapers will have to make to cope with a changing society.

Mr. Bullock suggested that teachers and newspapers alike should be concerned with raising citizens who will not be prey for propaganda.

History Rediscovered

Imposing grave of John Ochechuskoh, catechist of Mohawks, dominating Indian burial grounds at Deseronto, is viewed by Rev. F. F. Downing. Mohawk chaplain rediscovered grave that may have local historic significance after apparent 150 years of neglect.

Trenton Rescue Unit

Airmen Find Wreckage

CAMPBELLS BAY, Que. (CP) — A helicopter from the Trenton, Ont., air base found the wreckage Monday of a civilian helicopter that crashed Sunday, killing the pilot and injuring a passenger in dense bushland in western Quebec.

The injured passenger, found wandering in the bush Sunday a few hours after the crash, guided the air search party to the spot.

The body of Ronald Sinclair McLean, 24, of Stoney Creek, Ont., was removed from the wreckage and taken to his community about 65 miles northwest of Ottawa.

The crash occurred about 10 miles north of Campbells Bay, a town on the Ottawa River.

Grant Wilcox of Toronto, the passenger in the helicopter, wandered through the bush for about four hours Sunday before he was found, dazed and burned, by a party of workmen several miles from the crash.

Needed Repairs On Church Have Started

DESERONTO — Much needed repairs on the Presbyterian Church are beginning this week. G. Bailey of Carrying Place has been given the contract to put a new roof on the north side. Extensive pointing of the stonework of the lovely old building is imperative, as stones have loosened and one has fallen. The steeple is in bad condition and it is still a question whether it can be repaired or not. A decision will probably be made this week.

The Presbyterian Church was established in Deseronto 100 years ago, in 1868, but the members met in various places until 1881, when the present edifice was built by the Rathbun Co. and donated to the presbytery. That was in Deseronto's balmy days, when the population exceeded 5,000. When the lumber company moved out there was no other employment, as there was no other industry. People moved away to find employment elsewhere and every business and every church suffered. Deseronto is now on its feet by itself, however, and the future is much brighter.

Once the outside repairs have been made, extensive interior repairs must also be undertaken including complete redecorating.

Batik, Ceramics, Art Classes Are Popular

LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

It's been a far from lazy summer for art and craft minded teenagers and adults in Belleville.

They were enrolled in city recreation committee sponsored courses in art, ceramics and batik.

The five-week art and ceramics courses for young people attracted the largest enrollment, and art proved so popular it will be continued in the winter.

Attendance at the batik classes was smaller, "because most people didn't know what it was," according to Mrs. Wilma Summers, in charge of women's programs for the recreation committee.

Interest in the craft is growing as summer students display their work to friends, and Mrs. Summers expects the batik classes will be presented again this winter.

The Orr House on the Cannifton Rd., owned by the city and turned over to the recreation committee for its crafts program, was used for the first time this summer for the batik course. The theatre guild is also using the house for rehearsals and scenery storage.

Batik, a process known to the ancient Egyptians, has been used for centuries throughout southeastern Asia, and was brought to perfection in Java.

One of the earliest methods of fabric printing, it is made by brushing melted paraffin on some portions of the fabric and then soaking the whole in a dye bath. The dye colors only the areas free of wax.

The wax is removed in a varsol bath, the fabric is again treated with wax and soaked in a second dye bath.

The process can be repeated as many times as needed to produce the desired effect. Unusual, and sometimes accidental, effects result from over-dying of one color on another. Cracking of the wax coat as it is squeezed through the dye bath produces a marbling effect unique to the batik process.

Students of batik instructor Mrs. Meg Pederson turned out cushion covers, table cloths and material for dresses during the summer.

Floored by the Job

Mrs. Pederson supervises the work of students Mrs. George Maybee and Mrs. Merne Branscombe as they apply wax to a dress fabric design. Classes are held in the Orr House on Cannifton Rd.

Could Learn From Us: Tarasov

Russian Coach Says Canadians Must Change Hockey Tactics

OTTAWA (CP) — A proposal that Canada and Russia exchange school hockey teams to compare training methods is advanced in the current issue of Soviet Union Today, the monthly magazine published by the Soviet embassy.

In an article discussing Canada's role in world hockey, Coach Anatoli Tarasov of the Russian national team is quoted as saying Canadian youngsters could profit from new tactics being developed in European amateur hockey.

The article is entitled Is Canada Through With World Hockey?

Tarasov contends that Canada's decline in world amateur hockey is partly due to the influence of professional training methods.

Reviewing his Russian team's successes against Canada, he says that "when Canada came down on a scoring bid, you already knew how they would come and who would do what."

Tarasov caused quite a stir in Canadian hockey circles a couple of years ago when he said that in a lengthy series, the Russian national team could defeat the best of the National Hockey League clubs.

In his latest statement he says: "Professional methods are good when you're winning, but when the tide turns, a new look at tactics is needed."

European teams had realized this and were developing an entirely new look in hockey tactics. They were not yet up to Canadian professional standards, "but the writing is already on the wall."

Tarasov predicts in the article that "the time will come when amateur hockey will be supplying professional hockey with ideas."

Russia holds a series of national school hockey tournaments in which more than 1,000,000 youngsters participate. The finals are scouted by Tarasov and other coaches to find prospects for the national team.

Others To Join: Butlin

WINNIPEG (CP) — The president of the Canadian Hockey Association says it is only a matter of time before teams with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association join the independent body.

Ron Butlin of Calgary said in an interview Monday response to the CHA, formed last June by breakaway teams from the CAHA, has been "most encouraging."

"It's only a matter of time before membership in the CHA is greatly increased," he said.

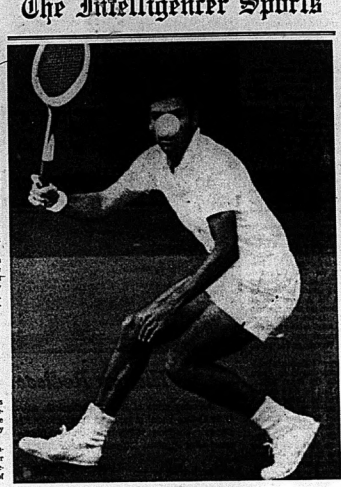
Butlin was here for a Western Canada League meeting. The league, along with the Western Ontario League are the only loops now members of the CHA.

The National League recognizes only the CAHA.

Barrie Signs Guelph Pair

BARRIE (CP) — Two players from the disbanded Guelph Regals have been signed by Barrie Flyers of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series.

The club announced the signing Monday of right winger John McMillan, 25, and defenceman Dave Luciuk, 27, both of Toronto.



Marlene Leading Again

MONTREAL (CP) — Marlene Stewart Streit, fresh from winning her ninth Canadian women's close championship, holds a two-stroke lead going into today's final 18 holes of qualifying action for the Canadian women's open title at nearby Caughnawaga.

The Foothill, Ont., veteran fired a one-over 75 Monday in first-round qualifying play to lead Marilyn Palmer of Kamloops, B.C., Jocelyne Bourassa of Shawinigan, Que., and Gail Borthwick of Ancaster, Ont., by two strokes.

Mrs. Streit, who has also won the open seven times, breezed in with a par 37 on the front nine and was one over on the back nine at the Kanawaki Golf Club.

Consistency Could Win for Us Says Eskimos Neill Armstrong

EDMONTON (CP) — Consistency, says Neill Armstrong, is the key to whatever hopes Edmonton Eskimos may have for this Western Football Conference season.

"But we are getting more consistent every day, and have to be considered serious contenders," Armstrong said Monday.

It has been an off-again, on-again season for Armstrong's Esks.

They beat Montreal Alouettes, but lost to Toronto Argonauts. They tied Saskatchewan Roughriders in a game many thought they should have won, then pulled out a last-second, one-point victory over British Columbia Lions last week.

Tonight they take on the Lions again, and despite their sputtering offense so far, a win could vault them into first place—at least for a day.

A longer stay will depend on the outcome of Wednesday's game between Toronto and Calgary Stampeders in Calgary.

The Eskimos' inconsistent performance to date is blamed by Armstrong on his rookie offensive line, "but they are getting better all the time."

The result of the return meeting between the Lions and Esks could hinge on the health of a couple of ball carriers.

Jim Young, who missed the Vancouver game because of strained knee ligaments, is with the Lions, but coach Jim Champion says he will wait until game time to decide whether Young is ready for action.

Jim Thomas, the Esks great breakaway threat, lost three teeth in the first game with the Lions and is a possible non-starter.

"He looks like he's 90 years old," says Armstrong.

If Thomas doesn't start, his likely replacement will be Charlie Fulton, a rookie who is also Edmonton's backup quarterback. Fulton has been in for only about a dozen plays this season, but showed good speed when used against the Lions.

The Lions will have two newcomers on their roster. Red Hubbs will likely start at offensive tackle in place of Lonnie Dennis, and Bob Howes will back up centre Ken Ferguson.

Hubb and Howes replace Dennis and Bill Mitchell, both of whom announced retirement after the last game.

The Eskimos are moving into the toughest three weeks of their schedule. After the B.C. game, they have two meetings with Calgary, one with Saskatchewan and one with Ottawa Rough Riders.

Ottawa's Vic Washington Checks Draft Status

OTTAWA (CP) — Rough Riders halfback Vic Washington, on whom the Ottawa football club has been counting for a big season, went to Ogdensburg, N.Y., Monday to try to change his U.S. military draft status.

The rookie defensive star was hoping to shift his draft registration to Ogdensburg from Plainfield, N.J., and join the military reserves, which would leave him available to the Rough Riders for the football season.

Washington thrilled Ottawa fans with a 104-yard kickoff return for a touchdown when the Rough Riders defeated Hamilton 53-13 in their season opener here.

Big Fourth Frame, Homers Pace Wins

The first and second teams in the Departmental Softball League, the Intelligencer and the Fire Department, downed third-place CNR Combines and fourth-place Post Office Monday night in the first game of the league playoffs.

The Intell defeated the Combines 8-4 on a fourth-inning rally that started when Terry Hiddleston reached base on an error and ended with the Printers adding six runs to the two they'd tallied in the first inning.

The big rally featured doubles by Johnny Edwards and Randy Johnstone and singles by Garry Wood, Merv Thompson, and Steve Ling.

The Combines picked up their four runs on singles by Mellmer, Junior Day, Conway Schwager and Ron Marshall.

Rod Bennett pitched for the winners, allowing four runs on five hits and three walks and striking out two.

Junior Day hurled for the losers. He allowed eight tallies on 10 hits, two walks and six strikeouts.

The Intell hitters were Garry Wood with three singles, Thompson with a single, a brace of safeties for Steve Ling, two singles for Hiddleston, and Edwards' and Johnstone's doubles.

The Fire Department downed the Mailmen 10-3 with six runs coming from homers by Lyle Wannamaker, Brian Smith, and Hoard. Bob Davenport pitched the win, allowing seven hits, giving up six walks and striking out three.

Jack Calnan and Bruce Nickle pitched for the Post Office. They combined to allow 11 hits, five walks and struck out two.

The seven Mailmen hits came from Reid with two doubles, Bohan with two singles, and Jack Calnan, St. Louis and Jim Calnan with singles.

Added to the Firemen's three homers were a double and three singles by Davis, a double and a single by Bob Lloyd, a double by Moreton, and singles by Parks and Peters.

Junior Jack Nicklaus

Wait Cools Out Hot Golfer

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP) — Doug Roxburgh of Vancouver played golf like Jack Nicklaus for 14 holes Monday and then became just another 16-year-old schoolboy.

But even after taking three extra strokes on the final four holes, Roxburgh finished with a two-under-par 70 to carry the lead into today's final holes of the 36-hole qualifying round for the Canadian junior golf championship.

"I just lost interest while we waited 25 minutes for a ruling," Roxburgh said of the final four holes.

Roxburgh, runner-up in last year's championship, was three under par after the first nine holes of the 6,552-yard Ki-8-bis country club layout and shot birdies on the 10th and 11th.

"Maybe I just got tired after that," he said. "It was pretty hot out there by the middle of the afternoon."

Close on his heels after Monday's round was Chuck Hamilton of Toronto who carded a one-under 71.

Byron Radtke of Kitchener, Ont., and Joe Horn of Caughnawaga, Que., were the only others to manage par.

Doug Painter of Toronto, Que., Cardinal of Ste. Dorothee, Que., Doug Stewart of Vancouver, Harold Paschenik of Calgary, Guy Fabre of Auteuil, Que., and Tom Moryson of Vancouver were bunched at 73.

The match-play championship gets under way among the low 64 qualifiers Wednesday and winds up with a 36-hole final Saturday.

The qualifying round also features four-man teams representing each provincial association for the interprovincial junior team championship. The individual scores of the team members also count as part of the qualifying round.

Roxburgh and Stewart gave the British Columbia squad a boost during the first round and shot that province into the team lead with a 295 total.

Cec Ferguson of Victoria shot a 76 and Dave Mick of Victoria had 77.

Alberta stood second in team standings with 299, Manitoba followed with 303, Quebec had 305 and Ontario 309.

"There's just no way anyone can compete with the Vancouver fellows who play golf for 10 months of the year," said Tim McCutcheon of Peterborough whose 74 was best in the Ontario foursome.

Carol Mann Top Winner

CINCINNATI (AP) — Carol Mann lost a little ground to Kathy Whitworth Sunday in the Ladies Professional Golf Association official tournament winnings but her tie for second in the Holiday Inn tournament at St. Louis enabled her to break the LPGA winnings record for one season.

LPGA headquarters said Monday Miss Mann, who has won seven tournaments on the 1968 tour, now has won $33,810. The old record of $33,517 was set by Mickey Wright in 1966.

Miss Whitworth, picking up her fifth victory of the year Sunday, has won $31,835.

Sandra Haynie and Mickie Wright held on to the third and fourth positions—Miss Haynie with $19,024 and Miss Wright with $17,147.

Those four girls, along with Susie Maxwell Berning and Sandra Post of Oakville, will have a chance Saturday and Sunday to add considerably to their totals as they compete in the $33,000 Women's World Series of Golf at Springfield, Ohio.

Mrs. Berning qualified by winning the Women's National Open and Miss Post won her spot by finishing first in the LPGA tournament.

"I'm in the Money"

McLain Is Music to Tigers, Sponsors

NEW YORK (AP) — Denny McLain, the professional organist, should have played, "I'm In The Money."

Instead, Detroit Tigers ace righthander played a lesser-known song before a gathering of musical and baseball buffs Monday. It was arranged by an organ company to introduce its new electric organ.

The sale price of one of the new organs is $5,000 — just a drop in the resin bag compared to what Mclain can earn this fall and winter if he continues his sensational pitching.

He has won 25 games, lost only three and is seeking to become the major league's first 30-game winner since Dizzy Dean of St. Louis Cardinals in 1934. He's scheduled to pitch tonight.

"He can earn $100,000, maybe more," said Frank Scott, Mc. Lain's business representative. Scott has handled the off-season financial affairs of Roger Maris, Mickey Mantle, Don Larsen, Bart Starr and other professional athletes.

"Denny has the biggest pluss because of the musical talent which is almost equal to his baseball ability," Scott said.

McLain, whose 1968 baseball salary is about $35,000, has completed his first record album and is booked for an appearance on the Ed Sullivan television show and for an engagement at a Las Vegas hotel.

"He's actually a concert organist," Scott explained. "But he heads this five-man musical group now and they go in for the popular songs and for rock and roll.

"When he was signed by the recording company for the album it was sort of a gimmick because he was a ballplayer. But after it was finished, the company sent me a note which said they seem pleasantly surprised and that he had good musical talent.

"Right now he's sitting about where Maris sat when he had 50 homers the season he finished with 61, and Roger earned about $200,000 not including his baseball salary the next year. A lot with Denny depends on whether he wins the 30 games, if the Tigers win the pennant and what happens in the World Series.

Pressure on, Arm Tired

NEW YORK (AP) — Denny McLain, Detroit's sensational 25-game winner, said Monday the pressure of the American League pennant race is starting to bother him and his right arm is tired.

"The arm is feeling awful tired and is giving me trouble," said the 24-year-old right-hander, bidding to become big league baseball's first 30-game winner since Dizzy Dean in 1934.

"If we weren't in the pennant race, I wouldn't be pitching every fourth day. I'd ask for an extra day's rest."

McLain has a 25-3 record for the Tigers, who are leading the American League but have not won a pennant in 34 years. He has pitched 22 complete games in 31 starts.

"The pennant pressure is building," Mclain said. "I'd like to see someone else taking the pressure. We're not getting much help with the pitching."

The Tigers' ace figures he should get another 10 or 11 starts before the season closes the end of next month. He has worked 255 1-3 innings. His big league high is 264 innings in 1966.

Lacrosse Solid Here Says Local Coach

By JERRY HOFF Staff Reporter

The last time Belleville fielded a lacrosse team was in the thirties. But Roy Payne, coach of the city's entry in the Quinte Lacrosse League predicts the national sport is on the way up in Belleville.

"Within two years we'll have either a senior or a junior team," he said, "and perhaps both."

Payne said lacrosse, which started its local upswing with the city's minor league team this year, is here to stay.

"Lacrosse has never gone over in Belleville," he said. "But we've never had a well - constructed program. Most of the sports fans in the area haven't seen anything except exhibition games. Now we're forming our own program. This minor team is just the start."

The Belleville minor lacrosse team has had a dearth of local support, if one judges by the audiences drawn by the second-place team in the Quinte league.

"But we'll get the audiences eventually," Payne predicted. "We'll get them because we've already started to get the kids and when you get the kids out there on the floor, you're sure to get parental support."

With Monday night's 9-3 win over Picton at the arena, the Belleville stickmen have moved into second-place in the league with a 6-4 mark. Trenton is third with a game in hand at 5-4, and Campbellford leads the league at 7-2. Picton brings up the list at a 2-8 mark.

Trenton has two games left this week as does Campbellford while Belleville and Picton have only one contest left for the season. The locals play their last game Wednesday at Campbellford against the league leaders.

The regular schedule will be followed by a playoff series among the league's four teams. Members of the local team are selling advance tickets for the playoffs.

"We've got it licked," the coach said. "We've got the sport started here and it's going to grow. This team we have now has kids of all ages in it. And their friends have come to see them play and those kids are the ones who are going to insure the growth of the sport. Why, if we could do it, I bet there are enough kids around that want to play now that they've seen it, that we could get another team going within a week.

"We're going to have more than enough player support now for the house league we plan to start next year and we hope the number of players is in direct proportion to the number of fans who will come to the games. We've got the players interested, but we sure could use some crowds."

Al Partington, three-year veteran of the Oshawa junior lacrosse team, collected five goals and one assist for the winners in Belleville's 9-3 win over Picton Monday night. Three goals went to Steve Castleman and Ron McIntosh collected the remaining goal and one assist. Bob Sidell had two assists and Ross McDougall added one goal.

Picton goals were by Rick Jones, Dave Jones and Greg Fredericks with assists by Fredericks and Andy Terwilliger.

Orioles Gain Half Game on Tigers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Minnesota silenced one of the New York Yankees' bats with the wave of an umpire's hand . . . and left the rest to Chance.

Baltimore left it all to Jim Hardin and got the same results as the Twins.

Dean Chance hurled the Twins to a 1-0 victory over the Yankees Monday night in a game played under protest by New York Manager Ralph Houk after umpire John Rice banned Bobby Cox' sawed-off bat in the third inning.

Hardin muffled California on two hits and slammed a run-scoring double in the seventh that sent the Orioles past the Angels 1-0.

Boston's Dave Morehead shut out Cleveland 3-0 on four hits for his first triumph of the season and Washington overcame Oakland 4-1 with a four-run rally in the ninth in other AL action.

Rice refused to allow Cox to hit in the third inning with a bat which had been flattened at the top. Cox beat out an infield hit with a conventional bat but Houk lodged a protest-later withdrawn—on grounds that other umpires had permitted use of the altered bat.

"I don't care what they use as long as I get them out," said Chance, who scattered eight hits, struck out 10 and pitched out of two late jams in nailing his fifth shutout of the season for a 12-11 mark.

The Twins pushed over the game's lone run against Stan Bahnsen, 11-9, on Cesar Tovar's pop fly double and a throwing error by shortstop Tom Tresh in the third.

Hardin, a 25-year-old fireballer, had little trouble subduing the Angels for his 10th victory against eight losses. He didn't allow a hit until Bobby Knoop's single to centre with one out in the sixth, walked none, struck out eight and left only two Angels on the bases.

Cards' Gibson Posts 15th Win in Row

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The National League race gets tighter and tighter—at the bottom, not the top.

St. Louis' high-flying Cardinals continue to cruise along in first place with a fat 13½-game lead, but there's a dandy battle in the second division with 4½ games separating five teams.

Leading the also-runs in sixth place is Pittsburgh with a two-game edge on Philadelphia, three games over Houston, 3½ over New York and 4½ over Los Angeles.

All except Houston lost Monday night, with New York putting up the fiercest battle before bowing 1-0 to San Francisco in 17 innings.

Bob Gibson won his 18th game of the season and 15th straight with a two-hitter against the Phillies for his 10th shutout.

Gibson now is four away from the record of 19 consecutive victories set in 1888 by J. T. Keefe of New York Giants and matched by Rube Marquard of the Giants in 1912.

The Mets, battling the scoreboard, which already showed Houston's victory, and the Giants, hung on until the 17th when Ron Hunt's two-out single drove in Hal Lanier with the only run of the game.

Hundreds Offer Skin to Burned Boy But Corpses Provide It

DETROIT (AP) — It still is "a running battle and touch and go," but 13-year-old Gary Shapiro's doctor now gives the boy "a pretty good chance" of surviving what few people ever have—third-degree burns over 75 per cent of the body.

Gary received Monday what Dr. James R. Lloyd said was necessary to stretch his life beyond Tuesday—massive skin grafts.

The skin, which Dr. Lloyd described as "literally life-saving," came from the bodies of two men who died Sunday night. Their relatives approved the gifts for Gary.

But live donors stood by, ready to give strips from their bodies immediately or later if skin is not available from cadavers to carry through the many additional grafts Gary will need for weeks to come.

Children's Hospital of Michigan, where Gary has been confined since June 20 and where Dr. Lloyd is a pediatric surgeon, reported 511 persons had telephoned by mid-afternoon Monday to offer their skin, and said "calls still are stacked up six or eight deep while we take names."

Calls began pouring in as news spread of Gary's plight, the result of a cooking-fire mishap two months ago. Dr. Lloyd appealed Sunday night for skin.

He said skin from cadavers was preferred because so much was needed.

More than 800 square inches of grafted skin have kept Gary alive thus far.

The boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shapiro of suburban Southfield, are both in hospital recovering from massive donations of tissue a week ago.

Six strips of skin were taken from the mother's thighs; four from the father's.

New skin grafts must be made every five to seven days, Dr. Lloyd said, because infection from body rejection develops under the "old crop." The body produces its own new skin while the graft holds in body fluids.

Skin can be kept in a state suitable for grafting for up to 2½ weeks under refrigeration, Dr. Dr. Lloyd expressed hope more cadavers will be available for "skin-banking" to meet Gary's future needs. It must be taken within six hours of death.

Hair Specialist Here Wednesday

Will Show Men and Women How to Save Hair and Prevent Baldness

OTTAWA, Ont. New home treatment discovered for saving hair and improving its growth will be demonstrated in Belleville on Wednesday, 21st August at the Quinte Hotel.

Specialist J. Alberti will be in charge representing the dynamic Roberts Hair & Scalp Specialists organization. He will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 1.00 to 8.00 p.m.

This new treatment is neither "mail order" nor "curseall". It is adapted to the individual after a personal examination and progress is checked at regular intervals by a Roberts Specialist.

Who Can Be Helped?

Will the new Roberts' treatment cure baldness? "No!" For we cannot help men and women who are slick-bald after years of gradual hair loss. But if you still have fuzz and your scalp is still creating hair, you can at least save and thicken what you have. Some conditions, such as "spot baldness" usually have complete coverage if caught in time.

Other conditions that usually bring on excessive hair loss — dandruff, itching, over-oiliness or dryness, follicles clogged with sebum or seborrhea — can be corrected by the Roberts home treatment if caught in time.

"DON'T WAIT UNTIL IT'S TOO LATE."

Baldness won't wait for doubters to be convinced. If you're going to keep right on losing hair 'til you're bald — unless you get your scalp in healthy, hair-growing condition again.

Examine You Free

We want to make it clear that you incur absolutely no charge or obligation by coming in for an examination.

Your only obligation is to yourself. We do not accept cases that will not respond.

Guarantee Satisfaction

The Roberts' Specialists will give you a written guarantee that you must be satisfied within 30 days or it will cost you nothing.

For a free examination and discussion of your hair problem, ask the desk clerk for Mr. Alberti's room number. He does not make appointments, so come in at your convenience.

Examinations are given in

Ontario Will Assist Students Unable to Get Summer Jobs

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government will give more financial aid to university students unable to find summer employment this year, William Davis, university affairs minister, said Monday.

Interviewed after his luncheon speech at the Canadian National Exhibition while a dozen pickets outside protested the province's student aid program, Mr. Davis said inability to find work "will be calculated in determining the needs of each student."

The federal Manpower department has estimated 73,000 Ontario high school and university students could not find work this summer. The CNE pickets were organized by the Ontario Student Union.

In his speech before 150 guests at the directors' luncheon on CNE Young Canada Day, Mr. Davis said student unrest "cannot be dismissed as the normal revolt of the young against the mature, if only because of its worldwide incidence."

"Don't underestimate the expression of these young people and the impact they are having," he said. "Don't underestimate their capacity to become involved in some very significant events."

OTTAWA (CP) — University students, expected to apply in record numbers for government-guaranteed loans this fall, will find their borrowing restricted by new and tightened regulations.

The federal government announced last week a change in formula that will add at least two per cent to the cost of bank loans under its student loans plan.

As another step, student-aid officials at Canadian universities have been told to take a harder look at the financial affairs of students before declaring them eligible for loans.

Two factors have made the changes necessary.

Banks have been losing money by lending to students at the relatively low 5¼ per cent declared by regulations since the plan began four years ago.

This has been a bad summer for job-hunting students, and they come back to school short of cash.

Provinces Endeavoring To Mesh Labor Laws

TORONTO (CP) — Deputy labor ministers from nine provinces are attending closed talks here aimed at co-ordinating labor legislation of the federal government and the provinces.

Delegates to the conference of the Canadian Association of Administrators of Labor Legislation are expected to concentrate on labor-management relations in general and problems confronting the construction industry in particular.

A spokesman said Monday a key speaker will be Carl Goldenberg, Montreal labor relations consultant who is doing a detailed study of current unrest in the construction industry and possible solutions to it.

The spokesman said deputy ministers from all provinces except Newfoundland attended Monday's opening session. The conference ends Wednesday.

Probe Is Completed Into Two Defectors

HALIFAX (CP)—Immigration officers here said Monday they have completed an inquiry into the case of a seaman who jumped his Soviet trawler in Halifax Saturday night and they are setting up an inquiry for a second defector.

The two seamen, both Russian nationals, left their ships during a supply stop in Halifax.

U. J. Mackinnon, district administrator here for the department, said the results of Monday's inquiry into the case of an Estonian in his early 30s have been sent to Ottawa. A decision is expected in about a week.

The Estonian, a crew member of the Soviet trawler Juhan Sutiste, was aided by a Dalhousie University student when he was apparently chased by 10 shipmates in downtown Halifax.

An immigration officer disclosed that a second seaman, from the factory ship Giljagh, left his vessel Saturday morning and asked for political asylum at immigration headquarters.

Pearson Heads Drive

OTTAWA (CP) — Former prime minister Lester Pearson has been named honorary chairman of a campaign to raise $4,000,000 in private donations for the building of a $21,000,000 children's hospital in Ottawa, it was announced Monday.

The announcement was made at a news conference unveiling a scale model of the hospital. Construction of the 320-bed hospital will start in 1971 and is expected to be completed by 1973.

Local Nines in OBA

Two Teams Qualify For Quarter-Finals

Two of three Belleville area entries in the EOBA Minor League Playoffs won their respective titles this weekend and will move on to the provincial playoffs.

The Carmel-Thurlow Pee-Wee "C" team took their second EOBA title in a row this year with two wins over Frankford. The final game, played this weekend, saw the champions down the challengers 6-5. The Carmel-Thurlow crew now meets the winners of the Thorn Hill, Toronto, series in the Ontario Baseball Association quarter finals. The date and place is to be announced.

The Bantam team of the the Belleville Canadian Legion won the EOBA title and will also meet a Toronto team for the quarter-final series in the near future. The local Bantams took their title with a 7-6 win over the Peterborough Kinsmen and Columbus this weekend to take the three-game series two to one.

The Belleville Holy Rosary PeeWee Major "A" team tied their series with Peterborough Saturday with a 6-1 win, then lost the last of three 4-1 Sunday to forfeit a chance at the OBA title.

In the final Carmel-Thurlow contest with Frankford, the winners went all the way behind pitcher Paul McDonell. John Masterson hit a triple and a double to pace the winners and David Desk, Dale Timmon, Barry Ray and Cal Bourgeau also collected safeties.

Murray Pittman pitched for the losers. Leading hitters for the Frankford nine were Paul Bedard, Kyle and Peter Connelly, and Pittman.

The Canadian Legion Bantam team posted their final win over Peterborough behind Stan Brooks who allowed six runs on nine hits and one Belleville error. Riddell, Highley, and Davidson took turns on the mound for the losers, combining to allow seven runs on 15 hits and five walks. They struck out ten.

Brooks walked six and struck out six.

Barry Culkin led the Belleville hitters with one triple. He was walked intentionally three times. Dan Lupenette and Doug Dezsak hit four singles each and David Wood had two singles.

Scott and Missen hit two singles each to pace Peterborough.

In their first game this weekend, the Belleville Holy Rosary team dropped the Peterborough Kinsmen 4-1 to the Petes. Tom Coughlin and Bob Moore combined to post the loss, allowing four runs on five hits. Gerry Pullam went the route for the Petes, allowing the locals one run on six hits.

Coughlin led the Belleville hitters with two doubles. Andy Ricketts had a triple, and a single each Mark Coates and Terry Ray had singles.

Fujia hit the big blow for the Petes in the second with a homer that brought in two runs.

'Here Comes the Bride'

Trappings Confusing in New TV Series

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A harassed observer can tell that Here Comes the Brides isn't a Western. But its trappings are pretty confusing.

The new ABC series is being shot in some familiar settings: the muddy main street lined by shanty-like shops, the local gathering place for fun and fights called Lottie's. But instead of horses, there are toteem poles stuck here and there. Instead of those familiar rocks hiding the bushwackers, there are painted backdrops of majestic trees and snow covered mountains.

"I guess you'd call it a North-Western," said a production man.

"Mostly comedy!" asked a bystander.

"Well," said the unit man thoughtfully, "I think a better word is roistering."

The roistering series is set in one of television's favorite time periods, post-Civil War, but the scene, for a change, is the lumber camp that became the city of Seattle, Wash. The format is pegged vaguely on a real incident, although it is hardly a novel springboard for fictional plots: the importation of marriageable girls for the bachelor pioneers.

This device is useful in television since it permits the wholesale introduction of pretty girls —100 in the new series—into the story lines. Mail-order brides in movies and TV are always beauties. And the assorted problems of courtship provide a good excuse for fights and skullduggery.

The principal characters are three brothers, Jason, Jeremy and Joshua, timberland owners whose holdings are in constant peril because of the scheming by the show's villain, the sawmill owner.

With this wealth of basic ingredients, the series could run just about forever, merely by picking any two elements to combine in a single plot.

Best known performer in the series is Joan Blondell, who plays Lottie, warm-hearted and generous like all TV's lady saloonkeepers. Since the series is to be shown early on Wednesday evenings—an hour when television worries about the children in the audience—Lottie's establishment in an all-male lumber camp is depicted as a rather primitive but pleasant soft drink establishment.

Just Horsing Around

When Graham and Robin Spearman go swimming in the creek near their London, Ont., home they take their diving board with them. And Amigo, their palomino horse, keeps his cool while the youngsters horse around in the water. (CP Wirephoto)

Golf Pros Make It Final; Set Up Own Tour Operation

NEW YORK (AP) — The touring pros, their break with the Professional Golfers' Association completed, are in business for themselves today, negotiating for contracts and contacting sponsors.

The split between the 52-year-old PGA and the rebel pros became official Monday when the players' lawyer, Sam Gates, announced the start of American Professional Golfers, an organization he said includes all the big names in golf.

"I have 205 clients—I have counted them," he said. "We are negotiating for tournaments and television contracts now. We will have announcements when they are completed."

The new group insists, however, it will honor all commitments for the remainder of this year and for two tournaments already under contract for 1969.

That is, if they're allowed to. Max Elbin, president 08, the PGA—which also represents some 8,000 club pros—said earlier that all the touring pros will be asked if they wish to belong to the PGA or the rival group.

"Our pros have no intention of resigning from the PGA," said Gates. "They hope they can remain members of the PGA."

Both sides insist money is not the principal issue in the dispute—although millions of dollars are at stake.

"It's a matter of control of the tour," Elgin said. "The touring pros don't agree to our (the PGA executive committee) control. We have the experience, the know-how, the organization.

"I can't see their desire to escape the PGA. I don't understand it. The PGA has made millionaires of some of these men."

The new group will have headquarters in New York. It has filed articles of incorporation, and has a training school, field staff and legal counsel. It will have a board of directors of seven players and four from the general public. The head of the organization has not been announced.

On the organizing committee are Jack Nicklaus, Bill Casper, Gardner Dickinson, Frank Beard, Doug Ford, Bob Goalby, Lionel Herbert, Dave Marr, Jerry Barber, Bob Rosburg, Kermit Zarley, Dave Eichelberger and Dan Sikes.

The PGA, meanwhile, insists it will continue in the tour business.

"We will continue to play tournament golf," Elbin said. "It will be tough at first, but we will continue."

Leo Fraser, secretary of the PGA, said: "We've got 6,000 little factories (clubs) turning out potential stars for us."

In Minneapolis, Angus Mairs, president of the International Golf Sponsors Association representing sponsors of 34 of the 44 tournaments that had $3,600,000 in purses this year, said he has asked both sides not to do anything to jeopardize play for the remainder of the year.

He said the players have given this assurance, but indicated he has had no response from the PGA. They meet in Houston Sept. 5-6 to make a decision on which way to go.

Youth Sets Water Ski Records

MONTREAL (CP) — A 16 year-old boy from Kelowna, B.C., turned in a dazzling performance to topple two Canadian records during the week-end in the Quebec open water ski championships, held at the Man and His World exhibition site. George Athans sailed 117½ feet to eclipse the previous record of 100 feet in the boys' jumping division. He later competed in the men's division and jumped 136 feet, four better than the previous 132.

Kingston Netters Win

Belleville's David Siefred and Carol Schofield lost to Johnson and Lukey of Kingston in the final mixed doubles match of the two-weekend Belleville - Kingston Doug Grant trophy series this Sunday and made it game-set-match-and series for the Limestone City netters.

Belleville had played the Kingston team to a tie which would be decided by the final match.

Scores in Sunday's matches were:

Men's Singles — David Siefred lost to MacIntosh 8-6, 6-3, David Hurse lost to MacInfosh 6-3, 6-1, Doug Grant d. Jack Campbell 9-11, 6-4, 6-0, Mike Wakelt lost to Johnson 6-3, 6-3, Dr. Bellamy to Grindley 6-4, 4-6, 9-7, Hobert, Hicks lost to Carrity 6-2, 6-0, Ernie Pope lost to Lukey 7-5, Harold Hildebrand to Dr. Delaire 6-2, 6-4, Dick Riordon lost to Prokop 6-1, 6-0, Dr. Desalniniers to Abernathy 6-3, 6-1.

Men's Doubles — Seifred-Hurse, d. MacIntosh-MacIntosh 3-6, 9-7, 6-2, Grant-Walcott lost to Johnson-Abernathy 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, Bellamy-Pope lost to Campbell-Garrity 6-1, 6-2, Desaulniers-Hildebrand lost to Lukey-Grindley 6-3, 6-2, Hicks-Mivoura lost to Prokup-Delahaye 5-7, 6-3, 6-1.

Mixed Doubles — Siefred-Schofield lost to Johnson-Lukey 6-2, 6-3.

Moose Lodge Tops Dixie Lee

Moose Lodge topped the Dixie Lee Wontch's Softball nine 16-10 Monday night behind pitcher Ann Emerson.

Sharon Hannah pitched for the losers.

The winners were paced at the plate by Linda Pruden who slugged two homers, two doubles, and three singles. Sharon Cornyeau hit a double and two singles for the winners and pitcher Emerson hit two singles.

Shiron Lummus was the losers' top hitter with two doubles and a single while Sharon Drummond contributed a double and a single.

Crawford Blanks Quinte

Brian Preston, outside right, collected the lone goal in the Quinte Transport-Crawford Metals semi-final game in the Belleville Minor Soccer Association Saturday to give Crawford the 1-0 win.

Beppi's Makes Finals

Beppi's Pizzaria topped General Bakers in two games of three to win the right to enter the Belleville Minor Soccer Association's finals this weekend at Zwick's Island.

Fair Booth Nets $470 For Archers

Fair patrons contributed $470 to the Canadian National Archery Team's trip to Winnipeg Aug. 31, when it will compete in the annual Ambassador Cup Archery Tournament.

The contributions were collected at an archery booth manned among others by Mrs. Carol Armstrong, Belleville, Canada's national champion woman archer. Mrs. Armstrong's booth sold archery shots with the proceeds donated to the team's expenses.

Oxygen Won't Prevent Heart Attack

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: My aunt was hospitalized for "heart failure" but now has recovered. During her six-week stay at the hospital she was given oxygen almost daily, often twice a day.

If oxygen is so helpful, I am curious as to why occasional use of oxygen wouldn't be beneficial and perhaps avoid any serious heart attacks. Under-oxygenation of the tissues if used too often? — P. B.

Heart failure, as I've explained before, doesn't mean that the heart stops; it means only that the heart is not strong enough to support fully the demands being made upon it.

In a word, the heart is not pumping as generous a supply of blood as should be the case. One important task of the circulation is to distribute fresh oxygen throughout the body.

Lower blood supply — lower-ed supply of oxygen. The result is that the patient feels "short of breath." Actually he isn't really short of breath; he is short of oxygen in the blood. So giving the patient oxygen helps the blood to pick up a higher concentration of oxygen as the blood passes through the lungs.

Under such conditions, oxygen is used more or less continuously. It is not a "cure." It is a compensation. When or if the heart regains sufficient capability, the oxygen is discontinued.

Occasional use is of little value, but I think you can see why giving more oxygen than is needed will not prevent heart disease. That would be pretty much like saying that, since food is needed by a starving patient, giving him too much food will prevent starvation sometime in the future.

Answering your last question, yes, use of oxygen can dry the tissues of the nose and throat, but that is a minor inconvenience as compared to the benefits when oxygen is needed.

• • •

Dear Sir: The doctors say my trouble is fissures, causing discomfort after a bowel movement. I have been using an ointment but it does not seem too satisfactory. Can anything be done? — W. R.

This is one of the several rectal problems discussed in my booklet on "Hemorrhoids." Sometimes fissures can be healed with conservative treatment, but when that fails, surgery is the quickest way to put an end to the distress. For the booklet, on hemorrhoids and related troubles, send 40 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, envelope to Dr. Molner in care of the Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 150, Dundee, Ill.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: I eat about a quarter of a pound of mixed nuts every other day, walnuts, maple of Brazil nuts, etc. I buy them in the shell.

I am 68 years old, about 12 pounds overweight, with a general hardening of the arteries. Are the nuts bad for me? — J. G. C.

Probably not bad for you, with a couple of "ifs" attached. Nuts are high in calories (vegetable oils) and protein and, while these are nourishing, they can't help playing some part in your weight problem.

Nuts also contain a lot of vegetable fibre, but this does no harm so long as you don't have diverticulosis or other intestinal condition which needs to be protected from irritation.

With your hardening of the arteries and a history of elevated blood pressure, perhaps? — it is a good thing you shell the nuts yourself instead of eating heavily salted ones.

• • •

Note to B. F.: Cyanosis means blueness of the skin, a sign, generally, of faulty circulation or of some defect which is preventing the blood from picking up sufficient oxygen. This may be from a heart or lung defect and occasionally from other causes.

POLITICIANS DO WITHOUT

BOMBAY (AP) — Dr. P. K. Sen, who performed the first Asian heart transplant surgery recently on a patient who later died, received an offer of his heart for future transplant after the donor's death. The only catch is that the donor said his heart must not be given to a politician.

Good Food A Necessity On Canadian Construction Sites

GILLAM, Man. (CP) — Catering for a big gang of construction workers—especially when they expect good food and plenty of it—is a complex job these days.

Instead of the old camp cook who used to throw down a pan full of bean with the grim warning of eat it or else, the task calls for a trained crew with a lot of varied dishes to draw on.

The catering giant at Gillam, site of Manitoba Hydro's Kettle Rapids power project on the Nelson River, 450 miles north of Winnipeg, is Crawley and McCracken Catering Co. Ltd. of Montreal.

There are 2,250 hungry construction workers to be fed, and Crawley and McCracken feed them under contract with Manitoba hydro.

"The standard of the food is much better than anyone can get in his own home and there is more of it," says W. F. O'Carroll, camp manager for the caterers.

"They expect the very best in these camps nowadays and we provide it."

Meals run five courses plus a salad bar, with many help-ings as the workers want. One worker was witnessed downing four 14-ounce porterhouse steaks at one sitting.

The caterers man the kitchens, maintain the bunkhouses, take care of the laundry and run the camp commissary with a staff of 270, including about 50 women.

The pay is good. A dishwaster earns $450 a month plus room and board.

Some statistics on the catering operation:

Daily consumption of meat is 2,400 pounds; one ton of potatoes is peeled daily; 350 two-pound loaves of bread are consumed and the daily ice cream issue is 70 gallons.

In all, eight tons of material is handled every day, including food, paper napkins, bedsheets, soaps and detergents. The laundry washes 5,000 sheets a week and there are 10,000 pieces of cutlery to keep track of.

The bakeshop at the camp makes bread, pies, pastries and cakes. All the rest comes in by rail once a week from Winnipeg—a whole boxcar full of fresh vegetables and fruit, another car of meat and a third car full of mixed groceries.

'Conduct Unbecoming Barrister'

Lawyer Reprimanded by Society

TORONTO (CP) — Wilfrid P. Gregory, 56, former president of British Mortgage and Trust Co. of Stratford, Ont., has been reprimanded by the Law Society of Upper Canada.

The reprimand, contained in a report of a weekly legal journal, Ontario Reports, says Mr. Gregory's conduct in selling a piece of property to British Mortgage in 1962 while he was the company's president was contrary to the best interests of the public and the legal profession.

His action constitutes "conduct unbecoming a barrister and solicitor," the reprimand states.

The report in the journal says Mr. Gregory was one owner of property on which he granted a mortgage loan for $35,000 from British Mortgage. He then purchased the sale of the property to the company in its role as trustee for a construction company pension fund, the report says.

Mr. Gregory is a former mayor of Stratford, former Shakespearean Festival and a past bencher of the Law Society.

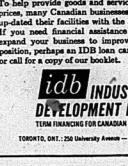
He resigned as president of British Mortgage shortly before the firm was taken over by Victoria and Grey Trust Co. in 1960.

British Mortgage had become heavily involved with Atlantic Acceptance Corp., which went bankrupt in June, 1965, owing about $150,000,000 to its creditors.

Testimony before a royal commission inquiring into Atlantic's downfall showed British Mortgage had invested about $12,000,000 in Atlantic and its associated companies. This was considerably more than the portion of its assets allowable for such investment under the Ontario Loan and Trust Corporation Act.

Mr. Gregory is reported to have lost more than $1,000,000 personally during the summer of 1965, mostly due to the declining value of British Mortgage shares. These dropped to $2.50 a share from $33 in a few months.

Mr. Gregory is a past president of the Ontario Liberal Association and was vice-president of the National Liberal Federation from 1956-58. He practices law in Stratford.



Scoharie

SCOHARIE — Miss Mary Huff and Mr. Hudson Huff were among the dinner guests gathered at Sidney Rexford's home, Belleville Plaza, to mark the 60th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Reardon, Corbyville.

The August meeting of the Live Wires 4-H Club was held at User Hall on Thursday evening.

Mrs. Norman Leavitt accompanied her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ross McEwen and family, Kingston on a week's trip. They spent four days at Syracuse, visited Mr. and Mrs. Percy Parks at Cortland, spent a couple of days at Rochester returning home by Niagara Falls.

Is your business competitive?

To help provide goods and services at competitive prices, many Canadian businesses have enlarged or up-dated their facilities with the aid of IDB loans. If you need financial assistance to modernize or expand your business to improve its competitive position, perhaps an IDB loan can help you. Write or call for a copy of our booklet.

Pepin Says Pressure Lacking For Grain Strike Settlement

OTTAWA (CP) — Trade Minister Pepin and the Canadian wheat board Monday urged resumption of negotiations in the month-long tie-up of Lakehead grain elevators.

After a meeting with the board here Monday, Mr. Pepin said in a statement the national marketing agency is concerned that the grain-handlers strike may prevent the board from meeting export commitments this fall.

He said "other methods" of moving grain in the seaboard area long considered, but did not elaborate.

In an interview later, Mr. Pepin said his statement was meant to focus public attention on the strike, which has halted all shipments in and out of 28 Lakehead terminal elevators since July 18.

"This is one of the disturbing aspects of the whole thing—the pressure (for settlement) is extremely limited," he said.

"Normally in a situation like this you would have 122 telegrams on the desk of the minister of trade and commerce. This time there are barely any."

The western grain pools are part owners of the terminal facilities and this may in part account for absence of strong pressure, Mr. Pepin said.

"The marketing situation of the world is extremely difficult. And over and above that we have a strike which prevents the board from taking the wheat and delivering it."

He said he did not anticipate the recall of Parliament and hoped the dispute would be settled well before the new session opening Sept. 12.

In his statement, Mr. Pepin said he and the wheat board urged resumption of negotiations as soon as possible "in the light of the serious situation indicated." Federal mediator D. S. Tysoe stood ready to assist.

Mr. Tysoe was named July 29 and broke off his mediation attempt Aug. 7, saying an impasse had been reached because of the "complete inflexibility of both sides."

Involved in the dispute are 19 companies and 1,300 grain handlers, members of the Brotherhood of Railway, Airline and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees.

The strikers have been demanding an increase of $1.06 a hour over two years to $2.50 an wage averaging $2.50. A conciliation board recommended 70 cents and management's last reported offer was 55 cents.

Mr. Pepin's statement spoke of prospects for an above-average western grain crop and said that if heavy moisture continues, extra elevator space will be required to handle and dry it.

"Extremely keen" competition for governments is being experienced this season, he said.

Mr. Pepin said he is confident exports will be increased over last year, but it would take a concerted drive by all concerned.

"The Canadian wheat board is deeply concerned that the continued strike at the Lakehead may prevent the board from meeting export commitments in the fall months and in particular undermine the interest of buyers in the purchase of Canadian wheat from St. Lawrence ports."

Grain now was being moved by rail at significant extra costs to the producers and this must be continued pending a settlement.

With navigation closing early in December, time was running out to move the necessary supplies for export and domestic requirements. Export ports aside from those of the St. Lawrence were being used for normal business, but it was not practical to divert business to them from the St. Lawrence.

Teachers Oppose Admission Of Community College Grads

CATCHACOMA, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario Teachers' Federation agreed Monday to send a strong protest to Education Minister Davis over recently-announced changes in admission requirements for Ontario teachers colleges.

The federation, meeting at this resort area on Lake Catchacoma, 40 miles north of Peterborough, criticized planned changes that would allow graduates of two-year courses from community colleges or Ryerson Institute with more than a 60-per-cent average to be eligible for teachers college.

The protest says the changes are a reversal of the McLeod report, accepted by Mr. Davis in 1966, which recommended "nothing less than a full academic degree as well as teacher training" for elementary school teachers.

Harvey Wilson of Peterborough, federation president, said the proposed changes were loosely worded. Since community colleges could accept students with standing as low as Grade 10, the move could lower teaching standards.

John Rodrigues, president of the Ontario English Catholic Teachers Association and member of the separate school board in Coniston near Sudbury, said the OECTA was drawing up committees to help trustees in formation of new, larger separate school units. The OECTA is one of five affiliates comprising the federation.

St. Ola District News

ST. OLA — The Bass Lake supper served in the Orange Hall on Saturday evening was a successful event. The women of the United Church Women of St. Ola served a delicious meal and received many compliments. A substantial amount of money was raised to assist the women in their good work for the church.

Mr. and Mrs. George Cunnings of Toronto have started construction on a home on the former Wilcox property in St. Ola.

Rev. Carson W. Duquette, Quebec City, will be guest speaker at the St. Ola United Church at 7.30 p.m. service on August 18.

Miss Lynne Spracklett, Gilmour, is visiting with her aunt, Mrs. R. Carrol.

Jody Phillips underwent minor surgery for a badly cut finger on Thursday last, in Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Moore and Trudy, Brantford are visitors this week with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Phillips.

Mrs. Ida Ham and Mr. and Mrs. Duncan McNabb, Brasford are enjoying a holiday at Mrs Ham's home near St. Ola.

Ormsby Presbyterian Church will celebrate their anniversary on August 18. The guest speaker will be Rev. Douglas Wilson, Trenton.

Miss Grace Morton and Mrs. Minnie Wagner, Belleville, were visitors in the village on Saturday.

Drug Firms Told Costs Worry Public

REGINA (CP) — Provincial Treasurer D. G. Steuart of Saskatchewan said Monday the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association have not convinced consumers of the generic seed for an increase of about 140 per cent in drug prices in the last 20 years.

"Canadians are concerned over the cost of drugs," he told the CPA's annual meeting. Rising drug prices were of real concern to people on fixed or low incomes "for it is these people who area feeling the effect the most".

Mr. Steuart said the rise in drug prices has resulted in an adverse effect on pharmacists' public image, and public agitation for governments to bring drugs under some form of prepayment insurance plan.

"We know that such a plan could be costly," said the minister "without patient participation, these costs could be as high as $14,000,000 annually. . . .

Mr. Steuart said a study by the provincial department of health in Weyburn, a community of about 10,000 70 miles southeast of Regina, indicated that a drug plan would be "extremely costly and the number of people who might benefit from it might be relatively small.

He said if government became involved in a drug price plan, "no longer will drug prices be increased at the will of the manufacturer or retailer."

"I say flatly that members of your association must face the inevitable fact that the price you will pay for inclusion under a government pre-payment plan will be the loss of some of your freedoms."

Drink to Feel Better And You Will Be Hooked

HAMILTON (CP) — The person who regularly "drinks a couple of beers to feel better" will, in time, become just as hooked as the skid-road drunk, an American doctor said Monday.

Dr. Donald H. Peterson, director of the alcohol and drug addiction unit at William State Hospital, Minn., told the Institute of Alcohol Studies meeting here that "alcohol may work for five, 10 or even 15 years, but ultimately the day comes when it is no longer a solution but part of the problem."

Dr. Peterson said that this type of drinker will not necessarily suffer from withdrawal symptoms but will grow just as dependent upon alcohol.

He said the high incidence of alcoholism in North America is due to the "rugged, Western-style philosophy of trying to drink the other guy under the table."

He said it was up to Canadians and Americans to change their "mores and conceptions" about drinking.

"I've great faith in the younger generation, but we've set such a horrible example."

This time there are barely any.

The western grain pools are part owners of the terminal facilities and this may in part account for absence of strong pressure, Mr. Pepin said.

"The marketing situation of the world is extremely difficult. And over and above that we have a strike which prevents the board from taking the wheat and delivering it."

Pro Sport Just Not Cricket

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

One glaringly obvious reason professional big-league baseball hasn't appealed to me since I left my teens was the rumor early this summer that the Chicago White Sox might move to Milwaukee if the team continued to play so poorly and attract so few customers.

Now, I can understand, and admire, loyalty to a genuine "home town" team; but how cheap and synthetic and commercial is the loyalty to a team of mercenaries who have been hired merely to wear the name of a strange town across their chests.

If a city like Chicago, for instance, carefully developed its own high school players as grew a big-league team out of its native soil, there would be occasion for esteem and civic support — just as the ancient cites of Greece took huge pride in the accomplishments of their local athletes in the annual games.

But the modern base ball player is a Hessian of the sports arena, playing a year where for anybody who'll pay him a higher salary, transferred every couple of years, and lacking any real interest or roots in the town he supposedly represents. Money, not community endeavor, is the determining factor for a winning team.

Some years ago, John Allen May pointed out, in an illuminating article, the difference between our artificial baseball "loyalty" and the truly regional character of cricket in England, when he asked what would happen in England if someone decided to move the Yorkshire team to Buckinghamshire?

In the first place, he pointed out, there would be no place to like it. "Every man who plays cricket for Yorkshire has to be a Yorkshireman, born and bred. Obviously, you could not transfer Yorks to Bucks, because the team would remain Yorks, however hard anyone pretended."

Futhermore, May said, even if members of the team were transported to Bucks, they would have to wait five years in order to become naturalized Bucking bucksmens and qualify for the privilege of playing for Bucks. Anything else wouldn't be cricket, in any sense of the word.

The same objection applies to any attempt for college football. What merit is there in a college going out and buying high-school players who represent nothing but their own desire for gain, and who have no more meaningful connection with the school than the man who supplies cafeteria trays? The infantile alumni who raucously support and encourage such shoddy transactions may know sports, but are oblivious of the basic meaning of sportsmanship as it is obvious to the lowleist Yorkshire yeoman.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For August 21

Your birthday today: "Prosperity" is the keyword in the coming year. Just about everything attempted with any serious region is bound to pay off. The danger of such fortunate prospects is to let things drift. Make a steady effort!

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Expect extra chores: picking up the pieces or perhaps a new task from a successful party. The main need is to clear the decks at the earliest convenient moment. There is not much help for the job, either.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): New relationships work out nicely today, much as in the shakedown of a good new friendship. The waters are smooth in personal collaboration.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Today there is the promise that something you read or hear, provided you pay full attention, will bring an inspired vision of what you may achieve.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): If you are not satisfied where you are employed, consider relocation or other changes. Decide whether you can put up with the current inconvenience, if not, then do something!

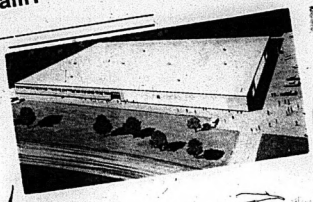
LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): There may be lasting solutions to protracted nuisances. And a your mate puts the last touch on the job so it can begin working.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Your share of the news seems to be good. Personal opportunity opens, right left. Success depends on follow-through. Any dilemmas as to which of several paths to follow? Meditation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Some old differences could be resolved today with quiet but candid talk. What tends to spoil most conferences is the insistence on classifying the other side as "bad" or "wrong." Once this is left off, the way is open to peace.

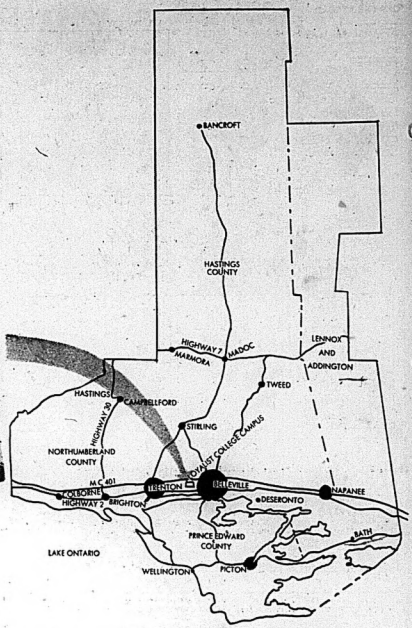
SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): You may be free to enjoy social circles beyond your regular habits. Make sure early that you are fully prepared for a most unusual evening. . . .

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Praise is indicated! Be right out and do whatever is feasible: settle the details tomorrow.



CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Amid extra chores, your mate must be coaxed into closer collaboration. Call on your friends early for help (as there is further change ahead!).

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Add something to your savings today. Make a deliberate choice between security or spending for something you are not sure you really want. You may be asked to pitch in on some job you are not pleased at doing, but it's better to help than to balk this time.



PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): The work goes smoothly today, so you have the chance of a breathing spell. People tend to cooperate better than usual by responding to your calm, confident mood.

Make Your future brighter...

Belleville's Residential Sewer Rate Doubles in August Bills

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

Ever hear of utility bills getting higher in the summer?

Belleville residents receiving their water and hydro bills since the first of August have noticed a sizable hike in the amount of the over-all bill and according to a utility commission official there is little likelihood of future reductions.

But utility commissioners claim the commission is not at fault for the Aug. 1 hike — they say they are just collecting for city hall.

Increased sewer charges — not increases for water and hydro — are responsible for the increase in utility bills.

The old sewer rate was $1.80 per month for residential units. Commercial and industrial establishments paid 25 per cent of their water bill.

This has been increased to $3 per month for residential units and to 40 per cent of the water bill for commercial and industrial users.

In other words the residential sewer rate has been almost doubled.

The new sewer-rates were approved some time ago by city council as a measure to help pay for secondary treatment of sewage which is to be added to the present treatment plant in Foster Ward.

Approval of the Ontario Municipal Board was necessary before the new rate could go into effect.

E. L. Burnham, utilities commission manager, explained that the commission was merely collecting the sewer charge for city hall.

"The sewer charge is actually a tax and taxes seldom go down — they always seem to go the other way," he said.

PRAGUE (Reuters)—"Blow your klaxon—drive through the streets. Wake everybody up. They've come ... They've come ..."

The young man raced up to me early today outside the Prague radio station and bellowed his warning through my car window, his face contorted with anguish and anger.

He was one of thousands of men, women and youths who poured into Prague streets after the troops of Russia and four hardline Eastern European Communist allies entered Czechoslovakia without warning and moved tanks, armored cars and the other equipment of war into strategic positions.

As the Soviet tanks rumbled through the city, crowds chanted at them: "Liberty," "Fascists, cattle, Fascists," "Russians out" and "Where is Dubcek."

During the night Russian Ilyushin-18 planes continuously roared over the city bringing in tanks and troops to seize key installations.

The people of Prague climbed out of their beds and went down into the streets. Some were in pyjamas and dressing gowns.

Night Thrust Deadly

PRAGUE (CP)—Soviet-bloc troops supported by tanks and planes occupied newly liberalized Czechoslovakia in a lightning invasion Tuesday night as most of the nation slept, and some shooting was heard today.

Within hours Soviet paratroops had surrounded Communist party headquarters in Prague, virtually imprisoning nine of the 11 presidium members and threatening to bring the eight-month-old liberal Czechoslovak regime under the Soviet thumb.

Some shooting was heard in Prague today, but a statement over Prague radio said Czechoslovak forces, tiny in comparison with the might of the Soviet Union and the combined arms of four other Communist states, has received no orders to defend the country. Prague radio appealed for restraint.

Available information indicated the occupation had come off with little resistance although the CTK news agency said several persons were killed and 25 wounded as occupying troops entered the building housing Prague radio.

Prague radio reported that "citizens are trying to stop with their bodies the advancing Soviet tanks which are heading for the Czechoslovak radio building."

Other Czechoslovaks reported for work in some offices this morning. Many had tears in their eyes.

Eisenhower 'Comfortable'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former president Eisenhower is resting comfortably and receiving visits from members of his family despite brief periods of irregular heart beat.

This was the sum of the latest medical bulletin issued by doctors at Walter Reed Army Hospital Tuesday night.

They added that the 77-year-old general's condition remained essentially unchanged throughout the day as they sought to bring him through his seventh heart attack, suffered last Friday.

There was a report, meanwhile, by the Washington Post that a new experimental drug is being used on the general and that it could be contributing to a decrease over the past few days in the periods of irregular heart beat.

The Post said the drug, bretylium tosylate, has produced dramatic results at other medical centre. There was no comment from the hospital.

Trudeau Meets Blonde Then Flees Publicity

Trudeau had been here since Saturday amid rumors of a secret wedding to a woman who later denied the report in Montreal.

Trudeau went to a flamenco guitar recital in Ibiza Monday night and then danced in a nightclub with a blonde Canadian girl, aged about 30, whose name was given as Anne-Marie Hennessy.

She was believed to have worked for Trudeau during the recent general elections. She approached Trudeau's table, and later danced with the bachelor premier, the reports said.

IBAZA, Spain (Reuters) — Prime Minister Trudeau left here suddenly Tuesday for an unknown destination in an apparent attempt to escape publicity on his Mediterranean holiday.

He boarded a plane bound for Madrid, with a stop-over at the eastern Spanish port of Valencia, accompanied by an assistant and a RCMP officer.

Today he was reported to be holidaying incognito on the Spanish Mediterranean island of Majorca, but his exact location was not known.

Tower On Tour

Shoppers in downtown Belleville did a double take yesterday when they saw the framework of a 25-foot-high scaffold moving up Front Street — against the traffic.

But it was all being done with police sanction. In fact the vehicular traffic was even halted to allow the scaffolding to move.

The scaffolding on wheels was part of the equipment being used to repaint the street light standards in the downtown area.

The metal poles are first being painted with a primer coat and will be finished with bright new aluminum paint.

The job has been contracted out by the public utilities commission.

Doves Flutter to New Cote of Reasoning as Czechs Attacked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Critics of the Vietnam war acknowledged today the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia likely will make it harder to nail a specific war-ending plank into the Democratic party platform.

But in admitting they are a minority of the 110-member platform committee, they insisted they can still carry their point in the Democratic national convention which opens in Chicago Monday.

They began to push a new argument: That the heavy commitment of men and materials in Vietnam hampers the United States' reaction to crisis elsewhere.

The news that Warsaw pact troops had crossed the Czech frontier broke dramatically at a platform hearing Tuesday night just as State Secretary Dean Rusk was completing the administration's major defence of its Southeast Asia policy.

Rusk bore down hard on two contentions. Abandoning collective security in Asia by withdrawing would be "an invitation to disaster" and a political convention, "in spite of its distinguished members," is no place to write detailed instructions to diplomatic negotiators.

Senator Eugene McCarthy, who visited the committee but did not stay for Rusk's testimony, told reporters the secretary's appearance amounted to "a voice from the past."

McCarthy wants a bombing halt and admission of the National Liberation Front, the Viet Cong's political arm, into an interim coalition government for South Vietnam.

When the first news report on Czechoslovakia was passed to Rusk and simultaneously read to the committee the secretary hastily excused himself and sped down back stairs to a waiting limousine.

Committee members opposing the administration had no opportunity to question him, but Rusk sent word he will try to attend one of its executive sessions this week in Chicago and undergo questioning there. The committee shifts its hearings to Chicago Thursday.

Committeeman John J. Gilligan of Ohio, one of the leaders in the push for a specific plank on disengagement from Vietnam, said the Czech development "may well strengthen the hard-liners."

"All the more this means that we are committed so deeply in Southeast Asia as to be virtually helpless elsewhere," Gilligan told reporters. "It isn't only Europe. What if something broke in Latin America?"

Another of the Vietnam critics, Kenneth P. O'Donnell of Massachusetts, said he looks for two reactions to the Czech crisis:

"Some will conclude that we are overextended in Asia, and that with our own domestic developing, we should pull in our horns.

"The other reaction will be the obvious one, to rally 'round the flag'."

Gilligan said some 25 members of the platform committee have actively participated in trying to shape the kind of plank he favors and that he estimates 12 to 15 more are "silently sympathetic."

Magic Circle Plan a Possibility

Government Approves Grant For City Redevelopment Plan

The preparation of a plan for the redevelopment of downtown Belleville and part of Foster Ward, has received the official go-ahead from Ottawa.

An announcement from Ottawa this morning stated that the federal government has agreed to pay half of the $81,900 cost of preparing the plan.

Redfern, Bousfield and Bacon, a Toronto town planning firm, will prepare the plan with the help of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation grant of $40,950. The plan is expected to take 10 months to complete.

The Ontario government and the city of Belleville will share the other half of the cost of the redevelopment plan.

Belleville Mayor Dr. J. Russell Scott said he was "very pleased" about the federal government grant approval.

"It means that we can now proceed with the preparation of the plan as proposed," he said. "We have been awaiting this approval for some time."

Dr. Scott said the Belleville Chamber of Commerce proposal for development of a downtown shopping mall and "magic circle" traffic pattern had been made available to the town planning firm.

He said that Redfern, Bousfield and Bacon, would take the magic circle concept into consideration and was certain that at least parts of it would be incorporated into the official plan.

Under the magic circle proposal announced a year ago by the local chamber the entire downtown area would be turned into a shopping mall from which vehicular traffic would be excluded.

To accommodate traffic a "magic circle" would be developed. This would include a ce way traffic artery north along Pinnacle Street and south along a new riverside drive to be developed along the east side of the river and to the rear of Front Street stores.

Kiwanians Plan Walk-a-thon for $18,000

James Tapp, sales officer for the medical division of American Optical Co. Ltd. was on hand yesterday noon for the Belleville Kiwanis Club weekly luncheon meeting. Mr. Tapp explained the new $18,000 heart monitoring device which the club hopes to supply to the Belleville General Hospital's intensive care unit.

Mr. Tapp explained to the Kiwanians the workings of the unit which will warn nurses of changes in heart-attack victim's condition thereby enabling prevention of further seizures or complete heart stoppage.

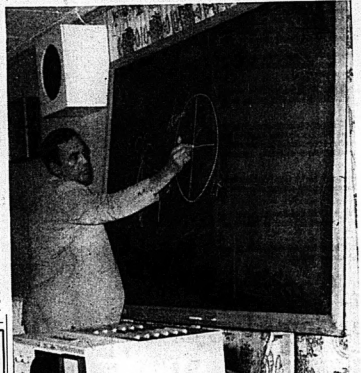
The cost of the device and its installation, $18,000, will be raised, the Kiwanians hope, in a walk-a-thon to be held Sept. 14.

The machine simultaneously monitors the heart beat of up to four patients in the hospital's intensive care unit. It enables the staff to take corrective action on any apparent abnormalities long before such a condition reaches the critical stage.

While the television-style viewer showing the heart beat is at the patient's bedside, a duplicate is situated at the nursing station. This permits a single nurse to maintain a constant vigil on the well-being of up to four patients.

Dr. Bruce Cronk, a local heart specialist, was also on hand for the Kiwanis meeting yesterday.

He said, "the machine's capacity of monitoring four patients should be adequate for our hospital."



An alarm bell sounds at the nursing station when the heart of any patient who is connected to the device beats more rapidly or more slowly than the individual limit pre-determined by the attending physician.

The alarm also starts an electrocardiograph machine with a far wider range of heart activity.

A supplementary piece of equipment to be included in the installation will be a device to produce electric shocks.

A feature of the machine is that it incorporates a "pacemaker". When required it can provide and electric shock to patient's heart at pre-set intervals.

The Kiwanians also heard yesterday encouraging news concerning next month's walk-a-thon. Two Ontario Hydro employees, Sharron McTaggart and Pat Reid have been sponsored for $4.65 per mile and $4.75 per mile respectively.

Technical Explanation

James Tapp, sales officer for the medical division of American Optical Co. Ltd., explains some of the technicalities involved with the new heart monitoring device at the Belleville Kiwanis Club meeting yesterday noon.

Yukons Moved To CFB

TRENTON — "To create more flexibility," it is the new two V.I.P. planes are being sent from Ottawa to be stationed at CFB Trenton but they will continue to do the same job.

"The planes are specially appointed Yukons designed to fly passengers first class," said Lt. Col. R. G. Husch, commanding officer of 437 Squadron here at the base.

He explained the move to be one of convenience. The planes which were being used to fly the Prime Minister and cabinet around the country always came to CFB Trenton for repairs.

"The planes will still carry on the Ottawa function," he stressed Col. Husch, "there will be no change in its operations."

With the planes will come three crews totalling 30 personnel. But due to the ease of maintenance there will be a slight saving on manpower.

The Yukons are slated for arrival here on Sept. 1/68.

Plaza Merchants Prepare for Sale

Plans are in full swing for Belleville's "original" sidewalk sale to be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Belleville Shopping Plaza.

According to Joseph Burke, in charge of the sale, all merchants at the plaza will be participating.

"There will be thousands of feet of quality merchandise," he said.

The "bazaar" will offer mystery packages and bingo on Thursday and Friday.

Mr. Burke said this morning that the prizes are excellent. Items such as baskets of food valued at $15. to $25 will be offered.

Outside cook-outs will be another feature of the anhual sale.

"It should be a weekend of festivities and pleasurable shopping" Mr. Burke said.

Department officials say that squirrel hunting is a neglected sport over much of the agricultural district in Southern Ontario where squirrels are most abundant.

Girls Vie For Crown

The best wishes of rural people in the Bay of Quinte area will be riding with two local girls Thursday when they compete at the Canadian National Exhibition for the Ontario Dairy Princess crown.

Local dairy princesses competing for the crown are Kathy Alexander of Prince Edward and Carol Thompson of Moira who won county honors during dairy month celebrations at Zwick's Island Park in Belleville.

Trenton Playgrounds End Season with Fair

TRENTON — During the summer, children have enjoyed the supervised playgrounds here and the Trenton recreation committee has planned closing ceremonies which will make the closing of the sites far from a sad occasion.

The closing of the playgrounds will be marked by the annual Penny Fair and Parade today. The day begins with a parade from Bay Shore Park commencing at 2 p.m.

Horse pulls will be the site of the fair activities which will begin at six and continue until 8.30. Mr. and Miss Penny Fair will be chosen and the fair will be opened.

Refreshments and games will follow for both children and adults.

Ann Filion, playground director, said "the whole thing is for the children who have attended the playgrounds."

A winning playground will be chosen as part of the ceremonies something "the kids really look forward to."

Book Sale To Provide Scholarship

PICTON (Staff) — A deluge of literature is scheduled to hit Picton Sept. 27. The beauty of it is, the hundreds of books that go on sale will be at rock bottom prices.

The event, the annual book fair, is being sponsored by the Picton and District chapter of the Canadian Federation of University Women.

Proceeds will go towards scholarships for a Grade 12 and Grade 13 student in the area.

The books will be sold at prices ranging from a nickel to a dollar, said Mrs. Robert Walmsley.

She said that the five fairs held in the past were all successful, gathering in $200 and in one case $400.

The greatest problem at this point is finding books for the event. Donations are being sought. Books of every kind will be sold.

The Federation of University Women is based on the precept of fellowship and public service especially in the field of education, explained Mrs. Walmsley.

Milk Products To Be Boosted At Picton Fair

The Prince Edward Milk Committee will be out to boost milk and milk products at the Picton Fair scheduled for Sept. 5, 6, 7.

Committee members will man a special booth at the fair illustrating the use of milk and milk products produced in the county. Recipes and illustrated literature will be available free of charge for the consumers.

One or more of the milk committee members will be at the booth to answer questions and rural girls will be on hand to diagnose milk and assist in the question answering.

Eleven Year Old Saves Woman from Drowning

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

LATTA — At 11 years old, Robert Thompson is a nimble thinker in an emergency.

For that reason the mother of two young children is still alive — rescued by the Belleville youngster from certain drowning in the deep-flowing Moira River here.

And Mrs. Hedi Stroempl, 31, of Tweed, is also leading the praise being showered on the boy by all the adults involved in the drama.

But Robert — son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Thompson, 220 John Street — has a laconic explanation for it all:

"I wasn't calm. But there was nothing else I could do, really."

The incident happened yesterday when Mrs. Stroempl, returning home from Belleville with children Anna 7, and Peter, 8, stopped by to visit the Thompsons on their summer trailer here.

Robert and other youngsters were swimming in the nearby Moira, at that point more than 100 feet wide, deep and with a current running toward a mill dam.

Mrs. Stroempl decided to go swimming herself and went into the river. Near midstream she suddenly developed a leg cramp which spread rapidly through her body, paralyzing movement.

She apparently cried out, but no one heard her.

The youngsters continued romping nearby, oblivious of the sudden danger threatening the woman.

"Nobody heard her — all the kids are young and were having a good time," explains Robert.

Then the Stroempl children noticed their mother had lost her bathing cap, and mentioned it to Mrs. Thompson watching from the bank.

Mrs. Thompson glanced across the river and for the first time realized her friend was in danger.

Calling to Robert he threw him an inflated inner tube.

He broke away from his playmates and headed out to the drowning woman.

Reaching her, he automatically put into practice some of the rescue lessons he says he learned during swimming lessons at the Belleville YMCA.

But, in this particular situation, they were of little avail.

The youngster was too light weight to keep the adult's head above water and simultaneously low her to safety.

However, he didn't panic in the predicament.

Instead, he calmly let the drowning woman go under once more. As she rose to the surface he clapped the inner tube over her head, pressing it firmly around her neck.

Then towing and pushing, he brought Mrs. Stroempl to the safety of the river bank.

She spent the next three hours resting near the Thompson trailer with her husband — summoned from his Tweed lands and forests office where he is a research forester.

She believes sunstroke may have induced the cramps which threatened her life.

George Stroempl was loud in praise for the 11-year-old— and his cool thinking under stress.

"He did a man's work here today," said the forester.

Said OPP Const. Shane Halvorsen: "This woman would have been a goner, I'm telling you, if it hadn't been for this boy."

"Nothing Else I Could Do..."

Belleville Men at Seminar

Newspaper Provides Realism in School: Roach

The two Belleville delegates attending the week-long seminar at the University of Waterloo on Newspapers in the Classroom, are well into the swing of things.

The seminar is sponsored by the Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers Association and is concerned with the newspaper as a classroom teaching tool.

The two Belleville delegates are William LeSurf, circulation manager of The Intelligencer, and David L. Johnston, a secondary school teacher with Centennial Secondary School.

Mr. Johnston is being sponsored by The Intelligencer for the week-long series of speakers and discussions being held at Waterloo University.

Yesterday's speaker at the seminar was Alan Roach, former journalist and now a Windsor secondary school teacher.

He told the delegates that mass media — with its sense of realism — can teach the student to understand society.

He said a Canadian daily newspaper is the branch of mass media proving the most useful because it lends itself to classroom procedure.

"Newspapers can bring the world into the classroom," he said.

Mr. Roach said communications must be introduced in English classes.

"English is a dying subject and is destined to go the way of Greek and Latin," he said. "The English course must be brought up to date or it will die."

Mr. Roach, former parliamentary reporter for the Windsor Star, said the educational curriculum is our schools was "unbelievably dullsville".

"And a pitiful lack of enthusiasm on the part of teachers is transmitted with all its soul-killing effect to the students."

Cabinet Approves Debentures For Marmora, Trenton Schools

The Ontario cabinet has approved purchase by the Ontario Educational Capital Aid Corporation of debentures for school additions in Trenton and Marmora.

Debentures totalling $298,000 have been issued by Trenton for schools and a library.

A six-room addition to Prince Charles Public School, costing $228,000, is scheduled for completion by Sept. 16. If construction is delayed, classes will be held in the gymnasium until the new rooms are finished.

At Marmora Senior School, $30,000 was earmarked for purchase of two adjacent properties to replace playground lost when the approach to the new bridge over the river was built.

Of the total debenture sum, $40,000 is being used to construct a branch library on Dixon Rd. at the south-east corner of the Marmora intersection.

The branch will hold 12,000 books and will contain a children's section.

Also purchased by the government agency were debentures of $119,000 for an addition to the separate school in Marmora.

The Common Roman Catholic Separate School board, Marmora Village and Marmora, is constructing a one classroom and general purpose room addition.

It is expected to be in use by late fall. Watson and Wiegand, Belleville, are the architects and Cob Construction Company, Scarboro, is the contractor.

The Ontario cabinet approved purchase by two government agencies a total of $18,513,000 in debentures for new educational facilties in the province.

About two-thirds of the spending — $12,125,000 — will be for universities, led by York in Toronto with $2,925,000 and the University of Guelph with $1,800,000.

The Ontario Educational Capital Aid Corps, will purchase $6,488,000 in debentures issued by 12 school boards.

Two Brothers Drown North of Bancroft

BANCROFT—A family vacation ended tragically near here yesterday when two young brothers drowned while fishing near their lakeside cottage.

Murray Hesse, 8, died in a vain attempt to rescue his 5-year-old brother Stacey in Wannamaker Lake, 20 miles north of here.

The stark tragedy was witnessed by a third brother, 6-year-old Roderick Hesse.

The children were vacationing with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Hesse, of Hamilton.

Provincial police here say the three boys left the cottage some time before 9 a.m. yesterday to fish from a nearby lakeshore rock.

Stacey apparently slipped from the rock and dropped into about 15 feet of water.

The oldest brother jumped in after him but neither boy made it back to shore.

Police found their bodies near the scene about four hours later.

Merchants to Hear Hamilton Speaker

Manager of the Hamilton Downtown Businessmen' Association, A. E. Mindy, will be the guest speaker to Belleville businessmen next Tuesday evening.

The value of a good downtown organization to the community will be the topic of Mr. Mandy's speech.

In addition to the guest speaker, Belleville merchants and the public, who are also invited, will see a presentation of the "Magic Circle" plan made by Fred Deacon and hear a report on the proposed fee structure for the merchants.

An invitation to anyone interested in the future of the downtown area, to attend the seven o'clock meeting at the Hotel Quinte has been extended by the merchants.

Picton's Canadian Guards Get Freedom of Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — The 1st Battalion, Canadian Guards, from Picton, Ont., was given the freedom of the City of Ottawa by Mayor Don Reid at a colorful ceremony Tuesday night at city hall.

The Mayor's proclamation, in expression of appreciation for the changing of the guard ceremony on Parliament Hill, gives the battalion the right "to march at anytime with colors flying and bayonets fixed."

Mr. Reid thanked the 150 men for bringing to Ottawa "color, music and pageantry."

The ceremony is one of the city's most popular tourist attractions.

The battalion previously performed the ceremony on Parliament Hill in 1959 and 1965.

Among those watching the city hall ceremony were Defence Minister Cadieux and Solicitor-General McIlraith.

Hunting Season Dates For Squirrels, Rabbits

The 1968 open season for hunting of black, grey and fox squirrels, and the open season for rabbits has been announced by Hon. Rene Brunelle, Ontario Minister of Lands and Forests.

In the Quinte area the open season will extend from September 21 to Dec. 4 with the bag limit being 10 squirrels per day. The possession limit is also 10 squirrels.

The open season for rabbits is similar to last year and for the Quinte area north of highway 7 is from Sept. 21 to March 31. South of No. 7 highway the season is from Sept. 21 to Feb. 28.

The bag limit for cottontail rabbits is six per day with no bag limit for snowshoe and European hare.

Teachers Attend Conference

Ontario Women teachers held their annual meeting Aug. 13 to 16 in Toronto. It was the Golden anniversary for the federation of Women Teachers' Associations which has a membership of 30,000.

One of the delegates in attendance from Belleville, Mrs. Nancy Petto of Queen Elizabeth Public School commeated on the meeting.

"Besides being our 50th anniversary meeting," she said, "it was also a constitutional meeting."

"The constitution hadn't been changed for 50 years and for the most part the new document was passed with a few changes."

Besides the new constitution and by-laws the group of teachers also held their officer elections and drew up their budget for the coming year.

Mrs. Petto was particularly impressed with all the things the federation does for its members and the services it provides.

For instance, a young teacher who is in Moose Factory is a one room school has been on a campaign for the summer to collect $6,000 for a library.

She approached the federation at the meeting in Toronto and was given the balance needed for the library, a total of $4,000.

The other two delegates from Belleville were Mrs. Carley Vance of Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Miss Joyce Cotton of Parkdale Public School.

Women In Politics

The British, who are among the most subtle and sophisticated of people, must be slipping a bit.

We are not referring to the country's economic problems, which stem from many causes, but to the social scene and the field of human relations generally where the British exhibit their own special genius for "getting along" and solving the many problems of human nature.
